Statement by Cyprus, the Czech Republic, Hungary, Lithuania, Poland, the Slovak Republic and Slovenia The abovementioned Member States recognise the contribution of cohesion policy instruments to promoting energy efficiency and the use of renewable energy. At the same time, they attach great importance to the positive economic effect of such measures on overall demand, in line with the European Recovery Plan. Therefore the abovementioned Member States support the European Commission's proposal to allow the setting up of dedicated financial engineering instruments in support of such actions. Since in the 2007-2013 period the Cohesion Fund may also contribute to measures in the field of energy efficiency and renewable energies, and not just through large-scale infrastructure investments, the abovementioned Member States oppose limiting the use of such financial engineering instruments to the structural funds. It should be stressed that, on the basis of the current regulations, there are no substantial reasons why the Cohesion Fund should not be allowed to also use financial engineering instruments for an objective it is already contributing to. Furthermore, such limitation is also unfair to countries where energy efficiency measures are primarily financed from the Cohesion Fund and not the ERDF, which, at the current stage of implementation of the NSRF, can no longer be corrected. Significant Cohesion Fund resources could also be used to facilitate spending on future oriented action in this field, thus enhancing the contribution of cohesion policy instruments to the recovery of regional and national economies in line with the long-term objectives of the Community.

Statement by the Czech Republic, Poland and the Slovak Republic Cohesion policy is a long-term development policy. Applying any kind of short-term criteria, targeting, for example, the yearly change in GDP and the current budgetary situation, undermines significantly the long-term, anti-cyclical and structural orientation of that policy. We believe that its instruments should be used first and foremost to achieve its goals. The current financial and economic crisis influences the Member States' economies and their ability to participate in the cohesion policy in many different ways – in some cases its negative consequences may be fully unveiled only later. The European Commission's original proposal regarding advances and 2007 commitments included appropriate solutions for Member States' situations and the cohesion policy's long term objectives. Many Member States have a rising profile in terms of commitments, which means that each year they have to secure more and more national resources for co financing in the critical years ahead. The focus on long-term strategic objectives remains crucial for cohesion policy and should not be put at risk by any immediate, short-term actions limited to only a few Member States. In our view, the currently proposed financial part of the regulatory package does not provide fully appropriate solutions to problems which some Member States will have to tackle in 2013 due to parallel implementation of N+3 and N+2 rules. All the Member States undersigned also declare that the current modifications do not prejudice the outcome of any possible future debate on simplification of cohesion policy implementation.

Statement by the Council The Council would refer to the statement it made on 15 December 2009 concerning the Commission communication of 9 December 2009 on the implementation of Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union. Statement by the Netherlands with regard to the reservation on non human primates The Netherlands would like to thank the Presidency and former Presidencies for their efforts in this matter. The Netherlands regrets the fact that the text provides for a derogation allowing the use of non human primates in research with regard to human beings for purposes other than the prevention and cure of serious diseases. However, the Netherlands does consider that the proposal constitutes an improvement for the well being of test animals in the EU and a contribution to a level playing field for scientific research. The Netherlands can therefore agree to this text.

Statement of the European Parliament, the Council and the Commission on Article 290 TFEU The European Parliament, the Council and the Commission declare that the provisions of this Directive shall be without prejudice to any future position of the institutions as regards the implementation of Article 290 TFEU or individual legislative acts containing such provisions. Statement of the European Commission (Urgency) The European Commission undertakes to keep the European Parliament and the Council fully informed on the possibility of a delegated act being adopted under the urgency procedure. As soon as the Commission's services foresee that a delegated act might be adopted under the urgency procedure, they will informally warn the secretariats of the European Parliament and of the Council. Statement of the Netherlands Explanation of Vote on the Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on standards of quality and safety of human organs intended for transplantation The Netherlands takes the position that the European Union goes beyond its legislative powers in accepting recital 19 and the provisions of article 13 of the Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on standards of quality and safety of human organs intended for transplantation. Recital 19 and Article 13 conflict with article 168, paragraph 4 (a), in conjunction with article 168, paragraph 7 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union. In this case, the Netherlands accepts the Union's exceeding its powers, in the interests of establishing European regulations in this area. The Netherlands does, however, wish to emphasise that this should not be seen as setting a precedent.

Statement by the Council and the Commission The Council and the Commission confirm that the Genval criteria, as reviewed by the Council (Ecofin) on 08.10.02, remain the principles on which any future macrofinancial assistance should continue to be based upon. Statement by the Council In giving its consent, the Council wishes to emphasise the fact that the joint decision in favour of macro-financial assistance for Ukraine can be taken in advance of concrete results from the deliberations between the IMF and Ukraine only as an exception and does not, therefore, constitute a precedent. In giving its consent, the Council also wishes to emphasise the fact that in view of the general review of the Comitology Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999, the envisaged creation of a (solely) advisory committee to monitor implementation of macro-financial assistance for Ukraine does not set forth a precedent for other legislative proposals. The Council supports further discussions with the European Parliament to agree on a joint approach to the macro-financial assistance in the light of the Genval criteria in the version of 8 October 2002.

2010/364/: Council Decision of 24 June 2010 on the conclusion of the Agreement between the European Community and the Council of Ministers of the Republic of Albania on certain aspects of air services 8531/10
Joint Statement by the Council and the Commission Inter alia for pragmatic reasons, it is preferable that the Community alone should conclude the Agreements with the Republic of Albania and Bosnia and Herzegovina on certain aspects of air services. The same considerations would apply in respect of similar agreements as long as they are concluded in accordance with and within the limits of the mandate on the replacement of certain provisions in existing bilateral agreements adopted by the Council Decision of 5 June 2003. These Decisions do not constitute a precedent as to the exercise of the respective competencies of the Community and its Member States in respect of agreements other than those referred to above, such as, for example, agreements of the type envisaged by the Council Decision of 5 June 2003 authorising the Commission to open negotiations with the United States in the field of air transport, which shall be concluded as mixed agreements. These Decisions do not create any new Community competences as far as external agreements on air services are concerned, nor do they affect the division of competences between the Community and its Member States.
