Subject:	Proposal for a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council amending Directive 2003/59/EC on the initial qualification and periodic training of drivers of certain road vehicles for the carriage of goods or passengers and Directive 2006/126/EC on driving licences – General approach

INTRODUCTION

1. On 1 February 2017, the Commission transmitted the above-mentioned proposal to the European Parliament and to the Council.
2. While, according to the Commission's assessment, Directive 2003/59/EC has been implemented without major problems, thus making a relevant contribution to road safety and to labour mobility, the proposal intends to address a number of shortcomings that had been identified between 2012 and 2014 in an ex post assessment.

3. The proposal aims to
- improve mutual recognition of obligatory training undergone by professional drivers,
 - modernise training requirements and clarify their relation to training requirements laid down in other EU law,
 - reduce ambiguity as regards exemptions to the Directive's obligations, and
 - clarify minimum age requirements for driving that result from the application of Directives 2003/59/EC and 2006/126/EC, in order to ensure a harmonised application of EU rules.
4. Prior to the proposal under discussion, the Commission, on 14 December 2016, had proposed amendments regarding the regulatory procedure with scrutiny provided in this Directive and in Directive 2006/126/EC, as part of a horizontal proposal.¹
5. On 3 April 2017, the European Parliament's Committee on Transport and Tourism (TRAN) appointed Mr. Peter Lundgren (EFDD, SE) as rapporteur. The Committee on Employment and Social Affairs (EMPL) has decided not to give an opinion.
6. The Economic and Social Committee plans to adopt its opinion on 31 May 2017. The Committee of the Regions decided not to issue an opinion on the proposal.
7. The Romanian Parliament Senate has transmitted its opinion on the application of the principles of subsidiarity and proportionality by letter dated 26 April 2017².

WORK WITHIN THE COUNCIL

8. The Working Party on Land Transport started its examination of the proposal on 3 February 2017. It studied the Commission's impact assessment on 7 February 2017. Delegations generally acknowledged the suitability of this assessment to be used as the basis for regulatory proposals. Several delegations highlighted the importance of choosing a policy option to achieve mutual recognition of training accomplished in another Member State. More detail was requested on the administrative costs for issuing driver qualification cards to drivers from other Member States. Some delegations remarked that the impact assessment could have delved deeper with respect to comparing administrative requirements for EU-drivers with those for third country drivers. Several delegations expressed divergent views on the concept of "e-learning" and on the definition of exemptions to training requirements. Concerning the latter, the Presidency noted that the Commission had not provided a detailed analysis of excluding drivers carrying agriculture-related goods as part of their agricultural business (numbers affected, possible challenge to the Directive's objectives).
9. Between 14 March and 11 April 2017, the Presidency submitted a number of compromise documents in order to find common ground for some of the changes being proposed. The work undertaken by the Working Party is incorporated in the text presented in the annex.
10. The agreed amendments mainly concern the formulation and interpretation of exemptions, the procedure and instruments to be used in order to facilitate mutual recognition of completed driver training, the organisation of the driver training and transitional provisions.

OUTSTANDING ISSUES

11. The Working Party has addressed all of the issues raised by delegations, arriving at a compromise text that appears to be acceptable to all delegations. With regard to exemptions, the Working Party was able to provide additional clarifications, while keeping certain terms open to interpretation, due to differing practices and circumstances in the Member States.

12. Several delegations expressed concern that the solution found for improving mutual recognition would involve considerable administrative costs. Other delegations would have preferred a more ambitious proposal that prepares for electronic exchange of information.
13. Some delegations raised concerns in respect of the retention of a separate procedure that allows third country national drivers of vehicles carrying goods to continue to utilise their driver attestation, issued in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 1072/2009, as evidence of compliance with training requirements. The compromise text, however, sets out to improve the existing procedure through the mandatory insertion of a specific code on the driver attestation.
14. The Commission maintains at this stage of the procedure a general reservation on changes to its proposal, while generally welcoming the Council's efforts towards a general approach.

CONCLUSION

15. The Permanent Representatives Committee is invited to examine and endorse the compromise text and to submit it to Council (TTE/Transport on 8 June 2017) with a view to agreeing on a general approach.
16. The Council is invited to agree on a general approach as set out in the annex to this document.

Proposal for a

DIRECTIVE OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

amending Directive 2003/59/EC on the initial qualification and periodic training of drivers of certain road vehicles for the carriage of goods or passengers and Directive 2006/126/EC on driving licences

(Text with EEA relevance)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 91 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the Committee of the Regions²,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

² OJ C , , p. .

Whereas:

- (1) In its White Paper of 28 March 2011³ the Commission sets out a 'vision zero' objective in which the Union should move close to zero fatalities in road transport by 2050.
- (2) The Commission, in its Communication on policy orientations on road safety for 2011-2020⁴, proposed to further halve the overall number of road fatalities in the Union by 2020, starting from 2010. With a view to reaching this goal, the Commission laid down seven strategic objectives, including improving the education and training of road users and the protection of vulnerable road users.
- (3) Having evaluated the implementation of Directive 2003/59/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁵, the Commission identified a number of shortcomings. The main shortcomings identified were difficulties and legal uncertainty in the interpretation of exemptions; the content of the training, which was found to be only partially relevant for drivers' needs; difficulties for drivers in obtaining mutual recognition of completed or partially completed training undergone in another Member State; and inconsistencies of minimum age requirements between Directive 2003/59/EC and Directive 2006/126/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁶.
- (4) In order to improve legal clarity in Directive 2003/59/EC all references to repealed or replaced Union acts should be removed or amended.

³ White Paper of 28 March 2011 'Roadmap to a Single European Transport Area – Towards a competitive and resource efficient transport system' (COM(2011) 144 final).

⁴ Communication on 'Towards a European road safety area: policy orientations on road safety for 2011-2020' (COM (2010) 389 final)

⁵ Directive 2003/59/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 July 2003 on the initial qualification and periodic training of drivers of certain road vehicles for the carriage of goods or passengers, amending Council Regulation (EEC) No 3820/85 and Council Directive 91/439/EEC and repealing Council Directive 76/914/EEC (OJ L 226, 10.9.2003, p. 4).

⁶ Directive 2006/126/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 20 December 2006 on driving licences (OJ L 403, 30.12.2006, p. 18).

- (5) In order to provide certainty and consistency with other Union acts, a number of changes should be made to the exemptions to Directive 2003/59/EC, taking into account similar exemptions under Regulation (EC) 561/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁷. Some of those exemptions relate to situations where driving is not the principal activity, for example where driving occupies less than 30 % of monthly working time, and where it would be a disproportionate burden for such persons to comply with the requirements of Directive 2003/59/EC.
- (5a) Those drivers who were exempted from initial qualification should, while maintaining this exemption, nonetheless be required to undergo periodic training to update their knowledge which is essential for their work.
- (6) Taking into account developments in training and education, and in order to enhance the contribution of Directive 2003/59/EC to road safety and the relevance of training for drivers, subjects relating to road safety, such as hazard perception, the protection of vulnerable road users, and fuel-efficient driving should be strengthened in the training courses.
- (7) Member States should be provided with a clear option to improve and modernise training practices with the use of ICT tools, such as e-learning and blended learning, for part of the training, while ensuring the quality of the training. A substantial amount of the training required under this Directive should be carried out at an approved training centre.
- (8) To ensure consistency between the different forms of training required under Union law, Member States should be provided with the possibility to combine different types of relevant training, such as training on the transport of dangerous goods, on disability awareness or on animal transport, with the training provided for in Directive 2003/59/EC.

⁷ Regulation (EC) No 561/2006 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 15 March 2006 on the harmonisation of certain social legislation relating to road transport and amending Council Regulations (EEC) No 3821/85 and (EC) No 2135/98 and repealing Council Regulation (EEC) No 3820/85 (OJ L 102, 11.4.2006, p. 1).

- (9) To prevent differing practices between Member States from impeding mutual recognition and restricting the right of drivers to undergo the periodic training in the Member State where they work, Member State authorities should be required to issue the relevant document for every driver who fulfils the requirements of Directive 2003/59/EC. The document should be mutually recognised, including during roadside inspections. This minimum documentation requirement should not hamper further development in Member States' cooperation in this field through electronic recording and exchange of information.
- (9a) The use of driver attestations by drivers from third countries as evidence of compliance with the training requirements could present an obstacle for drivers when the haulier returns the attestation to the issuing authorities, particularly when these drivers wish to take up employment in another Member State. To avoid situations where, under such circumstances, drivers would have to repeat their training when taking up new employment, Member States should be encouraged to cooperate and exchange information on driver qualifications.
- (9b) To allow a smooth transition, valid driver attestations and valid driver qualification cards issued in accordance with the rules applying before the application of the amended provisions should be recognised until their expiry date. The amendments do not invalidate the training undergone, or the driving licences issued to certify such training, prior to their application.
- (10) In order to provide legal clarity and ensure harmonised minimum age requirements for the purposes laid down in Directive 2003/59/EC, a clear derogation should be provided in Directive 2006/126/EC, stipulating that driving licences may be issued at the minimum ages provided for in Directive 2003/59/EC. This clarification concerns the general minimum age for drivers of certain vehicle categories holding a CPC and does not amend existing options for reducing, or providing exemptions to, such minimum age requirements.

- (10a) The amendments to Directive 2006/126/EC should be limited to those directly related to the revision of Directive 2003/59/EC. A more thorough analysis of the implementation and application of Directive 2006/126/EC, including the delineation between certain categories of vehicles, appears desirable and should be included in the upcoming review of Directive 2006/126/EC.
- (11) Since the objective of this Directive, namely the improvement of the EU-wide standard of initial qualification and periodic training for drivers of certain road vehicles for the carriage of goods or passengers, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States but can rather, by reason of the cross-border nature of road transport and of the issues this Directive is intended to address, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve those objectives.
- (12) Directives 2003/59/EC and 2006/126/EC should therefore be amended accordingly,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

Article 1

Initial qualification must include the teaching of all subjects in the list under section 1. The duration of this initial qualification must be 280 hours.

Each trainee driver must drive for at least 20 hours individually in a vehicle of the category concerned which meets at least the requirements for test vehicles as set out in Directive 2006/126/EC.

When driving individually, the trainee driver must be accompanied by an instructor, employed by an approved training centre. Each driver may drive for a maximum of eight hours of the 20 hours of individual driving on special terrain or on a top-of-the-range simulator so as to assess training in rational driving based on safety regulations, in particular with regard to vehicle handling in different road conditions and the way they change with different atmospheric conditions, the time of day or night, and the ability to optimise fuel consumption.

Member States may allow part of the training to be delivered by the approved training centre by means of information and communication technology tools, such as e-learning, while ensuring that the proper quality of the training is maintained, and by selecting the subjects where information and communication technology tools can most effectively be deployed. In particular Member States shall require reliable user identification and appropriate means of control.

Member States may count specific training required under other Union legislation as part of the training. This includes, but is not restricted to, training required under Directive 2008/68/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council(*) for driving of dangerous goods, training on disability awareness under Regulation (EU) 181/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council() and training on animal transport under Council Regulation (EC) 1/2005()

For the drivers referred to in Article 5(5) the length of the initial qualification must be 70 hours, including five hours of individual driving.

At the end of that training, Member States' competent authorities or the entity designated by them shall give the driver a written or oral test. The test must include at least one question on each of the objectives in the list of subjects under section 1.

(*) Directive 2008/68/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 September 2008 on the inland transport of dangerous goods (OJ L 260, 30.9.2008, p. 13).

() Regulation (EU) No 181/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 February 2011 concerning the rights of passengers in bus and coach transport and amending Regulation (EC) No 2006/2004 (OJ L 55, 28.2.2011, p. 1).

() Council Regulation (EC) No 1/2005 of 22 December 2004 on the protection of animals during transport and related operations and amending Directives 64/432/EEC and 93/119/EC and Regulation (EC) No 1255/97 (OJ L 3, 5.1.2005, p. 1).";

(b) in point 2.2(b), the second subparagraph is replaced by the following:

"The vehicle used for the practical test must meet at least the requirements for test vehicles as defined in Directive 2006/126/EC.";

(C) Sections 3 and 4 are replaced by the following:

"Section 3: Accelerated initial qualification provided for in Article 3(2)

Accelerated initial qualification must include the teaching of all subjects in the list in section 1. Its duration must be 140 hours.

Each trainee must drive for at least 10 hours individually in a vehicle of the category concerned which meets at least the requirements for test vehicles as set out in Directive 2006/126/EC.

When driving individually, the trainee driver must be accompanied by an instructor, employed by an approved training centre. Each driver may drive for a maximum of four hours of the 10 hours of individual driving on special terrain or on a top-of-the-range simulator so as to assess training in rational driving based on safety regulations, in particular with regard to vehicle handling in different road conditions and the way they change with different atmospheric conditions, the time of day or night, and the ability to optimise fuel consumption.

The provisions of the fourth paragraph of point 2.1 shall also apply to the accelerated initial qualification.

For the drivers referred to in Article 5(5) the length of the accelerated initial qualification must be 35 hours, including two-and-a-half hours of individual driving.

At the end of that training, Member States' competent authorities or the entity designated by them shall give the driver a written or oral test. The test must include at least one question on each of the objectives in the list of subjects under section 1.

Section 4: Compulsory periodic training provided for in point (b) of Article 3(1)

Compulsory periodic training courses must be organised by an approved training centre. Their duration must be of 35 hours every five years, given in periods of at least seven hours. The approved training centre may provide such periodic training, in part, on top-of-the-range simulators and by use of information and communication technology tools such as e-learning while ensuring that the proper quality of the training is maintained, and by selecting the subjects where information and communication technology tools can most effectively be deployed. In particular Member States shall require reliable user identification and appropriate means of control. At least one of the seven hour periods shall cover a road safety related subject. The content of the training shall take into account relevant legal and technological developments and should, as far as possible, take into account specific training needs of the driver. A range of different subjects should be covered over the 35 hours, including repeat training where it is shown that the driver needs specific remedial training.

Member States may consider counting the completed specific training required under other Union legislation for up to one of the stipulated seven hour periods. This includes, but is not restricted to, training required under Directive 2008/68/EC for driving of dangerous goods, training on animal transport under Regulation (EC) 1/2005, and for the carriage of passengers training on disability awareness under Regulation (EU) 181/2011.";
