EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. In the context of a people's Europe, the Commission attaches great importance to simplifying and clarifying the law of the Union so as to make it clearer and more accessible to citizens, thus giving them new opportunities and the chance to make use of the specific rights it gives them.

This aim cannot be achieved so long as numerous provisions that have been amended several times, often quite substantially, remain scattered, so that they must be sought partly in the original instrument and partly in later amending ones. Considerable research work, comparing many different instruments, is thus needed to identify the current rules.

For this reason, a codification of rules that have frequently been amended is also essential if the law is to be clear and transparent.

- 2. On 1 April 1987 the Commission decided<sup>1</sup> to instruct its staff that all acts should be codified after no more than ten amendments, stressing that this is a minimum requirement and that departments should endeavour to codify at even shorter intervals the texts for which they are responsible, to ensure that their provisions are clear and readily understandable.
- 3. The Conclusions of the Presidency of the Edinburgh European Council (December 1992) confirmed this<sup>2</sup>, stressing the importance of codification as it offers certainty as to the law applicable to a given matter at a given time.

Codification must be undertaken in full compliance with the normal procedure for the adoption of acts of the Union.

Given that no changes of substance may be made to the instruments affected by codification, the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission agreed, by an interinstitutional agreement dated 20 December 1994, that an accelerated procedure may be used for the fast-track adoption of codification instruments.

- 4. The purpose of this proposal is to undertake a codification of Council Regulation (EC) No 6/2002 of 12 December 2001 on European Union designs<sup>3</sup>. The new Regulation will supersede the various acts incorporated in it<sup>4</sup>; this proposal fully preserves the content of the acts being codified and hence does no more than bring them together with only such formal adaptations as are required by the codification exercise itself.
- 5. The codification proposal was drawn up on the basis of a preliminary consolidation, in all official languages, of Regulation (EC) No 6/2002 and the instruments amending it, carried out by the Publications Office of the European Union, by means of a data-processing system. Where the Articles have been given new numbers, the correlation between the old and the new numbers is shown in a table set out in Annex III to the codified Regulation.

REGULATION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

on European Union designs (codification)

(Text with EEA relevance)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty  $\boxtimes$  on the Functioning of the European Union , and in particular Article 118, first paragraph, thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee<sup>5</sup>,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

(1) Council Regulation (EC) No 6/2002<sup>6</sup> has been substantially amended several times<sup>7</sup>. In the interests of clarity and rationality, that Regulation should be codified.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 1 (adapted)

(2) Regulation (EC) No 6/2002 created a system of design protection specific to the European Community ⊠, now the European Union, ⊠ which has since then provided for the protection of designs at Union level in parallel to the protection of designs available at national level in Member States in accordance with their national law on design protection, harmonised pursuant to Directive 98/71/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>8</sup>.

♦ 6/2002 recital 7 (adapted)

(3) Protection for industrial design not only promotes the contribution of individual designers to the ⊠ achievement ⊠ of ⊠ Union ⊠ excellence in the field, but also encourages innovation and development of new products and investment in their production.

♦ 6/2002 recital 8 (adapted)

(4) Consequently is an ∞ accessible design-protection system adapted to the needs of the internal market is essential for industries.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 4 (adapted)

(5) Since the establishment of the Community design system  $\boxtimes$ , now the European Union design ('EU design') system,  $\bigotimes$  experience has shown that individual designers and undertakings from within the Union and from third countries have accepted the system and it has become a successful and viable complement or alternative to the protection of designs at the national level of the Member States.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 6 (adapted)

(6) National design protection systems continue nevertheless to be necessary for those individual designers and undertakings that do not want  $\boxtimes$  the  $\bigotimes$  protection of their designs at Union level, or are unable to obtain Union-wide protection, even though they do not face any obstacles for obtaining national protection. It should be left to each person seeking design protection to decide what kind of protection they wish to obtain, be it a national design right in one or more Member States, an EU design only, or both.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 8 (adapted)

(7) National design laws and practices should be in line with the EU design system to the extent appropriate, in order to  $\boxtimes$  lay down  $\langle \boxtimes \rangle$ , as far as possible, equal conditions for the registration and protection of designs throughout the Union. This should be complemented by efforts of the European Union Intellectual Property Office ('the Office'), the central industrial property offices of the Member States and the Benelux Office for Intellectual Property to promote convergence of practices and tools in the field of designs under the cooperation framework laid down in Regulation (EU) 2017/1001 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>9</sup>.

<sup>9</sup>

Regulation (EU) 2017/1001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 14 June 2017 on theEuropeanUniontrademark(OJL 154,16.6.2017,p. 1,ELI:http://data.europa.eu/eli/reg/2017/1001/oj).

↓ 2024/2822 recital 10

(8) As a complement to the administration of the EU design system, it is essential that the Office adequately promote that system with a view to raising awareness and improving understanding of the possibility, value and benefits of obtaining and using design protection at Union level.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 11 (adapted)

(9) Since the establishment of the Community design system, the rise of information technology has entailed the advent of new designs which are not embodied in physical products. The definition of products eligible for design protection is should in a physical object, or visualised in a graphic, or that are apparent from the spatial arrangement of items intended to form an interior or exterior environment. In this context, it should be recognised that animation, such as movement or transition, of the features of a product can contribute to the appearance of designs, in particular designs that are not embodied in a physical object.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 12 (adapted)

(10) In order to ensure legal certainty, it is appropriate to ≥ provide ≤ that protection is conferred upon the right holder, by way of registration of an EU design, for those design features of a product, in whole or in part, which are shown visibly in an application for registration of such design and made available to the public by way of publication.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 13 (adapted)

(11) Apart from being shown visibly in an application for registration of an EU design, design features of a product do not need to be visible at any particular time or in any particular situation of use in order to benefit from design protection. An exception to that principle S should apply S to the design protection of component parts of a complex product that need to remain visible during normal use of that product.

↓ 6/2002 recital 14 (adapted)

(12) The assessment as to whether a design has individual character should be based on whether the overall impression produced on an informed user viewing the design clearly differs from that produced on  $\boxtimes$  such a user  $\bigotimes$  by the existing design corpus, taking into consideration the nature of the product to which the design is applied or in which it is incorporated, and in particular the industrial sector to which it belongs and the degree of freedom of the designer in developing the design.

↓ 6/2002 recital 10

(13) Technological innovation should not be hampered by granting design protection to features dictated solely by a technical function. It is understood that this does not entail that a design must have an aesthetic quality. Likewise, the interoperability of products of different makes should not be hindered by extending protection to the design of mechanical fittings. Consequently, those features of a design which are excluded from protection for those reasons should not be taken into consideration for the purpose of assessing whether other features of the design fulfil the requirements for protection.

(14) The mechanical fittings of modular products may nevertheless constitute an important element of the innovative characteristics of modular products and present a major marketing asset, and therefore should be eligible for protection.

↓ 6/2002 recital 15 (adapted)

(15) An EU design should, as far as possible, serve the needs of all sectors of industry in the Union .

↓ 6/2002 recital 16

(16) Some of those sectors produce large numbers of designs for products frequently having a short market life where protection without the burden of registration formalities is an advantage and the duration of protection is of lesser significance. On the other hand, there are sectors of industry which value the advantages of registration for the greater legal certainty it provides, and which require the possibility of a longer term of protection corresponding to the foreseeable market life of their products.

↓ 6/2002 recital 17

(17) This calls for two forms of protection, one being a short-term unregistered design, and the other being a longer term registered design.

↓ 6/2002 recital 18 (adapted)

(18) A registered ≥ EU ≥ design requires the maintenance of a Register in which will be registered all those applications which comply with formal conditions, and which have been accorded a date of filing. This registration system should in principle not be based upon substantive examination as to compliance with requirements for protection prior to registration, thereby keeping to a minimum the registration and other procedural burdens on applicants.

♦ 6/2002 recital 19 (adapted)

(19) An EU An EU An esign should not be upheld unless the design is new, and unless it also possesses an individual character in comparison with other designs.

↓ 6/2002 recital 20 (adapted)

(20) It is also necessary to allow the designer or  $\boxtimes$  the designer's  $\bigotimes$  successor in title to test the products embodying the design in the market place before deciding whether the protection resulting from a registered  $\boxtimes$  EU  $\bigotimes$  design is desirable. To this end it is necessary to provide that disclosures of the design by the designer or  $\boxtimes$  the designer's  $\bigotimes$  successor in title, or abusive disclosures during a period of 12 months prior to the date of the filing of the application for a registered  $\boxtimes$  EU  $\bigotimes$  design should not be prejudicial in assessing the novelty or the individual character of the design in question.

↓ 2024/2822 recital 14

(21) In view of the growing deployment of 3D printing technologies in different areas of industry, including with the help of artificial intelligence, as well as the resulting challenges for design right holders to effectively prevent illegitimate copying of their protected designs, it is appropriate to provide that the creation, downloading, copying and making available of any medium or software which records the design for the purpose of reproduction of a product that infringes the protected design constitutes use of the design which should be subject to the right holder's authorisation.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 15 (adapted)

(22) In order to ensure design protection and combat counterfeiting effectively, and in line with international obligations of the Union under the framework of the World Trade Organization (WTO), in particular Article V to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) on freedom of transit, and, as regards generic medicines, the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health, adopted by the WTO Ministerial Conference on 14 November 2001, the holder of a registered EU design should be entitled to prevent third parties from bringing products, in the course of trade, from third countries into the Union, without being released for free circulation there, where, without ∑ the ⊠ right holder's authorisation, such products incorporate a design which is identical or essentially identical to the registered EU design.

↓ 2024/2822 recital 16

(23) To that end, it should be permissible for holders of registered EU designs to prevent the entry of infringing products and the placement of such products in all customs situations, also when such products are not intended to be placed on the market of the Union. In performing customs controls, the customs authorities should make use of the powers and procedures laid down in Regulation (EU) No 608/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>10</sup>, including at the request of the right holders. In particular, the customs authorities should carry out the relevant controls on the basis of risk analysis criteria.

↓ 2024/2822 recital 17

(24) In order to reconcile the need to ensure the effective enforcement of design rights with the necessity to avoid hampering the free flow of trade in legitimate products, the entitlement of the holder of the registered EU design should lapse where, during proceedings initiated before the European Union design court ('EU design court') that is competent to take a substantive decision on whether the EU design has been infringed, the declarant or the holder of the products is able to prove that the holder of the registered EU design is not entitled to prohibit the placing of the products on the market in the country of final destination.

↓ 6/2002 recital 21 (adapted)

(25) The exclusive nature of the right conferred by the registered ≥ EU ≤ design is consistent with its greater legal certainty. It is appropriate that the unregistered ≥ EU ≤ design should, however, constitute a right only to prevent copying. Protection could not therefore extend to design products which are the result of a design arrived at independently by a second designer. This right should also extend to trade in products embodying infringing designs.

↓ 6/2002 recital 22

(26) The enforcement of these rights is to be left to national laws. It is necessary therefore to provide for some basic uniform sanctions in all Member States. These should make it possible, irrespective of the jurisdiction under which enforcement is sought, to stop the infringing acts.

↓ 2024/2822 recital 18

(27) The exclusive rights conferred by a registered EU design should be subject to an appropriate set of limitations. Apart from acts carried out privately and for non-commercial purposes and those carried out for experimental purposes, permissible use should include acts of reproduction for the purpose of making citations or acts of teaching, referential use in the context of comparative advertising, and use for the purpose of comment, critique or parody, provided that those acts are compatible with fair trade practices and do not unduly prejudice the normal exploitation of the design.

Use of a registered EU design by third parties for the purpose of artistic expression should be considered to be fair as long as it is in accordance with honest practices in industrial and commercial matters. Furthermore, the rules on EU designs should be applied in a way that ensures full respect of fundamental rights and freedoms, in particular the freedom of expression.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 19 (adapted)

Directive (EU) 2024/2823 of the European Parliament and of the Council<sup>11</sup> (28) $\boxtimes$  harmonised  $\bigotimes$  the laws of Member States as regards the use of protected designs for the purpose of permitting the repair of a complex product so as to restore its original appearance, where the design is applied to or incorporated in a product which constitutes a component part of a complex product upon whose appearance the protected design of the component part is dependent. Accordingly, it was considered that  $\bigotimes$  the transitional repair clause  $\bigotimes$  that was previously laid down  $\bigotimes$ in Regulation (EC) No 6/2002 should become a permanent provision. As the intended effect of that repair clause is to make registered and unregistered EU design rights unenforceable where the design of the component part of a complex product is used for the purpose of the repair of a complex product so as to restore its original appearance, the repair clause should be one of the defences to EU design right infringement under  $\boxtimes$  this  $\bigotimes$  Regulation . Furthermore, for the sake of coherence with the repair clause  $\boxtimes$  laid down  $\bigotimes$  in Directive (EU) 2024/2823, and in order to ensure that the scope of design protection is only restricted to prevent design right holders from actually being granted product monopolies, it is necessary to explicitly limit the application of the repair clause  $\boxtimes$  laid down  $\bigotimes$  in  $\boxtimes$  this  $\bigotimes$  Regulation to component parts of a complex product upon whose appearance the protected design is dependent. In addition, in order to ensure that consumers are not mislead and are able to make an informed decision between competing products that can be used for the repair, it should be explicitly provided for that the repair clause cannot be invoked by a manufacturer or seller of a component part who has failed to duly inform consumers about the commercial origin, and the identity of the manufacturer, of the product to be used for the purpose of repair of the complex product. That detailed information should be provided through a clear and visible indication on the product or, where that is not possible, on its packaging or in a document accompanying the product, and should include at least the trade mark under which the product is marketed, and the name of the manufacturer.

↓ 2024/2822 recital 20 (adapted)

(29) With a view to preserving the effectiveness of the liberalisation of the spare parts aftermarket sought by this Regulation and in line with the case law<sup>12</sup> of the Court of Justice of the European Union, in order to be able to benefit from the repair clause exemption from design protection, the manufacturer or seller of a component part of a complex product is under a duty of diligence to ensure, through appropriate means, in particular contractual means, that downstream users do not intend to use the component parts at issue for purposes other than that of repair so as to restore the original appearance of the complex product. This  $\boxtimes$ , however,  $\boxtimes$  should not require the manufacturer or seller of a component part of a complex product to guarantee, objectively and in all circumstances, that the parts they make or sell are, ultimately, actually used by end users for the sole purpose of repair so as to restore the original appearance of that complex product.

$\checkmark$ 6/2002 recital 23 (adapted)

(30)Any third  $\boxtimes$  persons  $\bigotimes$  who can establish that  $\boxtimes$  they have  $\bigotimes$  in good faith commenced use even for commercial purposes within the  $\boxtimes$  Union  $\bigotimes$ , or  $\boxtimes$  have  $\bigotimes$  made serious and effective preparations to that end, of a design included within the scope of protection of a registered  $\boxtimes$  EU  $\bigotimes$  design, which has not been copied from the latter, may be entitled to a limited exploitation of that design.

$\checkmark$ 2024/2822 recital 21 (adapted)

In order to facilitate the marketing of design-protected products, in particular by (31) $\boxtimes$  small and medium-sized enterprises  $\bigotimes$  ('SMEs') and individual designers, and to increase awareness of the design registration regimes existing both at Union and national level, a commonly accepted notice consisting of the symbol should be available for use by design right holders and others with their consent.

$\checkmark$ 6/2002 recital 24 (adapted)

It is a fundamental objective of this Regulation that the procedure for obtaining a (32)registered  $\boxtimes$  EU  $\bigotimes$  design should  $\boxtimes$  entail  $\bigotimes$  the minimum cost and difficulty to applicants, so as to make it readily available to  $\boxtimes$  SMEs  $\bigotimes$  as well as to individual designers.

↓ 2024/2822 recital 22

(33)It should only be possible to file an application for a registered EU design at the Office. In order to facilitate the provision of information and administrative guidance to applicants on the procedure for the registration of EU designs, it is appropriate that the Office and the central industrial property offices of the Member States and the Benelux Office for Intellectual Property cooperate with each other to that end under the cooperation framework laid down in Regulation (EU) 2017/1001.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 24

(34) It is of key importance to provide the appropriate means to allow a clear and precise representation for all designs, which is adaptable to technical advances in relation to the visualisation of designs and the needs of the Union industry. In order to ensure that the same graphic representation can be used for design applications in one or more Member States and for applications for registered EU designs, the Office, the central industrial property offices of the Member States and the Benelux Office for Intellectual Property should be required to cooperate with each other to establish common standards for the formal requirements that the representation has to fulfil.

↓ 6/2002 recital 25 (adapted)

(35) Those sectors of industry producing large numbers of possibly short-lived designs over short periods of time of which only some may be eventually commercialised will find advantage in  $\boxtimes$  using  $\bigotimes$  the unregistered  $\boxtimes$  EU  $\bigotimes$  design. Furthermore, there is also a need for these sectors to have easier recourse to the registered  $\boxtimes$  EU  $\bigotimes$  design. Therefore, the option of combining a number of designs in one multiple application would satisfy that need. However, the designs contained in a multiple application may be dealt with independently of each other for the purposes of enforcement of rights, licensing, rights in rem, levy of execution, insolvency proceedings, surrender, renewal, assignment, deferred publication or declaration of invalidity.

◆ 2024/2822 recital 25 (adapted)

(36) For greater efficiency it is also appropriate to facilitate the filing of multiple applications for registered EU designs by allowing applicants to combine designs in one application without being subject to the condition that the products in which the designs are intended to be incorporated or to which they are intended to be applied all belong to the same class of the International Classification for Industrial Designs established by the Locarno Agreement (1968). However, a maximum limit should be provided for to avoid ⊠ the ⊠ potential abuse of multiple filings.

↓ 6/2002 recital 26 (adapted)

<sup>(37)</sup> The normal publication following registration of  $\boxtimes$  an EU  $\bigotimes$  design could in some cases destroy or jeopardise the success of a commercial operation involving the design. The facility of a deferment of publication for a reasonable period affords a solution in such cases.

↓ 6/2002 recital 27 (adapted)

(38) A procedure for hearing is applications is concerning is the indication of a registered in EU is design in a single place is should is bring savings in costs and time compared with procedures involving different national courts.

↓ 6/2002 recital 28 (adapted)

(39) It is therefore necessary to provide safeguards including a right of appeal to a Board of Appeal, and ultimately to the Court of Justice. Such a procedure is should is assist the development of uniform interpretation of the requirements governing the validity of is EU is designs.

▶ 2024/2822 recital 26

(40) For reasons of efficiency and to streamline proceedings, the means of notification and communication should be electronic only. Nevertheless, it is important that the Office provide appropriate technical guidance and assistance, both online and offline, in order to facilitate the use of electronic means and prevent digital divide.

↓ 6/2002 recital 29 (adapted)

(41) It is essential that the rights conferred by  $\boxtimes$  an EU  $\bigotimes$  design can be enforced in an efficient manner throughout the territory of the  $\boxtimes$  Union  $\bigotimes$ .

↓ 6/2002 recital 30

(42) The litigation system should avoid as far as possible 'forum shopping'. It is therefore necessary to establish clear rules of international jurisdiction.

↓ 6/2002 recital 31 (adapted)

(43) This Regulation does not preclude the application to designs protected by ≥ EU ≤ designs of the industrial property laws or other relevant laws of the Member States, such as those relating to design protection acquired by registration or those relating to unregistered designs, trade marks, patents and utility models, unfair competition or civil liability.

In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, the European Parliament and the Council receive all documents at the same time as Member States' experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts.

Requirements for protection

◆ 2024/2822 Article 1, point 10

1. A design shall be protected by an EU design, if it is new and has individual character.

 ▶ 1 2024/2822 Article 1, point 3
 ▶ 2 2024/2822 Article 1, point 5

2. A design applied to or incorporated  $\boxtimes$  into  $\bigotimes$  a product which constitutes a component part of a complex product shall only be considered to be new and to have individual character:

- (a) if the component part, once it has been incorporated into the complex product, remains visible during normal use of the latter; and
- (b) to the extent that those visible features of the component part fulfil in themselves the requirements as to novelty and individual character.

3. 'Normal use' within the meaning of paragraph 2, point (a), shall mean use by the end user, excluding maintenance, servicing or repair work.

Article 6

Novelty

1. A design shall be considered to be new if no identical design has been made available to the public:

- (a) in the case of an unregistered  $\rightarrow_1$  EU design  $\leftarrow$ , before the date on which the design for which protection is claimed has first been made available to the public;
- (b) in the case of a registered  $\rightarrow_1$  EU design  $\leftarrow$ , before the date of filing of the application for registration of the design for which protection is claimed, or, if priority is claimed, the date of priority.
- 2. Designs shall be deemed to be identical if their features differ only in immaterial details.

◆ 2024/2822 Article 1, point 11

2. ## Claims relating to the entitlement to an EU design

1. If an unregistered EU design is disclosed or claimed by a person who is not entitled to it under Article 14 or if a registered EU design has been applied for or registered in the name of such a person, the person entitled to it under that Article may, without prejudice to any other remedy which may be open to that person, claim before the competent court or authority of the Member State concerned recognition as the legitimate holder of the EU design. 2. Where a person is jointly entitled to an EU design, that person may, in accordance with paragraph 1, claim recognition as joint holder.

3. Proceedings under paragraphs 1 or 2 shall be barred three years after the date of publication of a registered EU design or the date of disclosure of an unregistered EU design. This provision shall not apply if the person who is not entitled to the EU design was acting in bad faith at the time when such design was applied for, disclosed or acquired.

4. The person entitled to an EU design under Article 14 may submit a request, pursuant to paragraph 1 of this Article, for a change of ownership to the Office, together with a final decision of the competent court or authority of the Member State concerned on the entitlement to the EU design.

1. Where there is a complete change of ownership of a registered EU design as a result of proceedings under Article 15(1), licences and other rights shall lapse upon the entry in the Register of the new holder of the registered EU design.

2. If, before the institution of proceedings under Article 15(1) has been registered, the holder or a licensee of the registered EU design has exploited the design within the Union or made serious and effective preparations to do so, that holder or licensee may continue such exploitation provided that they request, within a period of three months of the date of the entry in the Register of the new holder, a non-exclusive licence from the new holder whose name is entered in the Register. The licence shall be granted for a reasonable period and upon reasonable terms.

3. The holder of a registered EU design shall be entitled to prevent all third parties from bringing products, in the course of trade, from third countries into the Union, that are not released for free circulation in the Union, where the design is identically incorporated in or applied to those products, or the design cannot be distinguished in its essential aspects from such products, and the right holder's authorisation has not been given.

The right referred to in the first subparagraph of this paragraph shall lapse, if, during proceedings to determine whether the EU design has been infringed, initiated in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 608/2013, evidence is provided by the declarant or the holder of the products that the holder of the registered EU design is not entitled to prohibit the placing of the products on the market in the country of final destination.

4. The holder of an unregistered EU design shall be entitled to prevent acts referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 only if the contested use results from copying the protected design.

The contested use referred to in the first subparagraph shall not be deemed to result from copying the unregistered EU design if it results from an independent work of creation by a designer who may be reasonably thought not to be familiar with the design made available to the public by the holder.

5. Paragraph 4 of this Article shall also apply to a registered EU design subject to deferment of publication as long as the relevant entries in the Register and the file have not been made available to the public in accordance with Article 62(4).

2. Paragraph 1 shall not be invoked by the manufacturer or the seller of a component part of a complex product who failed to duly inform consumers, through a clear and visible indication on the product or in another appropriate form, about the commercial origin, and the identity of the manufacturer, of the product to be used for the purpose of the repair of the complex product, so that they can make an informed choice between competing products that can be used for the repair.

3. The manufacturer or seller of a component part of a complex product shall not be required to guarantee that the component parts they make or sell are ultimately used by end users for the sole purpose of repair so as to restore the original appearance of the complex product.

Every filing that, under the national law of the State where it was made or under bilateral or multilateral agreements, is sufficient to establish the date on which the application was filed, whatever the outcome of the application may be, shall be recognised as giving rise to a right of priority.

3. A subsequent application for a design which was the subject of a previous first application, and which is filed in or in respect of the same State, shall be considered to be the first application for the purpose of determining priority, provided that, at the date of the filing of the subsequent application, the previous application has been withdrawn, abandoned or refused without being open to public inspection and without leaving any rights outstanding, and has not served as a basis for claiming a right of priority.
