Statement by the Commission

"The Commission acknowledges the importance of competitiveness, innovation and investment in digital services, in particular with regard to micro, small and medium sized enterprises and start-ups. For that purpose, the Commission is committed to facilitate compliance with the Digital Services Act by micro, small and medium sized enterprises and start-ups, notably through mobilising relevant programmes in favour of innovation, deployment of digital technologies and standardisation."

Statement by Denmark

"Denmark supports the final text with a view to finalise the Digital Services Act in order to update the horizontal rules that define the responsibilities and obligations of providers of digital services. We believe that the final Digital Services Act is essential to make the online environment more safe, predictable and trustworthy, and furthermore we welcome key amendments made during the trilogue such as protection of minors as well as the prevention of dark patterns.

However, we strongly regret that the Regulation does not set further responsibilities for providers of online marketplaces with respect to product safety. In our view, the responsibilities set out in the Regulation do not match the key role, which online marketplaces play in the distribution of products. For example, it is a problem that no one in the European Union can be held responsible in cases where online marketplaces make it possible for traders to sell their products and services from third countries directly to European consumers. We have witnessed several cases where European consumers end up with dangerous and illegal products. Even though, online marketplaces are met with obligations to assess information provided by traders and to perform random checks in terms of illegal products, the final text overall maintains a reactive approach which is detrimental for not only consumer protection, but also for competitiveness of European businesses. In this regard, we had hoped for a more ambitious Regulation, for example by ensuring that there is always a party in the EU, which is accountable for products entering the European market.

As we still see the need for a more ambitious approach on this matter in order to ensure an adequate consumer protection, we will continue to pursue this important agenda within other relevant legislation including the trilogue negotiations of the Regulation on general product safety."

Statement by Bulgaria

„Република България отдава голямо значение на утвърждаването и защитата на правата на човека. Страната е и ще продължи да бъде отдадена на ангажиментите си в областта на правата на човека.

През 2018 г. Конституционният съд на Република България прие решение, в което се посочва, че Конвенцията на Съвета на Европа за превенция и борба с насилието над жени и домашното насилие („Истанбулската конвенция“) утвърждава правни концепции, свързани с понятието „социален пол“ (англ. „gender“), които са несъвместими с основните принципи на Конституцията на България. Освен това през 2021 г. Конституционният съд допълнително поясни, че понятието „пол“ (англ. „sex“), използвано в Конституцията, в контекста на националния правов ред, следва да се разбира само в неговия биологичен смисъл (мъже и жени).

Република България не се противопоставя на приемането на проекта за Директива за минимални работни заплати, като отчита колко важен е въпросът, но в съответствие с горепосочените решения на Конституционния съд заявява, във връзка с референцията към „данни, разбити по социален пол“ в чл. 10(2) на Директивата, че Република България ще събира и предоставя само данни, разбити по пол (мъжки/женски).“

Courtesy translation

"The Republic of Bulgaria attaches great importance to the promotion and protection of human rights. The country is, and will remain, dedicated to its human rights commitments.

In 2018, the Bulgarian Constitutional Court adopted a decision stating that the Council of Europe's Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence ('Istanbul Convention') promotes legal concepts related to the notion of 'gender' that are incompatible with the basic principles of the Bulgarian Constitution. Moreover, in 2021 the Constitutional Court further clarified that the notion of 'sex' used in the Constitution, could, in the context of the national legal order, be understood in its biological sense only (men and women).

Recognising the importance of the issue, the Republic of Bulgaria is not opposed to adopting the draft minimum wage Directive; however, in line with the abovementioned Constitutional Court decisions, it states that, as regards the reference to 'data disaggregated by gender' in Article 10(2) of the Directive, the Republic of Bulgaria will only collect and provide data disaggregated by sex (male/female)."

Statement by Hungary

"The Hungarian Government is committed to ensuring an appropriate and efficient functioning of the national minimum wage-setting system. Since 2010, the Hungarian minimum wage has more than doubled and was set after consultation with the social partners. This fact, among others, clearly demonstrates the government's firm commitment to raising living standards for all. As a result of an agreement signed by the Government and the social partners, the national minimum wage in Hungary was further increased by 20% from 1 January 2022, which was the highest development rate in the EU.

Hungary recalls that regulation of pay, including the determination of minimum wages, clearly falls within the exclusive competence of the Member States as enshrined in Article 153(5) of TFEU and is an essential tool of national economic policy.

Furthermore, Hungary recognises and promotes equality between men and women in accordance with the Fundamental Law of Hungary and the primary law, principles and values of the European Union, as well as the commitments and principles stemming from international law. Equality between women and men is enshrined in the Treaties of the European Union as a fundamental value. In line with these and with its national legislation, Hungary interprets the term 'gender' as referring to sex and, accordingly, the reference to 'data desegregated by gender' in Article 10(2) of the text of the directive as data disaggregated by sex (women and men)."

Statement by Austria

"Austria supports the objective of adequate minimum wages in the European Union.

Austria reiterates that primary law, the Treaty-based division of competences between the EU and its Member States, as well as the principles of subsidiarity and proportionality, must be fully respected. Different labour market models, the full autonomy of the social partners and well-established collective bargaining systems have to be preserved.

Austria underlines that, according to Article 153(5) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, notably regarding the nature and limits of Union competence in this respect, the European Union cannot intervene directly in the level of pay, so as not to affect the competence of the Member States and the autonomy of the social partners in this area. Therefore, a legal basis exists only for a Directive creating a procedural framework, which cannot oblige Member States to grant access to minimum wage protection for all workers.

Against the background of the analysis contained in the opinion of the Council Legal Service, Austria highlights its wage determination model, which is based solely on collective bargaining agreements. Austria takes the view that the proposed Directive does not intend to change or undermine the Austrian wage-setting system, and that it will not affect Member States with well-functioning collective bargaining systems.

For those reasons, Austria interprets the text in the following way:

- The proposed Directive does not confer individual rights on workers;
- Obligations on adequacy stemming from the Directive are limited to statutory minimum wages;
- According to the Directive, wages negotiated by social partners are always considered to be adequate;
- The Directive allows but does not oblige Member States to introduce statutory minimum wages;
- The Directive allows but does not oblige Member States to introduce collective agreements in areas where social partners have not agreed on a collective bargaining agreement."

Statement by Poland

"Równość kobiet i mężczyzn została zapisana w traktatach Unii Europejskiej jako podstawowe prawo. Polska zapewnia równość kobiet i mężczyzn w ramach polskiego krajowego systemu prawnego zgodnie z międzynarodowymi traktatami praw człowieka oraz w ramach podstawowych wartości i zasad Unii Europejskiej. Z tych powodów, wyrażenie "gender equality" Polska będzie interpretowała jako równość kobiet i mężczyzn, a wyrażenie "gender pay gap" Polska będzie interpretowała jako różnice w wynagrodzeniach kobiet i mężczyzn, zgodnie z art. 2 i 3 Traktatu o Unii Europejskiej oraz art. 8 i 157 para 3 Traktatu o Funkcjonowaniu Unii Europejskiej. W związku z powyższym, pozostałe wyrażenia zawierające termin "gender", Polska będzie interpretowała jako płeć ("sex"), zgodnie z art. 10, art. 19 para 1 oraz art. 157 para 2 i 4 Traktatu o Funkcjonowaniu Unii Europejskiej."

Poland ensures equality between women and men within the framework of the Polish national legal system in accordance with international human rights treaties and within the framework of the fundamental values and principles of the European Union. For these reasons, Poland will interpret the expression 'gender equality' as equality between women and men, and the expression 'gender pay gap' as disparities in pay between women and men, in accordance with Articles 2 and 3 of the Treaty on European Union and Articles 8 and 157(3) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union. In view of the above, Poland will interpret other expressions containing the term 'gender' as referring to 'sex', in accordance with Article 10, Article 19(1) and Article 157(2) and (4) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union."

Joint statement by Bulgaria, Cyprus, Greece and Italy

"Bulgaria, Cyprus, Greece and Italy reiterate that the DA proposed by the Commission has a deep impact on the discipline of heated tobacco products.

As already stated, we are not convinced that such a complex and comprehensive reform could be introduced by the means of a Delegated Act.

Without prejudice of our assessment on the substantive aspects of the Commission proposal, the new discipline arising by the DA, in our view, goes beyond the delegated power under Directive 2014/40/EU and involves essential elements reserved for the European legislators and, as such, should be submitted to the ordinary legislative review process. In particular, the Commission, by introducing a definition of "heated tobacco products" in the DA (see art. 1 which amends art 7(12) of Directive 2014/40/EU so as to insert the said definition in a second subparagraph), is according to us exceeding the limits of the delegation powers granted to it by the Directive 2014/40/EU (Articles 7, paragraph 12 and 11, paragraph 6 respectively).

Furthermore, given the scope and burden of the obligations introduced for authorities, we consider unrealistic the timelines for transposition and transitional periods set in the act.

Therefore, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Greece and Italy share the concern that this use of the delegated power by the Commission is problematic and puts the interinstitutional balance to the test creating legal uncertainty and practical difficulties for all parties involved. This act shall not be considered as a regulatory precedent."
