STATEMENT BY ITALY

Italy confirms the importance of acquiring and using data from banking registries and transactions from the initial stages of the administrative investigation, inter alia in order to protect the financial interests of the European Union.

With this in view, Italy considers it necessary for access to banking data within the framework of administrative investigations conducted by OLAF to be effected through the assistance and cooperation of national authorities competent in the same administrative capacity and for the protection of the financial interests of the European Union pursuant to Article 325 TFEU.

To ensure greater and uniform effectiveness of administrative anti-fraud investigations, Italy hopes that the acquisition of banking data by administrative means will be made possible in practice throughout the territory of the European Union, as is already the case in Italy.
