- (1) In its communication on the European Green Deal adopted on 11 December 2019², the European Commission made a commitment to review the provisions concerning non-financial reporting of Directive 2013/34/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council.³ The European Green Deal is the European Union's new growth strategy. It aims to transform the Union into a modern, resource-efficient and competitive economy with no net emissions of greenhouse gases by 2050. It also aims to protect, conserve and enhance the Union's natural capital, and protect the health and well-being of citizens from environment-related risks and impacts. The European Green Deal aims at decoupling economic growth from resource use, and ensuring that all regions and citizens of the Union participate in a socially just transition to a sustainable economic system so that no person and no place is left behind. It will contribute to the objective of building an economy that works for the people, strengthening the EU's social market economy, helping to ensure that it is future-ready and that it delivers stability, jobs, growth and sustainable investment. These goals are especially important considering the socio-economic damage caused by the COVID-19 pandemic and the need for a sustainable, inclusive and fair recovery. In its proposal of 4 March 2020 for a European Climate Law, the European Commission proposed to make the objective of climate neutrality by 2050 binding in the Union⁴. Moreover, in its Biodiversity Strategy for 2030, the European Commission commits to ensure that by 2050 all of the world's ecosystems are restored, resilient, and adequately protected. This strategy aims to put Europe's biodiversity on a path to recovery by 2030.

² COM(2019) 640 final.

⁴ Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing the framework for achieving climate neutrality and amending Regulation (EU) 2018/1999 (European Climate Law) [2020/0036 (COD)]

- (2) In its Action Plan: Financing Sustainable Growth the Commission set out measures to achieve the following objectives: reorient capital flows towards sustainable investment in order to achieve sustainable and inclusive growth, manage financial risks stemming from climate change, resource depletion, environmental degradation and social issues, and foster transparency and long-termism in financial and economic activity⁵. The disclosure by certain categories of undertakings of relevant, comparable and reliable sustainability information is a prerequisite for meeting those objectives. The European Parliament and the Council adopted a number of legislative acts as part of the implementation of the Action Plan on Financing Sustainable Growth. Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁶ governs how financial market participants and financial advisers are to disclose sustainability information to end investors and asset owners. Regulation (EU) 2020/852 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁷ creates a classification system of environmentally sustainable economic activities with the aim of scaling up sustainable investments and combatting greenwashing of financial products that unduly claim to be sustainable.

Regulation (EU) 2019/2089 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁸, complemented by Commission Delegated Regulations (EU) 2020/1816⁹, (EU) 2020/1817¹⁰ and (EU) 2020/1818¹¹, introduces environmental, social and governance ('ESG') disclosure requirements for benchmarks administrators and minimum standards for the construction of EU Climate Transition Benchmarks and EU Paris-aligned Benchmarks. Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹² requires large institutions which have issued securities that are admitted to trading on a regulated market to disclose information on ESG risks from 28 June 2022. The new prudential framework for investment firms set by Regulation (EU) 2019/2033 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹³ and Directive (EU) 2019/2034 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁴ contains provisions concerning the introduction of an ESG risk dimension in the supervisory review and evaluation process (S

REP) by competent authorities, and contains ESG risks disclosure requirements for investment firms, applicable from 26 December 2022. The Commission has also announced a proposal on a European Green Bond Standard in its Work Programme for 2021, following up on the Action Plan on Financing Sustainable Growth.

(2a) In its Guidelines on reporting climate-related information, the European Commission highlighted the benefits for companies to report on climate related information particularly by increasing awareness and understanding of climate related risks and opportunities within the company, diversifying investor base, creating a lower cost of capital and by improving constructive dialogue with all stakeholders. Furthermore, diversity on company boards might have an influence on decision making, corporate governance and resilience.

(3) On 5 December 2019, in its conclusions on deepening the Capital Markets Union, the Council stressed the importance of reliable, comparable and relevant information on sustainability risks, opportunities and impacts, and called on the Commission to consider the development of a European non-financial reporting standard.

(4) In its resolution on sustainable finance of 29 May 2018¹⁵, the European Parliament called for the further development of non-financial reporting requirements in the framework of Directive 2013/34/EU. In its resolution on sustainable corporate governance of 17 December 2020¹⁶, the European Parliament welcomed the Commission's commitment to review Directive 2013/34/EU and expressed the need to set up a comprehensive Union framework on non-financial reporting that contains mandatory Union non-financial reporting standards. The European Parliament called for the expansion of the scope of the reporting requirements to additional categories of undertakings and for the introduction of an audit requirement.

¹⁶ A9-0240/2020 (INI).

- (5) On 25 September 2015, the UN General Assembly adopted a new global sustainable development framework: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (the ‘2030 Agenda’). The 2030 Agenda has at its core the Sustainable Development Goals and covers the three dimensions of sustainability: economic, social and environmental. The Commission communication of 22 November 2016 on the next steps for a sustainable European future linked the Sustainable Development Goals to the Union policy framework to ensure that all Union actions and policy initiatives, both in and beyond the Union, take those goals on board at the outset.¹⁷ In its conclusions of 20 June 2017, the Council confirmed the commitment of the Union and its Member States to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda in a full, coherent, comprehensive, integrated and effective manner, in close cooperation with partners and other stakeholders¹⁸.
- (6) Directive 2014/95/EU of the European Parliament and the Council¹⁹ amended Directive 2013/34/EU as regards disclosure of non-financial information by certain large undertakings and groups. Directive 2014/95/EU introduced a requirement on undertakings to report information on, as a minimum, environmental, social and employee matters, respect for human rights, and anti-corruption and bribery matters. With regard to these topics, Directive 2014/95/EU required undertakings to disclose information under the following reporting areas: business model, policies (including due diligence processes implemented), the outcome of the policies, risks and risk management, and key performance indicators relevant to the business.
- (7) Many stakeholders consider the term ‘non-financial’ to be inaccurate, in particular because it implies that the information in question has no financial relevance. Increasingly, however, the information in question does have financial relevance. Many organisations, initiatives and practitioners in this field refer to ‘sustainability’ information.

¹⁷ COM(2016) 739 final

¹⁸ Council conclusions "A sustainable European future: The EU response to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development", 20 June 2017.

¹⁹ Directive 2014/95/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 October 2014 amending Directive 2013/34/EU as regards disclosure of non-financial and diversity information by certain large undertakings and groups (OJ L 330, 15.11.2014, p. 1).

It is therefore preferable to use the term ‘sustainability information’ in place of ‘non-financial information’. Directive 2013/34/EU should therefore be amended to take account of this change in terminology.

- (8) The ultimate beneficiaries of better sustainability reporting by undertakings are individual citizens and savers, including trade unions and workers’ representatives to be adequately informed and thereby to better engage in social dialogue. Savers who want to invest sustainably will have the opportunity to do so, while all citizens should benefit from a stable, sustainable and inclusive economic system. To realise these benefits, the sustainability information disclosed in undertaking’s annual reports first has to reach two primary groups (‘users’). The first group of users consists of investors, including asset managers, who want to better understand the risks and opportunities that sustainability issues pose to their investments and the impacts of those investments on people and the environment. The second group of users consists of ■ civil society actors, including non-governmental organisations and social partners, that wish to better hold undertakings to account for their impacts on people and the environment. Other stakeholders may also make use of sustainability information disclosed in annual reports, notably to foster comparability across and within market sectors. The business partners of undertakings, including customers, may rely on this information to understand, and where necessary report on, the sustainability risks and impacts through their own value chains. Policy makers and environmental agencies may use such information, in particular on an aggregate basis, to monitor environmental and social trends, to contribute to environmental accounts, and to inform public policy. Few individual citizens and consumers directly consult undertaking’s reports, but they may use such information indirectly such as when considering the advice or opinions of financial advisers or non-governmental organisations. Many investors and asset managers purchase sustainability information from third party data providers, who collect information from various sources, including public corporate reports.

(8a) The market for sustainability information is rapidly growing, and the role of data providers is gaining in importance with the new obligations that investors and asset managers need to fulfil. With the increased availability of disaggregated data, sustainability information should come at a more reasonable cost. The amended Directive 2013/34 is expected to increase the comparability of data and harmonise standards. It is expected that the practices of data providers should improve and that expertise will grow in this area, with a potential for job creation.

(9) There has been a very significant increase in demand for corporate sustainability information in recent years, especially on the part of the investment community. That increase in demand is driven by the changing nature of risks to undertakings and growing investor awareness of the financial implications of these risks. That is especially the case for climate-related financial risks. Awareness is also growing on the risks and opportunities to undertakings and to investments resulting from other environmental issues, such as biodiversity loss, and from health and social issues, including on child labour and forced labour ]. The increase in demand for sustainability information is also driven by the growth in investment products that explicitly seek to meet certain sustainability standards or achieve certain sustainability objectives and to ensure coherence with the ambition of the Paris Agreement, Convention on Biological diversity and Union policies. Part of that increase is the logical consequence of previously adopted Union legislation, notably Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 and Regulation (EU) 2020/852. Some of the increase would have happened in any case, due to fast-changing citizen awareness, consumer preferences and market practices. The COVID-19 pandemic will further accelerate the increase in users' information needs, in particular as it has exposed the vulnerabilities of workers and of undertaking's value chains. Information on environmental impacts is also relevant in the context of mitigating future pandemics with human disturbance of ecosystems increasingly linked to the occurrence and spread of diseases.

- (10) Undertakings themselves stand to benefit from carrying out high quality reporting on sustainability matters. The growth in the number of investment products that aim to pursue sustainability objectives means that good sustainability reporting can enhance an undertaking's access to financial capital. Sustainability reporting can help undertakings to identify and manage their own risks and opportunities related to sustainability matters. It can provide a basis for better dialogue and communication between undertakings and their stakeholders, and can help undertakings to improve their reputation. Moreover, a consistent basis for sustainability reporting by undertakings in the form of reporting standards should provide for the relevant and sufficient information and thus significantly decrease ad hoc requests for information.
- (11) The report on the review clause of the Non-Financial Reporting Directive (Directive 2014/95/EU), and its accompanying fitness check on corporate reporting, identified problems as to the effectiveness of that Directive¹. There is significant evidence that many undertakings do not disclose material information on all major sustainability-related topics, including climate-related information such as all green-house gas emission and factors that affect biodiversity. The report also identified as significant problems the limited comparability and reliability of sustainability information. Additionally, many undertakings from which users need sustainability information are not obliged to report such information. All this underlines the need for a robust and affordable reporting framework accompanied by effective auditing practices to ensure the reliability of data and avoid greenwashing and/or double accounting.

1. OJ: insert reference to Report from the Commission to the European Parliament, the Council and the European Economic and Social Committee on the review clauses in Directives 2013/34/EU, 2014/95/EU, and 2013/50/EU, and accompanying SWD-Fitness Check.

- (12) In the absence of policy action, the gap between users' information needs and the sustainability information reported by undertakings is expected to grow. This gap has significant negative consequences. Investors are unable to take sufficient account of sustainability-related risks and opportunities in their investment decisions. The aggregation of multiple investment decisions that do not take adequate account of sustainability-related risks has the potential to create systemic risks that threaten financial stability. The European Central Bank and international organisations such as the Financial Stability Board have drawn attention to those systemic risks, in particular in the case of climate. Investors are also less able to channel financial resources to undertakings and economic activities that address and do not exacerbate social and environmental problems, which undermines the objectives of the European Green Deal and the Action Plan on Financing Sustainable Growth and the objectives of the Paris agreement. Non-governmental organisations, social partners, communities affected by undertakings' activities, and other stakeholders are less able to hold undertakings accountable for their impacts on people and the environment. This creates an accountability deficit, and may contribute to lower levels of citizen trust in businesses, which in turn may have negative impacts on the efficient functioning of the social market economy. The lack of generally accepted metrics and methods for measuring, valuing, and managing sustainability-related risks is also an obstacle to the efforts of undertakings to ensure that their business models and activities are sustainable. The lack of sustainability information also limits the ability of stakeholders, including civil society actors, trade unions and workers representatives to enter into dialogue with undertakings on sustainability matters.
- (13) The report on the review clause of Directive 2014/95/EU, and its accompanying fitness check on corporate reporting, also recognised a significant increase in information requests for information about sustainability matters to undertakings in an attempt to address the existing information gap. In addition, ongoing expectations on undertakings to use a variety of different frameworks and standards are likely to continue and may even intensify as the value placed on sustainability information continues to grow. In the absence of policy action to build consensus on the information that undertakings should report, there will be significant increases in costs and burden for reporting undertakings and for users of such information.

- (14) The growing gap between users' information needs and the current reporting practices of undertakings makes it more likely that individual Member States will introduce increasingly divergent national rules or standards. Different reporting requirements in different Member States would create additional costs and complexity for undertakings operating across borders and therefore undermine the single market, and would undermine the right of establishment and the free movement of capital across the Union. Those different reporting requirements also make reported information less comparable across borders, undermining the capital markets union.
- (15) Articles 19a and 29a of Directive 2013/34/EU apply to large undertakings that are public-interest entities with an average number of employees in excess of 500, and to public-interest entities that are parent undertakings of a large group with an average number of employees in excess of 500 on a consolidated basis, respectively. In view of the growth of users' needs for sustainability information, additional categories of undertakings should be required to report such information. It is therefore appropriate to require all large undertakings and all undertakings listed on regulated markets, except micro undertakings, to report detailed sustainability information. Articles 19a and 29a explicitly set out the scope of the reporting requirements with reference to Articles 2 and 3 of Directive 2013/34/EU. Therefore, Articles 19a and 29a do not 'simplify' or 'modify' another requirement and the restriction of exemptions for public-interest entities in Article 40 of Directive 2013/34/EU does not apply. In particular, public-interest entities should not be treated as large undertakings for the purposes of the reporting obligations of Articles 19a and 29a, i.e. small and medium sized public-interest entities should be allowed to report according to the simplified SME sustainability reporting standards. In addition, all undertakings that are parent undertakings of large groups should prepare sustainability reporting at group level. Moreover, since Article 8 of the Taxonomy Regulation refers to Article 19a and Article 29a of the Accounting Directive, the undertakings added to the scope of the reporting obligations in Article 19a or Article 29a will also have to comply with Article 8 of the Taxonomy Regulation.

- (16) The requirement that also large non-listed undertakings should disclose information on sustainability matters is mainly driven by concerns about the impacts and accountability of such undertakings, including through their value chain. In this respect, all large undertakings should be subject to the same requirements to report sustainability information publicly. In addition, financial market participants also need information from those large non-listed undertakings.
- (17) The requirement that undertakings not established in the Union but with securities listed on regulated markets should also disclose information on sustainability matters responds to the needs of financial market participants for information from such undertakings in order to understand the risks and impacts of their investments, and to comply with the disclosure requirements laid down in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088.
- (17a) Third country undertakings which have a significant activity on the EU territory should also provide sustainability information, especially on their impact regarding social and environmental matters, in order to ensure the accountability of companies for their impacts on people and the environment and a level playing field for companies operating in the EU market. Therefore, third country undertakings which generate a net turnover of more than EUR 150 million in the Union, and which have a subsidiary or a branch in the EU should be subject to EU sustainability reporting requirements. To ensure the proportionality and enforceability of the dispositions, additional thresholds are applied on these branches (net turnover of EUR 40 million in the EU) and on these subsidiaries (they have to be large or listed subsidiaries), which should be the ones responsible for publishing the sustainability report of the third country undertaking.

The sustainability reports published by the subsidiary or branch of the third country undertaking should be prepared according to standards to be adopted by 30 June 2024 by the European Commission through delegated acts. The undertaking can also report according to the standards applying to EU undertakings, or according to standards which are deemed equivalent according to a Commission's decision.

In the event that not all the required information is provided by the third country undertaking, despite the best efforts of the subsidiary or branch to obtain the necessary information, the subsidiary or branch should provide all the information in its possession and a statement indicating that the third country undertaking did not make the rest of the required information available.

In order to ensure the quality and reliability of the reporting, the sustainability reports of third country undertakings should be published alongside an assurance opinion by a person or firm authorized to give an opinion on the assurance of sustainability reporting, either under national law of the third country undertaking or of a Member State. In the event that such an assurance opinion was not provided, the subsidiary or branch should issue a statement indicating that the third country undertaking did not provide the necessary assurance opinion.

The sustainability report should be made accessible free of charge to the public through the business registers, or alternatively on the website of the subsidiary or the branch.

Member States may inform the Commission on an annual basis of the subsidiaries or branches of third country undertakings that fulfilled the publication requirement and of the cases where a report was published but where the branch or subsidiary has stated that it could not get the necessary information from the third country undertaking. The European Commission shall publish a list of these third country undertakings publishing a sustainability report on its website.

(18) Considering the growing relevance of sustainability-related risks and taking into account that small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) listed on regulated markets comprise a significant proportion of all listed undertakings in the Union, in order to ensure investor protection it is appropriate to require that also those SMEs disclose information on sustainability matters. The introduction of this requirement will help to ensure that financial market participants can include smaller listed undertakings in investment portfolios on the basis that they report the sustainability information that financial market participants need. It will therefore help to protect and enhance the access of smaller listed undertakings to financial capital, and avoid discrimination against such undertakings on the part of financial market participants. The introduction of this requirement is also necessary to ensure that financial market participants have the information they need from investee undertakings to be able to comply with their own sustainability disclosure requirements laid down in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088. SMEs listed on regulated markets should be given the possibility to report according to standards that are proportionate to the capacities and resources of SMEs, and relevant to the scale and complexity of their activities. Non-listed SMEs can also choose to use these proportionate standards on a voluntary basis. The SME standards will set a reference for undertakings that are within the scope of the Directive regarding the level of sustainability information that they could reasonably request from SME suppliers and clients in their value chains.

SMEs listed on regulated markets should, in addition, be provided with sufficient time to prepare for the application of the requirement to report sustainability information, due to their smaller size and more limited resources, and taking account of the difficult economic circumstances created by the COVID-19 pandemic. Therefore, a later entry into application in 2026 should be provided. Following this date, for a transitional period of two years, these SMEs should have the possibility to opt-out from the reporting requirements, provided they briefly declare in their management report why the sustainability information has not been provided.

- (18a) Member States are free to assess the impact of their transposition act on SMEs in order to ensure that they are not disproportionately affected, giving specific attention to micro-enterprises and to unnecessary administrative burden. Member States should consider introducing measures to support SMEs in applying the voluntary simplified reporting standards.
- (19) Directive 2004/109/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁰ applies to all undertakings with securities listed on regulated markets. In order to ensure that all undertakings with securities listed on regulated markets, including third country issuers, fall under the same sustainability reporting requirements, Directive 2004/109/EC should contain the necessary cross-references to any requirement on sustainability reporting in the annual financial report.
- (20) Article 23(4), first subparagraph, point (i), and Article 23(4), fourth subparagraph of Directive 2004/109/EC empower the Commission to adopt measures to set up a mechanism for the determination of equivalence of information required under the Directive, and for the establishment of general equivalence criteria regarding accounting standards, respectively. Article 23(4), third subparagraph, of Directive 2004/109/EC also empowers the Commission to take the necessary decisions on the equivalence of accounting standards that are used by third-country issuers. In order to reflect the inclusion of the sustainability requirements in Directive 2004/109/EC, the Commission should be empowered to establish a mechanism for the determination of equivalence of sustainability reporting standards applied by third-country issuers of securities, similar to existing Commission Regulation (EC) No 1569/2007²¹ which sets out the criteria for the determination of equivalence of accounting standards applied by third country issuers.

²¹ [1] Commission Regulation (EC) No 1569/2007 of 21 December 2007 establishing a mechanism for the determination of equivalence of accounting standards applied by third country issuers of securities pursuant to Directives 2003/71/EC and 2004/109/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council (OJ L 340, 22.12.2007, p. 66).

For the same reason, the Commission should also be empowered to take the necessary decisions on the equivalence of sustainability reporting standards that are used by third country issuers. Those amendments will ensure consistent equivalence regimes for sustainability reporting obligations and for financial reporting obligations regarding the annual financial report.

- (21) Articles 19a(3) and 29a(3) of Directive 2013/34/EU currently exempt all subsidiary undertakings from the obligation to report non-financial information where such undertakings and their subsidiary undertakings are included in the consolidated management report of their parent undertaking, provided this includes non-financial information reported according to EU requirements. It is necessary, however to ensure that sustainability information is easily accessible for users, and to bring transparency about which is the parent undertaking of the exempted subsidiary undertaking which is reporting at consolidated level. It is therefore necessary to require those subsidiary undertakings to include in the management report the name and registered office of the parent undertaking that is reporting sustainability information at group level, the web links to the consolidated management report of their parent undertaking and a reference in their management report to the fact that they are exempted from reporting sustainability information. Member States may require that the consolidated management report is published in the languages they accept and that any necessary translation in those languages is provided. That exemption should also apply where the parent undertaking reporting at consolidated level is a third country undertaking reporting sustainability information in accordance with equivalent sustainability reporting standards. Given that Directive 2004/109/EC would foresee appropriate mechanisms to determine the equivalence of sustainability reporting standards, and given that both undertakings with and without securities listed on regulated markets should be required to report according to the same sustainability reporting standards, the measures adopted pursuant to Article 23(4), first subparagraph, point (i), and Article 23(4), fourth subparagraph of Directive 2004/109/EC establishing a mechanism for the determination of equivalence of standards should be put to use for determining the exemption of subsidiary undertakings of non-EU parent undertakings under the regime of Directive 2013/34/EU. In this sense, the subsidiary undertaking should be exempted when consolidated sustainability reporting is drawn up in accordance with the sustainability reporting standards adopted pursuant to Article 29b or in a manner equivalent to those European sustainability reporting standards, determined in accordance with Commission's decisions on the equivalence of sustainability reporting standards adopted pursuant to Article 23(4), third subparagraph of Directive 2004/109/EC. This exemption should not apply to large listed undertakings for reasons of investor protection, in order to ensure greater transparency from undertakings with securities regulated in EU markets.

- (22) Article 23 of Directive 2013/34/EU exempts parent undertakings from the obligation to prepare consolidated financial statements and a consolidated management report where those undertakings are subsidiaries of another parent undertaking that complies with that obligation. It should be specified, however, that the exemption regime for consolidated financial statements and consolidated management reports operates independently from the exemption regime for consolidated sustainability reporting. An undertaking can therefore be exempted from consolidated financial reporting obligations but not exempted from consolidated sustainability reporting obligations where its ultimate parent prepares consolidated financial statements and consolidated management reports in accordance with Union law, or in accordance with equivalent requirements if the undertaking is established in a third country, but does not prepare consolidated sustainability reporting in accordance with EU law, or in accordance with equivalent requirements if the undertaking is established in a third country. It is necessary that parent undertakings reporting at consolidated level provide an adequate understanding of the risks and impacts of their subsidiaries, including information on their due diligence processes where appropriate. There might be cases where the differences between the situation of the group and its individual subsidiaries, or between the situation of individual subsidiaries in different geographies are particularly significant and would, in the absence of additional information about the individual subsidiary concerned, cause the user to reach a substantially different conclusion about the risks or impacts of the subsidiary.

- (23) Credit institutions and insurance undertakings play a key role in the transition towards a fully sustainable and inclusive economic and financial system in line with the European Green Deal. They can have significant positive and negative impacts via their lending, investment and underwriting activities. Credit institutions and insurance undertakings other than those that are required to comply with Directive 2013/34/EU, including cooperatives and mutual undertakings, should therefore be subject to sustainability reporting requirements provided that they meet certain size criteria. Users of that information would thus be enabled to assess both the impacts of these undertakings on society and the environment and the risks arising from sustainability matters that these undertakings could face. The Accounting Directive applies three possible criteria to determine whether an undertaking is considered to be a "large undertaking", which are the balance sheet total, net turnover and average number of employees during the financial year. The criterion of net turnover needs to be adapted for credit institutions and for insurance undertakings by referring to the definition of net turnover in Directive 1986/635 and in Directive 1991/674 instead of the general definition of Directive 2013/34/EU. To ensure coherence with the reporting requirements of Council Directive 86/635/EEC²² on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions, ■ Member States may choose not to apply sustainability reporting requirements to credit institutions listed in Article 2(5) of Directive 2013/36/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council²³.
- (24) The list of sustainability matters on which undertakings are required to report should be as coherent as possible with the definition of ‘sustainability factors’ laid down in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088, and prevent a mismatch between information required by data users and information to be reported by data preparers. That list should also correspond to the needs and expectations of users and undertakings themselves, who often use the terms ‘environmental’, ‘social’ and ‘governance’ as a means to categorise the three main sustainability matters.

²² [1] Council Directive 86/635/EEC of 8 December 1986 on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions (OJ L 372, 31.12.1986, p. 1).

²³ [2] Directive 2013/36/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013 on access to the activity of credit institutions and the prudential supervision of credit institutions and investment firms, amending Directive 2002/87/EC and repealing Directives 2006/48/EC and 2006/49/EC (OJ L 176, 27.6.2013, p. 338).

The list of sustainability factors laid down in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 does not explicitly include governance matters. The definition of sustainability matters in Directive 2013/34/EU should therefore relate to environmental, social and human rights and governance factors, and be based on the definition of ‘sustainability factors’ laid down in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 ■. The reporting requirements of this directive should be without prejudice of other national reporting obligations.

- (25) Articles 19a and 29a of Directive 2013/34/EU require reporting not only on information ‘to the extent necessary for an understanding of the undertaking's development, performance, position’, but also on information necessary for an understanding of the impact of the undertaking’s activities on environmental, social and employee matters, respect for human rights, anti-corruption and bribery matters. Those articles therefore require undertakings to report both on ■ the impacts of the activities of the undertaking on people and the environment, and on how various sustainability matters affect the undertaking. That is referred to as the double-materiality perspective, in which the risks to the undertaking and the impacts of the undertaking each represent one materiality perspective. The fitness check on corporate reporting shows that those two perspectives are often not well understood or applied. It is therefore necessary to clarify that undertakings should consider each materiality perspective in its own right, and should disclose information that is material from both perspectives as well as information that is material from only one perspective.
- (26) Articles 19a(1) and 29a(1) of Directive 2013/34/EU require undertakings to disclose information about five reporting areas: business model, policies (including due diligence processes implemented), the outcome of those policies, risks and risk management, and key performance indicators relevant to the business. Article 19a(1) of Directive 2013/34/EU does not contain explicit references to other reporting areas that users of information consider relevant, some of which align with disclosures included in international frameworks, including the recommendations of the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures. Disclosure requirements should be specified in sufficient detail to ensure that undertakings report information on their resilience to risks related to sustainability matters.

In addition to the reporting areas identified in Articles 19a(1) and 29a(1) of Directive 2013/34/EU, undertakings should therefore be required to disclose information about their business strategy and the resilience of the business model and strategy to risks related to sustainability matters. They should also be required to disclose any plans they may have to ensure that their business model and strategy are compatible with the transition to a sustainable ■ economy and with the objectives of limiting global warming to 1,5 °C in line with the Paris Agreement and achieving climate neutrality by 2050 as established in Regulation (EU) 2021/1119 (European Climate Law), with no or limited overshoot. It is especially important that plans related to climate are based on the latest science, including IPCC reports and reports by the European Scientific Advisory Board on Climate Change. Information disclosed in accordance with Article 8 of Regulation (EU) 2020/852 about the amount of Capex or Opex associated with activities aligned with the taxonomy could support financial and investment plans related to these transition plans where appropriate. Undertakings should also be required to disclose whether and how their business model and strategy take account of the interests of stakeholders; any opportunities for the undertaking arising from sustainability matters; the implementation of the aspects of the business strategy which affect, or are affected by sustainability matters; any sustainability targets set by the undertaking and the progress made towards achieving them; the role of the board and management with regard to sustainability matters; the principal actual and potential adverse impacts connected with the undertaking's activities; and how the undertaking has identified the information that they report on. Once the disclosure of elements such as targets and the progress towards achieving them is required, the separate requirement to disclose the outcomes of policies is no longer necessary.

- (27) To ensure consistency with international instruments such as the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises and the OECD Due Diligence Guidance for Responsible Business Conduct, the due diligence disclosure requirements should be specified in greater detail than is the case in Article 19a(1), point (b), and Article 29a(1), point (b) of Directive 2013/34/EU.

Due diligence is the process that undertakings carry out to identify, track, prevent, mitigate, remediate and bring an end to the principal actual and potential adverse impacts connected with their activities and identifies how they address those adverse impacts. Impacts connected with an undertaking's activities include impacts directly caused by the undertaking, impacts to which the undertaking contributes, and impacts which are otherwise linked to the undertaking's value chain. The due diligence process concerns the whole value chain of the undertaking including its own operations, its products and services, its business relationships and its supply chains. In alignment with the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, an actual or potential adverse impact is to be considered principal where it measures among the greatest impacts connected with the undertaking's activities based on: the gravity of the impact on people or the environment; the number of individuals that are or could be affected, or the scale of damage to the environment; and the ease with which the harm could be remediated, restoring the environment or affected people to their prior state.

- (28) Directive 2013/34/EU does not require the disclosure of information on intangible resources other than intangible assets recognised in the balance sheet. It is widely recognised that information on intangible assets and other intangible factors, including internally-generated intangibles, is underreported, impeding the proper assessment of an undertaking's development, performance and position and monitoring of investments. To enable investors to better understand the increasing gap between the accounting book value of many undertakings and their market valuation, which is observed in many sectors of the economy, adequate reporting on intangibles should be required from all large undertakings and all undertakings listed on regulated markets, except micro undertakings. Nonetheless, certain information on intangible resources is intrinsic to sustainability matters, and will therefore be part of sustainability reporting. For example, information about employees' skills, competencies, experience, loyalty to the undertaking and motivation for improving processes, goods and services, is sustainability information regarding social matters that could also be considered as information on intangible resources. Likewise, information about the quality of the relationships between the undertaking and its stakeholders, including customers, suppliers and communities affected by the activities of the undertaking, is sustainability information relevant to social or governance matters that could also be considered as information on intangible resources. These examples illustrate how in some cases it is not possible to distinguish information on intangible resources from information on sustainability matters.

- (29) Articles 19a(1) and 29a(1) of Directive 2013/34/EU do not specify whether the information to be reported is to be forward looking or information about past performance. There is currently a lack of forward-looking disclosures, which users of sustainability information especially value. Articles 19a and 29a of Directive 2013/34/EU should therefore specify that the sustainability information reported shall include forward-looking and retrospective, and both qualitative and quantitative information. Information should be based on conclusive scientific evidence where appropriate. Information should also be harmonized, comparable and based on uniform indicators where appropriate, while allowing for reporting that is specific to individual undertakings and not endangering the commercial position of the undertaking. Reported sustainability information should also take into account short, medium and long-term time horizons and contain information about the undertaking's whole value chain, including its own operations, its products and services, its business relationships, and its supply chain, as appropriate. Information about the undertaking's whole value chain would include information related to its value chain within the EU and information that covers third countries if the undertaking's value chain extends outside the EU.

For the first three years of the application of this Directive, in the event that not all the necessary information regarding the value chain is available, the undertaking shall explain the efforts made to obtain the information about its value chain, the reasons why this information could not be obtained, and the plans of the undertaking to obtain such information in the future.

(29a) It is not the objective of this Directive to require undertakings to disclose intellectual capital, intellectual property, know-how or the results of innovation that would qualify as trade secrets as defined in the Trade Secrets Directive. Reporting requirements defined by this Directive are therefore without prejudice to Directive (EU) 2016/943 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 8 June 2016 on the protection of undisclosed know-how and business information.

(30) Articles 19a(1) and 29a(1) of Directive 2013/34/EU require undertakings to include in their non-financial reporting references to, and additional explanations of, amounts reported in the annual financial statements. Those Articles do, however, not require undertakings to make references to other information in the management report or to add additional explanations to that information. There is currently thus a lack of consistency between non-financial information reported and the rest of the information disclosed in the management report. It is necessary to lay down clear requirements in this regard.

(31) Articles 19a(1) and 29a(1) of Directive 2013/34/EU require undertakings to provide a clear and reasoned explanation for not pursuing policies in relation to one or more of the matters listed, where the undertaking does not do so. The different treatment of disclosures on the policies that undertakings may have, compared to the other reporting areas included in those articles, has created confusion among reporting undertakings and has not helped to improve the quality of the reported information. Therefore, there is no need to maintain this different treatment of policies in the Directive. The standards will determine what information needs to be disclosed in relation to each of the reporting areas mentioned in Articles 19a and 29a.

(32) Undertakings under the scope of Articles 19a(1) and 29a(1) of Directive 2013/34/EU may rely on national, Union-based or international reporting frameworks, and where they do so, they have to specify which frameworks they relied upon. However, Directive 2013/34/EU does not require undertakings to use a common reporting framework or standard, and it does not prevent undertakings from choosing not to use any reporting framework or standards at all. As required by Article 2 of Directive 2014/95/EU, the Commission published in 2017 non-binding guidelines for undertakings under the scope of that Directive²⁴. In 2019, the Commission published additional guidelines, specifically on reporting climate-related information²⁵. The climate reporting guidelines explicitly incorporated the recommendations of the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures. Available evidence indicates that those non-binding guidelines did not have a significant impact on the quality of non-financial reporting by undertakings under the scope of Articles 19a and 29a of Directive 2013/34/EU. The voluntary nature of the guidelines means that undertakings are free to apply them or not. The guidelines can therefore not ensure on their own the comparability of the information disclosed by different undertakings, or the disclosure of all information that users consider relevant. That is why there is a need for mandatory common reporting standards to ensure that information is comparable and that all relevant information is disclosed. Building on the double-materiality principle, standards should cover all information that is material to users. Common reporting standards are also necessary to enable the audit and digitalisation of sustainability reporting and to facilitate its supervision and enforcement. The development of mandatory common sustainability reporting standards is necessary to progress to a situation in which sustainability information has a status comparable to that of financial information. The adoption of sustainability reporting standards by means of Delegated Regulations will ensure harmonised sustainability reporting across the Union. Therefore, an undertaking would be compliant with the requirements of Articles 19a and 29a by reporting according to the sustainability reporting standards. When defining such standards, it is essential to give due consideration and to the greatest extent possible to the main sustainability reporting standards used worldwide, while not lowering the ambition of this Directive and its Delegated acts.

- (33) No existing standard or framework satisfies the Union's needs for detailed sustainability reporting by itself. Information required by Directive 2013/34/EU needs to cover information relevant from each of the materiality perspectives, needs to cover all sustainability matters and needs to be aligned, where appropriate, with other obligations under Union law to disclose sustainability information, including obligations laid down in Regulation (EU) 2020/852 and Regulation (EU) 2019/2088. In addition, mandatory sustainability reporting standards for Union undertakings must be commensurate with the level of ambition of the European Green Deal and the Union's climate-neutrality objective for 2050 as well as intermediate targets under Regulation (EU) 2021/1119. It is therefore necessary to empower the Commission to adopt Union sustainability reporting standards, enabling their rapid adoption and ensuring that the content of sustainability reporting standards are consistent with the Union's needs.

(34) The European Financial Reporting Advisory Group (EFRAG) is a non-profit association established under Belgian law that serves the public interest by providing advice to the Commission on the endorsement of international financial reporting standards. EFRAG has established a reputation as a European centre of expertise on corporate reporting, and is well placed to foster coordination between European sustainability reporting standards and international initiatives that seek to develop standards that are consistent across the world. In March 2021, a multi-stakeholder task force set up by EFRAG published recommendations for the possible development of sustainability reporting standards for the European Union. Those recommendations contain proposals to develop a coherent and comprehensive set of reporting standards, covering all sustainability matters from a double-materiality perspective. Those recommendations also contain a detailed roadmap for developing such standards, and proposals for mutually reinforcing cooperation between global standard-setting initiatives and standard-setting initiatives of the European Union. In March 2021, the EFRAG President published recommendations for possible governance changes to EFRAG if it were to be asked to develop technical advice about sustainability reporting standards. These recommendations include offsetting up within EFRAG a new sustainability reporting pillar while not significantly modifying the existing financial reporting pillar. In March 2022, the EFRAG General Assembly appointed the members of the newly created EFRAG Sustainability Reporting Board. When adopting sustainability reporting standards, the Commission should take account of technical advice that EFRAG will develop. In order to ensure high-quality standards that contribute to the European public good and meet the needs of undertakings and of users of the information reported, EFRAG should have sufficient public funding to ensure its independence. Its technical advice should be developed with proper due process, public oversight and transparency, accompanied by cost benefit analyses, and be developed with the expertise of a balanced representation of relevant stakeholders, including preparers, investors, civil society organisations and trade unions. Participation in the EFRAG work at technical level should be based on expertise in sustainability reporting and should not be conditional on any financial contribution, without prejudice to the participation of public bodies and national standard setting organisations in this technical work. A transparent process avoiding conflicts of interest should be guaranteed. To ensure that Union sustainability reporting standards take account of the views of the Member States of the Union, before adopting the standards the Commission should consult the Member State Expert Group on Sustainable Finance referred to in Article 24 of Regulation (EU) 2020/852 and the Accounting Regulatory Committee referred to in Article 6 of Regulation (EU) 1606/2002 on EFRAG's technical advice. The European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA), the European Banking Authority (EBA) and the European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority (EIOPA) play a role in drafting regulatory technical standards pursuant to Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 and there needs to be coherence between those regulatory technical standards and sustainability reporting standards. According to Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁶, ESMA also plays a role in promoting supervisory converge in the enforcement of corporate reporting by issuers whose securities are listed on EU regulated markets and who will be required to use these sustainability reporting standards. Therefore, ESMA, EBA and EIOPA should be required to provide an opinion on EFRAG's technical advice. These opinions should be provided within two months from the date of receipt of the request from the Commission. In addition, the Commission should consult ■ the European Environment Agency, the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights, the European Central Bank, the Committee of European Auditing Oversight Bodies and the Platform on Sustainable Finance to ensure that the sustainability reporting standards are coherent with relevant Union policy and legislation. Where any of those bodies decide to submit an opinion, they shall do so within two months from the date of being consulted by the Commission.

²⁶ Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 November 2010 establishing a European Supervisory Authority (European Securities and Markets Authority), amending Decision No 716/2009/EC and repealing Commission Decision 2009/77/EC (OJ L 331, 15.12.2010, p. 84).

(34a) In order to foster democratic control, scrutiny and transparency, the Commission should at least once a year consult the European Parliament, and jointly the Member State Expert Group on Sustainable Finance referred to in Article 24 of Regulation (EU) 2020/852 and the Accounting Regulatory Committee referred to in Article 6 of Regulation (EU) 1606/2002, on EFRAG’s work programme as regards the development of sustainability reporting standards.

(35) Sustainability reporting standards should be coherent with other Union legislation. Those standards should in particular be aligned with the disclosure requirements laid down in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088, and they should take account of underlying indicators and methodologies set out in the various delegated acts adopted pursuant to Regulation (EU) 2020/852, disclosure requirements applicable to benchmark administrators pursuant to Regulation (EU) 2016/1011 of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁷, the minimum standards for the construction of EU climate transition benchmarks and EU Paris-aligned benchmarks; and of any work carried out by the European Banking Authority in the implementation of the Pillar III disclosure requirements of Regulation (EU) No 575/2013. Standards should take account of Union environmental legislation, including Directive 2003/87/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁸ and Regulation (EC) No 1221/2009 of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁹, and should take account of Commission

Recommendation 2013/179/EU³⁰ and its annexes, and their updates. Other relevant Union legislation, including Directive 2010/75/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council³¹, and requirements laid down in Union law for undertakings as regards directors' duties and due diligence, should also be taken into account.

- (36) Sustainability reporting standards should take account of the Commission guidelines on non-financial reporting³² and the Commission guidelines on reporting climate-related information³³. They should also take account of other reporting requirements in Directive 2013/34/EU not directly related to sustainability, with the aim of providing the users of the reported information with a better understanding of the development, performance, position and impact of the undertaking, by maximising the links between the sustainability information and other information reported in accordance with Directive 2013/34/EU.
- (37) Sustainability reporting standards should be proportionate, and should not impose unnecessary administrative burden on companies that are required to use them. In order to minimise disruption for undertakings that already report sustainability information, sustainability reporting standards should take account of existing standards and frameworks for sustainability reporting and accounting where appropriate. Those include the Global Reporting Initiative, the Sustainability Accounting Standards Board, the International Integrated Reporting Council, the International Accounting Standards Board, the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures, the Carbon Disclosure Standards Board, and CDP (formerly the Carbon Disclosure Project). Standards of the European Union should take account of any sustainability reporting standards developed under the auspices of International Financial Reporting Standards Foundation. fragmentation that may have negative consequences for undertakings operating globally, European standards should contribute to the process of convergence of sustainability reporting standards at global level, by supporting the work of the International Sustainability Standards Board (ISSB). European standards should reduce the risk of inconsistent reporting requirements on undertakings that operate globally by integrating the content of global baseline standards to be developed by the ISSB, to the extent that the content of the ISSB baseline standards is consistent with the EU's legal framework and the objectives of the European Green Deal.

- (38) In its communication on the European Green Deal, the European Commission committed to support businesses and other stakeholders in developing standardised natural capital accounting practices within the Union and internationally, with the aim of ensuring appropriate management of environmental risks and mitigation opportunities, and reduce related transaction costs. The Transparent Project sponsored under the LIFE programme is developing the first natural capital accounting methodology, which will make existing methods easier to compare and more transparent while lowering the threshold for companies to adopt and use the systems in support of future-proofing their business. The Natural Capital Protocol is also an important reference in this field. While natural capital accounting methods serve principally to strengthen internal management decisions, they should be duly considered when establishing sustainability reporting standards. Some natural capital accounting methodologies seek to assign a monetary value to the environmental impacts of companies' activities, which may help users to better understand those impacts. It is therefore appropriate that sustainability reporting standards should be able to include monetised indicators of sustainability impacts if that is deemed necessary.

- (39) Sustainability reporting standards should also take account of internationally recognised principles and frameworks on responsible business conduct, corporate social responsibility, and sustainable development, including the UN Sustainable Development Goals, the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises, the OECD Due Diligence Guidance for Responsible Business Conduct and related sectoral guidelines, the UN Global Compact, the Tripartite Declaration of Principles of the International Labour Organisation concerning Multinational Enterprises and Social Policy, the ISO 26000 standard on social responsibility, and the UN Principles for Responsible Investment.
- (40) It should be ensured that the information reported by undertakings in accordance with the sustainability reporting standards meet the needs of users and do not place a disproportionate burden in effort and costs on those reporting and those that are indirectly effected as part of the value chain of those reporting. The reporting standards should therefore specify the information that undertakings are to disclose on all major environmental factors, including their impacts and dependencies on climate, air, land, water and biodiversity. Regulation (EU) 2020/852 provides a classification of the environmental objectives of the Union. For reasons of coherence, it is appropriate to use a similar classification to identify the environmental factors that should be addressed by sustainability reporting standards. The reporting standards should consider and specify any geographical or other contextual information that undertakings should disclose to provide an understanding of their principal impacts on sustainability matters and the principal risks to the undertaking arising from sustainability matters. When specifying the information about environmental factors that undertakings are to disclose, coherence should be ensured with the definitions in Article 2 and the reporting requirements of Article 8 in Regulation (EU) 2020/852 and the delegated acts adopted pursuant to that Regulation.

- (41) With regard to climate-related information, users are interested in knowing about undertakings' physical and transition risks, and about their resilience and plans to adapt to different climate scenarios and to the EU's climate neutrality goal. They are also interested in the level and scope of greenhouse gas emissions and removals attributed to the undertaking, including the extent to which the undertaking uses offsets and the source of those offsets. Achieving a climate neutral economy requires the alignment of greenhouse gas accounting and offset standards. Users need reliable information regarding offsets that addresses concerns regarding possible double-counting and overestimations, given the risks to the achievement of climate-related targets that double-counting and overestimations can create. These parties are also interested to know the efforts made by companies to effectively reduce absolute GHG emissions as part of their climate mitigation and adaptation strategies, including scope 1, scope 2 and, where relevant, scope 3 emissions. With regard to scope 3 emissions, a priority for users is to receive information about which categories of scope 3 are significant in the case of the undertaking, and about the emissions in each of those scope 3 categories. The reporting standards should therefore specify the information undertakings should report with regard to those matters.
- (42) Achieving a climate neutral and circular economy ■ without diffuse pollution requires the full mobilisation of all economic sectors. Reducing energy use and increasing energy efficiency is key in this respect as energy is used across supply chains. Energy aspects should therefore be duly considered in sustainability reporting standards, in particular in relation to environmental matters, including climate-related matters.

(43) Sustainability reporting standards should specify the information that undertakings should disclose on social factors, including working conditions, social partner involvement, collective bargaining, equality, non-discrimination, diversity and inclusion, and human rights. Such information should cover the impacts of the undertaking on people, including workers, and on human health. The information that undertakings disclose about human rights should include information about forced labour and child labour in their value chains where relevant. Reporting requirements on forced labour should not replace the public authorities' responsibility to address the import of goods, produced as a result of human rights abuses, including forced labour, through trade policy and diplomatic means. Undertakings should also be able to report on possible risks and trends regarding employment and incomes. Reporting standards that address social factors should specify the information that undertakings should disclose with regard to the principles of the European Pillar of Social Rights that are relevant to businesses, including equal opportunities for all and working conditions. The European Pillar of Social Rights Action Plan adopted in March 2021 calls for stronger requirements on undertakings to report on social issues. The reporting standards should also specify the information that undertakings should disclose with regard to the human rights, fundamental freedoms, democratic principles and standards established in the International Bill of Human Rights and other core UN human rights conventions, including the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the International Labour Organization's Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, the fundamental conventions of the International Labour Organisation, the European Convention of Human Rights, the (revised) European Social Charter, and the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. Reporting carried out on social factors, as well as on environmental and governance factors, should be proportionate to the scope and the goals of this Directive. Reporting standards that address gender equality and equal pay for equal work should specify, amongst other things, information to be reported about the gender pay gap, taking account of other relevant EU legislation. Reporting standards that address employment and inclusion of people with disabilities should specify, amongst other things, information to be reported about accessibility measures taken by the undertaking. Reporting standards that address training and skills development should specify, amongst other things, information to be reported about the rate and breakdown of workers participating in training. Reporting standards that address collective bargaining should specify, amongst other things, information to be disclosed about the existence of works councils as well as the existence of collective agreements and the rate of workers covered by such agreements. Reporting standards that address worker participation should specify, amongst other things information to be disclosed about the participation of workers in administrative and supervisory boards. Reporting standards that address diversity should among other things specify information to be reported on gender diversity at top management and the number of members of the under-represented sex on their boards.

- (44) Users need information about governance factors. Governance factors that are most relevant to users are listed by authoritative reporting frameworks such as the Global Reporting Initiative and the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures, as well as by authoritative global frameworks such as the Global Governance Principles of the International Corporate Governance Network and the G20 OECD principles of Corporate Governance. Sustainability reporting standards should specify the information that undertakings should disclose on governance factors. Such information should cover the role of an undertaking's administrative, management and supervisory bodies █ with regard to sustainability matters, expertise and skills to fulfill this role or access to such expertise and skills, whether the company has a policy in terms of incentives offered to members of these bodies which are linked to sustainability matters, and information on an undertaking's internal control and risk management systems █ in relation to the sustainability reporting process.

Users also need information about undertakings' corporate culture and approach to business ethics, which are recognised elements of authoritative frameworks on corporate governance such as the Global Governance Principles of the International Corporate Governance Network, including information about anti-corruption and anti-bribery, and about the undertaking's political engagements, including lobbying activities. Information about the management of the undertaking and the quality of relationships with customers, suppliers and communities affected by the activities of the undertaking, helps users to understand an undertaking's risks as well as its impacts on sustainability matters. Information about relationships with suppliers, includes payment practices relating to the date or period for payment, the rate of interest for late payment or the compensation for recovery costs referred to in Directive 2011/7/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council³⁴ on late payment in commercial transactions. ■ Every year, thousands of businesses, especially SMEs, suffer administrative and financial burdens because they are paid late, or not at all. Ultimately, late payments lead to insolvency and bankruptcy, with destructive effects on entire value chains. Increasing information about payment practices should empower other undertakings to identify prompt and reliable payers, detect unfair payment practices, access information about the businesses they trade with, and negotiate fairer payment terms.

(45) The reporting standards should promote a more integrated view of all the information published by undertakings in the management report to provide users of that information with a better understanding of the development, performance, position and impact of the undertaking. Those standards should distinguish as necessary between information that undertakings should disclose when reporting at individual level and the information that undertakings should disclose when reporting at consolidated level. Those standards should also contain guidance for undertakings on the process carried out to identify the sustainability information that should be included in the management report, since an undertaking should only be required to disclose the information relevant to understand its impacts on sustainability matters, and the information relevant to understand how sustainability matters affect its development, performance and position.

(45a) Member States should ensure that sustainability reporting is done in compliance with workers' rights to information and consultation. The management of the undertaking should hence inform workers' representatives at the appropriate level and discuss with them the relevant information and the means of obtaining and verifying sustainability information. This implies for the purpose of this legislation the establishment of dialogue and exchange of views between employees' representatives and central management or any more appropriate level of management, at such time, in such fashion and with such content as enables employees' representatives to express an opinion. Their opinion should be communicated, where applicable, to the relevant administrative, management or supervisory bodies.

(46) Undertakings in the same sector are often exposed to similar sustainability-related risks, and they often have similar impacts on society and the environment. Comparisons between undertakings in the same sector are especially valuable to investors and other users of sustainability information. Sustainability reporting standards adopted by the Commission should therefore specify both information that undertakings in all sectors should disclose and information that undertakings should disclose depending on their sector of activity. Sector-specific standards are especially important in the case of sectors associated with high sustainability risks and/or impacts on the environment, human rights and governance, including sectors listed in Sections A to H and Section L of Annex I to Regulation (EC) No 1893/2006, and the relevant activities within those. When adopting sector specific standards the Commission should ensure this information is proportionate to the scale of the risks and impacts related to sustainability matters of each sector, taking account of the fact that the risks and impacts of some sectors are higher than for others. The Commission should also take account of the fact that not all activities within such sectors are necessarily associated with high sustainability risks and/or impacts. For undertakings that operate in sectors particularly relying on natural resources, sector-specific standards would require the disclosure of nature-related impacts on and risks for biodiversity and ecosystems.

Standards should also take account of the difficulties that undertakings may encounter in gathering information from actors throughout their value chain, especially from SME suppliers and from suppliers in emerging markets and economies.

Standards shall specify disclosures on value chains that are proportionate and relevant to the scale and complexity of the activities, and the capacities and characteristics of undertakings in value chains, especially those of undertakings that are not subject to the sustainability reporting obligations pursuant to this Directive. Standards shall not specify disclosures that would require undertakings to obtain information from small and medium-sized undertakings in their value chain that exceeds the information to be disclosed according to the sustainability reporting standards for small and medium-sized undertakings. This provision is without prejudice to any EU requirements on undertakings to conduct a due diligence process.

- (47) To meet the information needs from users in a timely manner, and in particular given the urgency to meet the information needs of financial market participants subject to the requirements laid down in the delegated acts adopted pursuant to Article 4, paragraphs 6 and 7 of Regulation (EU) 2019/2088, the Commission should adopt a first set of reporting standards by 30 June 2023. That set of reporting standards should specify the information that undertakings should disclose with regard to all reporting areas and sustainability matters, and that financial market participants need to comply with the disclosure obligations laid down in Regulation (EU) 2019/2088. The Commission should adopt a second set of reporting standards at the latest by 30 June 2024, specifying complementary information that undertakings should disclose about sustainability matters and reporting areas where necessary, and information that is specific to the sector in which an undertaking operates. The Commission should review the standards, including the standards for SMEs, every 3 years to take account of relevant developments, including the development of international standards.
- (48) Directive 2013/34/EU does not require that the management report is provided in a digital format, which hinders the findability and usability of the reported information. Users of sustainability information increasingly expect such information to be findable, comparable and machine-readable in digital formats. Member States may require that undertakings subject to Articles 19a and 29a make their management reports available on their web sites free of charge to the public. Digitalisation creates opportunities to exploit information more efficiently and holds the potential for significant cost savings for both users and undertakings. Digitalisation also enables the centralization at Union and Member State level of data in an open and accessible format that facilitates reading and allows for the comparison of data. Undertakings should therefore be required to prepare their management report in the format referred to in Article 3 of Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2019/815,³⁵ XHTML format, and to mark-up sustainability information, including the disclosures required by Article 8 of Regulation (EU) 2020/852, in accordance with the format referred to in that Delegated Regulation once this is determined. A digital taxonomy to the Union sustainability reporting standards will be necessary to allow for the ■ reported information to be tagged in accordance with those standards. These requirements should feed into the work on digitalisation announced by the Commission in its Communication A European strategy for data³⁶ and in the Digital Finance Strategy for the EU³⁷. These requirements also complement the creation of a European single access point for public corporate information as envisaged in the capital markets union action plan, which also considers the need for structured data.

- (49) To allow for the inclusion of the reported sustainability information in the European single access point, Member States should ensure that undertakings ■ with no securities listed in regulated markets publish their management report ■, including sustainability reporting ■, in the electronic format prescribed in Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2019/815.
- (50) Article 19a(4) of Directive 2013/34/EU enables Member States to exempt undertakings from including in the management report the non-financial statement required under Article 19a(1). Member States may do so where the undertaking concerned prepares a separate report that is published together with the management report in accordance with Article 30 of that Directive, or where that report is made publicly available on the undertaking's website within a reasonable period of time not exceeding 6 months, after the balance sheet date, and is referred to in the management report. The same possibility exists for the consolidated non-financial statement referred to in Article 29(a)(4) of Directive 2013/34/EU. Twenty Member States have used that option. The possibility to publish a separate report hinders, however, the availability of information that connects financial and information on sustainability matters. It also hinders the findability and accessibility of information for users, especially investors, who are interested in both financial and sustainability information. Possible different publication times for financial and sustainability information exacerbate this problem. Publication in a separate report can also give the impression, internally and externally, that sustainability information belongs to a category of less relevant information, which can impact negatively on the perceived reliability of the information. Undertakings should therefore report sustainability information in a clearly identifiable dedicated section of the management report and Member States should no longer be allowed to exempt undertakings from the obligation to include in the management report information on sustainability matters. Such obligation also helps to clarify the role of national competent authorities in supervising sustainability reporting, as part of the management report, in accordance with Directive 2004/109/EC. In addition, undertakings required to report sustainability information should in no case be exempted from the obligation to publish the management report as it is important to ensure that sustainability information is publicly available.

- (51) Article 20 of Directive 2013/34/EU requires undertakings with securities listed on regulated markets to include a corporate governance statement in their management report, which has to contain among other information a description of the diversity policy applied by the undertaking in relation to its administrative, management and supervisory bodies. Article 20 of Directive 2013/34/EU leaves flexibility to undertakings to decide what aspects of diversity they report on. It does not explicitly oblige undertakings to include information on any particular aspect of diversity. In order to progress towards a more gender-balanced participation in economic decision-making, it is necessary to ensure that undertakings with securities listed on regulated markets always report on their gender diversity policies and the implementation thereof. However, to avoid unnecessary administrative burden, those undertakings should have the possibility to report some of the information required by Article 20 of Directive 2013/34/EU alongside other sustainability-related information. If they decide to do so, the corporate governance statement needs to include a reference to the undertaking's sustainability reporting, and the information compliant with Article 20 of Directive 2013/34/EU should remain subject to the assurance requirements of the corporate governance statement.

- (52) Article 33 of Directive 2013/34/EU requires Member States to ensure that the members of the administrative, management and supervisory bodies of an undertaking have collective responsibility for ensuring that the (consolidated) annual financial statements, the (consolidated) management report and the (consolidated) corporate governance statement are drawn up and published in accordance with the requirements of that Directive. That collective responsibility should be extended to the digitalisation requirements laid down in Delegated Regulation (EU) 2019/815, to the requirement to comply with Union sustainability reporting standards and to the requirement to mark up sustainability reporting.
- (53) The assurance profession distinguishes between limited and reasonable assurance engagements. The conclusion of a limited assurance engagement is usually provided in a negative form of expression by stating that no matter has been identified by the practitioner to conclude that the subject matter is materially misstated. The auditor performs fewer tests than in a reasonable assurance engagement. The amount of work for a limited assurance engagement is therefore less than for reasonable assurance. The work effort in a reasonable assurance engagement entails extensive procedures including consideration of internal controls of the reporting undertaking and substantive testing, and is therefore significantly higher than in a limited assurance engagement. The conclusion of this type of engagement is usually provided in a positive form of expression and states an opinion on the measurement of the subject matter against previously defined criteria. Article 19a(5) and Article 29a(5) of Directive 2013/34/EU require Member States to ensure that the statutory auditor or audit firm checks whether the non-financial statement or the separate report has been provided. It does not require that an independent provider of assurance services verifies the information, although it allows Member States to require such verification where they wish to.

The absence of an assurance requirement on sustainability reporting, in contrast to the requirement for the statutory auditor to perform a reasonable assurance engagement on financial statements, would threaten the credibility of the sustainability information disclosed, thus failing to meet the needs of the intended users of that information. Although the objective is to have a similar level of assurance for financial and sustainability reporting, the absence of a commonly agreed standard for the assurance of sustainability reporting creates the risk of different understandings and expectations of what a reasonable assurance engagement would consist of for different categories of sustainability information, especially with regard to forward looking and qualitative disclosures. Therefore, a progressive approach to enhance the level of the assurance required for sustainability information should be considered, starting with an obligation on the statutory auditor or audit firm to express an opinion about the compliance of the sustainability reporting with Union requirements based on a limited assurance engagement. This opinion should cover the compliance of the sustainability reporting with Union sustainability reporting standards, the process carried out by the undertaking to identify the information reported pursuant to the sustainability reporting standards and compliance with the requirement to mark-up sustainability reporting. The auditor should also assess whether the undertaking's reporting complies with the reporting requirements of Article 8 of Regulation (EU) 2020/852.

To guarantee a common understanding and expectations of what a reasonable assurance engagement would consist of, the statutory auditor or audit firm should be required to express an opinion based on a reasonable assurance engagement about the compliance of the sustainability reporting with Union requirements, ■ when the Commission adopts assurance standards for reasonable assurance of sustainability reporting no later than 1st October 2028, following an assessment to determine if reasonable assurance is feasible for auditors and for undertakings. The gradual approach from limited to reasonable assurance ■ would also allow for the progressive development of the assurance market for sustainability information, and of undertakings' reporting practices. Finally, this progressive approach would phase in the increase in costs for reporting undertakings, given that reasonable assurance is more costly than limited assurance. Undertakings subject to sustainability reporting requirements can decide to have an opinion on their sustainability reporting based on a reasonable assurance engagement if they wish so, and in this case they would be deemed to have complied with the obligation to have an opinion based on a limited assurance engagement. It should be noted that the reasonable assurance opinion on forward-looking information is only an assurance that such information has been prepared in accordance with applicable standards.

- (54) Statutory auditors or audit firms already verify the financial statements and the management report. The assurance of sustainability reporting by the statutory auditors or audit firms would help to ensure the connectivity between, and consistency of, financial and sustainability information, which is particularly important for ■ users of sustainability information. However, there is a risk of further concentration of the audit market, which could risk the independence of auditors and increase audit fees or fees relating to the ■ assurance engagements of sustainability reporting. Considering the key role of statutory auditors when providing assurance on sustainability reporting and ensuring reliable sustainability information, the Commission has announced that it will act to further enhance audit quality and to create a more open and diversified audit market, which are the conditions for a successful application of this Directive. In addition, it is desirable to offer undertakings a broader choice of independent assurance services providers for the assurance of sustainability reporting. Member States should therefore be allowed to accredit independent assurance services providers in accordance with Regulation (EC) No 765/2008 of the European Parliament and of the Council³⁸ to provide an opinion on sustainability reporting, which should be published together with the management report. In addition, Member States should ■ be given the option to allow a statutory auditor other than the one(s) carrying out the statutory audit of the financial statements to express an opinion on sustainability reporting. Furthermore, if they allow independent assurance service providers to carry out the assurance of sustainability reporting Member States should at the same time allow a statutory auditor other than the one(s) carrying out the statutory audit of the financial statements to express an opinion on sustainability reporting.

Member States should set out requirements that ensure the quality of the assurance engagement carried out by independent assurance services providers and consistent outcomes in the assurance of sustainability reporting. Therefore, all independent assurance services providers should be subject to requirements that are equivalent to those set out in Directive 2006/43/EC as regards the assurance of sustainability reporting, while being adapted to the characteristics of independent assurance services providers which do not carry out statutory audits. In particular, Member States should set out equivalent requirements as regards training and examination, continuing education, quality assurance systems, professional ethics, independence, objectivity confidentiality and professional secrecy, appointment and dismissal, the organisation of the work of the independent assurance services providers, investigations and sanctions, and reporting irregularities. This will also guarantee a level playing field among all persons and firms allowed by Member States to provide the opinion on the assurance of sustainability reporting, including statutory auditors. If an undertaking seeks the opinion of an accredited independent assurance services provider other than the statutory auditor on its sustainability reporting, it should not in addition need to request this opinion from the statutory auditor. Independent assurance services providers that have already been accredited by a Member State for the assurance of sustainability reporting should continue to be allowed to carry out assurance engagements of sustainability reporting. Likewise Member States should ensure that independent assurance services providers that by the date of the entry into application of the new requirements on training and examination are undergoing their accreditation process, are not subject to these new accreditation requirements provided they finish the process within the following two years. Member States should, however, ensure that all the independent assurance services providers accredited by a Member State for the assurance of sustainability reporting before two years after the entry into application of the new accreditation requirements, acquire the necessary knowledge in sustainability reporting and the assurance of sustainability reporting via continued professional education.

- (54a) In order to foster the free movement of services, Member States should allow that IASP established in a different Member State carry out sustainability assurance engagements in their territory. This would also favour opening up the assurance market even when not all Member States allow for the accreditation of IASP in their territory. Where IASP carry out sustainability assurance engagements in the territory of a Host Member State, this Member State may decide to supervise IASPs, given the possibility to leverage on the implemented framework for the supervision of auditors carrying out sustainability assurance engagements.
- (54b) Member States should ensure that when an undertaking is required by EU legislation to have some elements of its sustainability reporting verified by an accredited independent third party, the report of the accredited independent third party should be made available, either by an annex to the management report or any other publicly accessible means. Such accessibility should not pre-empt the outcome of the assurance opinion, of which the third-party verification should remain independent. It should not entail any duplication of work between the undertaking carrying out the assurance opinion and the third-party verifier.
- (55) Directive 2006/43/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council³⁹ sets out rules concerning the statutory audit of annual and consolidated financial statements. It is necessary to ensure that consistent rules apply to the audit of financial statements and the assurance of sustainability reporting by the statutory auditor ■ . Directive 2006/43/EC should apply where the opinion on sustainability reporting is given by ■ a statutory auditor or audit firm ■ .
- (56) The rules on the approval and recognition of statutory auditors and audit firms should allow for the additional qualification of statutory auditors for the assurance of sustainability reporting. Member States should ensure that statutory auditors who want to qualify for the assurance of sustainability reporting have the necessary level of theoretical knowledge of subjects relevant to the assurance of sustainability reporting and the ability to apply such knowledge in practice.

Therefore, they should complete a practical training of at least eight months in the assurance of annual and consolidated sustainability reporting or in other sustainability related services, taking account of previous employment experiences.

However, statutory auditors that have already been approved or recognised by a Member State should continue to be allowed to carry out ■ assurance engagements of sustainability reporting. Likewise Member States should ■ ensure that natural persons who are undergoing the approval process by the date of the entry into application of these new requirements for the assurance of sustainability reporting, are not subject to these provided they finish the process within the following two years. Member States should, however, ensure that statutory auditors ■ approved before two years after the entry into application of the new requirements and who want to carry out assurance engagements of sustainability reporting, acquire the necessary knowledge in sustainability reporting and the assurance of sustainability reporting via continued professional education.

Natural persons who decide to be approved as statutory auditors for financial audit only may decide at a later point in time to qualify for the assurance of sustainability reporting. In order to do so, they should meet the necessary requirements set out by Member States to ensure that they also have the necessary level of theoretical knowledge of subjects relevant to the assurance of sustainability reporting and the ability to apply such knowledge in practice.

- (57) It should be ensured that the requirements imposed on auditors as regards their work on the statutory audit and the assurance of sustainability reporting are consistent. It should therefore be laid down that ■ there should be at least a key sustainability partner who is actively involved in conducting the assurance of sustainability reporting. When carrying out the assurance of sustainability reporting, statutory auditors should be required to devote sufficient time to the engagement and assign sufficient resources and expertise to enable them to carry out their duties appropriately. Finally, the client account record should specify the fees charged for the assurance of sustainability reporting and ■ an assurance file should be created to include information related to the assurance of sustainability reporting. Where the same statutory auditor carries out the statutory audit of annual financial statements and the assurance of sustainability reporting, the assurance file may be included in the audit file. However, requirements imposed on statutory auditors relating to the assurance of sustainability reporting should only apply to statutory auditors that carry out the assurance of sustainability reporting.

- (57a) Statutory auditors or audit firms that carry out the assurance of sustainability reporting should have a high level of technical and specialised expertise in the field of sustainability.
- (58) Article 25 of Directive 2006/43/EC requires Member States to put appropriate rules in place to avoid that the fees on the statutory audit are influenced or determined by the provision of additional services to the audited entity or are based on any form of contingency. Articles 21 to 24 of that Directive also require Member States to ensure that statutory auditors carrying out statutory audits comply with the rules on professional ethics, independence, objectivity, confidentiality and professional secrecy. For reasons of coherence, it is appropriate that those rules are extended to the work carried out by statutory auditors on the assurance of sustainability reporting.
- (59) In order to provide for uniform assurance practices and high quality assurance of sustainability reporting across the Union, the Commission should be empowered to adopt sustainability assurance standards by means of delegated acts. Member States should be given the possibility to apply national assurance standards, procedures or requirements as long as the Commission has not adopted an assurance standard covering the same subject matter. These assurance standards should set out the procedures that the auditor shall perform in order to draw its conclusions on the assurance of sustainability reporting. Therefore, the Commission should adopt assurance standards for limited assurance before 1st October 2026. With a view to facilitating the harmonisation of the assurance of sustainability reporting across Member States, the CEAOB is encouraged to adopt non-binding guidelines to set out the procedures to be performed when expressing an opinion on the sustainability reporting until the Commission adopts an assurance standard covering the same subject-matter.

- (60) Article 27 of Directive 2006/43/EC sets out rules on the statutory audit of a group of undertakings. Similar rules should be set out for the assurance of consolidated sustainability reporting.
- (61) Article 28 of Directive 2006/43/EC requires statutory auditors or audit firms to present the results of their statutory audit in an audit report. Similar rules should be set out for the assurance of sustainability reporting. The results of the engagement should be presented in an assurance report. Where the same statutory auditor carries out the statutory audit of annual financial statements and the assurance of sustainability reporting, the information about the assurance engagement of sustainability reporting may be presented in the audit report.
- (62) Article 29 of Directive 2006/43/EC requires Member States to set up a system of quality assurance review of statutory auditors and audit firms. To ensure that quality assurance reviews also take place for the assurance of sustainability reporting and that the persons who carry out quality assurance reviews have appropriate professional education and relevant experience in the assurance of sustainability reporting and sustainability reporting, that requirement to set up a system of quality assurance review should be extended to the assurance of sustainability reporting. As a transition, until 31 December 2025, the persons who carry out quality assurance reviews relating to the assurance of sustainability reporting should be exempted from the requirement to have relevant experience in the assurance of sustainability reporting and sustainability reporting or other sustainability related services.
- (63) Chapter VII of Directive 2006/43/EC requires Member States to have in place an investigations and sanctions regime for statutory auditors and audit firms carrying out statutory audits. Chapter VIII of that Directive requires Member States to organise an effective system of public oversight, and to ensure that regulatory arrangements for public oversight systems permit effective cooperation at Union level in respect of Member States' oversight activities. Those requirements should be extended to statutory auditors and audit firms that conduct assurance engagements of sustainability reporting in order to ensure the consistency of the investigations, sanctions and oversight frameworks set up for the auditor's work in the statutory audit and the assurance of sustainability reporting.

(64) Article 37 and 38 of Directive 2006/43/EC contain rules on the appointment and dismissal of statutory auditors and audit firms carrying out statutory audits. Those rules should be extended to the assurance of sustainability reporting to ensure the consistency of the rules imposed on auditors as regards their work on the statutory audit and the assurance of sustainability reporting.

(64a) Pursuant to Article 6 of Directive 2007/36/EC as of 11 July 2007 on the exercise of certain rights of shareholders in listed companies, Member States shall ensure that shareholders of listed companies, acting individually or collectively, have the right to put items on the agenda of the general meeting, provided that each such item is accompanied by a justification or a draft resolution to be adopted in the general meeting; and have the right to table draft resolutions for items included or to be included on the agenda of a general meeting, as the case may be. If these rights are subject to the condition that the relevant shareholder or shareholders hold a minimum stake in the company, such minimum stake should not exceed 5 % of the share capital. In case of an assurance engagement on sustainability reporting, shareholders may exercise the rights set out in Article 6 of Directive 2007/36/EC in order to table draft resolutions requiring that (i) an accredited third party that does not belong to the same audit firm or network than the statutory auditor or audit firm carrying out the statutory audit prepares a report on some elements of the sustainability reporting and (ii) such report is made available to the shareholders general meeting. For undertakings subject to the reporting obligations of this Directive and that do not fall within the scope of Article 6 of Directive 2007/36/EC, shareholders which represent more than 5% of the voting rights or 5% of the capital of the undertaking, acting individually or collectively, should also be given the right to put as an item on the agenda of the general meeting, the requirement that (i) an accredited third party that does not belong to the same audit firm or network than the statutory auditor or audit firm carrying out the statutory audit prepares a report on some elements of the sustainability reporting and (ii) such report is made available to the shareholders general meeting.

- (65) Article 39 of Directive 2006/43/EC requires Member States to ensure that each public-interest entity has an audit committee, and specifies its tasks with regard to the statutory audit. That audit committee should be assigned with certain tasks with regard to the assurance of sustainability reporting. Those tasks should include the obligation to inform the administrative or supervisory body of the audited entity of the outcome of the assurance of sustainability reporting, and to explain how the audit committee contributed to the integrity of sustainability reporting and what the role of the audit committee was in that process. Member States should be able to allow that the functions assigned to the audit committee relating to sustainability reporting and the assurance of sustainability reporting are performed by the administrative or supervisory body as a whole or by a dedicated body established by the administrative or supervisory body.
- (66) Article 45 of Directive 2006/43/EC contains requirements for registration and oversight of third-country auditors and audit entities. To ensure that a consistent framework exists for the work of auditors in both the statutory audit and the assurance of sustainability reporting, it is necessary to extend those requirements to the assurance of sustainability reporting.
- (67) Regulation (EU) No 537/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁴⁰ applies to statutory auditors and audit firms carrying out statutory audits of public-interest entities. To ensure the independence of the statutory auditor when carrying out a statutory audit, that Regulation establishes a limit to the fees for other services that he or she can obtain. It is important to clarify that the assurance of sustainability reporting should not count in the calculation of that limit. In addition, Article 5 of that Regulation prohibits the provision of certain non-audit services over certain time periods when the statutory auditor is carrying out the financial audit. Services related to the preparation of sustainability reporting, including any consulting services, ■ should also be ■ considered as prohibited services over the time period prescribed in the Regulation. These prohibitions should apply in all cases where the statutory auditor carries out the statutory audit of financial statements. To ensure the independence of the statutory auditor, certain non-audit services should also be prohibited when he or she is carrying out the assurance of sustainability reporting. Article 7 of Regulation (EU) No 537/2014 requires statutory auditors to report irregularities to the audited entity and, under certain circumstances, to authorities as designated by the Member States responsible for investigating such irregularities. These obligations should also be extended as appropriate to statutory auditors and audit firms as regards their work on the assurance of sustainability reporting of public-interest entities.

- (70) Article 24 of Directive 2004/109/EC assigns to national supervisors the task of enforcing compliance with corporate reporting requirements by undertakings with securities listed on regulated markets. Article 4 of that Directive specifies the content of the annual financial reports, but lacks an explicit reference to Articles 19a and 29a of Directive 2013/34/EU, which require the preparation of a (consolidated) non-financial statement. This implies that national competent authorities of some Member States have no legal mandate to supervise those non-financial statements, especially where those statements are published in a separate report, outside of the annual financial report, which Member States may currently allow. It is therefore necessary to insert into Article 4(5) of Directive 2004/109/EC a reference to sustainability reporting. It is also necessary to require that the persons responsible within the issuer confirm in the annual financial report that, to the best of their knowledge, the management report is prepared in accordance with the sustainability reporting standards. In addition, given the novel character of those reporting requirements, the European Securities and Markets Authority should issue guidelines for national competent authorities to promote convergent supervision of sustainability reporting by issuers subject to Directive 2004/109/EC. These guidelines should only apply to the supervision of undertakings with securities listed on regulated markets.

(71a) The Commission shall submit a report to the European Parliament and to the Council on the implementation of this Directive, including, among other aspects:

- an assessment of the achievement of the goals of this Directive, including the convergence of reporting practices between Member States;

- an assessment of the number of SMEs using voluntary reporting standards referred to in Article 29c;

- an assessment of whether and how the scope should be further extended, in particular in relation to SMEs and to third-country undertakings operating directly on the EU Single Market without a European subsidiary or a European branch;

- an assessment of the implementation of the reporting requirements on branches and subsidiaries of third country undertakings introduced by this directive, including an assessment of the number of third country undertakings which have a subsidiary or a branch reporting according to Article 40a; an assessment of the enforcement mechanism and of the thresholds set out in that Article;

- an assessment of whether and how to ensure the accessibility for people with disabilities to the sustainability reports published by undertakings under the scope of this Directive

The report shall be published by 30 April 2029 and every three years thereafter, and shall be accompanied, if appropriate, by legislative proposals.

By December 2028, the Commission shall review and report on the level of concentration of the sustainability assurance market. The review shall take into account the national regimes applicable to independent assurance services providers and assess whether and to what extent these national regimes contribute to opening the assurance market.

By December 2028, the Commission shall assess possible legal measures to ensure sufficient diversification of the sustainability assurance market and appropriate sustainability reporting quality.
