JOINT STATEMENT	3
JOINT ACTION PLAN	9

Joint Statement

The Second Brazil-European Union Summit was held in Rio de Janeiro on 22 December 2008 chaired by the President of the Federative Republic of Brazil, Mr. Luiz Inácio Lula da Silva, the President of the French Republic, Mr. Nicolas Sarkozy, in his capacity as President of the Council of the European Union, and the President of the European Commission, Mr. José Manuel Durão Barroso.

The leaders discussed global issues, regional situations and the strengthening of EU-Brazil relations. They welcomed the completion of the Brazil-EU Joint Action Plan, which will serve as the framework for practical action in their Strategic Partnership in the next three years.

1. Global Issues

Strengthening the multilateral system

Recalling that their Strategic Partnership stems from shared values and principles – such as democracy, rule of law, promotion of human rights and fundamental freedoms – both Brazil and the EU agreed on the importance of an effective multilateral system, centred on a strong United Nations, as a key factor in the tackling of global challenges. In this context, they recognized the need to pursue the reform of the main UN bodies, among them the General Assembly, ECOSOC, and the Security Council, with a view to enhancing the representativeness, transparency and effectiveness of the system.

International financial crisis and global economy

Leaders addressed the current international financial crisis and its severe impact on the world's economy. They welcomed progress being made to respond to the crisis, and to ensure the smooth running of the financial sector and of real economy. In the wake of the Washington summit, they call on the international community to continue to demonstrate vision and resolution and to take effective economic and financial measures in a comprehensive and coordinated way in order to restore market confidence, stabilise global financial markets and promote global economic growth.

In order to avoid a repetition of such a crisis, they stressed the need to remain pro-active and ambitious so as to help reform the global financial architecture and to promote a common set of principles for the reform of the regulatory and institutional regimes for financial markets. States and all relevant actors must take responsibility and act to address well-known market failures.

The response to the current economic and financial crisis should accelerate progress towards a safe and sustainable low carbon society, as a source of employment, innovation and income generation.

In accordance with the Declaration of the G-20 Washington Summit, the EU and Brazil underscore the critical importance of rejecting protectionism and not turning inward in times of financial uncertainty.

Brazil and the EU express their regret on the impossibility to conclude this year the modalities for the negotiations of agriculture and NAMA in the context of the World Trade Organization's Doha Development Round. Leaders confirm their willingness to reach an ambitious, comprehensive and balanced agreement that fulfils the development objectives of the Round and significantly fosters trade flows in agriculture industrial goods and services among and between developed and developing countries, as well as promotes effective trade rules. Brazil and the EU will endeavour to find solutions that promote the successful and balanced conclusion of the Round.

Climate change and energy

Brazil and the EU underline that climate change is one of the most important challenges that the international community has to tackle. The urgency of this challenge was confirmed by the latest findings of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC). Brazil and the EU will work together to help reach an ambitious and global agreed outcome by 2009 for strengthening international cooperation on climate change through a global effort under the UNFCCC and the Kyoto Protocol frameworks. They stress the need for progress both in the Ad-Hoc Working Group on Long Term Cooperation Action under the Convention (AWG-LCA) and the Ad-Hoc Working Group on Further Commitments for Annex I Parties under the Kyoto Protocol (AWG-KP), taking due account of the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities.

The EU highlights the importance of the EU Energy and Climate package as a significant step towards deeper reductions of GHG emissions among annex I parties to the UNFCCC within the framework of an ambitious and comprehensive global agreement in Copenhagen on climate change. Brazil highlights the importance of its National Plan on Climate Change as a significant step on its efforts to contribute to address the issue of climate change and to reach the ultimate objective of the Convention.

Brazil and the EU recognize the need to work together towards achieving the global target of significantly reducing the current rate of biodiversity loss by 2010. Brazil and the EU reaffirm their commitment to effectively implement the three objectives of the Convention on Biological Diversity and to the adoption by 2010 of an international regime on access to genetic resources and benefit-sharing (ABS).

Both Brazil and the EU recognize the importance of achieving sustainable and reliable energy supplies. The promotion of renewable energy and the efforts aimed at improving access to energy and energy efficiency are viewed by both sides as an important contribution to fulfilling sustainable development needs as well as achieving greater energy security. Summit leaders agreed that such policies should also facilitate the development of safer, more efficient and sustainable alternatives to fossil fuels, with positive impact in terms of reduction of greenhouse gas emissions. Leaders agreed that the political commitment by Brazil and the EU to promote the use of renewable energies, including the production and use of sustainable biofuels offers economic social and environmental opportunities to both sides.

The Parties consider the International Conference on Biofuels, held in São Paulo in November 2008, as a useful contribution to the debate on the multiple dimensions of biofuels. They reiterate their commitment to work together in the context of the International Forum on Biofuels and the Global BioEnergy Partnership.

The Millennium Development Goals and the fight against poverty

Brazil and the EU-reaffirm their contribution to achieve the Millennium Development Goals. Brazil and the EU decided to cooperate in helping to bring sustainable development to interested developing countries in sectors such as health, energy, agriculture and education.

Both sides recognize that eradication of poverty is one of the greatest challenges of our century. They will work together to enhance food security and the Global Action Against Hunger and Poverty and to promote the scaling up of innovative financing mechanisms in this regard. They stress the importance of building on and implementing the global partnership for development as agreed in the Monterrey Consensus.

2. Regional issues

Brazil and the EU exchange views on recent political developments in their respective regions, with a view to consolidating stability and prosperity in Europe and in Latin America and the Caribbean. Both Parties remain engaged in multilateral, regional, and bilateral efforts aimed at promoting human rights, democracy, the rule of law, and sustainable development in both regions.

Brazil and the EU will continue to work together to the strengthening of political, socio-economic and cultural biregional relations, particularly in the context of the EU-LAC Summit process and the Rio Group-EU Ministerial Dialogue. Brazil highlight the importance of the first Latin America and the Caribbean Summit (CALC), held in December, 2008, in which issues related to sustainable development and integration were discussed from a Latin American and Caribbean perspective.

Both Parties reiterate their willingness to resume negotiations for an Association Agreement between Mercosur and the EU.

Summit leaders reaffirm their mutual commitment to combat organized crime, corruption, and illicit drugs.

3. EU-Brazil bilateral relations

The EU welcomes the recognition by Brazil of market economy status for purposes of anti-dumping investigations for Member States who joined the EU on 1 May 2004. Both parties agree on the need to rapidly conclude the process of recognition by Brazil of market economy status in anti-dumping investigations for Bulgaria and Romania..

Summit leaders agree to facilitate the exchange of information with a view to allowing both sides to take advantage of reciprocal opportunities for public and private investments. In this context, they note with satisfaction the results of the second II Brazil-EU Business Summit held in Rio de Janeiro on 22 December 2008.

The EU and Brazil agree on the need for a prompt and mutually satisfactory conclusion to the negotiations regarding compensatory adjustment of concessions, under all the relevant GATT provisions, due to the accession of Bulgaria and Romania to the EU.

Summit leaders also welcome the current discussion between the European Investment Bank (EIB) and the National Bank for Economic and Social Development (BNDES) of Brazil for future cooperation in the field of climate change, energy and infrastructure.

Summit leaders welcome the advanced state of coordination between Brazil and the EU in the areas of science, technology and innovation. They welcome the work carried out under the framework of the Brazil-EC Agreement for Scientific and Technological Cooperation, in force since 2006. The Leaders also stressed, in this regard, the cooperation between Brazilian and European institutions and companies in the field of research and technological development, especially to foster innovative technologies oriented to the production of goods and services.

They highlight the launching of negotiations for a co-operation agreement in the field of research on fusion energy between Brazil and the European Atomic Energy Community (EURATOM) which would, among others, facilitate supporting the interest of access by Brazil to the International Thermonuclear Experimental Reactor (ITER) project.

Brazil and the EU also emphasize the importance of promoting people-to-people exchanges. They recognize that migration is increasingly important in the context of globalization, given the large-scale movement of people from region to region. It is therefore important to continue to address the whole range of migration issues such as regular migration, irregular migration and links between migration and development, within the framework of our bilateral relations and the international fora where both the EU and Brazil participate, taking into account the human rights and dignity of all migrants.

Brazil and the EU stress the importance of involving the civil society in their bilateral dialogue. In this context, they welcome the decision of Brazilian Council for Economic and Social Development and the European Economic and Social Committee to set up a Brazil-EU civil society Round Table.

Brazil and EU reiterate their commitment to ensure visa free travel swiftly, fully respecting the completion of the respective parliamentary and other internal procedures, on a basis of reciprocity, by negotiating and finalising in the near future a short stay Visa waiver agreement(s) between EC and Brazil on the basis of the proposals exchanged.

Summit leaders look forward to the prompt implementation of the Joint Action Plan and stress the importance of generating concrete benefits for our citizens. The Joint Action Plan will enable both sides to start new regular bilateral dialogues as well as deepen existing partnership in areas that are of mutual strategic importance. The leaders emphasized the importance of the High Level Political Dialogue for the discussion of issues of common interest.

Joint Action Plan

Brazil and the European Union agree to construct a comprehensive strategic partnership by:

- Promoting peace and comprehensive security through an effective multilateral system;
- Enhancing the Economic, Social and Environmental Partnership to promote sustainable development;
- Promoting regional cooperation;
- Promoting science, technology and innovation;
- Promoting people-to-people exchanges.

The relations between the EU and Brazil will be enhanced on the basis of annual dialogues at the highest level and regular Summits and Ministerial meetings. Such meetings will notably address global challenges and crises that threaten the stability and sustainable development of societies and economies around the world. Senior Official meetings and the European Community-Brazil Joint Committee meetings will contribute to the preparation of the Summit and Ministerial meetings as well as to the monitoring of progress on the ongoing dialogues and the implementation of the Joint Action Plan. This Joint Action Plan has a life span of three years and is due to be revised ahead of the EU-Brazil Summit in 2011. Progress will be reported to the Summits.

I. PROMOTING PEACE AND COMPREHENSIVE SECURITY THROUGH AN EFFECTIVE MULTILATERAL SYSTEM

1. Promoting human rights and democracy, and upholding international justice

Brazil and the EU are firmly committed to promoting and protecting all human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the right to development and to strive for the full protection and promotion in all our countries of civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights for all. Moreover, both are strongly committed to the principles of democracy and respect for the rule of law. Both Parties reaffirm that the most serious crimes of concern to the international community should not go unpunished and that their prosecution should be ensured by measures at either the domestic or international level, in full compliance with the principles of due process. In this connection both Parties reaffirm the importance of the International Criminal Court in deterring crimes against humanity, war crimes and genocides fighting impunity and achieving lasting peace and reconciliation. Based on these shared values, Brazil and the EU will further intensify their relationship to strengthen their effective implementation and work together to promote them at the international level. To this end, Brazil and the EU will:

- Establish regular human rights consultations, both on multilateral and bilateral issues at appropriate levels in Geneva, New York, Brussels and Brasilia, as well as in the context of the High Level Political Dialogue between Brazil and the EU. This would allow for a dialogue aiming at a greater mutual understanding and a definition of common stances. In particular, human rights consultations will: (1) assess the main challenges concerning the respect for human rights, democratic principles and the rule of law, (2) advance human rights and democracy policy priorities and (3) identify and whenever possible coordinate policy positions on relevant issues in international fora;

To that end, Brazil and the EU recognize the need to pursue the reform of the main UN bodies, among them the General Assembly, ECOSOC and the Security Council with a view to enhancing the representativeness, transparency and effectiveness of the system.

The Parties reiterate the political importance and strategic significance they confer to the multilateral system and understand that the UN must be equipped with the means necessary to achieve the Millennium Development Goals and to deal effectively with challenges such as promotion of human rights, gender equality, children's rights, social inclusion, climate change and sustainable development, fight against poverty and hunger, energy security, migration, world trade, disarmament and non-proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, fight against terrorism. In the air transport sector, both Parties underline the importance of further strengthening cooperation between Brazil and the EU in aviation matters. Both sides confirm their mutual interest in a horizontal agreement in the field of air transport between Brazil and the EU, as well as a Brazil-EU agreement on aviation safety, with a view to signing both at a suitable occasion agreed by both sides.

Furthermore, Brazil and the EU intend to:

2. Achieving Millennium Development Goals and promoting social cohesion and inclusion

2.1. Bilateral dialogue on global development and cooperation with third countries

The Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) are a shared priority in order to reduce economic and social disparities as well as to ensure international peace, economic well-being of all citizens and comprehensive human development. Both Brazil and the EU play an active role in multilateral fora and should continue to cooperate to effectively contribute to the achievement of all Millennium Development Goals by 2015.

The EU and Brazil are convinced that by joining their forces, they can improve progress towards these shared priorities. Therefore, the EU and Brazil attach high importance to the role of triangular cooperation that should be one of the major areas for the Strategic Partnership.

In the context of the Global Action Against Hunger and Poverty, continued discussion on the establishment of innovative financing mechanisms for development is needed. Optimizing available resources is necessary, as well as mobilizing new and additional, adequate and predictable resources, especially for the poorest countries.

The EU as the world's largest grant donor and Brazil as an increasingly engaged actor in the developing world will join efforts in bringing development skills and prosperity to developing countries. To that end, Brazil and the EU will:

- Coordinate positions and actions to allow quick responses to humanitarian crises and in situations of natural catastrophe.

2.2. Social and employment issues

The EU and Brazil are committed to combat child and forced labour, promote social development, full, freely chosen and productive employment for both women and men, decent work with effective respect for fundamental principles, fair wages and rights at work. The EU and Brazil share a common interest in reinforcing their dialogue on labour and social policies to define effective solutions appropriate for each region, in accordance with the Memorandum of Understanding signed in April 2008. - Define and implement a rolling calendar for the current EU-Brazil dialogue on social policies.

2.3. Reduce regional disparities

The reduction of regional disparities is at the heart of the EU's and Brazil's internal policies. The EU and Brazil propose to intensify the Dialogue on Regional Policy, selecting as priorities:

- Exchange experience on territorial cohesion and multi-level governance and partnership involving regional and local actors, private sector and civil society;
- Exchange experience on strategic planning and organizing territorial development strategies to reduce social and regional disparities;
- Exchange experience on development of administrative capacity, inter-institutional coordination and communication, monitoring and evaluation capacity;
- Develop co-operation schemes between regions, including cross-border cooperation;

- Stimulate technical support for the development and consolidation of regional policies including possible implementation of pilot projects involving key areas of the Brazilian National Regional Development Policy (Política Nacional de Desenvolvimento Regional – PNDR) and the European Commission regional policy.

3. Promoting an environmental partnership for sustainable development

Both Brazil and the EU are key partners for pressing for greater international action to respond to global environmental challenges, in particular climate change; desertification; biodiversity and forests, including their sustainable use. The Action Plan will endeavour to approach sustainable development in an integrated way.

Brazil and the EU will cooperate in the comprehensive process launched in Bali to enable the full, effective and sustained implementation of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) through long-term cooperative action, now, up to and beyond 2012. Brazil and the EU will work together to help reach an ambitious and global agreed outcome by 2009 for strengthening international cooperation on climate change through a global effort under the UNFCCC and the Kyoto Protocol frameworks. To that end, they underline the importance of attaining results in relation to all components of the Bali Action Plan adopted in December 2007 (e.g. shared vision, mitigation, adaptation, technologies, financing), giving serious consideration to ambitious IPCC scenarios, and taking into account the principle of equity. They highlight the need for all developed countries to take the lead by committing to ambitious and comparable legally-binding emission reduction targets and for developing countries to take nationally appropriate mitigation actions in the context of sustainable development, supported and enabled by technology, financing and capacity building, in a measurable, reportable and verifiable manner. Brazil and the EU stress the need for timely action by the Ad Hoc Working Group of the Kyoto Protocol to comply with its work program by the end of 2009. They recognize that substantive progress in this field must be based on the ultimate goal of the Convention and on the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities.

In relation to forest issues, Brazil and the EU agree to promote sustainable forest management at all levels and exchange experience on best practices and measures to prevent and combat illicit trafficking in forest products, including timber, wildlife and other forest biological resources. They reaffirm their support to the work of the UN Forum on Forests (UNFF) and the full implementation of its decisions as well as other relevant international instruments to which they are parties. They support the protection and use of traditional forest-related knowledge and practices in sustainable forest management under mutually agreed terms and with the prior informed consent of the holders of such knowledge, and promote the fair and equitable sharing of benefits from their utilization, in accordance with national legislation and relevant international agreements.

In relation to biodiversity, Brazil and the EU reaffirm the need to enhance their mutual efforts in implementing the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD) in order to achieve its three objectives and the global target to significantly reduce the current rate of biodiversity loss by 2010. They will take into account the principles set out in the Rio Declaration and other internationally agreed instruments. Brazil and the EU reaffirm their commitment to finalize the negotiation of and to adopt the international regime on access to genetic resources and benefit-sharing (ABS) as agreed at the Ninth Conference of the Parties of CBD so that it can be submitted for consideration and adoption by the Tenth Conference of the Parties in October 2010.

Brazil and the EU agree that the meetings of the Dialogue on the Environment Dimension of Sustainable Development and Climate Change take place at the level of senior officials, whenever possible at ministerial level. Simultaneously, discussions on technical level will take place.

In addition, Brazil and the EU decide to:

- Deepen, as appropriate, political dialogue on the strengthening of international environmental governance;
- Strengthen cooperation in the field of water resources through training, promotion of best practices in the areas of supply and basic sanitation, reinforcement of institutions from local, regional and national authorities with a view to better planning;
- Advance the implementation of the CBD, in particular in cooperating to implement National Biodiversity Strategies and Action Plans aimed at significantly reducing biodiversity loss by 2010;
- Strengthen the CBD, including through the timely conclusion of negotiations for the regime on access to genetic resources and benefit-sharing (ABS); the enhanced implementation of the CBD programmes of work on sustainable use, protected areas, forest, and marine biodiversity and the strengthening of the operations of the Convention including through improved scientific evidence building within the CBD's Subsidiary Body;

- Strengthen cooperation on the Cartagena Protocol on biosafety with a view to advancing its implementation;
- Strengthen international cooperation on the conservation and sustainable management of all types of forests and enhance the action under the UNFF, as well as the other relevant international instruments to which they are parties;
- Strengthen their cooperation and support ongoing efforts to reduce emissions from deforestation and forests degradation, in accordance with decision 2/CP.13 of the Conference of the Parties of the UNFCCC;
- Exchange experiences on the sustainable management of forests and forest law enforcement;
- Work towards an ambitious and global agreed outcome by 2009 to combat climate change through a global effort within the framework of the UNFCCC;
- Foster joint research in the area of climate science, with particular emphasis on the identification of vulnerabilities and adaptation;
- Further explore the potential of research and technology co-operation and options for technology transfer as an incentive to further action;
- Strengthen the implementation of the Basel Convention on the Control of Transboundary Movements of Hazardous Wastes and their Disposal;
- Strengthen the implementation of the Stockholm Convention on Persistent Organic Pollutants and the Rotterdam Convention on Prior Informed Consent, as well as of the Strategic Approach to International Chemicals Management (SAICM), and support international efforts to address mercury pollution;

- Carry out training and capacity building activities in developing countries on the design and implementation of projects in the context of the Clean Development Mechanism of the Kyoto Protocol;
- Carry out training and capacity building activities with a view to the conservation and sustainable management of forests and marine ecosystems.

4. Strengthening cooperation on energy issues

Both Brazil and the EU recognize the need to work towards achieving sustainable and reliable energy supplies.

They view the promotion of renewable energy and the efforts aimed at improving both energy efficiency and access to energy as an important contribution to fulfilling sustainable development needs as well as achieving greater energy security.

Such policies should also facilitate the development of more efficient far-reaching, socially inclusive and lower carbon energy technologies alternative to fossil fuels with a positive impact in terms of reduction of greenhouse gas emissions, with a particular emphasis on safety and sustainability.

The political commitment by the EU and Brazil leaders to increase the sustainable production and use of renewable energies including sustainable biofuels offers economic opportunities to both sides.

Within the framework of the Brazil-EC regular Energy Policy Dialogue, the two sides intend to strengthen cooperation on issues such as:

- Major international energy developments;
- Policies to improve energy security, including diversification of supply and of supply routes;

- Regulatory issues for competitive energy markets, including investment opportunities;
- Energy efficiency and demand management, including joint initiatives and joint work to promote access to energy and energy efficiency at the international level;
- Low carbon technologies including inter alia gas and clean coal, as well as research on nuclear energy and cooperation on nuclear safety, paying particular attention to safe and sustainable technologies;
- Development and deployment of renewable energy technologies, including second-generation biofuels;
- Promotion of the consolidation of national, regional and international markets for biofuels;
- International technical standards for biofuels;
- Sustainability for biofuels and the promotion of scientific studies and technological innovation aimed at guaranteeing long term sustainability of bioenergy production without adversely affecting the production of food crops and biodiversity;
- Safety and security of vulnerable energy infrastructures;
- Other cooperation fields as mutually agreed upon.

III. PROMOTING REGIONAL COOPERATION

1. Advancing EU-LAC cooperation

The stability and prosperity of Latin America and the Caribbean and Europe are paramount to Brazil and the EU. Brazil and the EU agree to work together in the context of their Strategic Partnership to the strengthening of political, economic and cultural biregional relations. Brazil and the EU will combine their efforts to:

- Support inter-regional initiatives that enhance the regional integration, notably the EU-LAC process;
- Uphold a regular exchange of views on the situation in both regions;
- Promote the implementation of commitments generated by the EU-LAC Summits;
- Reinforce exchanges about key policies to promote social inclusion, and reduce poverty and inequality;
- Continue to consult and coordinate in matters of mutual interest in the context of the Rio Group-EU Ministerial Dialogue.

2. Advancing the Mercosur-European Union agenda

The EU-Brazil Strategic Partnership has a strong potential to impact positively on the EU and on Brazil, and on relations between the EU and Mercosur as a whole. Brazil and the EU attribute great importance to strengthening the relations between both regions and are engaged in resuming and concluding the negotiating process of a balanced and comprehensive biregional Association Agreement. This Agreement will allow further deepening of the economic relations as well as the trade and investment flows between both regions – an issue of major importance for both sides and of relevance to the strengthening of the regional integration processes. To this intent, Brazil and the EU agree to:

- Continue to work towards the conclusion of a balanced and comprehensive EU-Mercosur agreement;

- Support the political dialogue as well as other initiatives to strengthen development and economic cooperation between the two regions. Brazil and the EU agree that it is important to strengthen the regulatory and industrial dialogue between both regions in order to improve the business environment and help overcome unnecessary obstacles to trade;

- Foster collaboration between the Parliament of Mercosur and the European Parliament.

IV. PROMOTING SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY AND INNOVATION

The EU and Brazil share the conviction that a strong science and knowledge-based society is a major prerequisite for sustainable and equitable socio-economic development. The Agreement for Scientific and Technological Cooperation, in force since 2006 between the EU and the Federal Republic of Brazil, provides the main framework for action. In the context of the Agreement, the Parties reaffirm the value they attach to the work of the Steering Committee on Cooperation in Science and Technology (SCC).

Joint work between Brazilian and European institutions and companies should be promoted and supported with the aim of reaching progress in research and technological development, especially to foster innovative technologies oriented to the production of goods and services.

The priority areas for cooperation should be: social sciences and humanities, e-infrastructure, energy, cross-sectional studies, training and development of human resources, researcher exchanges, environment and climate change, nanotechnology and materials, health, safety, information and communication technologies, transport, food, agriculture, fisheries and biotechnology.

In that context, Brazil and the EU agree to foster cooperation on science, technology and innovation under the guidelines of the Agreement, by:

- Pursuing negotiations for launching public calls for the joint selection and funding of research and development projects in areas of common interest;

- Encouraging partnerships, joint activities, the creation of networks, exchange and mobility of researchers between Brazilian and European institutions and teams;

- Strengthening cooperation between the EC and Brazil in the area of Earth Observation, in particular through participation in the GEO (Group on Earth Observation) Initiative;
- Exploring opportunities for cooperation on research for peaceful use of nuclear energy, particularly by examining the possibility to launch negotiations on a co-operation agreement in the field of research on fusion energy between Brazil and the EAEC (EURATOM), which would among others, facilitate supporting the interest of access by Brazil to the International Thermonuclear Experimental Reactor (ITER) project.

V. PROMOTING PEOPLE-TO-PEOPLE CONTACTS AND CULTURAL EXCHANGES

1. Migration, Visa and Consular issues

Migration, people-to-people contacts and consular issues are increasingly important in the context of globalization, given the large-scale movement of people from region to region. It is therefore important to continue to address the whole range of migration issues such as regular migration, irregular migration and links between migration and development, within the framework of their bilateral relations and the international fora where both the EU and Brazil participate, taking into account the human rights and dignity of all migrants. Brazil and Europe recognize the positive role of migration as a factor of human and economic exchange in countries of both origin and destination.

In this context, given the existence of large migrant communities both in Brazil and in the EU, the Parties agree to strengthen the dialogue on migration issues within the existing EU-Brazil fora and propose to work more specifically on:

- Fostering links between migration and development and promoting the contribution of diasporas to the growth and development of both countries of origin and destination;
- Working in the field of remittances in order to facilitate their transfer and find suitable mechanisms for the reduction of their transfer costs;
- Promoting policies for a better organization of regular migration flows and effectively addressing all the dimensions of the issue of irregular migration and all aspects of return in full respect of human rights;
- Increasing the operational cooperation in order to combat the smuggling of persons, the trafficking in human beings and the exploitation of migrants;
- Ensuring visa free travel swiftly, fully respecting the completion of the respective parliamentary and other internal procedures, on a basis of reciprocity, by negotiating and finalizing in the near future a short stay visa waiver agreement(s) between the EC and Brazil, on the basis of the proposals exchanged. According to Protocol 4 annexed to the Amsterdam Treaty, the UK and Ireland shall not be bound by such a visa waiver agreement;

- Continuing to cooperate on consular issues, especially those related to consular access, assistance and protection. In particular, special attention will be given to ensuring that consulates are informed in case of arrest, detention or transfer of their nationals. Detainees in police stations, airports and border crossings should also be given access to consular assistance.

2. Education and youth

Brazil and the EU intend to strengthen exchanges and cooperation in the areas of formal and non formal education deemed of common interest. Both parties agree to build on existing programmes and instruments to, inter alia:

- Develop and strengthen a sectoral policy dialogue on education, youth and sport which will cover issues of common interest;
- Promote cooperation and exchanges in higher education and the mobility of students, teachers and researchers through the implementation of programmes such as Erasmus Mundus, in line with the spirit of the LAC-EU Common Higher Education Area (ALCUE);
- Intensify the exchange of information and experience for the improvement of academic evaluation systems;
- Exchange good practices and information for identifying successful methods for teaching and learning science, in order to increase participation in science education;
- Promote the exchange of best practices in the fields of vocational, technical and professional training;
- Promote the exchange of experiences in the educational integration of minorities and people with special needs, among other vulnerable groups;

- Encourage the organisation of higher education fairs, seminars and conferences in Brazil and in the EU to contribute to improving recognition, transparency and mutual awareness of the respective education systems;
- Explore possibilities to promote multilingualism in the educational and university systems of each Party and favour the teaching of the other Party's languages.

3. Culture

Both Brazil and the EU are committed to the preservation and promotion of cultural diversity, to the enhancement of intercultural dialogue and to the fostering of cultural and creative industries. The Parties will endeavour to jointly address these questions at the institutional level, at the level of public and private sectors, as well as at the level of civil society organizations.

Cultural cooperation may include, inter alia:

- The development of a regular dialogue on cultural policies, including creative and cultural industries;
- Joint work to promote cooperation in international instances, to facilitate the efficient implementation of the 2005 UNESCO Convention;
- The promotion of social inclusion and sustainable development by improving access to culture, including through the use of information, communication and new digital technologies;
- Appropriate measures to promote cultural exchanges and possible joint initiatives so as to increase awareness of Brazilian culture in Europe and European culture in Brazil;
- Promote cooperation in the field of culture, including actions in favour of policy development and cultural activities at local level;

- Cooperation and exchange in the field of cultural heritage, envisaging the preservation of cultural goods and expressions, including cooperation within the museum sector;
- Facilitation of mobility of art and artists from the EU and Brazil;
- Exploration of forms of cooperation in developing public policies in the audiovisual field.

4. Civil society

The EU and Brazil are aware of the importance of consolidating the democratic instruments for consulting civil society, in particular the institutions representing civil society organizations in the economic and social sphere, while making optimum use of existing organizations. Cooperation should be encouraged between the European Economic and Social Committee (EESC) and the Brazilian Council for Economic and Social Development (CDES).

On that basis, Brazil and the EU will seek to:

- Deepen cooperation between the EESC and the CDES on the basis of the existing Memorandum of Understanding between them;
- Request the EESC and the CDES to set up an EU-Brazil civil society Round Table that will be part of the institutional architecture of the EU-Brazil relationship. This joint body is conceived as a permanent forum of dialogue at civil society level on all the issues that are discussed within the EU-Brazil Partnership. Its recommendations will be addressed to the EU-Brazil Heads of State Summits;
- Promote cooperation, exchanges of experience and good practices between business associations, trade unions, farmers, and other civil society organizations from both parties.

Brazil and the EU will:

- Work towards the establishment of a regular structured dialogue between the Members of the Brazilian National Congress and of the European Parliament;
- Promote direct contacts at the level of the relevant parliamentary Committees on all subjects of common interest.

6. Mutual visibility

Brazil and the EU decide to:

- Encourage reciprocal press coverage and journalistic exchange;
- Organize conferences and short courses for journalists on a reciprocal basis;
- Ensure proper visibility and communication, notably through the Internet or any other adequate means, as agreed by both parties, to the objectives and actions developed under the Strategic Partnership, as well as to other areas of the cooperation between Brazil and the EU.

The present Joint Action Plan was adopted in Rio de Janeiro on the 22nd of December 2008, on the occasion of the II Brazil – European Union Summit.
