Proposal for a

DIRECTIVE OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL
on improving working conditions in platform work

(Text with EEA relevance)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 153 (2), point (b), in conjunction with Article 153 (1), point (b), and Article 16(2) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the Committee of the Regions²,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

- (1) Pursuant to Article 3 of the Treaty on European Union, the objectives of the Union are, amongst others, to promote the well-being of its peoples and to work for the sustainable development of Europe based on a highly competitive social market economy, aiming at full employment and social progress.

- (2) [...] Article 31 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union ('the Charter') provides for the right of every worker to working conditions which respect his or her health, safety and dignity. Article 27 of the Charter protects the workers' right to information and consultation within the undertaking. Article 8 of the Charter provides that everyone has the right to the protection of personal data concerning him or her. Article 16 of the Charter recognises the freedom to conduct a business.
- (3) Principle No 5 of the European Pillar of Social Rights, proclaimed at Gothenburg on 17 November 2017³, provides that, regardless of the type and duration of the employment relationship, workers have the right to fair and equal treatment regarding working conditions, access to social protection and training; that, in accordance with legislation and collective agreements, the necessary flexibility for employers to adapt swiftly to changes in the economic context is to be ensured; [...] that innovative forms of work that ensure quality working conditions are to be fostered, that entrepreneurship and self-employment are to be encouraged and that occupational mobility is to be facilitated; and that employment relationships that lead to precarious working conditions are to be prevented, including by prohibiting abuse of atypical contracts. The Porto Social Summit of May 2021 welcomed the Action Plan accompanying the Social Pillar⁴[...].
- (4) Digitalisation is changing the world of work, improving productivity and enhancing flexibility, while also carrying some risks for employment and working conditions. Algorithm-based technologies, including automated monitoring or decision-making systems, have enabled the emergence and growth of digital labour platforms.

- (5) Platform work is performed by individuals through the digital infrastructure of digital labour platforms that provide a service to their customers. By means of the algorithms, the digital labour platforms may control, to a lesser or greater extent – depending on their business model – the performance of the work, its remuneration and the relationship between their customers and the persons performing the work. Platform work can be performed exclusively online through electronic tools (‘online platform work’) or in a hybrid way combining an online communication process with a subsequent activity in the physical world (‘on-location platform work’). Many of the existing digital labour platforms are international business actors deploying their activities and business models in several Member States or across borders.
- (6) Platform work can provide opportunities for accessing the labour market more easily, gaining additional income through a secondary activity or enjoying some flexibility in the organisation of working time. At the same time, platform work brings challenges, as it can blur the boundaries between employment relationship and self-employed activity, and the responsibilities of employers and workers. Misclassification of the employment status has consequences for the persons affected, as it is likely to restrict access to existing labour [...] rights. It also leads to an uneven playing field with respect to businesses that classify their workers correctly, and it has implications for Member States’ industrial relations systems, their tax base and the coverage and sustainability of their social protection systems. While such challenges are broader than platform work, they are particularly acute and pressing in the platform economy.

- (7) Court cases in several Member States have shown the persistence of misclassification of the employment status in certain types of platform work, in particular in sectors where digital labour platforms exert a certain degree of control over the remuneration and performance of work. While digital labour platforms frequently classify persons working through them as self-employed or ‘independent contractors’, many courts have found that the platforms exercise de facto direction and control over those persons, often integrating them in their main business activities and unilaterally determining the level of remuneration. Those courts have therefore reclassified purportedly self-employed persons as workers employed by the platforms. [...]
- (8) Automated monitoring or decision-making systems powered by algorithms increasingly replace functions that managers usually perform in businesses, such as allocating tasks, giving instructions, evaluating the work performed, providing incentives or imposing sanctions. Digital labour platforms use such algorithmic systems as a standard way of organising and managing platform work through their infrastructure. Persons performing platform work subject to such algorithmic management often lack information on how the algorithms work, which personal data are being used and how their behaviour affects decisions taken by automated systems. Workers’ representatives and labour inspectorates do not have access to this information either. Moreover, persons performing platform work often do not know the reasons for decisions taken or supported by automated systems and lack the possibility to discuss those decisions with a contact person or to contest them.
- (9) When platforms operate in several Member States or across borders, it is often unclear where the platform work is performed and by whom. Also, national authorities do not have easy access to data on digital labour platforms, including the number of persons performing platform work, their employment status, and their working conditions. This complicates the enforcement of applicable rules [...].

- (10) A body of legal instruments provides for minimum standards in working conditions and labour rights across the Union. This includes in particular Directive (EU) 2019/1152 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁵ on transparent and predictable working conditions, Directive 2003/88/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁶ on working time, Directive 2008/104/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁷ on temporary agency work, and other specific instruments on aspects such as health and safety at work, pregnant workers, work-life balance, fixed-term work, part-time work, posting of workers, [...] among others. [...]
- (11) Council Recommendation 2019/C 387/01⁸ on access to social protection for workers and the self-employed recommends Member States to take measures ensuring formal and effective coverage, adequacy and transparency of social protection schemes for all workers and self-employed. [...]
- (12) Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁹ ('General Data Protection Regulation') ensures the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data, and in particular provides certain rights and obligations as well as safeguards concerning lawful, fair and transparent processing of personal data, including with regard to automated individual decision-making.

12a(new) Regulation (EU) 2019/1150 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁰ promotes fairness and transparency for ‘business users’ using online intermediation services provided by operators of online platforms. [The European Commission has proposed further legislation laying down harmonised rules for providers and users of artificial intelligence systems]¹¹.

12b(new) Directive 2002/14/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing a general framework for informing and consulting employees in the European Community establishes a general framework setting out minimum requirements for the right to information and consultation of employees in undertakings or establishments within the Union.

- (13) While existing [...] Union legal acts provide for certain general safeguards, challenges in platform work require some further specific measures. In order to adequately frame the development of platform work in a sustainable manner, it is necessary for the Union to set [...] minimum standards [...] to address the challenges arising from platform work. Measures facilitating the correct determination of the employment status of persons performing platform work in the Union should be [...] introduced, and transparency on platform work should be improved, including in cross-border situations. In addition, persons performing platform work should be provided a number of rights aiming at promoting transparency, fairness and accountability in algorithmic management [...]. This should be done with a view to improving legal certainty and aiming at a level playing field between digital labour platforms and offline providers of services and supporting the sustainable growth of digital labour platforms in the Union.

- (14) The Commission has undertaken a two-stage consultation of the social partners, in accordance with Article 154 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, on the improvement of working conditions in platform work. There was no agreement among the social partners to enter into negotiations with regard to those matters. It is, however, important to take action at Union level in this area by adapting the current legal framework to the emergence of platform work.
- (15) In addition, the Commission held extensive exchanges with relevant stakeholders, including digital labour platforms, associations of persons performing platform work, experts from academia, Member States and international organisations and representatives of civil society.
- (15a) This Directive aims to improve the working conditions of platform workers and to protect the personal data of persons performing platform work by regulating the use of algorithmic management in the context of platform work. Both objectives [...] are mutually reinforcing and both contribute to improving the situation of persons performing platform work. As regards Article 153(1)(b) TFEU, this Directive sets out rules aimed at supporting the correct determination of the employment status of persons performing platform work and improving transparency on platform work, including in cross-border situation. As regards Article 16 TFEU, this Directive establishes a framework to improve the protection of natural persons performing platform work regarding the processing of their personal data by increasing transparency, fairness and accountability of relevant algorithmic management procedures in platform work.
- (16) This Directive should apply to every person[...] performing platform work in the Union [...], independently from their employment status [...]. [...]
- (17) This Directive should establish mandatory rules that apply to all digital labour platforms, irrespective of their place of establishment and irrespective of the law otherwise applicable, provided that the platform work organised through that digital labour platform is performed in the Union. [...]

(18) Digital labour platforms differ from other online platforms in that they use automated monitoring or decision-making systems to organise work performed by individuals at the request, one-off or repeated, of the recipient of a service provided by the platform. Organising work performed by individuals should imply at a minimum a significant role in matching the demand for the service with the supply of work by an individual who has a contractual relationship with the digital labour platform and who is available to perform a specific task. This can include other activities such as processing payments. Online platforms which do not organise the work performed by individuals but merely provide the means by which service providers can reach the end-user, for instance by advertising offers or requests for services or aggregating and displaying available service providers in a specific area, without any further involvement, should not be considered a digital labour platform. The definition of digital labour platforms should not include providers of a service whose primary purpose is to exploit or share assets, such as short-term rental of accommodation, or to resell goods or services, nor those who organise the activities of non-paid volunteers[...]. It should be limited to providers of a service for which the organisation of work performed by the individual, such as transport of persons or goods or cleaning, constitutes a necessary and essential and not merely a minor and purely ancillary component.

(18a) In some cases, persons performing platform work do not have a direct contractual relationship with the digital labour platform, but are in a relationship with an intermediary through which they perform platform work for a digital labour platform. As these persons are exposed to the same risks in terms of misclassification of their employment status and automated monitoring or decision-making systems, they should be granted the same rights under this Directive as persons performing platform work who have a direct contractual relationship with the digital labour platform. To that end, Member States should take the necessary measures. They should in particular decide for each of the different forms of intermediation, whether the digital labour platform, the intermediary or both are responsible for the obligations arising from this Directive

(18b) While the provisions of this Directive concerning health and safety and information and consultation only provides for obligations of employers, a digital labour platform that is not the employer of a platform worker, should actively support the intermediary who is the employer of that platform worker in fulfilling the obligations pursuant to those provisions, in particular by providing all necessary information and by taking appropriate follow-up measures as regards the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems.

(18c) Member States should ensure that the measures taken to protect persons performing platform work through intermediaries are in line with existing Union legislation and in particular Articles 26 and 28 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 on joint controllers and processors and, where relevant, the Directive (EU) 2008/104/EC on temporary agency work.

(19) To combat false self-employment in platform work and to facilitate the correct determination of the employment status, Member States should have appropriate procedures in place to prevent and address misclassification of the employment status of persons performing platform work. The aim of those procedures should be to ascertain the existence of an employment relationship as defined by national law, collective agreements or practice with consideration to the case-law of the Court of Justice, and, where such employment relationship exists, to ensure full compliance with Union law applicable to workers as well as national labour law and collective agreements[...]. Where self-employment or an intermediate employment status – as defined at national level – is the correct employment status, rights and obligations pursuant to that status should apply.

- (20) In its case law, the Court of Justice has established criteria for determining the status of a worker¹². [...] Those criteria should be taken into account in the implementation of this Directive. The abuse of the status of self-employed persons [...], either at national level or in cross-border situations, is a form of falsely declared work that is frequently associated with undeclared work. False self-employment occurs when a person is declared to be self-employed while fulfilling the conditions characteristic of an employment relationship [...]. The Court of Justice has ruled that the classification of a self-employed person under national law does not prevent that person from being classified as a worker within the meaning of Union law if their independence is merely notional, thereby disguising an employment relationship.
- (21) The principle of primacy of facts, meaning that the determination of the existence of an employment relationship should be guided primarily by the facts relating to the actual performance of work, including its remuneration, and not by the parties' description of the relationship, in accordance with the 2006 Employment Relationship Recommendation (No 198) of the International Labour Organisation, is particularly relevant in the case of platform work, where contractual conditions are often unilaterally determined by one party.
- (22) When the existence of an employment relationship is established based on facts, the party acting as employer should be clearly identified and that party should fulfil all the obligations resulting from its role as employer.

- (23) Ensuring correct determination of the employment status should not prevent the improvement of [...]conditions of genuine self-employed persons performing platform work. Where a digital labour platform decides – on a purely voluntary basis or in agreement with the persons concerned – to pay for social protection, accident insurance or other forms of insurance, training measures or similar benefits to self-employed persons working through that platform, those benefits as such should not be regarded as determining elements indicating the existence of an employment relationship.
- (24) Direction and control, or legal subordination, is an essential element of the definition of an employment relationship in the Member States and in the case-law of the Court of Justice. When digital labour platforms [...]control [...]the execution of work, they act like employers in an employment relationship. Therefore, contractual relationships [...]of this kind should be deemed, by virtue of a legal presumption, to be an employment relationship between the platform and the person performing platform work through it. As a result, the digital labour platform should treat the person performing platform work [...]as a worker having all the rights and obligations stemming from Union law in accordance with that status [...], unless the digital labour platform decides to rebut the presumption. [...] the rest of this recital has been moved to recitals 25d and 28a]

- (25) Criteria indicating that a digital labour platform [...] controls the execution of work and that this person is likely to have the employment status of “worker” should be included in the Directive in order to make the legal presumption operational and facilitate the enforcement of workers’ rights. Those criteria should be inspired by Union and national case law [...]. The criteria should include concrete elements showing that the digital labour platform either de facto or de iure [...] determines [...] the remuneration [...], requires the respect of rules with regard to appearance or conduct, gives instructions on how the work is to be performed or thoroughly verifies the quality of the results of that work, including through electronic means, which does not merely consist in using reviews or ratings by the recipients of the service, restricts the discretion to choose working hours or periods of absence, to refuse tasks, to use subcontractors or substitutes or prevents the person performing platform work from developing business contacts with potential clients, including by using a number of conditions or through a system of sanctions. [...] At the same time, the criteria should not cover situations where the persons performing platform work are genuine self-employed. Genuine self-employed persons are themselves responsible vis-à-vis their customers for how they perform their work and the quality of their outputs. The freedom to choose working hours or periods of absence, to refuse tasks, to use subcontractors or substitutes or not to be limited in working for any third party is one of the characteristics of genuine self-employment. [...]
- (25b) In order for the presumption to be effective in practice, three of the criteria indicating that [...]the person[...] performing platform work might be considered a worker should be always fulfilled to trigger its application. The purpose of these criteria is to provide a set of easily understandable indications that point to the probable existence of an employment relationship and thus facilitate the access of the person performing platform work to the rights derived from the existence of an employment relationship by means of the legal presumption.
- (25c) Measures or rules which are required by law or which are necessary to safeguard the health and safety of the recipients of the service should not be understood as indicating that a person performing platform should be considered a worker.

(25d) In order to ensure access to Union law applicable to workers, the legal presumption should apply in all relevant administrative or judicial proceedings where the employment status of the person performing platform work is at stake. Nothing in this Directive should prevent Member States from applying that presumption in other administrative or judicial proceedings or from recognising the results of proceedings in which the presumption has been applied for the purposes of providing rights to reclassified workers under other areas of law.

[...recitals 26 and 27 moved to 28c and 28d]

(28) The relationship between a person performing platform work and a digital labour platform may not meet the requirements of an employment relationship in accordance with the definition laid down in the law, collective agreements or practice in force of the respective Member State with consideration to the case-law of the Court of Justice, even though criteria indicate that a person performing platform work might have the employment status of a “worker”. In legal or administrative proceedings, where the question of the employment status of a person performing platform work is at stake, Member States should ensure the possibility to rebut the legal presumption [...] [...] by proving, on the basis of the aforementioned definition, that the relationship in question is not an employment relationship. [...] Digital labour platforms have a complete overview of all factual elements determining the legal nature of the relationship, in particular the algorithms through which they manage their operations. Therefore, they should have the burden of proof where they argue that the contractual relationship in question is not an employment relationship. In addition, when the person performing platform work who is the subject of the presumption seeks to rebut the legal presumption, the digital labour platform should be required to assist that person, notably by providing all relevant information held by the platform in respect of that person. [...] A successful rebuttal of the presumption in administrative proceedings or in judicial proceedings of lower instances should not preclude the application of the presumption in subsequent judicial proceedings or appeals, in conformity with national procedural law.

(28a) Authorities in charge of verifying the compliance with or enforcing relevant legislation, such as labour inspectorates, may also rely on that presumption. However, they need not apply the presumption, if it is evident that the presumption would be rebutted, taking into account all relevant elements, such as facts and circumstances of the platform work in question, previous assessments of competent national authorities and relevant court decisions. A national framework to reduce litigation and increase legal certainty is important.

(28b) Legal proceedings or administrative proceedings initiated by the digital labour platforms in order to challenge the decision of a judicial or administrative authority taken on the basis of the application of the legal presumption in a reclassification claim should not have a suspensive effect on the relevant decision, as far as the requalification is concerned. [...]

(28c) In the interest of legal certainty, the legal presumption should not have any retroactive legal effects before the transposition date of this Directive and should therefore only apply to the period starting from that date, including for contractual relationships entered into before and still ongoing on that date. Claims relating to the possible existence of an employment relationship before that date and resulting rights and obligations until that date should therefore be assessed only on the basis of national law and Union law predating this Directive.

(28d) Effective implementation of the legal presumption through appropriate measures, such as disseminating information to the public, developing guidance and strengthening controls and field inspections is essential to ensure legal certainty and transparency for all parties involved. These measures should avoid reclassification of genuine self-employed, take into account the specific situation of start-ups to support the entrepreneurial potential and the conditions for the sustainable growth of digital labour platforms in the Union.

- (29) While Regulation (EU) 2016/679 establishes the general framework for the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data, it is necessary to lay down rules addressing the concerns that are specific to the processing of personal data in the context of platform work. This Directive provides for more specific rules in the context of platform work, including to ensure the protection of the rights and freedoms in respect of the processing of employees' personal data within the meaning of Article 88 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679. In this context, terms relating to the protection of personal data in this Directive should be understood in light of the definitions set out in Regulation (EU) 2016/679.
- (30) In addition to rights and obligations provided in this Directive, rights and obligations provided in Regulation (EU) 2016/679 continue to apply when personal data are processed. Articles 13, 14 and 15 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 require data controllers to ensure transparency towards data subjects on the collection and processing of personal data. Moreover, Article 22(1) of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 provides for the data subjects' right not to be subject to a decision based solely on automated processing, including profiling, which produces legal effects concerning him or her or similarly significantly affects him or her, subject to the exceptions provided for in paragraph 2 of that article. Those obligations apply also to digital labour platforms.
- (31) This Directive is without prejudice to Articles 13, 14, 15 and 22 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679[...] in relation to which Article 6 of this Directive provides for additional rules in the context of platform work, including to ensure the protection of the rights and freedoms in respect of the processing of employees' personal data within the meaning of Article 88 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679.

- (32) Digital labour platforms should be subject to transparency obligations in relation to automated monitoring or decision-making systems that are used to collect data, supervise or evaluate the work performance through electronic means; and automated decision-making systems which are used to take or support decisions that significantly affect persons performing platform work working conditions, including their access [...]to work assignments, their earnings, their [...] safety and health, their working time, their promotion and their contractual status, including the restriction, suspension or termination of their account. In addition to what is provided in Regulation (EU) 2016/679, information concerning such systems should also be provided where decisions are not solely based on automated processing, provided that they are supported by automated systems. It should also be specified which kind of information should be provided to persons performing platform work regarding such automated systems, as well as in which form and when it should be provided. The obligation of the controller under Articles 13, 14 and 15 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 to provide the data subject with certain information in relation to the processing of personal data concerning the data subject as well as with access to such data should continue to apply in the context of platform work. Information on automated monitoring or decision-making systems should also be provided to representatives of [...] platform workers and to national labour authorities at their request, in order to enable them to exercise their functions.
- (33) This information obligation should not require digital labour platforms [...]to disclose the detailed functioning of their automated monitoring or decision-making systems, including algorithms, or other detailed data that contains commercial secrets or is protected by intellectual property rights. However, the result of those considerations should not be a refusal to provide all the information required by this Directive.

- (34) Articles 5 and 6 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 require that personal data are processed in a lawful, fair and transparent manner. Digital labour platforms should therefore not be allowed to process, through automated monitoring or decision making systems, any personal data concerning persons performing platform work that are not intrinsically connected to and strictly necessary for the performance of the contract between those persons and the digital labour platform, meaning, in particular, that they should not process any personal data on the emotional or psychological state, process any personal data in relation to private conversations and collect any personal data while the person performing platform work is not offering or performing platform work, unless the processing is justified by the grounds of points (c), (d) and (e) of Article 6(1) Regulation (EU) 2016/679. Article 6(5) of this Directive provides for additional specific rules in the context of platform work, including to ensure the protection of the rights and freedoms in respect of the processing of employees' personal data within the meaning of Article 88 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679.
- (35) Digital labour platforms make extensive use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems in managing persons performing platform work. Monitoring by electronic means can be intrusive and decisions taken or supported by such systems, such as those related to the offer of assignment of tasks, the earnings, their safety and health, their working time, their access to training, their promotion or status within the organisation and contractual status, directly affect the persons performing platform work, who might not have a direct contact with a human manager or supervisor. Digital labour platforms should therefore regularly monitor and evaluate the impact of individual decisions taken or supported by automated monitoring or decision-making systems on working conditions. Digital labour platforms should ensure sufficient human resources for this purpose. The persons charged by the digital labour platform with the function of monitoring should have the necessary competence, training and authority to exercise that function and in particular the right to cancel automated decisions. They should be protected from dismissal, disciplinary measures or other adverse treatment for exercising their functions. In addition to obligations under Article 22 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679, Article 7(1) and (3) of this Directive provides for distinct obligations of [...], which apply as specific rules in the context of platform work[...].

- (36) Article 22(3) of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 requires data controllers to implement suitable measures to safeguard data subjects' rights and freedoms and legitimate interests in cases where the latter are subject to decisions based solely on automated processing. That provision requires, as a minimum, the data subject's right to obtain human intervention on the part of the controller, to express his or her point of view and to contest the decision. Those requirements apply also to digital labour platforms. [...]
- (37) This Directive provides for additional specific rules in the context of platform work [...]. In that context, digital labour platforms are subject to distinct obligations in relation to human monitoring of the impact of individual decisions taken or supported by automated systems. Persons performing platform work should have the right to obtain an explanation from the digital labour platform for a decision, the lack of decision or a set of decisions taken or supported by automated systems that significantly affect [...] them. For that purpose the digital labour platform should provide the possibility for them to discuss and clarify the facts, circumstances and reasons for such decisions with a human contact person at the digital labour platform. In addition, if a digital labour platform restricts, suspends or terminates the account of a person performing platform work, refuses the remuneration for work performed by that person, or affects his or her contractual status, the digital labour platform should provide the person performing platform work with a written statement of reasons for that decision [...]. as such decisions are likely to have particularly significant negative effects on persons performing platform work, in particular their potential earnings. Where the explanation or reasons obtained are not satisfactory or where persons performing platform work consider their rights infringed by any decision that significantly affects them, they should also have the right to request the digital labour platform to review the decision and to obtain a substantiated reply within undue delay. Where such decisions infringe those persons' rights, such as labour rights, the right to non-discrimination or to the protection of their personal data, the digital labour platform should rectify such decisions without undue delay or, where that is not possible, provide [...] compensation for the damage sustained, and take the necessary steps to avoid similar illegal decisions in the future.

- (38) Council Directive 89/391/EEC¹³ introduces measures to encourage improvements in the safety and health of workers at work, including the obligation for employers to minimise risks and to assess the occupational health and safety risks. As automated monitoring or decision-making systems potentially can have significant impact on the physical and mental health of platform workers, digital labour platforms should evaluate those risks, assess whether the safeguards of the systems are appropriate to address those risks and take appropriate preventive and protective measures. They should avoid that the use of such systems results in undue pressure on workers or puts their health at risk. In order to strengthen the effectiveness of these provisions, the digital labour platform should make their risk evaluation and the assessment of the mitigating measures available to platform workers, their representatives and the competent authorities.
- (39) Directive 2002/14/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁴ establishes a general framework for informing and consulting employees in the Union. The information and consultation measures as contained in Directive 2002/14/EC remain unaffected by this Directive. As the introduction of or substantial changes in the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems by digital labour platforms have direct impacts on the work organisation and individual working conditions of platform workers, additional measures are necessary to ensure that digital labour platforms inform and consult platform workers or their representatives before such decisions are taken, at the appropriate level and, given the technical complexity of algorithmic management systems, with the assistance of an expert chosen by the platform workers or their representatives in a concerted manner where needed. Therefore, the measures contained in Directive 2002/14/EC should apply in relation to the direct information and consultation of platform workers as provided for in Article 9 of this Directive, with no threshold required for the number of workers employed. The meaning of the terms “information” and “consultation” should correspond to their meaning in Directive 2002/14/EC.

¹⁴ Directive 2002/14/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 11 March 2002 establishing a general framework for informing and consulting employees in the European Community (OJ L 80, 23.3.2002, p. 29).

- (40) Persons who do not have an employment relationship constitute a significant part of the persons performing platform work. The impact of automated monitoring or decision-making systems used by digital labour platforms on [...] the protection of their personal data and their earning opportunities is similar to that on platform workers. Therefore, the rights in Articles 6, 7 and 8 of this Directive pertaining to the protection of natural persons in relation to the processing of personal data in the context of algorithmic management, namely those regarding transparency on automated monitoring or decision-making systems, restrictions to process or collect personal data, human monitoring and review of significant decisions, should also apply to persons [...] performing platform work who do not have an employment [...] relationship. The rights pertaining to health and safety at work and information and consultation of platform workers or their representatives, which are specific to workers in view of Union law, should not apply to them. Regulation (EU) 2019/1150 provides safeguards regarding fairness and transparency for self-employed persons performing platform work, provided that they are considered business users within the meaning of that Regulation. Where such safeguards conflict with elements of specific rights and obligations laid down in this Directive, the specific provisions of Regulation (EU) 2019/1150 should prevail in respect of business users.
- (41) In order to ensure that digital labour platforms comply with labour legislation and regulations [...], in particular if they are established in another country than the Member State in which the platform worker is performing work, digital labour platforms should declare work performed by platform workers to the competent [...] authorities of the Member State in which the work is performed [...]. This obligation should not replace the obligations of declaration or notification established by other Union instruments.

- (42) Regular information on the number of persons performing platform work through digital labour platforms[...], information on their contractual or employment status and the general terms and conditions applicable to those contractual relationships is essential to support [...]relevant authorities in correctly determining the employment status of persons performing platform work and in ensuring compliance with legal obligations as well as representatives of [...] platform workers in the exercise of their representative functions and should therefore be made accessible to them. Those authorities and representatives should also have the right to ask digital labour platforms for additional clarifications and details regarding the data provided [...].
- (43) An extensive system of enforcement provisions for the social acquis in the Union has been developed, elements of which should be applied to this Directive in order to ensure that persons performing platform work have access to effective and impartial dispute resolution and a right to redress, including [...]compensation for the damage sustained. Specifically, having regard to the fundamental nature of the right to effective legal protection, persons performing platform work should continue to enjoy such protection even after the end of the employment or other contractual relationship giving rise to an alleged breach of rights under this Directive.
- (44) Representatives of persons performing platform work should be able to represent one or several persons performing platform work in any judicial or administrative procedure to enforce any of the rights or obligations arising from this Directive. Bringing claims on behalf of or supporting several persons performing platform work is a way to facilitate proceedings that would not have been brought otherwise because of procedural and financial barriers or a fear of reprisals.

- (45) Platform work is characterised by the lack of a common workplace where workers can get to know each other and communicate with each other and with their representatives, also in view of defending their interests towards the employer. It is therefore necessary to create digital communication channels, in line with the digital labour platforms' work organisation, where persons performing platform work can exchange with each other and be contacted by their representatives. Digital labour platforms should create such communication channels within their digital infrastructure or through similarly effective means, while respecting the protection of personal data and refraining from accessing or monitoring those communications.
- (46) In administrative or judicial proceedings regarding the correct determination of the employment status of persons performing platform work, the elements regarding the organisation of work allowing to establish the employment status and in particular whether the digital labour platform controls certain elements of the performance of work may be in the possession of the digital labour platform and not easily accessible to persons performing platform work and competent authorities. National courts or competent authorities should therefore be able to order the digital labour platform to disclose any relevant evidence which lies in their control, including confidential information, subject to effective measures to protect such information.
- (47) Given that Article 6, Article 7[...] and Article 8 of this Directive provide for additional specific rules to Regulation (EU) 2016/679 in the context of platform work to ensure the protection of [...] personal data of person performing platform work [...], the national supervisory authorities referred to in Article 51 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 should be competent to monitor the application of those safeguards. [...] The procedural framework of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 should apply for the enforcement of the specific rules of this Directive, in particular as regards supervision, cooperation and consistency mechanisms, remedies, liability and penalties, including the competence to impose administrative fines up to the amount referred to in Article 83(5) of that Regulation.

(48) Automated monitoring or decision-making systems used in the context of platform work involve the processing of personal data of persons performing platform work and affect the working conditions and rights of the platform workers among them, which raises issues of data protection law as well as of related fields of law, like labour [...]law. Data protection supervisory authorities and other competent authorities should therefore cooperate in the enforcement of this Directive, including by exchanging relevant information with each other, without affecting the independence of data protection supervisory authorities.

(48a-new) In order to make the protection by this Directive effective, it is essential to protect persons performing platform work, who exercise their respective rights granted by the Directive, from dismissal and equivalent measures. In case of platform workers these rights encompass notably the legal presumption and the protection against automated monitoring and decision-making systems, whereas the protection of genuine self-employed is limited to the latter and the related procedural rights.

(49) Since the objective of this Directive, namely to improve working conditions in platform work, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States but can rather, by reason of the need to establish common minimum requirements, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective.

(50) This Directive lays down minimum requirements, thus leaving untouched Member States' prerogative to introduce and maintain provisions which are more favourable for platform workers. Rights acquired under the existing legal framework should continue to apply, unless more favourable provisions are introduced by this Directive. The implementation of this Directive cannot be used to reduce existing rights set out in existing Union or national law in this field, nor can it constitute valid grounds for reducing the general level of protection in the field covered by this Directive.

- (51) In implementing this Directive Member States should avoid imposing administrative, financial and legal constraints in a way which would hold back the creation and development of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises. Member States should assess the impact of their transposition measures on start-ups and on small and medium-sized enterprises in order to ensure that they are not disproportionately affected, giving specific attention to micro-enterprises and to the administrative burden. Member States should also publish the results of such assessments.
- (52) The Member States may entrust the social partners with the implementation of this Directive, where the social partners jointly request to do so and provided that the Member States take all the necessary steps to ensure that they can at all times guarantee the results sought under this Directive. They should also, in accordance with national law and practice, take adequate measures to ensure that the social partners are effectively involved and to promote and enhance social dialogue with a view to implementing the provisions of this Directive.
- (53) In accordance with the Joint Political Declaration of 28 September 2011 of Member States and the Commission on explanatory documents,¹⁵ Member States have undertaken to accompany, in justified cases, the notification of their transposition measures with one or more documents explaining the relationship between the components of a directive and the corresponding parts of national transposition instruments. With regard to this Directive, the legislator considers the transmission of such documents to be justified.
- (54) The European Data Protection Supervisor was consulted in accordance with Article 42(1) of Regulation (EU) 2018/1725 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁶ and delivered an opinion on XX XXXX¹⁷,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

CHAPTER I
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1

Subject matter and scope

1. The purposes of this Directive are to improve the working conditions of [...] platform workers and the protection of [...] persons performing platform work regarding the processing of their personal data through the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems.
2. [...] These purposes are pursued by:
 - introducing measures to facilitate the correct determination of the employment status of persons performing platform work;
 - improving transparency, fairness and accountability in the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems for [...] persons performing platform work; and
 - improving transparency on platform work.
3. This Directive applies to [...] persons performing platform work in the Union, to [...] digital labour platforms organising platform work performed in the Union and to intermediaries between them, irrespective of the platform's or intermediaries' place of establishment and irrespective of the law otherwise applicable.
4. With respect to representatives of persons performing platform work, this Directive shall apply only to the extent that a representation of persons performing platform work is provided for by national law and practices.

Article 2

Definitions

1. For the purposes of this Directive, the following definitions shall apply:
 - (1) ‘digital labour platform’ means any natural or legal person providing a [...] service which meets all of the following requirements:
 - (a) it is provided, at least in part, at a distance through electronic means, such as a website or a mobile application;
 - (b) it is provided at the request of a recipient of the service;
 - (c) it involves, as a necessary and essential component, the organisation of work performed by individuals in return for payment, irrespective of whether that work is performed online or in a certain location;
 - (d) it involves the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems.
 - (2) ‘platform work’ means any work organised through a digital labour platform and performed in the Union by an individual on the basis of a contractual relationship between the digital labour platform and the individual [...], or between the intermediary and the individual irrespective of whether a contractual relationship exists between the individual [...]and the recipient of the service;
 - (3) ‘person performing platform work’ means any individual performing platform work, irrespective of the nature of the contractual relationship or its designation [...] by the parties involved;

(4) ‘platform worker’ means any individual performing platform work who has[...] or who [...]is presumed to have in accordance with Articles 4 and 4a, an employment contract or employment relationship as defined by the law, collective agreements or practice in force in the Member States with consideration to the case-law of the Court of Justice;

(4a)new: ‘intermediary’ means any natural or legal person who establishes a contractual relationship with a person performing platform work and a digital labour platform for the purposes of making individuals available to perform platform work through that digital labour platform

(6a) ‘automated monitoring systems’ means systems which are used to collect data on persons performing platform work, supervise or evaluate their work performance through electronic means;

(6b) ‘automated decision-making systems’ means systems which are used to take or support decisions that significantly affect persons performing platform work, in particular the offer or assignment of tasks to them, their earnings, their safety and health, their working time, their access to training and their contractual status, including the restriction, suspension or termination of their account.

2. The definition of digital labour platforms laid down in paragraph 1, point (1), shall not include providers of a service whose primary purpose is to exploit or share assets or to resell goods or services [...].

Article 2a(new)

Intermediaries

1. Member states shall ensure that the use of intermediaries does not lead to a reduction in the protection afforded by this Directive to persons performing platform work. To that end, and where relevant without affecting Directive (EU) 2008/104/EC, Member States shall ensure that either the digital labour platform or the intermediary or both are responsible for complying with the obligations under this Directive.
2. Where at least three of the criteria listed in Article 4 paragraph 1 are fulfilled by the intermediary or jointly by the digital labour platform and the intermediary, Member States shall determine whether the presumption of employment relationship applies to the relationship between the digital labour platform and the person performing platform work or to the relationship between the intermediary and the person performing platform work. In the event of the latter, Article 4a shall apply accordingly to the intermediary.

CHAPTER II

EMPLOYMENT STATUS

Article 3

Correct determination of the employment status

1. Member States shall, in line with national law and practice, have in place procedures [...]to verify and ensure the correct determination of the employment status of persons performing platform work, with a view to ascertaining the existence of an employment relationship as defined by the law, collective agreements or practice in force in the Member States with consideration to the case-law of the Court of Justice, and ensuring that platform workers enjoy the rights deriving from Union law applicable to workers.
2. The determination of the existence of an employment relationship shall be guided primarily by the facts relating to the actual performance of work, taking into account the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems in the organisation of platform work, irrespective of how the relationship is classified in any contractual arrangement that may have been agreed between the parties involved. Where the existence of an employment relationship is established based on facts, the party assuming the obligations of the employer shall be clearly identified in accordance with national legal systems.

Article 4

Legal presumption

1. The [...] relationship between a digital labour platform, or intermediary, in accordance with article 2a paragraph 2, [...] and a person performing platform work through that platform shall be legally presumed to be an employment relationship[...], if at least three of the criteria below are de facto fulfilled:
- (a) The digital labour platform or intermediary [...] determines[...] the level of remuneration [...];
 - (b) The digital labour platform or intermediary requires the person performing platform work to respect specific [...] rules with regard to appearance, conduct towards the recipient of the service or performance of the work;
 - (c) The digital labour platform or intermediary supervises the performance of work or verifies the quality of the results of the work including by electronic means;
 - (d) The digital labour platform or intermediary [...] restricts the freedom, including through sanctions, to organise one's work by limiting the discretion to choose one's working hours or periods of absence [...];
 - (da) The digital labour platform or intermediary [...] restricts the freedom, including through sanctions, to organise one's work by limiting the discretion to accept or to refuse tasks;
 - (db) The digital labour platform or intermediary [...] restricts the freedom, including through sanctions, to organise one's work by limiting the discretion to use subcontractors or substitutes;
 - (e) The digital labour platform or intermediary [...] restricts the possibility to build a client base or to perform work for any third party.

Application of the presumption and rebuttal

1. The legal presumption shall apply in all relevant administrative or judicial proceedings where the correct determination of the employment status of the person performing platform work is either the central aspect of the proceeding or a preliminary question to be answered. [...]

The legal presumption shall not apply to tax, criminal and social security proceedings, unless otherwise provided by the Member States.

2. [...] Member States shall ensure the possibility for any of the parties to rebut the legal presumption in the context of the proceedings referred to paragraph 1 first subparagraph.

To this effect:

- a) where the digital labour platform or the intermediary, if provided for in national law pursuant to article 2a paragraph 2, argues that the contractual relationship in question is not an employment relationship as defined by the law, collective agreements or practice in force in the Member State in question, with consideration to the case-law of the Court of Justice, the burden of proof shall be on that digital labour platform or the intermediary;
- b) where the person performing the platform work argues that the contractual relationship in question is not an employment relationship as defined by the law, collective agreements or practice in force in the Member State in question, with consideration to the case-law of the Court of Justice, the digital labour platform or the intermediary, if provided for in national law pursuant to article 2a paragraph 2, shall be required to assist the proper resolution of the proceedings, notably by providing all relevant information held by it.

3. [...]Competent national administrative authorities verifying compliance with or enforcing relevant legislation shall enjoy a discretion not to apply the presumption, when it is manifest that it would be successfully rebutted in accordance with paragraph 2. This discretion shall not be allowed in proceedings through which a person performing platform work [...]seeks the correct determination of their employment status.
4. With regard to contractual relationships entered into before and still ongoing on the date set out in Article 21(1), the legal presumption referred to in Article 4 shall only apply to the period starting from that date.
5. Where a digital labour platform challenges an administrative or judicial decision determining the employment status of a person performing platform work on the basis of the application of the presumption, such a proceeding shall not have a suspensive effect on that decision.

Article 4b(new)

Supporting measures

Member States shall take supporting measures to ensure the effective implementation of the legal presumption referred to in Article 4. In particular, they shall:

- (a) ensure that information on the application of the legal presumption is made publicly available in a clear, comprehensive and easily accessible way;
- (b) develop guidance for digital labour platforms, intermediaries, persons performing platform work and social partners to understand and put in practice the legal presumption including its rebuttal[...];
- (c) in line with national law or practice, develop guidance for competent national authorities to proactively target and pursue non-compliant digital labour platforms and intermediaries;
- (d) in line with national law or practice, provide for effective controls and field inspections conducted by labour inspectorates or the bodies responsible for the enforcement of labour law, while ensuring that such controls and inspections are proportionate and non-discriminatory.

Article 5

[mostly moved to Article 4a(new) paragraph 2]

MANAGEMENT BY AUTOMATED MONITORING OR DECISION MAKING SYSTEMS

Article 6

Transparency on and use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems

1. [...] Member States shall require digital labour platforms to inform persons performing platform work of the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems.

[... moved to Article 2(1)(6a)]

This information [...] shall concern:

- (i) the fact that such systems are in use or are in the process of being introduced;
 - (ii) the categories of actions [...] supervised, evaluated or for which data is collected by such systems, including evaluation by the recipient of the service;
- (b) as regards automated decision-making systems:
- (i) the fact that such systems are in use or are in the process of being introduced;
 - (ii) the categories of decisions that are taken or supported by such systems;
 - (iii) the main parameters that such systems take into account and the relative importance of those main parameters in the automated decision-making, including the way in which the [...] personal data or behaviour of the person performing platform work influence the decisions;
 - (iv) the grounds for decisions to restrict, suspend or terminate the account of the person performing platform work, to refuse the payment for work performed by them, as well as for decisions on their contractual status or any decision with similar effects.

3. Digital labour platforms shall provide the information referred to in paragraph[...] 1 [...] in the form of a written document which may be in electronic format. They shall provide that information at the latest on the first working day, as well as in the event of substantial changes and at any time upon the [...]request of the person performing platform work. The information shall be presented in a concise, transparent, intelligible and easily accessible form, using clear and plain language.
4. Upon request of platform workers' representatives and the competent national authorities, digital labour platforms shall also make the information referred to in paragraph[...] 1 [...] available to them.
5. Digital labour platforms shall not process, by means of automated monitoring or decision-making systems, any personal data concerning persons performing platform work that are not intrinsically connected to and strictly necessary for the performance of the contract between the person performing platform work and the digital labour platform. In particular they shall not:
- (a) process any personal data on the emotional or psychological state of the person performing platform work;
 - (c) process any personal data in relation to private conversations[...]; including exchanges with platform workers' representatives;
 - (d) collect any personal data while the person performing platform work is not offering or performing platform work.

This paragraph shall not affect the possibility for digital labour platforms to process personal data on the basis of points (c), (d) and (e) of Article 6(1) Regulation (EU) 2016/679.

Article 7

Human monitoring of automated systems

1. Member States shall ensure that digital labour platforms [...] monitor and regularly evaluate the impact of individual decisions taken or supported by automated monitoring or decision-making systems[...] on [...] persons performing platform work.
3. Member States shall require digital labour platforms to ensure sufficient human resources for monitoring and evaluating the impact of individual decisions taken or supported by automated monitoring or decision-making systems[...]. The persons charged by the digital labour platform with the function of monitoring and evaluating shall have the necessary competence, training and authority to exercise that function, including for overriding automated decisions. They shall enjoy protection from dismissal[...] or its equivalent, disciplinary measures or other adverse treatment for exercising their functions.
4. Reports on the evaluation pursuant to paragraph 1 shall be made available, upon request, to persons performing platform work, to platform workers' representatives and to the competent national authorities.

Article 8

Human review of significant decisions

1. Member States shall ensure that persons performing platform work have the right to obtain an explanation from the digital labour platform for any decision taken or supported by an automated decision-making system that significantly affects them [...]without undue delay. [...]Member States shall ensure that digital labour platforms provide persons performing platform work with access to a contact person designated by the digital labour platform to discuss and to clarify the facts, circumstances and reasons having led to the decision. Digital labour platforms shall ensure that such contact persons have the necessary competence, training and authority to exercise that function.

Digital labour platforms shall provide the person performing platform work with a written statement of the reasons for any decision taken or supported by an automated decision-making system to restrict, suspend or terminate that person's account, any decision to refuse the payment for work performed [...], any decision on the [...]contractual status of the person performing platform work or any decision with similar effects, without undue delay.

2. Where persons performing platform work are not satisfied with the explanation or the written statement of reasons obtained or consider that the decision referred to in paragraph 1 infringes their rights, they shall have the right to request the digital labour platform to review that decision. The digital labour platform shall respond to such request by providing the person performing platform work with a substantiated reply in the form of a written document which may be in electronic format without undue delay and in any event within two weeks of receipt of the request.

3. Where the decision referred to in paragraph 1 infringes the [...]rights of a person performing platform work, the digital labour platform shall rectify that decision without delay and in any event within two weeks or, where such rectification is not possible, offer [...] compensation for the damage sustained. The digital labour platform shall take the necessary steps, including, if appropriate, a modification of the automated decision-making system, in order to avoid such decisions in the future.
4. This Article does not affect dismissal procedures laid down in national law and practices and collective agreements.

5(new). This Article shall not apply to persons performing platform work who are also 'business users' within the meaning of Regulation (EU) 2019/1150.

Safety and health

1. Without affecting Council Directive 89/391/EEC and related directives in the field of safety and health at work, with regard to platform workers, digital labour platforms shall:
 - (a) evaluate the risks of automated monitoring or decision-making systems to their safety and health, in particular as regards possible risks of work-related accidents, psychosocial and ergonomic risks;
 - (b) assess whether the safeguards of those systems are appropriate for the risks identified in view of the specific characteristics of the work environment;
 - (c) introduce appropriate preventive and protective measures.
2. Digital labour platforms shall not use automated monitoring or decision-making systems in any manner that puts undue pressure on platform workers or otherwise puts at risk the physical and mental health of platform workers.
3. Information on the measures in place pursuant to paragraph 1 shall be made available, upon request, to platform workers, their representatives and the competent national authorities.

Article 9

Information and consultation

1. Without affecting the rights and obligations under Directive 2002/14/EC, Member States shall ensure information and consultation of platform workers' representatives or, where there are no such representatives, of the platform workers concerned by digital labour platforms, on decisions likely to lead to the introduction of or substantial changes in the use of automated monitoring or decision-making systems.
3. The platform workers' representatives or the platform workers concerned may be assisted by an expert of their choice, in so far as this is necessary for them to examine the matter that is the subject of information and consultation and formulate an opinion. Where a digital labour platform employs more than 500 [...] workers in the Member State concerned, the expenses for the expert shall be borne by the digital labour platform, provided that they are proportionate. Member States may determine the frequency of requests for an expert and the upper limit of expenses to be borne by the digital labour platform, while ensuring the effectiveness of the assistance.

Article 10

TRANSPARENCY ON PLATFORM WORK

Article 11

Declaration of platform work

[...] Member States shall require digital labour platforms or intermediaries which are employers to declare work performed by platform workers to the competent [...] authorities of the Member State in which the work is performed [...], in accordance with the rules and procedures laid down in the law of the Member States concerned. This shall not affect [...] specific obligations under Union law according to which work shall be declared to relevant bodies of the Member State in [...] cross-border situations.

Article 12

Access to relevant information on platform work

1. [...] Member States shall ensure that digital labour platforms make the following information available to competent national authorities as well as to representatives of platform workers:
 - (a) the number of persons performing platform work through the digital labour platform concerned on a regular basis and their contractual or employment status;
 - (b) the general terms and conditions, determined by the digital labour platform or an intermediary, applicable to those contractual relationships, [...] which apply to a large number of contractual relationships;
 - (c) the intermediaries the digital labour platform has a contractual relationship with.

2. The information shall be provided for each Member State in which persons are performing platform work through the digital labour platform concerned. The information shall be updated at least every six months, and, as regards paragraph 1, point (b), each time the terms and conditions are substantially modified.
3. The competent authorities set out in paragraph 1 and representatives of platform workers shall have the right to ask digital labour platforms for additional clarifications and details regarding any of the information provided. The digital labour platforms shall respond to such request within a reasonable period of time by providing a substantiated reply.
4. With regard to digital labour platforms which are micro, small or medium-sized enterprises, Member States may provide that the periodicity for updating information in accordance with paragraph 2 is reduced to once every year.

CHAPTER V

REMEDIES AND ENFORCEMENT

Article 13

Right to redress

Without affecting Articles 79 and 82 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679, Member States shall ensure that [...], persons performing platform work, including those whose employment or other contractual relationship has ended, have access to effective and impartial dispute resolution and a right to redress, including [...] compensation for the damage sustained, in the case of infringements of their rights arising from this Directive.

Article 14

Procedures on behalf or in support of persons performing platform work

1. Without affecting Article 80 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679, Member States shall ensure that representatives of persons performing platform work and legal entities which have, in accordance with [...] national law or practice, a legitimate interest in defending the rights of persons performing platform work, may engage in any judicial or administrative procedure to enforce any of the rights or obligations arising from this Directive. They may act on behalf or in support of one or several persons performing platform work in the case of an infringement of any right or obligation arising from this Directive, [...]in accordance with national law and practice.

2a(new). When necessary for the defence of the rights of persons performing platform work with regard to [...] protection of their personal data, digital labour platforms shall make the information and reports referred to in Article 6, paragraph 4 and Article 7, paragraph 4, available to representatives of persons performing platform work other than representatives of platform workers, upon their request.

Article 15

Communication channels for persons performing platform work

Member States shall take the necessary measures to ensure that digital labour platforms create the possibility for persons performing platform work to contact and communicate with each other, and to contact and communicate with worker's representatives [...], through the digital labour platforms' digital infrastructure or similarly effective means, while complying with the obligations under Regulation (EU) 2016/679 and Directive 2002/58/EC. Member States shall require digital labour platforms to refrain from accessing or monitoring those contacts and communications.

Article 16

Access to evidence

1. Member States shall ensure that in the proceedings referred to in Article 4(a)new, national courts or competent authorities are able to order the digital labour platform and an intermediary to disclose any relevant evidence which lies in their control.
2. Member States shall ensure that national courts have the power to order the disclosure of evidence containing confidential information where they consider it relevant to the proceeding. They shall ensure that, when ordering the disclosure of such information, national courts have at their disposal effective measures to protect such information.

Article 17

Protection against adverse treatment or consequences

Member States shall introduce the measures necessary to protect persons performing platform work, including those among them who are their representatives, from any adverse treatment by the digital labour platform or an intermediary and from any adverse consequences resulting from a complaint lodged with the digital labour platform or resulting from any proceedings initiated with the aim of enforcing compliance with the rights provided for in this Directive.

Article 18

Protection from dismissal [...]

1. Member States shall take the necessary measures to prohibit the dismissal[...]] or its equivalent and all preparations for dismissal[...]] or [...]] equivalent of persons performing platform work, on the grounds that they have exercised the rights provided for in this Directive.
2. Persons performing platform work who consider that they have been dismissed, [...]] or have been subject to measures with equivalent effect, on the grounds that they have exercised the rights provided for in this Directive, may request the digital labour platform or the intermediary to provide duly substantiated grounds for the dismissal, [...]] or [...]] equivalent measures. The digital labour platform shall provide those grounds in writing without undue delay.
