Statement by Greece

We need to emphasize that it is of outmost importance to extend the reallocation of available resources (between Funds and between categories of regions) for the years before 2020 (i.e. 2017-2019), as this additional flexibility for the 2017-2019 annual commitments will allow Greece to respond more efficiently to this unprecedented in scale crisis. Moreover it is important to allow support irrespective of the size of the enterprise especially for the use of financial instruments.

Statement by Spain

Spain appreciates the flexibility provided by the CRII + and asks the Commission to continue adapting the European structural and investment fund regulations to grant legal certainty to national and regional authorities. Elements such as flexibility in the use of the 2017, 2018 and 2019 annual commitments and in the deadlines for carrying out controls and audits and greater legal certainty in the definition of “force majeure” should be taken into account in the next modification.

Statement by Latvia

We note that the 1/3 share of the Cohesion Fund for Member States that joined on or after 2004 will not have to be respected in accordance with the second paragraph of new Article 25a, and allocations may be transferred between the ERDF, the ESF and the Cohesion Fund. Point 6 of Annex VII of the Common Provisions Regulation is not relevant in this respect. Flexibility of transfers between funds is important to counter the immediate health crisis and to ensure an effective investment mix that supports a quick economic recovery.
