EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. CONTEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

- Reasons for and objectives of the proposal

The right of EU citizens and their families to move freely and reside in any EU country is one of the four fundamental freedoms enshrined in the EU Treaties.

Free movement of persons would not be possible unless the social security rights of mobile Europeans and their family members were protected.

This initiative is part of the 2016 European Commission's Labour Mobility Package. The objective of this initiative is to continue the process of modernisation of the EU law on social security coordination set out in Regulations (EC) Nos 883/2004¹ and 987/2009² (the "Regulations"), by further facilitating the exercise of citizens' rights while ensuring legal clarity, a fair and equitable distribution of the financial burden among the Member States and administrative simplicity and enforceability of the rules. Achieving a modernised system of social security coordination that responds to the social and economic reality in the Member States is one of the central drivers for this initiative.

The proposal focuses on four areas of coordination where improvements are required: economically inactive citizens' access to social benefits, long-term care benefits, unemployment benefits and family benefits. Each Member State is free to determine the features of its own social security system, including which benefits are provided, the conditions for eligibility, how these benefits are calculated and what contributions should be paid, and for all social security branches, such as old age, unemployment and family benefits provided that such national provisions respect the principles of EU law in particular concerning equal treatment and non-discrimination. In this context, Member States are free to monitor developments regarding the payment of those benefits, including to citizens residing in other Member States. The Administrative Commission for the Coordination of Social Security Systems plays a particular role to exchange such information.

First, the revision seeks to clarify the circumstances in which Member States can limit access to social benefits claimed by economically inactive EU mobile citizens. Further to recent case-law of the Court of Justice of the European Union (hereafter the "Court of Justice"), this is necessary for reasons of clarity, transparency and legal certainty. The population of economically inactive mobile citizens is estimated to be 3.7 million.³ Nearly 80% of them derive rights (residence rights and/or rights to benefits) from economically active family members with whom they reside, and continue to be entitled to equal treatment with the family members of national workers. An inactive EU mobile citizen previously lawfully resident but who no longer fulfils the conditions of Directive 2004/38/EC should be able to rely on the principle of equal treatment with regard to contributory social security benefits, as long as the host Member States has not formally put an end to his right of residence.

1 Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on the coordination of social security systems, OJ L 166, 30.4.2004, p.1, corrigendum OJ L 200, 7.6.2004.

2 Regulation (EC) No 987/2009 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 September 2009 laying down the procedure for implementing Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 on the coordination of social security systems, OJ L 284, 30.10.2009

3 Labour Force Survey, 2014.

Secondly, the revision aims to establish a coherent regime for the coordination of long-term care benefits (currently dealt with under the sickness chapter) by introducing a separate Chapter for their coordination in Regulation (EC) No 883/2004, by including a definition and providing for a list of those benefits. In total around 80.000 mobile citizens are estimated to be entitled to long-term care benefits, totalling € 793 million (0.4% of the total EU expenditure on long-term care benefits).

Next, the revision proposes new arrangements for the coordination of unemployment benefits in cross-border cases. These concern the aggregation of periods of insurance for creating or retaining a right to unemployment benefits, the export of unemployment benefits and the determination of which Member State is responsible for paying unemployment benefits to frontier workers and other cross-border workers. There are some 25.000 cases of aggregation (reported from 23 Member States)⁴ and some 27.300 persons within the EU who export their unemployment benefit to another Member State⁵ and an estimated number of 91.700 unemployed cross-border workers per year, 53.500 of which are frontier workers.⁶

Fourth, the proposal contains new provisions for the coordination of family benefits intended to replace income during child-raising periods. 22 Member States have such a benefit.⁷

Furthermore, the proposal clarifies the conflict rules on applicable legislation and the relationship between the Regulations and Directive 96/71/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 December 1996 concerning the posting of workers in the framework of the provision of services (hereafter "Directive 96/71/EC").⁸ It strengthens the administrative rules on social security coordination in the fields of information exchange and verification of the social security status of such workers in order to prevent potentially unfair practices or abuse. The proposal also grants new implementing powers to the Commission in accordance with Article 291 Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union ("TFEU") to further specify a uniform approach to the issuance, verification and withdrawal of the Portable Document A1 (a certificate concerning the social security legislation which applies to the holder).

In addition, the proposal includes a number of technical amendments. They concern the prioritisation of derived rights to sickness benefits, the reimbursement of costs for medical examination, the calculation of the annual average costs in the field of sickness benefits and the introduction of measures to facilitate identification of fraud or error in the application of the Regulations, including the introduction of a permissive ground for Member States to periodically exchange personal data. In addition, the procedures for recovery of unduly paid social security benefits have been revised to align them with the equivalent procedures in Directive 2010/24/EU concerning mutual assistance for the recovery of claims relating to taxes, duties and other measures in particular to provide for a uniform instrument to be used for enforcement measures as well as standard procedures for requesting mutual assistance and notification of instruments and decisions relating to a claim.⁹

The proposal also includes a number of periodic technical updates to reflect developments in national legislation that affect the application of the EU rules.

Finally, the proposal grants new powers to the Commission to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU to facilitate and expedite the legislative procedure for amending the country-specific Annexes to Regulation (EC) No 883/2004.

- Consistency with existing policy provisions in the policy area

This initiative complements other initiatives identified in the Political Guidelines: A New Start for Europe¹⁰ in relation to Priority 4: a Deeper and Fairer Internal Market with a strengthened industrial base, and in particular the planned Internal Market Strategy.¹¹ Labour mobility is a means of facilitating more efficient allocation of resources between and within sectors as well as reducing unemployment and skills mismatches.

It also complements Priority 1 of the Political Guidelines by creating a more conducive regulatory environment to support a climate of entrepreneurship and job creation, and ensures the Regulations are in line with the Commission's commitment to Better Regulation.¹²

2. LEGAL BASIS, SUBSIDIARITY AND PROPORTIONALITY

- Legal basis

This proposal is based on Article 48 TFEU.

- Subsidiarity

The subsidiarity principle applies as the proposal does not fall under the exclusive competence of the EU.

The objectives of the proposal cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States at national, regional or local level, and can be better achieved at Union level for the following reasons:

Social security coordination concerns cross-border situations where no Member State can act alone. Coordination measures at EU level are required by Article 48 TFEU and necessary for the exercise of the right to free movement. Without such coordination, free movement may be hindered: people would be less likely to move if it meant losing social security rights acquired in another Member State.

11 http://ec.europa.eu/priorities/internal-market_en.

12 http://ec.europa.eu/info/strategy/better-regulation-why-and-how_en

The EU coordinating legislation replaces the numerous pre-existing bilateral agreements. The creation of an EU framework in this field ensures a uniform interpretation and protection of rights of mobile EU citizens and their family members that could not be achieved by the Member States alone at national level.

This not only simplifies social security coordination for Member States, but also ensures equal treatment of EU citizens who are insured in accordance with national social security legislation.

The proposal updates the existing coordinating rules to implement changes that have become necessary due to changing social reality and to reflect the legal changes that have been implemented at national level.

The proposal therefore complies with the subsidiarity principle.

- Proportionality

The proposed amending Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary for effective social security coordination: it will not expand the material or personal scope of the existing Regulations and its effects are focused on the four areas outlined above. Member States remain responsible for organising and financing their own social security schemes.

The proposal makes it easier for the Member States to coordinate social security schemes and aims at protecting the individuals moving within the EU, while the provisions meet changing needs of the Member States.

The proposal therefore complies with the proportionality principle.

- Choice of the instrument

The proposed instrument is a regulation. Other means would not achieve the required legal certainty and clarity i.e. a Communication or other non-legally-binding instruments.

3. RESULTS OF EX-POST EVALUATIONS, STAKEHOLDER CONSULTATIONS AND IMPACT ASSESSMENTS

- Ex-post evaluations/fitness checks of existing legislation

The Commission has assessed the extent to which the current legal framework still ensures effective coordination. This analysis has complemented the formal review obligations of the Regulations which require the Administrative Commission for Social Security Coordination ("Administrative Commission")¹³ and the European Commission to review and assess the implementation and effectiveness of particular provisions of the Regulations.¹⁴ It also 13 The Administrative Commission is comprised of Member States' representatives. Norway, Island, Lichtenstein and Switzerland participate as observers. The Administrative Commission is responsible for dealing with administrative matters, questions of interpretation arising from the provisions of regulations on social security coordination, and for promoting and developing collaboration between EU Member States. The European Commission also participates in the meetings and provides its Secretariat.

14 See in Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 Articles 87(10b) and 87a(2) and in Regulation (EC) No 987/2009 Article 86(1), (2) and (3).

complements the commitment made by the Commission to assess the need for a review of the principles of coordination of unemployment benefits¹⁵.

- Stakeholder consultations

Stakeholders were consulted on several occasions:

1. Member States were consulted within the Administrative Commission.
2. National administrations were consulted via a specialised online survey on the coordination of long-term care benefits, export of unemployment benefits and coordination of unemployment benefits for frontier workers.
3. Social partners were consulted on the coordination of long-term care benefits, of unemployment benefits for frontier workers and export of unemployment benefits in the framework of the Advisory Committee for the Coordination of Social Security Systems, and on the coordination of family benefits, long-term care benefits and unemployment benefits during a dedicated hearing.
4. NGOs were consulted on the coordination of family benefits, long-term care benefits and unemployment benefits through a dedicated consultation workshop.
5. Two online consultations were launched in December 2012 on the coordination of long-term care benefits, export of unemployment benefits and coordination of unemployment benefits for frontier workers; and in July 2015 on the coordination of unemployment benefits and of family benefits.

In relation to access by economically inactive mobile EU citizens to social benefits, Members States were divided. A number supported the status quo as a first or second choice; others favoured amending the equal treatment provisions of the Regulation as a first or second choice although there was no general consensus on the changes needed. A minority of Member States indicated interest in administrative guidance.

In relation to the coordination of long-term care benefits, a majority of Member States supported the creation of a specific definition and/or specific chapter and/or list of benefits, whilst others were in favour of the status quo. The results of the 2012 public consultation highlighted a diversity of opinions regarding the Member State competent for providing long-term care benefits.

In relation to unemployment benefits:

For the aggregation of unemployment benefits, Member States had divergent views with a slight majority favouring the maintenance of the status quo and the others favouring aggregation only after one month or three months of work. Social partners appeared to support the status quo. In the 2015 public consultation, a third of the respondents believed that the current rules should be changed.

15 The Council took the decision in December 2011 to review the effect of adding a new provision on unemployment benefits for self-employed frontier workers within a period of two years after its application. At this meeting and at the request of a majority of Member States, the Commission issued a declaration that the review would be an occasion to open up a broader discussion on the current coordination provisions in the field of unemployment benefits and to assess the need for a review of its principles.

In relation to the export of unemployment benefits, Member States had divergent views: some supported the current provisions, while others supported a right to export for at least 6 months. Employers' organisations supported the current provisions, while trade unions and NGOs supported the option for a right to export for at least 6 months. In the 2012 public consultation, the majority of respondents were in favour of extending the duration of the export of unemployment benefits.

Finally, in relation to the coordination of unemployment benefits for frontier and other cross-border workers, Member States appeared divided between those favouring the status quo, and those in favour of providing unemployment benefits for all workers from the state of last activity. The 2012 public consultation also revealed a range of opinions among individuals and different stakeholders on this topic.

In relation to the export of family benefits, a significant minority of Member States delegations favoured different coordination of benefits intended to replace income during child-raising periods. The majority of NGOs supported the status quo. In the 2015 public consultation a quarter of the respondents believed that current rules should be changed.

The breadth of different views in the responses received gave the Commission a comprehensive overview of the operation of the current coordination of social security, including perceived problems, the possible solutions and levels of support for these solutions. The outcome of the public consultations is available on the Your Voice in Europe portal.¹⁶ Full details of stakeholders' views can be found in the Impact Assessment Report.

- Collection and use of expertise

In preparing this proposal, there has been extensive consultation with experts within the Commission as well as with external experts. Studies and reports from the trESS network of legal experts¹⁷, the Network of legal experts on intra EU-mobility (FreSsco), the Network of statistical experts on intra EU-mobility, a supporting impact assessment study by Deloitte Consulting, additional analysis by the KU Leuven Research Institute for Work and Society (HIVA) and by a consortium of Fondazione Giacomo Brodolini, COWI and the Warwick Institute for Employment Research were taken into consideration. A detailed overview of the expert consultation can be found in the Impact Assessment Report. In addition the proposal has been informed by the work of an Ad-hoc group composed of national experts from Member State national authorities formed within the framework of the Administrative Commission who developed a number of recommendations concerning the rules for determination of applicable legislation in particular concerning posted workers and persons working in two or more Member States.

- Impact assessment

In line with its policy on Better Regulation, the Commission carried out an impact assessment of potential policy options which evaluated their economic, social, regulatory and overall efficiency and coherence with wider EU objectives.¹⁸ This work was supported by structured consultation with the Commission services via an Inter-Service Steering Group.¹⁹

The coordination rules are directly addressed to Member States and their social security institutions. Small and medium-sized enterprises (SME's) are not directly affected by this proposal. No positive or negative environmental impact is foreseen.

In respect of digital impacts, the proposal is fully 'internet ready'. Electronic data exchange between national authorities in the field of social security coordination will be implemented through the Electronic Exchange of Social Security Information (EESSI) Project (full implementation foreseen by mid-2019).

In relation to access by economically inactive mobile EU citizens to social benefits, the preferred option is to amend the current equal treatment provisions of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 to make reference to the limitations in Directive 2004/38/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on the right of citizens of the Union and their family members to move and reside freely within the territory of the Member States amending Regulation (EEC) No 1612/68 and repealing Directives 64/221/EEC, 68/360/EEC, 72/194/EEC, 73/148/EEC, 75/34/EEC, 75/35/EEC, 90/364/EEC, 90/365/EEC and 93/96/EEC (hereafter Directive 2004/38/EC)²⁰ and reflecting the case law of the Court of Justice. This is preferred to the alternative legislative options (to allow such derogation concerning special non-contributory cash benefits in Article 70 of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004; or removing special non-contributory cash benefits providing subsistence income from this Regulation and non-legislative options (clarifying the rules through a communication). The proposal codifies the state of EU law as interpreted by the Court of Justice and therefore will have minimal economic impact or impact on social rights compared to the baseline, however, it may reduce regulatory costs by providing greater clarity on the current state of EU law.

The proposal establishes a coherent regime for long-term care benefits by introducing a separate Chapter on the coordination of these benefits aligned with existing provisions on sickness benefits and including a definition of long-term care benefits and provides for a list of national benefits. This was preferred to the alternative options where the Member State of residence would provide all long-term care benefits with reimbursement by the competent Member State (with or without further supplement by the competent State). The preferred option provides an express legal basis for the existing rules bringing transparency and stability to the regime. Citizens and institutions will benefit from the clarification and social protection will be increased. The preferred option will not involve significant economic impact or high implementation costs compared with the baseline.

In relation to the coordination of unemployment benefits:

The preferred option for the aggregation of unemployment benefits is to require a minimum qualifying period of three months insurance in the Member State of most recent activity before a right to aggregate past periods of insurance arises (while requiring the Member State of previous activity to provide benefits when this condition is not fulfilled). This is preferred to other options permitting aggregation after only one day or one month of insurance or permitting reference earnings received in Member State of previous activity for the calculation of unemployment benefits being taken into account after either one or three months of activity in the competent Member State. The preferred option is estimated to ensure a stronger link between the institutions which are competent for providing the unemployment benefits and to lead to possible savings of €41 million, although with a different distribution of costs between Member States. There would be no significant impact on regulatory costs.

In relation to the export of unemployment benefits the preferred option is to extend the minimum period for an export of unemployment benefits from three to six months while providing for the possibility to export the benefit for the whole period of entitlement. This option will be combined with a reinforced cooperation mechanism to support jobseekers to search for work increasing the likelihood of labour market reintegration. This is preferred to the alternative option of granting a right to export of unemployment benefit for the whole period of entitlement. The preferred option will not involve significant economic impact or high implementation costs compared with the baseline as the competent Member State is only required to export benefits to which there is already an existing entitlement.

In relation to the coordination of unemployment benefits for frontier and other cross-border workers, the preferred option is to make the Member State of most recent employment responsible for the payment of unemployment benefits when the frontier worker has worked there for at least 12 months and otherwise attributing the responsibility to the Member State of residence. As a consequence the current reimbursement procedure will be abolished. This option is preferred to the alternatives considered of either providing a choice for frontier workers as to where to claim unemployment benefits or making the Member State of most recent employment responsible for the payment of unemployment benefits in all cases. It is estimated that this option will increase economic cost from €416 million to €442 million but will also reduce regulatory costs from €9.9 million to €3.7 million.

In relation to the coordination of child-raising allowances intended to compensate parents for loss of income during child-raising periods, the preferred option is to change the current coordination provisions so that child-raising allowances are considered individual and personal rights and to permit an optional right for the secondary competent Member State to pay the benefit in full. This will allow those Member States which are actively encouraging the sharing of parental-responsibilities to remove potential financial disincentives for parents who both take parental leave during the same period. This option was preferred to the alternatives considered of requiring a mandatory obligation for the secondary competent Member State to derogate from the overlapping rules either in relation to all child-raising allowances or salary-related child-raising allowances only. The maximum economic impact of the preferred option would be an increase in economic costs for a secondary competent Member State within a range of 58 to 84% although in practice is likely to be lower as not all Member States will choose to apply the derogation. The effect on social rights of the change to individual and personal rights is expected to be minimal due to low levels of compliance with the requirement to recognise derived rights to child-raising allowances.

This proposal is accompanied by an impact assessment report (SWD (2016) 460 which has been reviewed by the Regulatory Scrutiny Board, which issued a positive opinion on 21 January 2016. All the recommendations from the Regulatory Scrutiny Board have been taken into consideration in the final impact assessment report.

4. BUDGETARY IMPLICATIONS

The proposal has no implications for the EU budget. Potential impacts for national budgets have been outlined above.

5. OTHER ELEMENTS

- Implementation plans and monitoring, evaluation and reporting arrangements

The Commission will submit to the European Parliament, the Council and the Economic and Social Committee, five years after the date of application of the amended Regulations, and every five years thereafter at the latest, an evaluation report on the application of the new instrument in line with Better Regulation Guidelines.

- Detailed explanation of the specific provisions of the proposal

This section provides a more detailed explanation of the specific provisions of the proposal for Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 (hereafter: "the basic Regulation") and Regulation (EC) No 987/2009 (hereafter "the implementing Regulation").

Article 1

Article 1 concerns the amendments to the basic Regulation.

1. Recital 2 is amended to refer to the right of free movement for all EU citizens under EU law.
2. Recital 5 is amended to refer to the limitations concerning access to social benefits for economically inactive EU mobile citizens included in Directive 2004/38/EC.
3. Recital 5a is inserted to clarify that the application of Directive 2004/38/EC to the Regulations has been elucidated by the jurisprudence of the Court of Justice in Cases C-140/12, Brey, EU:C:2013:565, C-333/13, Dano, EU:C:2014:2358 and C-308/14 Commission v United Kingdom, EU:C:2016:436.
4. Recital 5b is inserted to clarify that in assessing the fulfilment of the requirement to hold comprehensive sickness insurance cover as set out in Directive 2004/38/EC Member States should ensure that it is possible for inactive EU mobile citizens to fulfil this requirement.
5. Recital 5c is inserted to make clear that the limitations to the rights to equal treatment for economically inactive EU mobile citizens included in Directive 2004/38/EC do not override such persons' fundamental rights as recognised in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union.
6. Recital 24 is amended to include a reference to the new Chapter for long-term care benefits.
7. Recital 35a is inserted to explain that family benefits intended to replace income during child-raising periods are a special category of family benefit and are to be treated as an individual and personal right provided the benefit in question is listed in Part 1 of Annex XIII of the basic Regulation. This means a competent Member State is not obliged to grant derived rights in respect of such a benefit to members of the insured person's family. Member States with secondary competence may choose to disapply the anti-overlapping rules at Article 68(2) of the basic Regulation and award such benefits in full to an entitled person. Where a Member State chooses to derogate it should be listed in Part 2 of Annex XIII and the derogation must be applied consistently to all entitled persons concerned.

8. Recital 39a refers to the relevant EU data protection instruments.
9. Recital 46 is inserted to refer to the delegated power granted to the Commission to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU amending all the Annexes to the basic and implementing Regulations. These Annexes contain country-specific entries reflecting differences in Member States' national systems.
10. Recital 47 is inserted to emphasise that the basic Regulation respects fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union and must be implemented in accordance with those rights and principles.
11. Recital 48 is inserted to clarify that nothing within the basic Regulation shall limit the independent rights and obligations recognised in the European Convention of Human Rights.
12. Article 1 is amended to take into account the proposed new Chapter 1a on long-term care benefits. This includes a definition of long-term care benefits at point (d) which specifies the constituent elements of such benefits. This definition takes into account analysis from the trESS network²¹ and reflects the case-law of the Court of Justice²² and is in line with the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.
13. Article 3(1) is amended to include long-term care benefits as a distinct branch of social security.
14. Article 4 provides that in relation to access to social security benefits by economically inactive mobile EU citizens in the host Member State the principle of equal treatment may be subject to the requirement to hold legal residence as set out in Directive 2004/38/EC. For the purposes of this provision, with the exception of access to social assistance within the meaning of Directive 2004/38/EC, an economically inactive mobile EU citizen does not include a mobile jobseeker who in accordance with Article 45 TFEU²³ enjoys a right of residence in the host Member State while looking for a job there.
15. Article 11 is amended at paragraph (2) to reflect the new definition of long-term care benefits. Paragraph (5) is also updated to align the definition of the "home base" to the new definition contained in Annex III, Subpart FTL, point 14 to Commission Regulation (EU) No 965/2012 of 5 October 2012 laying down technical requirements and administrative procedures related to air operations pursuant to Regulation (EC) No 216/2008 of the European Parliament and the Council as amended by Commission Regulation (EU) No 83/2014/EU of 29 January 2014.²⁴

16. Article 12 is amended to clarify that the term "posted worker" shall be given the meaning given within the Directive 96/71/EC. However, this clarification does not change the personal scope of this Article, but only aligns the notions used in those legal texts. The amendments also provide that the existing prohibition on replacement contained in Article 12(1) should also cover self-employed persons.
17. Article 13(4a) is inserted to provide a clear conflict rule in a case where a person is simultaneously receiving unemployment benefits from one Member State while employed in another Member State. It provides a statutory basis for the principles of Recommendation U1 of the Administrative Commission.²⁵
18. Article 32 is amended to provide clear priority rules for derivative rights of a family member in cases where there is an overlapping entitlement to sickness benefits in kind under the legislation of more than one Member State.
19. Article 34 is deleted reflecting the introduction of a new Chapter 1a on long-term care benefits.
20. Chapter 1a is inserted to introduce a separate Chapter for the coordination of long-term care benefits.

Article 35a sets out the general provisions for the coordination of long-term care benefits aligned with the rules for sickness benefits.

Paragraph 1 refers to the applicable provisions of Title III Chapter 1 of the basic Regulation.

Paragraph 2 creates an obligation for the Administrative Commission to list all long-term care benefits existing under national legislations.

Paragraph 3 provides for a derogation from the coordination of long-term care benefits in cash under the new Chapter by allowing Member States to coordinate benefits under other Chapters of Title III of the basic Regulation. Annex XII will list such benefits.

The existing anti-overlapping provisions for long-term care benefits in the current Article 34 are incorporated in the new Article 35b, with the exception of paragraph 2, which is included in the new Article 35a(2).

Article 35c sets out the reimbursement rules for long-term care benefits between institutions. Paragraph 1 applies Article 35 to long-term care benefits. Paragraph 2 provides for subsidiary competence for reimbursement by sickness insurance institutions where there is no specific legislation on long-term care benefits in kind.

24 OJ L 28, 31.01.2014, p. 17.

25 Recommendation No U1 of 12 June 2009 concerning the legislation applicable to unemployed persons engaging in part-time professional or trade activity in a Member State other than the State of residence, OJ C 106, 24.4.2010, p. 49.

This mirrors the logic of Article 40(2) concerning benefits for accidents at work and occupational diseases.

21. Article 50(2) is amended to remove the superfluous reference to Article 52(1)(a), as insurance periods completed in other Member States are not taken into account when calculating independent benefits under Article 52(1)(a).
22. Article 61 is amended to remove the special provisions for aggregation contained under the current paragraph 1. Instead the general provisions for aggregation at Article 6 will apply so that periods of insurance, employment or self-employment completed in a former Member State will be taken into account, where necessary, by the Member State of last activity provided that the most recent periods of insurance employment or self-employment were completed in that Member State and lasted at least three months.
23. Article 64 is amended to extend the minimum period that unemployed jobseekers seeking employment in another Member State may request the export of unemployment benefits from three to six months (or the remainder of the period of entitlement if shorter than six months). Member States may extend this six month period to the full duration of entitlement to unemployment benefits in the competent Member State.
24. The new Article 64a complements Article 61. It provides that unemployed persons who move their residence to another Member State and become unemployed in that Member State after a period of less than three months of insured work may request export of their cash unemployment benefits from the Member State of previous insurance. In this case, they have to register with the employment services of the Member State of last activity and comply with the obligations required of unemployment benefit claimants under the legislation of that Member State.
25. Article 65 is amended to introduce new provisions for the payment of unemployment benefits to frontier workers and other cross-border workers who, during their last period of work, resided outside the competent Member State.

Paragraph 1 provides that such persons will be treated as if they resided in the competent Member State.

Paragraph 2 provides that persons who worked for less than 12 months in the competent Member State will receive benefits from the State of residence. However, a worker who has a right to unemployment benefits under the national legislation of the competent Member State without relying on the principle of aggregation in Article 6 may choose to receive the unemployment benefits from that Member State.

Paragraph 3 creates an exception to the normal obligation under Article 64(1)(a) for an unemployed person wishing to export their unemployment benefits to have registered with the employment services of the competent Member State for a period of at least four weeks. This exception applies in the case of a wholly unemployed person who chooses to look for work in their Member State of residence and applies for the whole period of entitlement to unemployment benefit. Paragraph 4 allows such persons a choice of registering with the employment services either in the Member State of residence or the Member State of former activity.

Paragraph 5 clarifies that paragraphs 2 to 4 do not apply to a person who is partially or intermittently unemployed. Such persons are only entitled to claim unemployment benefits in the Member State of former activity.

26. Article 68b is introduced to provide special coordination provisions for family benefits intended to replace income during child-raising periods which are listed in Part I of the newly created Annex XIII. It provides such benefits are to be treated as an individual and personal right rather than a benefit for the family as a whole. Member States with secondary competence may choose to disapply the anti-overlapping rules at Article 68(2) of the basic Regulation and award such benefits in full to an entitled person. Such Member States will be listed in Part II of Annex XIII.
27. The new Article 75a is inserted to give greater prominence to the existing obligation contained at Article 89(3) of the implementing Regulation for competent institutions to ensure that their institutions are aware of and comply with their coordination obligations including decisions of the Administrative Commission. It also introduces an obligation to promote cooperation between competent institutions and labour inspectorates at national level.
28. Article 76a is inserted to empower the European Commission to adopt implementing acts in accordance with Article 291 TFEU specifying the procedures to be followed in order to ensure uniform conditions for the application of the special rules contained in Article 12 and 13 of the basic Regulation for posted or sent workers and self-employed persons and for persons who pursue an activity in two or more Member States. These measures shall establish standard procedures for the issuance, contestation and withdrawal of the PDA1 certifying the legislation which applies to persons in the situations referred to above.
29. Article 87b is inserted to specify the transitional provisions for the amendments introduced by this Regulation. The transitional provisions are standard save that paragraph 4 introduces special transitional provisions for the coordination of unemployment benefits for former frontier workers. It provides that existing provisions will continue to apply for those benefits which have been granted to persons before the entry into force of the new provisions.
30. Article 88 is replaced with a new Article 88 and 88a in relation to the procedure for updating the Annexes to the Regulations. These Annexes contain country-specific entries reflecting differences in Member States' national systems. This amendment will expand the existing powers provided at Article 92 of the implementing Regulation to enable the European Commission to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU amending all the Annexes to the basic Regulation. A faster process for amending the Annexes to reflect changes at national level will guarantee greater transparency and legal certainty for the stakeholders and better protection for citizens. In line with the Interinstitutional Agreement on Better Law-Making of 13 April 2016²⁶ the European Commission would carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work at an expert level.

Article 2

Article 2 concerns the amendments to the implementing Regulation.

26 COM(2015) 216 final.

1. A new recital 18a is inserted to refer to the special procedure that applies if a Member State is unable to notify the annual average costs per person in each age group for a particular reference year for the purposes of reimbursement of expenditure on benefits in kind on the basis of fixed amounts.
2. Recital 19 is amended to update the reference to Directive 2008/55/EC of 26 May 2008 on mutual assistance for the recovery of claims relating to certain levies, duties, taxes and other measures which has since been superseded by Directive 2010/24/EU concerning mutual assistance for the recovery of claims relating to taxes, duties and other measures.²⁷
3. New Recitals 25 and 26 are inserted to refer to new provisions to combat fraud and error in accordance with EU Data protection principles.
4. Article 1 is amended to include a new definition for "fraud" in light of the new provision in Article 5(2). It is based on that used in the Communication: "Free movement of EU citizens and their families: Five actions to make a difference".²⁸
5. Article 2 is amended to provide a permissive ground for Member States to periodically exchange personal data of persons to whom the Regulations apply to facilitate identification of any fraud or error in the proper application of the Regulations. Data transfers under this provision are subject to the obligations in Article 77 of the basic Regulation that data is transmitted in accordance with Union provisions on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing and free movement of personal data.
6. Article 3(3) is amended to specify the data subject's rights pursuant to EU data protection law and also provides that a data subject may request that the competent authority of the Member State of residence coordinates requests made by the data subject concerning personal data processed pursuant to these Regulations.
7. Article 5 is amended to provide that a declaratory document issued by an institution shall only be valid where all mandatory information has been completed.

Upon request, the issuing institution shall be required to review the grounds for issuing a document and where necessary rectify or withdraw the document within 25 working days. In the case of fraud committed by the applicant, the withdrawal of a document shall have retroactive effect.

Moreover, the issuing institution shall forward to the requesting institution all the available supporting evidence on which it has based its decision within 25 working days or two working days in cases of demonstrable urgency.

8. Article 14(1) is amended to align with the changes introduced to Article 12(1) of the basic Regulation. In addition, it provides that the requirement that a posted or sent worker was previously affiliated to the social security system of the sending Member State does not require affiliation to the same Member State where his or her employer is established.

27 OJ L84 of 31.3.2010.

9. Article 14(5a) clarifies that Article 13(1)(b)(i) of the basic Regulation which provides that an employee shall be subject to the legislation of the Member State, where the employer or undertaking's registered office or place of business is situated shall only apply if the employer or undertaking in question ordinarily carries out substantial activity in that Member State. Where this is not the case the employee shall be covered by the legislation of the Member State where the employer or undertaking's main activities or centre of interest is located. This determination shall be made in accordance with the criteria laid down in Article 14(9) and (10) of the implementing Regulation. The second sub-paragraph of paragraph 5a is deleted as it is superfluous in light of the amendments to Article 11(5) of the basic Regulation.
10. Article 14(12) is inserted to provide a conflict of law provision to address situations where a person who resides in a third country outside of the scope of application of the Regulations pursues an activity as an employed or self-employed person in two or more Member States while being covered by the social security legislation of one of those States. The amendment provides that such a person will be subject only to the social security legislation of the Member State where the registered office or place of business of the undertaking or his or her employer or the centre of interest of his or her activity is located.
11. Article 15(2) is amended to provide for the issuance of a Portable Document A1 ("PDA1") to flight crew and cabin crew members referred to in Article 11(5) of the basic Regulation.
12. Article 16 is amended to streamline the procedure for determining applicable legislation in the case of employment in two or more Member States. Paragraphs 1 and 5 provide that an employer can initiate the procedure on behalf of its employees and that the employer shall be notified of the decision taken as to which social security legislation shall apply. Amendments to paragraph 2 provide that the institution in which the employer is situated shall also be informed of the decision. The amendment to paragraph 3 provides that the existing procedure comprising first a provisional determination which becomes definitive only if no other institution concerned contests that decision within two months, shall be confined to those situations where the institution of the place of residence determines that the legislation of another Member State applies.
13. Article 19 is amended to provide that competent institutions have an obligation to verify the relevant information before issuing a PDA1 determining the applicable legislation for its holder. This is in accordance with the jurisprudence of the Court of Justice.²⁹ It also provides that social security institutions and labour inspectorates, tax and immigration authorities shall be entitled to directly exchange information regarding the social security status of the persons concerned for the purposes of ensuring compliance with legal obligations associated with employment, health and safety, immigration and taxation (details of such exchanges to be specified by decision of the Administrative Commission). The competent authority shall be required to provide specific and adequate information to data subjects about the purposes for which personal data is processed.
14. Title III, Chapter 1 is amended to extend its application to long-term care benefits.

For example, Case C-202/97, FTS, paragraph 51 EU:C:2000:75, Case C-2/05 Herbosch Kiere paragraph 22 EU:C:2006:69.

15. Articles 23, 24 (3), 28 (1), 31 and 32 are amended to ensure that these Articles apply to long-term care benefits. In the case of special schemes for civil servants, they will have to be listed in Annex 2.
16. The second subparagraph of Article 43(3) which provides for situations in which the national legislation allocates different values to insurance periods of voluntary or optional insurance and the competent institution cannot determine the amount due for period concerned is deleted. This follows a review by the Administrative Commission that concluded this rule is no longer needed.
17. Article 55(4) is amended to strengthen the control procedure referred to in the third subparagraph by rendering the monthly follow-up reports mandatory.
18. Article 55(7) is amended to provide that the current provisions dealing with the export of unemployment benefit shall apply mutatis mutandis in the case of export based on the new Article 64a of the basic Regulation.
19. The new Article 55a is inserted pursuant to Article 64a of the basic Regulation to ensure that the competent institution of the Member State of previous insurance receives all the necessary information for assessing entitlement to unemployment benefits for the person concerned.
20. Article 56 is amended to reflect changes to Article 65 of the basic Regulation.
21. Chapter I of Title IV is renamed to reflect that this Chapter also applies to reimbursement of long-term care benefits on the basis of actual expenditure or fixed amounts.
22. The first indent of Article 64(1) is amended to improve the accuracy of the methodology for calculating the reimbursement based on fixed amounts between Member States provided for in Article 24(1) and Articles 25 and 26 of the basic Regulation, by applying three different age groups in relation to persons aged 65 and above.
23. Article 65(1) concerning reimbursement of benefits in kind on the basis of fixed amounts is amended to clarify that if it is not possible for a Member State to notify the average annual costs for a specific year within the required deadline, then the Administrative Commission may, upon request, agree that the average annual costs published in the Official Journal for the immediately preceding year can be used. This derogation cannot be granted for consecutive years.
24. Article 70 is deleted as a result of the amendments to Article 65 of the basic Regulation which abolish the reimbursement rules for unemployment benefits for former frontier workers.
25. Article 73(1) and (2) are amended and paragraph 3 is inserted to extend the application of the offsetting procedure to settlement of claims to cases resulting from a retroactive change of the applicable legislation. In addition, paragraph 4 is inserted in order to ensure that the offsetting procedure between the institutions is not impeded by time-limits laid down in national legislation. Taking into account that a five-year time has already been introduced in Article 82(1)(b) of the implementing Regulation for the recovery procedure, paragraph 5 is inserted to provide that a limitation period of five years shall also apply to the offsetting procedure under this Article 73 counting backwards from the date, when the procedure for resolving disputes between Member States referred to in Articles 5(2) or 6(3) of the implementing Regulation commenced.

26. Articles 75 to 82 and 84 are amended and Article 85a is inserted to update the recovery procedures contained in Chapter III of Title V of the implementing Regulation. The existing procedures are based upon those set out in Directive 2008/55/EC which has since been superseded by Directive 2010/24/EU. In particular the amendments provide for a uniform instrument to be used for enforcement measures as well as standard procedures for requesting mutual assistance and notification of instruments and decisions relating to a claim.
27. Article 75 is amended to provide a legal basis for the Member States to use the information exchanged, in the field covered by this Regulation, also for the purpose of assessment and enforcement of taxes and duties covered by Directive 2010/24/EU. It furthermore introduces a legal basis for authorities to exchange information, without prior request, in cases of refund of social security contributions.
28. Article 76 is amended to limit the possibility of Member States to decline to supply information when this would be useful in the recovery of a claim.
29. Article 77 is amended to introduce a uniform notification form. The amendment also clarifies that a request for notification should be made where the Member State of the applicant party is unable to notify itself, in accordance to its rules, or if a notification by that State would give rise to disproportionate difficulties.
30. Article 78 is amended to introduce exceptions to the obligation of the Member State to provide assistance in a recovery procedure for cases where it is clear that there are no prospects of full recovery or the procedure would cause disproportionate difficulties.
31. Article 79 is amended to introduce a uniform instrument for enforcement of recovery, capable of direct recognition in another Member State. The introduction of a uniform instrument for enforcement was strongly supported by Member States representatives within the Administrative Commission.³⁰
32. Article 80 is amended to clarify the circumstances where the requested party may deduct incurred costs from the recovered claim.
33. Article 81 adapts the provisions on contestation to take account of the amendments concerning notification and the uniform instrument for enforcement.
34. Article 82 is amended to clarify the limitation periods that apply in respect of requests for assistance concerning claims older than five years.
35. Article 84 is amended to clarify when a Member State may request assistance in application of precautionary measures. It further provides that a document drawn up to permit precautionary measures in the Member State of the applicant party cannot be subject to acts of recognition, supplement or replacement.

36. Article 85 is amended to introduce a provision which clarifies the obligation of the applicant party to reimburse the costs linked to recovery incurred by the requested party, in situations where these costs cannot be recovered from the debtor or deducted from the claim.
37. Article 85a is introduced to allow officials of the applicant party to participate in the recovery procedure within another Member State, where this is agreed between the parties and is in accordance with the arrangements of the requested party.
38. Article 87(6) is amended to limit the exception to the principle of free-of-charge mutual administrative cooperation laid down in that Article by removing the obligation to refund the expenses of medical examinations and administrative checks carried out by the institution of the place of stay or residence in cases where that institution uses the findings to fulfil obligations under its own legislation.
39. Article 89(3) is deleted as this provision is now incorporated in Article 75a of the basic Regulation.
40. Article 92 is deleted as a consequence of the amendments to Article 88 of the basic Regulation.
41. Article 93 is amended and Article 94a is inserted to refer to the transitional arrangements at Article 87b of the basic Regulation and the special transitional provisions for the coordination of unemployment benefits for former frontier workers.
42. Article 96 is amended to provide that for the purposes of carrying out currency conversion under Article 107 of Regulation (EEC) No 574/72 of the Council of 21 March 1972 fixing the procedure for implementing Regulation (EEC) No 1408/71 on the application of social security schemes to employed persons and their families moving within the Community³¹, competent institutions may refer to the currency conversion rates published pursuant to Article 90 of the implementing Regulation.

Article 3

This Article specifies the entry into force of the new provisions.

Annex

1. The Annex includes amendments to the current Annexes to the basic Regulation. These Annexes need to be periodically updated especially due to changes in national legislation.
2. Annex I to the basic Regulation on the exemptions from the coordination of family benefits is amended to reflect changes in national legislation concerning advances of maintenance payments for Slovakia and Sweden and special childbirth and adoption allowances for Hungary, Romania and Sweden.

31 OJ L 74, 27.3.1972, p. 1–83 (English special edition: Series I Volume 1972(I) P. 160 – 233)

3. Annex II to the basic Regulation on bilateral conventions is amended to delete the reference to "SPAIN-PORTUGAL" which has expired.
4. Annex III to the basic Regulation is amended in accordance with Article 87(10a): the entries for Estonia, Spain, Italy, Lithuania, Hungary, and the Netherlands are deleted following their expiry on 1 May 2014. In addition, Croatia, Finland and Sweden are removed from Annex III at their own request.
5. Annex IV to the basic Regulation lists Member States granting more rights to pensioners returning to the competent State. It is amended to include Estonia, Lithuania, Malta, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Finland, and the United Kingdom who wish to grant full access to sickness benefits in kind for pensioners returning to their territories.
6. Annex X to the basic Regulation, which lists the special non-contributory cash benefits, is amended to reflect changes in national legislations.

Some entries are deleted as the benefits listed no longer exist (the Czech social allowance, the Estonian disabled adult allowance, the Hungarian transport allowance and the Slovenian state pension and maintenance allowance) or the benefit has been redefined and is part of the national social assistance legislation (the Slovenian income support for pensioners).

Newly introduced benefits which comply with the conditions provided in Article 70(2) of the basic Regulation must be added (the Estonian funeral benefit, the Romanian social allowance for pensioners and the mobility component of the British personal independence payment).

Two of the current entries for Germany and Sweden must be updated as the national legislation has been amended.

7. Annex XI to the basic Regulation, which contains special provisions for the application of the legislation of Member States, needs to be updated.

The amendment to the German entry is intended to ensure the most favourable tax regime applies to persons receiving a parental leave benefit.

The amendment to the Estonian entry provides a method for calculating pro rata invalidity benefit in accordance with Article 52(1)(b) of the basic Regulation, specifying that periods of residence completed in Estonia will be taken into account starting from the age of 16 until the invalidity occurred

The amendment to the Netherlands entry provides that persons receiving an 'equivalent pension' in accordance with Annex XI (1)(f), and members of their family, are entitled, on the basis of an equivalent pension and subsequently of the statutory old-age pension, to receive sickness benefits in kind in the Member State of residence at the expense of the Netherlands.

Two new entries are inserted for Czech Republic and Slovakia in connection with the application of the Convention on Social Security of 29 October 1992 concluded after the dissolution of the Czech and Slovak Federal Republic (already listed into Annex II). The objective is to take account of the particularities of their new pension supplements which relate to these special historical circumstances.

The first two paragraphs of the Swedish entry should be deleted as a consequence of the ruling of the Court of Justice in Case C-257/10, Bergström, EU:C:2011:839.

Paragraphs 1, 2 and 4 of the United Kingdom entry are amended to reflect changes in national legislation.

8. A new Annex is added to the basic Regulation, Annex XII, which will list long-term care benefits coordinated under Chapter 1a, as referenced in Article 35a(3).
9. A new Annex is added to the basic Regulation, Annex XIII, which will list family benefits in cash intended to replace income during child-raising periods, as referenced in Article 68b.

Proposal for a

REGULATION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

amending Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 on the coordination of social security systems and regulation (EC) No 987/2009 laying down the procedure for implementing Regulation (EC) No 883/2004

(Text with relevance for the EEA and Switzerland)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 48 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national Parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee³²,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

- (1) A modernised system of social security coordination started to apply from 1 May 2010 with Regulations (EC) No 883/2004 and (EC) No 987/2009.
- (2) These Regulations were updated by Regulation (EU) No 465/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 May 2012 to supplement, clarify and update certain provisions of Regulations, especially in the field of the determination of the applicable legislation and unemployment benefits, and to make technical adaptations to the references to national legislation in the Annexes.
- (3) It has emerged from evaluations and discussions within the Administrative Commission for the Coordination of Social Security Systems that in the areas of long-term care benefits, unemployment benefits and family benefits the modernisation process should continue.
- (4) It remains essential that the coordination rules keep pace with the evolving legal and societal context in which they operate by further facilitating the exercise of citizens' rights while at the same time ensuring legal clarity, a fair and equitable distribution of the financial burden among the institutions of the Member States involved and administrative simplicity and enforceability of the rules.

- (5) It is necessary to guarantee legal certainty by clarifying that access to social security benefits for economically inactive mobile citizens in the host Member State, may be made conditional upon that citizen holding a legal right of residence in that Member State in accordance with Directive 2004/38/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on the right of citizens of the Union and their family members to move and reside freely within the territory of the Member States.³³ For these purposes, an economically inactive citizen should be clearly distinguished from a jobseeker whose right of residence is conferred directly by Article 45 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union.
- (6) Long-term care benefits have so far not been included explicitly within the material scope of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 but coordinated as sickness benefits, leading to legal uncertainty both for institutions and persons claiming long-term care benefits. There is a need to develop a stable legal framework appropriate to long-term care benefits within the Regulation to include a clear definition of such benefits.
- (7) In order to ensure clarity regarding the terminology in EU law, the term “posting” should only be used for the posting of workers within the meaning of Directive 96/71/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 December 1996 concerning the posting of workers in the framework of the provision of services.³⁴ In addition, to achieve consistency in treatment between employed and self-employed persons it is necessary that the special rules for the determination of applicable legislation in the cases of workers who are temporarily posted or sent to another Member State should apply consistently to both employed and self-employed persons.
- (8) In the area of unemployment benefits, the rules on the aggregation of periods of insurance should be applied uniformly by all Member States. With the exception of cross-border workers referred to in Article 65(2), the rules on the aggregation of periods for the purpose of conferring entitlement to unemployment benefits should be subject to the condition that an insured person has most recently completed at least three months of insurance in that Member State. The previously competent Member State should become competent for all insured persons who do not satisfy this condition. In this case, registration with the employment services of the Member State of most recent insurance should have the same effect as registration with the employment services of the Member State, where the unemployed person had been previously insured.
- (9) Following the recommendations in the EU Citizenship Report 2013,³⁵ there is a need to extend the minimum duration of export of unemployment benefits from three to six months in order to improve the opportunities for unemployed persons moving to another Member State to look for work and their chances for reintegration into the labour market and to address skills mismatches across borders.
- (10) There is a need to ensure greater parity of treatment for frontier and cross-border workers by ensuring frontier workers receive unemployment benefits from the Member State of last activity provided that they have worked in that Member State for at least the past twelve months.

35 COM(2013) 269 final.

- (11) Family benefits intended to replace income during child-raising periods are designed to meet the individual and personal needs of the parent subject to the legislation of the competent Member State and therefore are distinguishable from other family benefits as they are intended to compensate a parent for loss of income or salary during time spent raising a child rather than solely meeting general family expenses.
- (12) In order to enable a timely update of this Regulation to the developments at the national level, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union should be delegated to the European Commission in respect of amending the Annexes to this Regulation and Regulation (EC) No 987/2009. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level and that those consultations be conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Interinstitutional Agreement on Better Law-Making of 13 April 2016.³⁶ In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, the European Parliament and Council receive all documents at the same time as Member States' experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts.
- (13) With a view to supporting Member States in their efforts to combat fraud and error in the application of the coordination rules, it is necessary to establish a further permissive legal basis to facilitate the processing of personal data about persons to whom Regulations (EC) No 883/2004 and (EC) No 987/2009 apply. This would enable a Member State to periodically compare data held by its competent institutions against that held by another Member State in order to identify errors or inconsistencies that require further investigation.
- (14) In order to protect the rights of data subjects while at the same time facilitating the legitimate interest of Member States to collaborate in enforcement of legal obligations, it is necessary to clearly specify the circumstances in which personal data exchanged pursuant to these Regulations may be used for purposes other than social security and to clarify the obligations of Member States to provide specific and adequate information to data subjects.
- (15) With a view to expediting the procedure for the verification and withdrawal of documents (in particular concerning the social security legislation which applies to the holder) in case of fraud and error, it is necessary to strengthen the collaboration and the exchange of information between the issuing institution and the institution requesting a withdrawal. Where there is doubt about the validity of a document or about the correctness of supporting evidence or where there is a difference of views between Member States concerning the determination of the applicable legislation, it is in the interest of the Member States and the persons concerned that the institutions concerned reach an agreement within a reasonable period of time.
- (16) To ensure the effective and efficient operation of the coordination rules it is necessary to clarify the rules for determining applicable legislation for employees who pursue their economic activity in two or more Member States in order to provide a greater parity with the conditions that apply to persons who are posted or sent to pursue economic activity in a single Member State. Moreover, the posting rules providing for the continuation of the applicable legislation should only apply to persons who had a prior link to the social security system of the Member State of origin.

- (17) Implementing powers should be conferred on the European Commission in order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of Articles 12 and 13 of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004. Those powers should be exercised in accordance with Article 5 of Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 February 2011 laying down the rules and general principles concerning mechanisms for control by the Member States of the Commission's exercise of implementing powers.³⁷
- (18) If a Member State is unable to notify within the deadline the annual average cost per person in each age group for a reference year, it is necessary to provide an alternative that the Member State may submit claims for that year based on the annual average costs for the immediately preceding year published in the Official Journal. The reimbursement of the expenditure on benefits in kind on the basis of fixed amounts should be as close as possible to the actual expenditure; therefore a derogation from the notification obligation should be subject to the approval by the Administrative Commission and should not be granted in a consecutive year.
- (19) Taking into account the jurisprudence of the Court of Justice in Cases C-345/09 van Delft and Others, EU:C:2010:610 and C-543/13 EU:C:2015:359 Fischer-Lintjens there is a need to facilitate retrospective changes in applicable legislation. Therefore the offsetting procedure that applies in situations where the legislation of a Member State was applied provisionally in accordance with Article 6 of Regulation (EC) No 987/2009 should also be extended to other cases resulting from a retroactive change of the applicable legislation. In addition, in this context, it is necessary to disapply divergent limitation provisions in national law to ensure that a retroactive settlement between the institutions is not impeded by any incompatible time-limits laid down in national legislation while at the same time establishing a uniform limitation period of five years counting backwards from the commencement of the dialogue procedure referred to under Article 5(2) and 6(3) of this Regulation to ensure this procedure for resolving such disputes is not frustrated.
- (20) Effective recovery is a means of preventing and tackling fraud and abuse and ensuring the smooth functioning of social security schemes. The recovery procedures contained in Chapter III of Title IV of Regulation 987/2009 are based upon the procedures and rules set up in Directive 2008/55/EC of 26 May 2008 on mutual assistance for the recovery of claims relating to certain levies, duties, taxes and other measure³⁸. This Directive has been superseded by Directive 2010/24/EU concerning mutual assistance for the recovery of claims relating to taxes, duties and other measures³⁹, which introduced a uniform instrument to be used for enforcement measures as well as a standard form for notification of instruments and measures relating to claims. In the review by the Administrative Commission in accordance with Article 86 (3) of Regulation 987/2009 most Member States found it advantageous to use a uniform instrument for enforcement similar to that foreseen by Directive 2010/24/EU. It is therefore necessary that the rules for mutual assistance in recovery of social security claims reflect the new measures in Directive 2010/24/EU in order to ensure more effective recovery and smooth functioning of the coordination rules.

- (21) To take account of legal changes in certain Member States and to guarantee legal certainty for stakeholders, the Annexes to Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 need to be adapted.

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

Article 1

Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 is amended as follows:

1. A second sentence is added in Recital 2 as follows:

"Article 21 Treaty of the Functioning of the European Union guarantees every Union citizen the right to free movement subject to the limitations and conditions laid down in the Treaties and by the measures adopted to give them effect."

2. In Recital 5, after "the different national legislation for the persons concerned" the following wording is inserted:

", subject to the conditions as regards the access to certain social security benefits by economically inactive mobile EU citizens in the host Member State set out in Directive 2004/38/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 29 April 2004 on the right of citizens of the Union and their family members to move and reside freely within the territory of the Member States.⁴⁰"

3. After Recital 5, the following is inserted:

"(5a) The Court of Justice has held that Member States are entitled to make the access of economically inactive citizens in the host Member State to social security benefits, which do not constitute social assistance within the meaning of Directive 2004/38/EC subject to a legal right of residence within the meaning of that Directive. The verification of the legal right of residence should be carried out in accordance with the requirement of Directive 2004/38/EC. For these purposes, an economically inactive citizen should be clearly distinguished from a jobseeker whose right of residence is conferred directly by Article 45 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union. In order to improve legal clarity for citizens and institutions, a codification of this case law is necessary.

(5b) Member States should ensure that economically inactive EU mobile citizens are not prevented from satisfying the condition of having comprehensive sickness insurance cover in the host Member State, as laid down in Directive 2004/38/EC. This may entail allowing such citizens to contribute in a proportionate manner to a scheme for sickness coverage in the Member State in which they habitually reside.

(5c) Notwithstanding the limitations on the right to equal treatment for economically inactive persons, that arise from the Directive 2004/38/EC or otherwise by virtue of Union law, nothing within this Regulation should restrict the fundamental rights recognised in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, notably the right to human dignity (Article 1), the right to life (Article 2) and the right to healthcare (Article 35)."

4. The first sentence of Recital 18b is replaced with the following:

"In Annex III, Subpart FTL to Commission Regulation (EU) No 965/2012 of 5 October 2012 laying down technical requirements and administrative procedures related to air operations pursuant to Regulation (EC) No 216/2008 of the European Parliament and the Council, as amended by Commission Regulation (EU) No 83/2014/EU of 29 January 2014 amending Regulation (EU) No 965/2012 laying down technical requirements and administrative procedures related to air operations pursuant to Regulation (EC) No 216/2008 of the European Parliament and the Council⁴¹, the concept of 'home base' for flight crew and cabin crew members is defined as the location, assigned by the operator to the crew member, from where the crew member normally starts and ends a duty period or a series of duty periods and where, under normal circumstances, the operator is not responsible for the accommodation of the crew member concerned."

5. Recital 24 is replaced by the following:

"(24) Long-term care benefits for insured persons and members of their families need to be coordinated according to specific rules which, in principle, follow the rules applicable to sickness benefits, in line with the case law of the Court of Justice. It is also necessary to provide for specific provisions in case of overlapping of long-term care benefits in kind and in cash."

6. After Recital 35 the following is inserted:

"(35a) Family benefits in cash intended to replace income during a periods of child-raising are individual rights which are personal to the parent subject to the legislation of the competent Member State. Given the specific nature of these family benefits, such benefits should be listed in Part I of Annex XIII to this Regulation and should be exclusively reserved to the parent concerned. The Member State with secondary competence may elect that the rules of priority in the case of overlapping of rights to family benefits under the legislation of the competent Member State and under the legislation of the Member State of residence of members of the family should not apply to such benefits. Where a Member State chooses to disapply the priority rules it must do so consistently in respect of all entitled persons in an analogous situation and be listed in Part II of Annex XIII."

7. After Recital 39, the following is inserted:

"(39a) The relevant EU data protection acquis, in particular Regulation (EU) 679/2016 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data, and repealing Directive

41 OJ L 28, 31.01.2014, p. 17

95/46/EC (General Data Protection Regulation)⁴² shall apply to the processing of personal data pursuant to this Regulation."

8. After Recital 45, the following recitals are inserted:

"(46) In order to enable a timely update of this Regulation to the developments at the national level, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union should be delegated to the European Commission in respect of amending the Annexes to this Regulation and Regulation (EC) No 987/2009. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level and that those consultations be conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Interinstitutional Agreement on Better Law-Making of 13 April 2016.⁴³ In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, the European Parliament and Council receive all documents at the same time as Member States' experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts.

(47) This Regulation respects fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, notably the protection of personal data (Article 8), the freedom to choose an occupation and right to engage in work (Article 15), the right to property (Article 17), the right to non-discrimination (Article 21), the rights of the child (Article 24), the rights of the elderly (Article 25), integration of persons with disabilities (Article 26), the right to family and professional life (Article 33); the right to social security and social assistance (Article 34), the right to health care (Article 35) and the right to freedom of movement and residence (Article 45); and has to be implemented in accordance with those rights and principles.

(48) Nothing within this Regulation shall limit the independent rights and obligations recognised in the European Convention of Human Rights notably the Right to Life (Article 2), the Right to protection from inhuman or degrading treatment (Article 3), the Right to Property (Article 1 of the first additional Protocol) and the right to non-discrimination (Article 14) and this Regulation has to be implemented in accordance with those rights and obligations."

9. Article 1 is amended as follows:

- (a) In Point (c) the term "Title III, Chapters 1 and 3" is replaced by the term "Title III, Chapters 1, 1a and 3".
- (b) In Point (i)(1)(ii) after the term "Title III, Chapter 1 on sickness, maternity and equivalent paternity benefits" the term " and Chapter 1a on long-term care benefits" is inserted.
- (c) In Point (va)(i) after the term "Title III, Chapter 1 (sickness, maternity and equivalent paternity benefits)," the term "and Chapter 1a (long-term care benefits)" is inserted and the last sentence is deleted.

42 OJ L 119, 4.5.2016, p. 1–88

43 COM(2015) 216 final.

(d) The following point is inserted after point (va):

“(vb) “long-term care benefit” means any benefit in kind, cash or a combination of both for persons who, over an extended period of time, on account of old-age, disability, illness or impairment, require considerable assistance from another person or persons to carry out essential daily activities, including to support their personal autonomy; this includes benefits granted to or for the person providing such assistance;”

10. In Article 3(1), the following point is inserted after point (b):

“(ba) long-term care benefits;”

11. Article 4 of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 is replaced with the following:

"Article 4

12. Article 11 is amended as follows:

(a) In paragraph 2 the term “sickness benefits in cash covering treatment for an unlimited period” is replaced by the term “long-term care benefits in cash”.

(b) Paragraph 5 is replaced by the following:

"5. An activity as a flight crew or cabin crew member performing air passenger or freight services shall be deemed to be an activity pursued exclusively in the Member State where the home base, as defined in Annex III, Subpart FTL to Commission Regulation (EU) No 965/2012 of 5 October 2012 laying down technical requirements and administrative procedures related to air operations pursuant to Regulation (EC) No 216/2008 of the European Parliament and the Council as amended by Commission Regulation (EU) No 83/2014/EU of 29 January 2014⁴⁵, is located."

2. The delegation of power referred to in Article 88 shall be conferred on the European Commission for an indeterminate period of time from the [the date of entry into force of the Regulation (EU) xxxx].

3. The delegation of the power referred to in Article 88 may be revoked at any time by the European Parliament or by the Council. A decision of revocation shall put an end to the delegation of the power specified in that decision. It shall take effect the day following the publication of the decision in the Official Journal of the European Union or at a later date specified therein. "(18a) Certain specific rules and procedures are required for the reimbursement of the cost of benefits incurred by a Member state of residence, where the persons concerned are insured in a different Member State. Member States that need to be reimbursed on the basis of fixed expenditure should notify the annual average costs per persons within a given deadline to allow the reimbursement as promptly as possible. If a Member State is unable to notify within the deadline the annual average cost per person in each age group for a reference year, it is necessary to provide an alternative that the Member State may submit claims for that year based on the annual average costs previously published in the Official Journal. The reimbursement of the expenditure on benefits in kind on the basis of fixed amounts should be as close as possible to the actual expenditure; therefore a derogation from the notification obligation should be subject to the approval by the Administrative Commission and should not be granted in a consecutive year."

2. Recital 19 is replaced with the following:

"(19) Procedures between institutions for mutual assistance in recovery of social security claims should be strengthened in order to ensure more effective recovery and smooth functioning of social security schemes. Effective recovery is also a means of preventing and tackling abuses and fraud and a way of ensuring the sustainability of social security schemes. This involves the adoption of new procedures, taking as a basis a number of existing provisions in Council Directive 2010/24/EU concerning mutual assistance for the recovery of claims relating to taxes, duties and other measures⁴⁹, in particular through the adoption of a uniform instrument for enforcement and standard procedures for requesting mutual assistance and notification of instruments and measures relating to the recovery of a social security claim."

3. The following recitals are inserted after recital (24):

"(25) The Administrative Commission adopted Decision No. H5 of 18 March 2010 concerning cooperation on combating fraud and error within the framework of Council Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 and Regulation (EC) No 987/2009 of the European Parliament and of the Council on the coordination of social security systems⁵⁰, which underlines that action to combat fraud and error is part of the proper implementation of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 and this Regulation. It is, therefore, in the interest of legal certainty that this Regulation contains a clear legal ground permitting competent institutions to exchange personal data with relevant authorities in the Member State of stay or residence relating to persons whose rights and obligations under Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 and this Regulation have already been established, in order to identify fraud and error as part of the ongoing proper implementation of these Regulations. It is also necessary to specify the circumstances in which personal data may be processed for a purpose other than social security including to monitor compliance with legal obligations at Union or national level in the fields of labour, health and safety, immigration and taxation law.

(26) In order to protect the rights of the persons concerned Member States should ensure that any data requests and responses are necessary and proportionate for the proper implementation of Regulation (EC) No 883/2004 and this Regulation, in accordance with European Data Protection legislation. There should be no automatic removal of benefit entitlement resulting from the data exchange, and any decision taken on the basis of the data exchange should respect the fundamental rights and freedoms of the individual concerned in that it is based on sufficient evidence and is subject to a fair appeal procedure."

4. In Article 1(2), the following point is inserted after paragraph (e):

“(ea) ‘fraud’ means any intentional act or omission to act, in order to obtain or receive social security benefits or to avoid to pay social security contributions, contrary to the law of a Member State;”.

5. In Article 2, the following paragraphs 5 to 7 are added after paragraph 4:

50 OJ 2010/C 149/05.

"5. When a person's rights or obligations to which the basic and implementing Regulations apply have been established or determined, the competent institution may request the institution in the Member State of residence or stay to provide personal data about that person. The request and any response shall concern information which enables the competent Member State to identify any inaccuracy in the facts on which a document or a decision determining the rights and obligations of a person under the basic or implementing Regulation is based. The request can also be made where there is no existing doubt about the validity or accuracy of the information contained in the document or on which the decision is based in a particular case. The request for information and any response must be necessary and proportionate.

6. The Administrative Commission shall draw up a detailed list of the types of data requests and responses which can be made under paragraph 5 and the European Commission shall give such list the necessary publicity. Only data requests and responses which are listed shall be permitted.

7. The request and any response shall comply with the requirements of the Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on the protection of individuals with regard the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data (General Data Protection Regulation),⁵¹ as also provided for by Article 77 of the basic Regulation."

6. In Article 3, paragraph 3 is replaced with the following:

"3. When collecting, transmitting or processing personal data pursuant to their legislation for the purposes of implementing the basic Regulation, Member States shall ensure that the persons concerned are able to exercise fully their rights regarding personal data protection in accordance with Union provisions on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and the free movement of such data in particular concerning the rights to have access, to rectify, to object to the processing of such personal data and are fully informed of the safeguards concerning automated individual decisions. A data subject shall be able to exercise the right to access his or her personal data processed under this Regulation not only by addressing the authority that controls the data but also through the competent institution where he or she is resident."

7. In Article 5, paragraphs 1 and 2 are replaced with the following:

"1. Documents issued by the institution of a Member State and showing the position of a person for the purposes of the application of the basic Regulation and of the implementing Regulation, and supporting evidence on the basis of which the documents have been issued, shall be accepted by the institutions of the other Member States for as long as they have not been withdrawn or declared to be invalid by the Member State in which they were issued.
