No. Cion doc.:	COM (2013) 45 final
Subject:	Proposal for a DIRECTIVE OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL on the prevention of the use of the financial system for the purpose of money laundering and terrorist financing

With a view to the Coreper 2 meeting of 15 January 2015, delegations will find below the final compromise text on the abovementioned Commission proposal.

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 114 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national Parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Central Bank,

After consulting the European Data Protection Supervisor,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

(1) Massive flows of illicit money can damage the stability and reputation of the financial sector and threaten the internal market and international development. Terrorism shakes the very foundations of our society. In addition to further developing the criminal law approach at Union level, prevention via the financial system is indispensable and can produce complementary results. However, the preventive approach should be targeted and proportionate.

(2) The soundness, integrity and stability of credit and financial institutions and confidence in the financial system as a whole could be seriously jeopardised by the efforts of criminals and their associates either to disguise the origin of criminal proceeds or to channel lawful or unlawful money for terrorist purposes. In order to facilitate their criminal activities, money launderers and terrorist financiers could try to take advantage of the freedom of capital movements and the freedom to supply financial services which the integrated financial area entails. Therefore, certain coordinating measures are necessary at Union level. At the same time, the objectives of protection of society from crime and protection of the stability and integrity of the European financial system should be balanced against the need to create a regulatory environment that allows companies to grow their businesses without incurring disproportionate compliance costs.

(3) The current proposal is the fourth Directive to deal with the threat of money laundering. Council Directive 91/308/EEC of 10 June 1991¹ defined money laundering in terms of drugs offences and imposed obligations solely on the financial sector. Directive 2001/97/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council² extended the scope both in terms of the crimes covered and the range of professions and activities covered. In June 2003 the Financial Action Task Force (hereinafter referred to as the FATF) revised its Recommendations to cover terrorist financing, and provided more detailed requirements in relation to customer identification and verification, the situations where a higher risk of money laundering may justify enhanced measures and also situations where a reduced risk may justify less rigorous controls. These changes were reflected in Directive 2005/60/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council³ and Commission Directive 2006/70/EC⁴ of 1 August 2006 laying down implementing measures for Directive 2005/60/EC as regards the definition of politically exposed person and the technical criteria for simplified customer due diligence procedures and for exemption on grounds of a financial activity conducted on an occasional or very limited basis .

(4) Money laundering and terrorist financing are frequently carried out in an international context. Measures adopted solely at national or even Union level, without taking account of international coordination and cooperation, would have very limited effects. The measures adopted by the Union in that field should therefore be compatible with, and at least as stringent as, other action undertaken in the international fora. Union action should continue to take particular account of the FATF Recommendations, and instruments of other international bodies active in the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing. With a view to reinforce the efficacy of the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing, Directives 2005/60/EC and 2006/70/EC should, where appropriate, be aligned with the new FATF Recommendations adopted and expanded in February 2012.

(5) Furthermore, the misuse of the financial system to channel criminal or even clean money to terrorist purposes poses a clear risk to the integrity, proper functioning, reputation and stability of the financial system. Accordingly, the preventive measures of this Directive should cover the manipulation of money derived from serious crime and the collection of money or property for terrorist purposes.

(6) The use of large cash payments is highly vulnerable to money laundering and terrorist financing. In order to increase vigilance and mitigate the risks posed by cash payments natural and legal persons trading in goods should be covered by this Directive to the extent that they make or receive cash payments of EUR 10 000 or more. Member States should be able to adopt lower thresholds, additional general limitations to the usage of cash and further stricter provisions.

(6a) The use of electronic money products is increasingly considered as a substitute for bank accounts and therefore, further to Directive 2009/110/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁵, warrants subjecting these products to the AML/CFT obligations. However, in certain proven low-risk circumstances and under strict risk mitigating conditions, Member States should be allowed to exempt electronic money products from certain customer due diligence measures, such as the identification and verification of the customer and the beneficial owner but not from the monitoring of transactions or the business relationship, as described in point (d) of Article 11(1) of this Directive. The risk mitigating conditions should include a requirement for exempt electronic money products to be used exclusively for purchasing goods or services and that the amount stored electronically be low enough to preclude circumvention of the AML/CFT rules. This exemption is without prejudice to the discretion given to Member States to allow obliged entities to apply simplified customer due diligence measures to other electronic money products posing lower risks, in accordance with Article 13.

Estate agents could be understood to include letting agents where applicable.

(7) Legal professionals, as defined by the Member States, should be subject to the provisions of this Directive when participating in financial or corporate transactions, including providing tax advice, where there is the greatest risk of the services of those legal professionals being misused for the purpose of laundering the proceeds of criminal activity or for the purpose of terrorist financing. There should, however, be exemptions from any obligation to report information obtained either before, during or after judicial proceedings, or in the course of ascertaining the legal position of a client. Thus, legal advice should remain subject to the obligation of professional secrecy unless the legal counsellor is taking part in money laundering or terrorist financing, the legal advice is provided for money laundering or terrorist financing purposes or the lawyer knows that the client is seeking legal advice for money laundering or terrorist financing purposes.

(8) Directly comparable services should be treated in the same manner when provided by any of the professionals covered by this Directive. In order to ensure respect for the rights guaranteed by the Charter, in the case of auditors, external accountants and tax advisors, who, in some Member States, may defend or represent a client in the context of judicial proceedings or ascertain a client's legal position, the information they obtain in the performance of those tasks should not be subject to the reporting obligations in accordance with this Directive.

(9) It is important to expressly highlight that "tax crimes" related to direct and indirect taxes are included in the broad definition of "criminal activity" under this Directive in line with the revised FATF Recommendations. Since different tax offences may be designated in each Member State as constituting "criminal activity" punishable with the sanctions provided for in Article 3(4)(f) of this Directive, national law definitions of tax crimes may differ. While no harmonisation of Member States' national law definitions of tax crimes is sought, Member States should allow, to the greatest extent possible under their national law, the exchange of information or the provision of assistance between EU Financial Intelligence Units (FIUs).

(10) There is a need to identify any natural person who exercises ownership or control over a legal entity. In order to ensure effective transparency, Member States should ensure that the widest possible range of legal entities incorporated or created by any other mechanism in their territory is covered. While finding a specified percentage shareholding or ownership interest will not automatically result in finding the beneficial owner, it is one evidential factor among others to be taken into account. Member States may however decide that a lower percentage may be indication of ownership or control.

Identification and verification of beneficial owners should, where relevant, extend to legal entities that own other legal entities, and obliged entities should look for the natural person(s) who ultimately exercises control through ownership or control through other means of the legal entity that is the customer. Control through other means may, inter alia, include the criteria of control used for the purposes of preparing consolidated financial statements, such as through shareholders' agreement, the exercise of dominant influence or the power to appoint senior management. There may be cases where no natural person is identifiable who either ultimately owns, or who exerts control over a legal entity. In such exceptional cases obliged entities, having exhausted all other means of identification, and provided there are no grounds for suspicion, may consider the senior managing official(s) as beneficial owner(s).

(11) The need for accurate and up-to-date information on the beneficial owner is a key factor in tracing criminals who might otherwise hide their identity behind a corporate structure. Member States should therefore ensure that entities incorporated in accordance with applicable national law provisions obtain and hold, in addition to basic information such as company name and address, proof of incorporation and legal ownership, adequate, accurate and current information on their beneficial ownership. With a view to enhancing transparency in order to combat the misuse of legal entities, Member States should ensure that beneficial ownership information is stored in a central register located outside the company, in full compliance with Union law. Member States can use for this purpose a central database which collects beneficial ownership information, or the business register, or another central register. Member States may decide that obliged entities are responsible for filling in the register. Member States should make sure that in all cases this information is made available to competent authorities and FIUs and is provided to obliged entities when the latter are taking customer due diligence measures. Member States should also make sure that other persons who are able to demonstrate a legitimate interest with respect to money laundering, terrorist financing and the associated predicate offences - such as corruption, tax crimes and fraud - are granted access to beneficial ownership information, in accordance with data protection rules. The persons who are able to demonstrate a legitimate interest should have access to information on the nature and extent of the beneficial interest held consisting of its approximate weight.

For this purpose, Member States may, under national law, allow for access that is wider than the access mandated under this Directive. Timely access to beneficial ownership information should be ensured in ways which avoid any risk of tipping-off the company concerned.

In order to ensure a level playing field among different types of legal forms, trustees should also be required to obtain, hold and provide to obliged entities taking customer due diligence measures beneficial ownership information and to communicate this information to a central register (or a central database) and they should declare their status to obliged entities. Legal entities such as foundations and legal arrangements similar to trusts should be subject to equivalent requirements.

(11b) New technologies provide time-effective and cost-effective solutions to businesses and to customers and should therefore be taken into account when evaluating risk. The competent authorities of Member States and obliged entities should be proactive in combating new and innovative ways of money laundering.

(12) This Directive should also apply to those activities of the obliged entities covered by this Directive which are performed on the internet.

(12a) The representatives of the Union in the governing bodies of the EBRD are encouraged to implement the provisions of this Directive and to publish on its website an anti-money laundering policy, containing detailed procedures that would give effect to this Directive.

(13) The use of the gambling sector to launder the proceeds of criminal activity is of concern. In order to mitigate the risks related to the sector an obligation for providers of gambling services posing higher risks to conduct customer due diligence for single transactions of EUR 2 000 or more should be laid down. Member States should consider applying this threshold to the collection of winnings and/or wagering a stake, including by the purchase and exchange of gambling chips. Providers of gambling services with physical premises (e.g. casinos and gaming houses) should ensure that customer due diligence, if it is taken at the point of entry to the premises, can be linked to the transactions conducted by the customer on those premises. However in proven low-risk circumstances, Member States should be allowed to exempt certain gambling services from some or all of the Directive's requirements. The use of an exemption by a Member State should only be considered in strictly limited and justified circumstances, and where the money laundering or terrorist financing risks are negligible. Such exemptions should be subject to a specific risk assessment which considers also the degree of vulnerability of the applicable transactions. The exemptions should be notified to the Commission. In the risk assessment Member States should indicate how they have taken into account any relevant findings in the reports issued by the Commission in the framework of the supranational risk assessment.

(14) The risk of money laundering and terrorist financing is not the same in every case. Accordingly, a holistic risk-based approach should be used. The risk-based approach is not an unduly permissive option for Member States and obliged entities. It involves the use of evidence-based decision making to better target the money laundering and terrorist financing risks facing the Union and those operating within it.

(15) Underpinning the risk-based approach is a need for Member States and the Union to identify, understand and mitigate the money laundering and terrorist financing risks it faces. The importance of a supra-national approach to risk identification has been recognised at international level, and the European Supervisory Authority (European Banking Authority) ('EBA'), established by Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁶; the European Supervisory Authority (European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority) ('EIOPA'), established by Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁷; and the European Supervisory Authority (European Securities and Markets Authority) ('ESMA'), established by Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁸, should be tasked with issuing an opinion on the risks affecting the EU financial sector.

(15a) The Commission is well placed to review specific cross-border threats, that could affect the internal market and which cannot be identified and effectively combatted by individual Member States. Therefore, it should be entrusted with the responsibility of coordinating the assessment of the above-mentioned risks related to cross-border phenomena. Involvement of the relevant experts, such as the Expert Group on Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing and the representatives from the Member States' FIUs, as well as - where appropriate - other EU level bodies, is essential for the effectiveness of this process. National risk assessments and experiences are also an important source of information for the process. Such assessment of the above-mentioned risks by the Commission should not involve the processing of personal data and, in any case, data should be fully anonymised. National and European data protection supervisory authorities should only be involved if the assessment of risk of money laundering and terrorist financing has an impact on the privacy and data protection of individuals.

(16) The results of risk assessments should, where appropriate, be made available in a timely manner to obliged entities to enable them to identify, understand and mitigate their own risks.

(17) In addition, to even better understand and mitigate risks at European Union level, Member States should share the results of their risk assessments with each other, the Commission and EBA, EIOPA and ESMA

(18) When applying the provisions of this Directive, it is appropriate to take account of the characteristics and needs of small obliged entities which fall under its scope, and to ensure a treatment which is appropriate to the specific needs of small obliged entities, and the nature of the business.

(18a) In order to protect the proper functioning of the EU financial system and of the Internal Market from money laundering and terrorist financing, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union should be delegated to the Commission in order to identify third country jurisdictions which have strategic deficiencies in their national AML/CFT regimes (hereinafter referred to as ‘high-risk third countries’). The changing nature of money laundering and terrorist financing threats, facilitated by a constant evolution of technology and of the means at the disposal of criminals, requires that quick and continuous adaptations of the legal framework as regards high-risk third countries be made in order to efficiently address existing risks and prevent new ones from arising. The Commission should take into account information from international organisations and standard setters in the field of anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism (AML/CFT), such as FATF public statements, mutual evaluation or detailed assessment reports or published follow-up reports, and adapt its assessments to the changes therein, where appropriate.

(18b) Member States should at least provide for enhanced customer due diligence measures to be applied by the obliged entities when dealing with persons or legal entities established in high-risk third countries identified by the Commission. Equally, reliance on third parties established in such high-risk third countries should be prohibited. Countries not included in the list should not automatically be considered as having effective AML/CFT systems and their entities should be assessed on a risk sensitive basis.

(19) Risk itself is variable in nature, and the variables, either on their own or in combination, may increase or decrease the potential risk posed, thus having an impact on the appropriate level of preventative measures, such as customer due diligence measures. Thus, there are circumstances in which enhanced due diligence should be applied and others in which simplified due diligence may be appropriate.

(20) It should be recognised that certain situations present a greater risk of money laundering or terrorist financing. Although the identity and business profile of all customers should be established, there are cases where particularly rigorous customer identification and verification procedures are required.

(21) This is particularly true of relationships with individuals who hold or have held important public positions, particularly those from countries where corruption is widespread, within the Union and internationally. Such relationships may expose the financial sector in particular to significant reputational and legal risks. The international effort to combat corruption also justifies the need to pay special attention to such cases and to apply appropriate enhanced customer due diligence measures in respect of persons who hold or have held prominent functions domestically or abroad and senior figures in international organisations.

(21b) The requirements on politically exposed persons are preventive (not criminal) in nature, and should not be interpreted as stigmatising PEPs as such being involved in criminal activity. Refusing a business relationship with a PEP simply based on the determination that the client is a PEP is contrary to the letter and spirit of FATF Recommendations and of this Directive.

(22) Obtaining approval from senior management for establishing business relationships need not, in all cases, imply obtaining approval from the board of directors. Granting of such approval should be possible by someone with sufficient knowledge of the institution's money laundering and terrorist financing risk exposure and sufficient seniority to make decisions affecting its risk exposure.

(23) In order to avoid repeated customer identification procedures, leading to delays and inefficiency in business, it is appropriate, subject to suitable safeguards, to allow customers whose identification has been carried out elsewhere to be introduced to the obliged entities. Where an obliged entity relies on a third party, the ultimate responsibility for the customer due diligence procedure remains with the obliged entity to whom the customer is introduced. The third party, or the person that has introduced the customer, should also retain his own responsibility for compliance with the requirements in this Directive, including the requirement to report suspicious transactions and maintain records, to the extent that he has a relationship with the customer that is covered by this Directive.

(24) In the case of agency or outsourcing relationships on a contractual basis between obliged entities and external natural or legal persons not covered by this Directive, any anti-money laundering and anti-terrorist financing obligations for those agents or outsourcing service providers as part of the obliged entities, may arise only from contract and not from this Directive. Therefore the responsibility for complying with this Directive should remain primarily with the obliged entity.

(25) All Member States have, or should, set up operationally independent and autonomous financial intelligence units (hereinafter referred to as FIUs) to collect and analyse the information which they receive with the aim of establishing links between suspicious transactions and underlying criminal activity in order to prevent and combat money laundering and terrorist financing. Operationally independent and autonomous FIUs means that the FIU should have the authority and capacity to carry out its functions freely, including the autonomous decision to analyse, request and disseminate specific information. Suspicious transactions and other information relevant to money laundering, associated predicate offences and terrorist financing should be reported to the FIUs, which should serve as a national centre for receiving, analysing and disseminating to the competent authorities the results of its analysis. All suspicious transactions, including attempted transactions, should be reported regardless of the amount of the transaction. Reported information may also include threshold based information.

(26) By way of derogation from the general prohibition on executing suspicious transactions, obliged entities may execute suspicious transactions before informing the competent authorities, where refraining from the execution thereof is impossible or likely to frustrate efforts to pursue the beneficiaries of a suspected money laundering or terrorist financing operation. This, however, should be without prejudice to the international obligations accepted by the Member States to freeze without delay funds or other assets of terrorists, terrorist organisations or those who finance terrorism, in accordance with the relevant United Nations Security Council resolutions.

(27) Member States should have the possibility to designate an appropriate self-regulatory body of the professions referred to in Article 2(1)(3)(a),(b), and (d) as the authority to be informed in the first instance in place of the FIU. In line with the case law of the European Court of Human Rights, a system of first instance reporting to a self-regulatory body constitutes an important safeguard to uphold the protection of fundamental rights as concerns the reporting obligations applicable to lawyers. Member States should provide for the means and manner by which to achieve the protection of professional secrecy, confidentiality and privacy.

(28) Where a Member State decides to make use of the exemptions provided for in Article 33(2), it may allow or require the self-regulatory body representing the persons referred to therein not to transmit to the FIU any information obtained from those persons in the circumstances referred to in that Article.

(29) There have been a number of cases of employees who report their suspicions of money laundering being subjected to threats or hostile action. Although this Directive cannot interfere with Member States' judicial procedures, this is a crucial issue for the effectiveness of the AML/CFT system.

Member States should be aware of this problem and should do whatever they can to protect individuals, including employees and representatives of the obliged entity from such threats or hostile action, and provide, in accordance with national law, appropriate protection to such persons, particularly with regard to their right to the protection of their personal data and their rights to effective judicial protection and representation.

(30) Directive 95/46/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁹, as transposed into national law, is applicable to the processing of personal data for the purposes of this Directive.

Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁰ is applicable to the processing of personal data by the Union institutions and bodies for the purposes of this Directive.

The fight against money- laundering and terrorist financing is recognised as an important public interest ground by all Member States.

This Directive is without prejudice to the protection of personal data processed in the framework of police and judicial cooperation in criminal matters, including the provisions of Framework decision 977/2008/JHA, as implemented in national law.

¹⁰ Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 December 2000 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data by the Community institutions and bodies and on the free movement of such data (OJ L 8, 12.1.2001, p. 1).

(31) It is essential that the alignment of this Directive with the FATF Recommendations is carried out in full compliance with Union law, especially as regards Union data protection law and the protection of fundamental rights as enshrined in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union (Charter). Certain aspects of the implementation of this Directive involve the collection, analysis, storage and sharing of data. Such processing of personal data should be permitted in the full respect of fundamental rights, and only for the purposes laid down in this Directive, and the activities required under this Directive such as carrying out customer due diligence, ongoing monitoring, investigation and reporting of unusual and suspicious transactions, identification of the beneficial owner of a legal person or legal arrangement, identification of a politically exposed person, sharing of information by competent authorities and sharing of information by credit and financial institutions and other obliged entities. The collection and subsequent processing of personal data by obliged entities should be limited to what is necessary for the purpose of complying with the requirements of this Directive and personal data should not be further processed in a way incompatible with those purposes. In particular, further processing of personal data for commercial purposes should be strictly prohibited.

(31a) The FATF Recommendations demonstrate that, in order to be able to cooperate fully and comply swiftly with information requests from competent authorities for the purposes of prevention, detection or investigation of money laundering and terrorist financing, obliged entities should maintain, for at least five years, the necessary information obtained through customer due diligence measures and the records on transactions. In order to avoid different approaches and in order to satisfy the requirements for the protection of personal data and legal certainty, this retention period should be fixed to five years after the end of the business relationship or the occasional transaction. However, if necessary for the purposes of prevention, detection or investigation of money laundering and terrorist financing, and after carrying out an assessment of the necessity and proportionality, Member States should be able to allow or require further retention of records without exceeding an additional 5 years, without prejudice to national criminal law provisions on evidence applicable to ongoing criminal investigations and legal proceedings. Member States should require that specific safeguards be put in place to ensure the security of data and should provide which persons (or categories of persons) or authorities should exclusively have access to the data stored.

For the purposes of ensuring appropriate and efficient administration of justice during the period of the incorporation of this Directive in national legal orders, and in order to allow for its smooth interaction with national procedural laws, information and documents pertinent to on going legal proceedings for the purpose of the prevention, detection and investigation of possible money laundering or terrorist financing, which have been pending in the Member States on the date of entry into force of this Directive should be stored for a period of five years from that date onwards, and this period may be extended for further five years.

(32) The fight against money laundering and terrorist financing is recognised as an important public interest ground by all Member States.

(34) The rights of access of the data subject are applicable to the personal data processed for the purpose of this Directive. However, access by the data subject to any information related to a suspicious transaction report would seriously undermine the effectiveness of the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing. Limitations to this right in accordance with the rules laid down in Article 13 of Directive 95/46/EC and, where relevant, Article 20 of Regulation 45/2001, may therefore be justified. The data subject has the right to request that a supervisory authority referred to in Article 28 of Directive 95/46/EC or, where applicable, the European Data Protection Supervisor, checks the lawfulness of the processing, as well as the right to seek a judicial remedy referred to in Article 22 of Directive EC 95/46. The supervisory authority referred to in art. 28 of Directive 95/46/EC may also act on an ex-officio basis. Without prejudice to the restrictions to the right to access, the supervisory authority should be able to inform the data subject that all necessary verifications by the supervisory authority have taken place, and of the result as regards the lawfulness of the processing in question.

(35) Persons who merely convert paper documents into electronic data and are acting under a contract with a credit institution or a financial institution do not fall within the scope of this Directive, nor does any natural or legal person that provides credit or financial institutions solely with a message or other support systems for transmitting funds or with clearing and settlement systems.

(36) Money laundering and terrorist financing are international problems and the effort to combat them should be global. Where Union credit and financial institutions have branches and subsidiaries located in third countries where the legislation in this area is deficient, they should, in order to avoid the application of very different standards within the institution or group of institutions, apply Union standards or notify the competent authorities of the home Member State if application of such standards is impossible.

(37) Feedback should, where practicable, be made available to obliged entities on the usefulness and follow-up of the suspicious transactions reports they present. To make this possible, and to be able to review the effectiveness of their systems to combat money laundering and terrorist financing Member States should keep and improve the relevant statistics. To further enhance the quality and consistency of the statistical data collected at Union level, the Commission should keep track of the EU-wide situation with respect to the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing and publish regular overviews

(37a) Where Member States decide to require issuers of electronic money and payment service providers established on their territory in forms other than a branch, and whose head office is situated in another Member State, to appoint a central contact point in their territory, they may require that such a central contact point, acting on behalf of the appointing institution, ensures the establishments' compliance with AML/CFT rules. They should also ensure that this requirement is proportionate and does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve the aim of ensuring the compliance with AML/CFT rules, including by facilitating the respective supervision.

(37b) In order to be able to review the effectiveness of their systems to combat money laundering and terrorist financing, Member States should keep and improve the relevant statistics. In order further to enhance the quality and consistency of the statistical data collected at Union level, the Commission should keep track of the Union-wide situation with respect to the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing and should publish regular overviews.

(38) Competent authorities should ensure that, in regard to currency exchange offices, trust and company service providers or gambling service providers, the persons who effectively direct the business of such entities and the beneficial owners of such entities are fit and proper persons. The criteria for determining whether or not a person is fit and proper should, as a minimum, reflect the need to protect such entities from being misused by their managers or beneficial owners for criminal purposes.

(38a) Where an obliged entity operates establishments in another Member State, including through a network of agents, the home country's competent authority is responsible for supervising the obliged entity's application of group AML/CTF policies and processes. This may involve on-site visits in establishments based in another Member State. The home country's competent authority should cooperate closely with the host country's competent authority and inform the host country's competent authority of any issues that could affect their assessment of the establishment's compliance with the host country's AML/CFT obligations.

(38b) Where an obliged entity operates establishments in another Member State, including through a network of agents or persons distributing electronic money according to Article 3 (4) of Directive 2009/110/EC, the host country's competent authority retains responsibility for enforcing the establishment's compliance with AML/CTF requirements, including, where appropriate, by carrying out onsite inspections and offsite monitoring and by taking appropriate and proportional measures to address serious infringements of these requirements. The host country's competent authority should cooperate closely with the home country's competent authority and inform the home country's competent authority of any issues that could affect their assessment of the obliged entity's application of group AML/CTF policies and processes. In order to remove serious infringements of AML/CFT rules that require immediate remedies, the host country's competent authority may be empowered to apply appropriate and proportionate temporary remedial measures, applicable under similar circumstances to obliged entities under their competence, to address such serious failings, where appropriate, with the assistance of, or in cooperation with the home country's competent authority.

(39) Taking into account the transnational character of money laundering and terrorist financing, co-ordination and co-operation between EU FIUs are extremely important. In order to improve such coordination and cooperation between FIUs, and in particular to ensure that suspicious transactions reports reach the FIU of the Member State where the report would be of most use, detailed rules should be included in this Directive.

(39a) The “EU Financial Intelligence Units’ Platform”, an informal group composed of representatives from Member States’ FIUs and active since 2006, is used to facilitate cooperation among national FIUs and exchange views on co-operation related issues such as effective international FIUs co-operation, the joint analysis of cross-border cases as well as trends and factors relevant to assessing money laundering and terrorist financing risks both on the national and supranational level.

(40) Improving the exchange of information between FIUs within the Union is of particular importance to face the transnational character of money laundering and terrorist financing. The use of secure facilities for the exchange of information, especially the decentralised FIU.net network or its successor and the techniques offered by that network, should be encouraged by Member States. The initial exchange between the FIUs of information related to money laundering or terrorist financing for analytical purposes and which is not further processed or disseminated should be allowed unless it would be contrary to fundamental principles of national law. Exchanges of information on cases identified by EU FIUs as possibly involving tax crimes should be without prejudice to exchanges of information in the field of taxation, in accordance with Council Directive 2011/16/EU¹¹ or in accordance with international standards on the exchange of information and administrative cooperation in tax matters.

(40a) In order to be able to respond fully and rapidly to enquiries from FIUs, obliged entities need to have in place effective systems enabling them to have full and timely access through secure and confidential channels to information about business relationships that they maintain or have maintained with specified legal or natural persons. In accordance with Union and national law, Member States could, for instance, consider putting in place systems of banking registries or electronic data retrieval systems which would provide FIUs with access to information on bank accounts without prejudice to judicial authorisation where applicable. Member States could also consider establishing mechanisms to ensure that competent authorities have procedures in place in order to identify assets without prior notification to the owner.

(40b) Member States should encourage their competent authorities to rapidly, constructively and effectively provide the widest range of cross-border cooperation for the purposes of this Directive, without prejudice to any rules and procedures applicable to judicial cooperation in criminal matters. Member States should in particular ensure that their FIUs exchange information freely, spontaneously and upon request with third-country FIUs, having regard to EU law and to the principles for information exchange developed by the Egmont Group of Financial Intelligence Units.

(41) The importance of combating money laundering and terrorist financing should lead Member States to lay down effective, proportionate and dissuasive administrative measures and sanctions in national law for failure to respect the national provisions adopted pursuant to this Directive. Member States currently have a diverse range of administrative measures and sanctions for breaches of the key preventative provisions. This diversity could be detrimental to the efforts made in combating money laundering and terrorist financing and the Union's response is at risk of being fragmented. This Directive should therefore include a range of administrative measures and sanctions that Member States shall at least have available for serious, repetitive or systematic breaches of the requirements relating to customer due diligence measures, record keeping, reporting of suspicious transactions and internal controls of obliged entities. This range should be sufficiently broad to allow Member States and competent authorities to take account of the differences between obliged entities, in particular between credit and financial institutions and other obliged entities, as regards their size, characteristics and areas of activity. In the application of this Directive, Member States should ensure that the imposition of administrative measures and sanctions in accordance with this Directive and of criminal sanctions in accordance with national law does not breach the principle of ne bis in idem.

(41a) For the purposes of assessing the appropriateness of persons holding a management function in or otherwise controlling obliged entities, any exchange of information about criminal convictions should be carried out in accordance with Council Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA¹² and Council Decision 2009/316/JHA¹³, as transposed into national law, and with other relevant provisions of national law.

(42) Technical standards in financial services should ensure consistent harmonisation and adequate protection of depositors, investors and consumers across the Union. As bodies with highly specialised expertise, it would be efficient and appropriate to entrust the ESAs with the elaboration of draft regulatory technical standards which do not involve policy choices, for submission to the Commission.

(43) The Commission should adopt the draft regulatory technical standards developed by the ESAs pursuant to Article 42 of this Directive by means of delegated acts pursuant to Article 290 TFEU and in accordance with Articles 10 to 14 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010, of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 and of Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010.

(44) In view of the very substantial amendments that would need to be made to Directives 2005/60/EC and 2006/70/EC, they should be merged and replaced for reasons of clarity and consistency.

¹³ Council Decision 2009/316/JHA of 6 April 2009 on the establishment of the European Criminal Records Information System (ECRIS) in application of Article 11 of Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA (OJ L 93, 7.4.2009, p. 33).

(45) Since the objective of this Directive, namely the protection of the financial system by means of prevention, investigation and detection of money laundering and terrorist financing, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States, as individual measures adopted by Member States to protect their financial systems could be inconsistent with the functioning of the internal market and with the prescriptions of the rule of law and Union public policy but can rather, by reason of the scale and effects of the action, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective.

(46) This Directive respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised by the Charter, in particular, the respect for private and family life, the right to protection of personal data, the freedom to conduct a business, the prohibition of discrimination, the right to an effective remedy and to a fair trial, the presumption of innocence, the rights of the defence.

(47) In line with Article 21 of the Charter prohibiting any discrimination based on any ground, Member States have to ensure that this Directive is implemented, as regards risk assessments in the context of customer due diligence, without discrimination.

(48) In accordance with the Joint Political Declaration of Member States and the Commission of 28 September 2011 on explanatory documents, Member States have undertaken to accompany, in justified cases, the notification of their transposition measures with one or more documents explaining the relationship between the components of a directive and the corresponding parts of national transposition instruments. With regard to this Directive, the legislator considers the transmission of such documents to be justified,

4. For the purposes of this Directive, ‘terrorist financing’ means the provision or collection of funds, by any means, directly or indirectly, with the intention that they should be used or in the knowledge that they are to be used, in full or in part, in order to carry out any of the offences within the meaning of Articles 1 to 4 of Council Framework Decision 2002/475/JHA¹⁵, as amended by Council Framework Decision 2008/919/JHA¹⁶.

(f) providers of gambling services.

With the exception of casinos and following an appropriate risk assessment, Member States may decide to exempt fully or in part providers of certain gambling services from national provisions transposing the provisions of this Directive on the basis of the proven low risk posed by the nature and, where appropriate, the scale of operations of such services.

Among the factors considered in their risk assessment, Member States have to assess the degree of vulnerability of the applicable transactions, including with respect to the payment methods used.

Any decision taken by a Member State pursuant to this paragraph shall be notified, along with a justification based on a specific risk assessment, to the Commission. The Commission shall communicate the decision to the other Member States.

In their risk assessment, Member States shall indicate how they have taken into account any relevant findings in the reports issued by the Commission pursuant to Art. 6.

2. Member States may decide that natural or legal persons that engage in a financial activity on an occasional or very limited basis where there is little risk of money laundering or terrorist financing occurring, do not fall within the scope of this Directive provided that the natural or legal person fulfils all of the following criteria:

(b) the financial activity is limited on a transaction basis;

(c) the financial activity is not the main activity;

3. For the purposes of point (a) of paragraph 2, Member States shall require that the total turnover of the financial activity does not exceed a threshold, which must be sufficiently low. That threshold shall be established at national level, depending on the type of financial activity.

4. For the purposes of point (b) of paragraph 2, Member States shall apply a maximum threshold per customer and single transaction, whether the transaction is carried out in a single operation or in several operations which appear to be linked. That threshold shall be established at national level, depending on the type of financial activity. It shall be sufficiently low in order to ensure that the types of transactions in question are an impractical and inefficient method for laundering money or for terrorist financing, and shall not exceed EUR 1 000.

5. For the purposes of point (c) of paragraph 2, Member States shall require that the turnover of the financial activity does not exceed 5 % of the total turnover of the natural or legal person concerned.

6. In assessing the risk of money laundering or terrorist financing occurring for the purposes of this Article, Member States shall pay special attention to any financial activity which is regarded as particularly likely, by its nature, to be used or abused for money laundering or terrorist financing purposes.

7. Any decision taken by a Member State pursuant to paragraph 2 shall state the reasons on which it is based. Member States may withdraw that decision should circumstances change. Member States shall submit any such decision to the Commission, which shall communicate it to the other Member States.

To that end, the Commission shall organise the work at the EU level and shall draw up a report identifying, analysing and evaluating these risks. The Commission shall take into account the joint opinion by EBA, EIOPA and ESMA, referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, when available, and involve the Member States' experts in the area of anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism (AML/CFT), representatives from Member States' FIUs and other EU level bodies where appropriate.

The risk assessment referred to in the first paragraph shall cover at least the following:

- a) the areas of the internal market that are at greatest risk;
- b) the risks associated with each relevant sector;
- c) the most widespread means used by criminals to launder illicit proceeds.

The first report shall be provided by the Commission by ...*[OJ please insert date: 24 months after the date of entry into force of this Directive]. The Commission shall update it every 2 years or more frequently if appropriate.

2. The European Banking Authority (hereinafter "EBA"), European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority (hereinafter "EIOPA") and European Securities and Markets Authority (hereinafter "ESMA") shall provide a joint opinion on the money laundering and terrorist financing risks affecting the EU financial sector.

The first opinion shall be provided by ... [18 months from the date of entry into force of this Directive] and subsequent opinions shall be provided every 2 years.

The Commission shall make the opinion referred to in paragraph 1 available to assist Member States and obliged entities to identify, manage and mitigate the risk of money laundering and terrorist financing.

3. The Commission shall make the risk assessment available to assist Member States and obliged entities to identify, manage and mitigate the risk of money laundering and terrorist financing, and to allow other stakeholders, including national legislators, the European Parliament, the ESAs, representatives from FIUs to better understand the risks.

4. The Commission shall make recommendations to Member States on the measures suitable for addressing the identified risks. In case Member States decide not to apply any of the recommendations in their national AML/CFT regimes they shall notify the Commission thereof and provide a justification for such a decision.

5. The Commission shall submit every 2 years, or more frequently if appropriate, a report to the European Parliament and to the Council on the findings resulting from the regular risk assessments and the action taken based on those findings.

Article 7

1. Each Member State shall take appropriate steps to identify, assess, understand and mitigate the money laundering and terrorist financing risks affecting it as well as any data protection concerns in that regard and keep the assessment up-to-date.

2. Each Member State shall designate an authority or establish a mechanism to co-ordinate the national response to the risks referred to in paragraph 1. The identity of that authority or the description of the mechanism shall be notified to the Commission, EBA, EIOPA and ESMA, and other Member States.

4. Each Member State shall carry out the assessment referred to in paragraph 1 and:

(a) use the assessment(s) to improve its anti-money laundering and combating terrorist financing regime, in particular by identifying any areas where obliged entities shall apply enhanced measures and, where appropriate, specifying the measures to be taken;

(aa) identify, where appropriate, sectors or areas of lower or greater risk of money laundering and terrorist financing;

(b) use the assessment(s) to assist it in the allocation and prioritisation of resources to combat money laundering and terrorist financing;

(ba) use the assessment(s) to ensure that appropriate rules are drawn up for each sector or area, in accordance with the risk of money laundering;

(c) make appropriate information available promptly to obliged entities to facilitate the carrying out of their own money laundering and terrorist financing risk assessments.

5. Member States shall make the results of their risk assessments available to the other Member States, the Commission, and the ESAs.

Article 8

1. Member States shall ensure that obliged entities take appropriate steps to identify and assess their money laundering and terrorist financing risks taking into account risk factors including customers, countries or geographic areas, products, services, transactions or delivery channels. Those steps shall be proportionate to the nature and size of the obliged entities.

2. The assessments referred to in paragraph 1 shall be documented, kept up to date and be made available to the relevant competent authorities and self-regulatory bodies concerned. Competent authorities may decide that individual documented risk assessments are not required, if the specific risks inherent in the sector are clear and understood.

3. Member States shall ensure that obliged entities have policies, controls and procedures to mitigate and manage effectively the money laundering and terrorist financing risks identified at Union level, Member State level, and at the level of obliged entities. Policies, controls and procedures should be proportionate to the nature and size of those obliged entities.

1. Customer due diligence measures shall comprise:

- (a) identifying the customer and verifying the customer's identity on the basis of documents, data or information obtained from a reliable and independent source;

When performing the measures referred to in points (a) and (b) of paragraph 1, obliged entities shall also be required to verify that any person purporting to act on behalf of the customer is so authorised and shall be required to identify and verify the identity of that person.

2. Member States shall ensure that obliged entities apply each of the customer due diligence requirements set out in paragraph 1, but obliged entities may determine the extent of such measures on a risk-sensitive basis.

For beneficiaries of trusts or of similar legal arrangements that are designated by particular characteristics or class, an obliged entity shall obtain sufficient information concerning the beneficiary to satisfy the obliged entity that it will be able to establish the identity of the beneficiary at the time of the payout or at the time of the exercise by the beneficiary of its vested rights.

Article 12

1. Member States shall require that the verification of the identity of the customer and the beneficial owner takes place before the establishment of a business relationship or the carrying out of the transaction.

2. By way of derogation from paragraph 1, Member States may allow the verification of the identity of the customer and the beneficial owner to be completed during the establishment of a business relationship if this is necessary not to interrupt the normal conduct of business and where there is little risk of money laundering or terrorist financing occurring. In such situations those procedures shall be completed as soon as practicable after the initial contact.

3. By way of derogation from paragraph 1, Member States may allow the opening of an account with a credit or financial institution, including accounts that permit transactions in transferable securities provided that there are adequate safeguards in place to ensure that transactions are not carried out by the customer or on its behalf until full compliance with obligations set out in Article 11(1)(a) and (b) is obtained.

4. Member States shall require that, where the institution or person concerned is unable to comply with points (a), (b) and (c) of Article 11(1), it shall not carry out a transaction through a bank account, establish a business relationship or carry out the transaction, and shall terminate the business relationship and consider making a suspicious transaction report to the FIU in accordance with Article 32 in relation to the customer.

Member States shall not apply the first subparagraph to notaries, other independent legal professionals, auditors, external accountants and tax advisors only to the strict extent that such exemption relates to ascertaining the legal position for their client or performing their task of defending or representing that client in, or concerning judicial proceedings, including advice on instituting or avoiding proceedings

5. Member States shall require that obliged entities apply the customer due diligence procedures not only to all new customers but also at appropriate times to existing customers on a risk-sensitive basis, including at times when the relevant circumstances of a customer change.

SECTION 2

ENHANCED CUSTOMER DUE DILIGENCE

Article 16

1. In cases identified in Articles 17 to 23 of this Directive and when dealing with natural persons or legal entities established in the third countries, identified by the Commission as high-risk in accordance with Article 8a, also in other cases of higher risks that are identified by Member States or obliged entities, Member States shall require obliged entities to apply enhanced customer due diligence measures to manage and mitigate those risks appropriately.

Enhanced customer due diligence measures need not be invoked automatically with respect to branches and majority-owned subsidiaries of obliged entities established in the European Union which are located in the third countries, identified by the Commission as high-risk in accordance with Article 8a, if these branches and majority-owned subsidiaries fully comply with the group-wide policies and procedures in accordance with Article 42. Member States shall ensure that these cases are handled by obliged entities by using a risk-based approach.

2. Member States shall require obliged entities to examine, as far as reasonably possible, the background and purpose of all complex, unusual large transactions, and all unusual patterns of transactions, which have no apparent economic or lawful purpose. In particular, they shall increase the degree and nature of monitoring of the business relationship, in order to determine whether those transactions or activities appear suspicious.

3. When assessing the money laundering and terrorist financing risks, Member States and obliged entities shall take into account at least the factors of potentially higher-risk situations set out in Annex III.

4. The ESAs shall, by ...* [OJ please insert date: 24 months after the date of entry into force of this Directive], issue guidelines addressed to competent authorities and the obliged entities referred to in Article 2(1)(1) and (2) in accordance with Article 16 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010, of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010, and of Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 on the risk factors to be taken into consideration and/or the measures to be taken in situations where enhanced due diligence measures are appropriate. Specific account shall be taken of the nature and size of the business, and where appropriate and proportionate, specific measures foreseen.

Article 17

In respect of cross-border correspondent relationships with respondent institutions from third countries, Member States shall, in addition to the customer due diligence measures as set out in Article 11, require their credit and financial institutions to:

- (a) gather sufficient information about a respondent institution to understand fully the nature of the respondent's business and to determine from publicly available information the reputation of the institution and the quality of supervision;

Article 18

In respect of transactions or business relationships with politically exposed persons, Member States shall, in addition to the customer due diligence measures set out in Article 11, require obliged entities to:

Those measures shall be taken at the latest at the time of the payout or at the time of the assignment, in whole or in part, of the policy. Where there are higher risks identified, in addition to taking normal customer due diligence measures, Member States shall require obliged entities to:

- (a) inform senior management before the payout of the policy proceeds;
- (b) conduct enhanced scrutiny on the whole business relationship with the policyholder.

Article 21

The measures referred to in Articles 18 and 20 shall also apply to family members or persons known to be close associates of such politically exposed persons.

Article 22

Where a person referred to in Articles 18, and 20 has ceased to be entrusted with a prominent function by a Member State or a third country or with a prominent function by an international organisation, obliged entities shall be required to consider the continuing risk posed by that person and to apply such appropriate and risk-sensitive measures until such time as that person is deemed to pose no further risk. That period of time shall not be less than 12 months.

Article 23

1. Member States shall prohibit credit and financial institutions from entering into or continuing a correspondent relationship with a shell bank and shall require that those institutions take appropriate measures to ensure that they do not engage in or continue correspondent relationships with a credit or financial institution that is known to permit its accounts to be used by a shell bank
2. For the purposes of paragraph 1, "shell bank" means a credit or financial institution, or an institution engaged in equivalent activities, incorporated in a jurisdiction in which it has no physical presence, involving meaningful mind and management, and which is unaffiliated with a regulated financial group.

2. Member States shall prohibit obliged entities from relying on third parties established in third countries indicated by the Commission as high-risk in accordance with Article 8a. Article 26

1. Member States shall ensure that obliged entities obtain from the third party being relied upon the necessary information concerning the requirements laid down in Article 11(1)(a), (b) and (c).

2. Member States shall ensure that obliged entities to which the customer is being referred take adequate steps to ensure that relevant copies of identification and verification data and other relevant documentation on the identity of the customer or the beneficial owner are immediately forwarded, on request, by the third party.

Article 27

Member States shall ensure that the home competent authority (for group-wide policies and controls) and the host competent authority (for branches and subsidiaries) may consider that an obliged entity complies with the provisions adopted pursuant to Articles 25 and 26 through its group programme, where the following conditions are fulfilled:

9. Member States may provide for an exemption to the access to all or part of the beneficial ownership information as provided for under para. 5.b) and c) of this Article on a case-by-case basis in exceptional circumstances, if this would expose the beneficial owner to the risk of fraud, kidnapping, blackmail, violence or intimidation or if the beneficial owner is a minor or otherwise incapable. CHAPTER IV
REPORTING OBLIGATIONS

SECTION 1
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 31

1. Each Member State shall establish an FIU in order to prevent, detect and effectively combat money laundering and terrorist financing.

2. Member States shall notify the Commission in writing of the name and address of the respective FIUs.

3. The FIU shall be operationally independent and autonomous. Operationally independent and autonomous FIUs means that the FIU shall have the authority and capacity to carry out its functions freely, including the autonomous decision to analyse, request and disseminate specific information. The FIU as the central national unit shall be responsible for receiving and analysing suspicious transaction reports and other information relevant to money laundering, associated predicate offences or terrorist financing. The FIU shall be responsible for disseminating the results of its analysis and any additional relevant information to the competent authorities when there are grounds to suspect money laundering, associated predicate offences or terrorist financing. It shall be able to obtain additional information from obliged entities.

The FIU shall be provided with adequate financial, human and technical resources in order to fulfil its tasks.

4. Member States shall ensure that the FIU has access, directly or indirectly, on a timely basis, to the financial, administrative and law enforcement information that it requires to properly fulfil its tasks. FIUs shall be able to respond to requests for information by competent authorities in their Member State when these are motivated by money laundering associated predicate offences or terrorist financing concerns. The decision on conducting the analysis or dissemination of information shall remain with the FIU. Where there are factual reasons to assume that the provision of such information would have a negative impact on ongoing investigations or analyses, or, in exceptional circumstances, where divulcation of the information would be clearly disproportionate to the legitimate interests of a natural or legal person or irrelevant with regard to the purposes for which it has been requested the FIU is under no obligation to comply with the request. Member States shall require competent authorities to provide feedback to the FIU about the use made of the information provided in accordance with this Article and about the outcome of the investigations or inspections performed on its basis.

5. Member States shall ensure that the FIU is empowered to take urgent action, either directly or indirectly, when there is a suspicion that a transaction is related to money laundering or terrorist financing, to suspend or withhold consent to a transaction going ahead in order to analyse the transaction, confirm the suspicion and disseminate the results of the analysis to competent authorities. The FIU shall be empowered to take such action, either directly or indirectly, at the request of an FIU from another Member State for the periods and under the conditions specified in the national law of the FIU receiving the request.

6. The FIU's analysis function shall consist of the following:

(a) an operational analysis which focusses on individual cases and specific targets or on appropriate selected information, depending on the type and volume of the disclosures received and the expected use after dissemination; and

(b) a strategic analysis addressing money laundering and terrorist financing trends and patterns.

Article 32

1. Member States shall require obliged entities, and where applicable their directors and employees, to cooperate fully by promptly:

(a) informing, including by filing a report, the FIU, on their own initiative, where the obliged entity knows, suspects or has reasonable grounds to suspect that funds, regardless of the amount involved, are the proceeds of criminal activity or are related to terrorist financing and by promptly responding to requests by the FIU for additional information in such cases;

(b) providing the FIU, directly or indirectly, at its request, with all necessary information, in accordance with the procedures established by the applicable law.

All suspicious transactions, including attempted transactions, shall be reported .

2. The information referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article shall be forwarded to the FIU of the Member State in whose territory the obliged entity forwarding the information is established. The person or persons designated in accordance with Article 8(4) shall forward the information.

Article 33

1. By way of derogation from Article 32(1), Member States may, in the case of the persons referred to in Article 2(1)(3)(a), (b), and (d) designate an appropriate self-regulatory body of the profession concerned as the authority to receive the information referred to in Article 32(1).

Without prejudice to paragraph 2, the designated self-regulatory body shall in cases referred to in the first subparagraph forward the information to the FIU promptly and unfiltered.

2. Member States shall not apply the obligations laid down in Article 32(1) to notaries, other independent legal professionals, auditors, external accountants and tax advisors only to the strict extent that such exemption relates to information they receive from or obtain on one of their clients, in the course of ascertaining the legal position for their client or performing their task of defending or representing that client in, or concerning judicial proceedings, including advice on instituting or avoiding proceedings, whether such information is received or obtained before, during or after such proceedings.

Article 34

1. Member States shall require obliged entities to refrain from carrying out transactions which they know or suspect to be related to proceeds of criminal activity or to terrorist financing, until they have completed the necessary action in accordance with Article 32(1)(a) and complied with any further specific instructions from the FIU or the competent authorities in conformity with the legislation of the relevant Member State.

2. Where refraining from carrying out transactions referred to in paragraph 1 is impossible or where it is likely to frustrate efforts to pursue the beneficiaries of a suspected operation, the obliged entities concerned shall inform the FIU immediately afterwards.

Article 35

1. Member States shall ensure that if, in the course of inspections carried out in the obliged entities by the competent authorities referred to in Article 45, or in any other way, those authorities discover facts that could be related to money laundering or terrorist financing, they shall promptly inform the FIU.

2. Member States shall ensure that supervisory bodies empowered by law or regulation to oversee the stock, foreign exchange and financial derivatives markets inform the FIU if they discover facts that could be related to money laundering or terrorist financing.

Article 36

Disclosure of information in good faith by an obliged entity or by an employee or director of such an obliged entity in accordance with Articles 32 and 33 shall not constitute a breach of any restriction on disclosure of information imposed by contract or by any legislative, regulatory or administrative provision, and shall not involve the obliged entity or its directors or employees in liability of any kind even in circumstances where they were not precisely aware of the underlying criminal activity and regardless of whether illegal activity actually occurred.

Article 37

Member States shall ensure that individuals, including employees and representatives of the obliged entity who report suspicions of money laundering or terrorist financing either internally or to the FIU are protected from being exposed to threats or hostile action, and in particular from adverse or discriminatory employment actions.

Section 2

Prohibition of disclosure

Article 38

1. Obligated entities and their directors and employees shall not disclose to the customer concerned or to other third persons the fact that information is being, will be or has been transmitted in accordance with Articles 32 and 33 or that a money laundering or terrorist financing analysis is being or may be carried out.
2. The prohibition laid down in paragraph 1 shall not include disclosure to the competent authorities of Member States, including the self-regulatory bodies, or disclosure for law enforcement purposes.
3. The prohibition laid down in paragraph 1 shall not prevent disclosure between obliged entities from Member States referred to in Article 2(1)(1) and (2) and between these entities and their branches and majority owned subsidiaries established in third countries, provided that these branches and majority-owned subsidiaries fully comply with the group-wide policies and procedures, including procedures for sharing information within the group, in accordance with Article 42 and that the group-wide policies and procedures comply with the requirements set out in this Directive.

4. The prohibition laid down in paragraph 1 shall not prevent disclosure between obliged entities referred to in Article 2(1)(3)(a) and (b) from Member States, or entities from third countries which impose requirements equivalent to those laid down in this Directive, who perform their professional activities, whether as employees or not, within the same legal person or a network.

For the purposes of the first subparagraph, a "network" shall mean the larger structure to which the person belongs and which shares common ownership, management or compliance control.

5. For obliged entities referred to in Article 2(1)(1), (2) and (3)(a) and (b) in cases related to the same customer and the same transaction involving two or more obliged entities, the prohibition laid down in paragraph 1 of this Article shall not prevent disclosure between the relevant obliged entities provided that they are from a Member State, or entities in a third country which imposes requirements equivalent to those laid down in this Directive, and that they are from the same professional category and are subject to obligations as regards professional secrecy and personal data protection.

SECTION 1

INTERNAL PROCEDURES, TRAINING AND FEEDBACK

Article 42

1. Member States shall require obliged entities that are part of a group to implement group-wide policies and procedures, including data protection policies and policies and procedures for sharing information within the group for anti-money laundering and combating terrorist financing purposes. Those policies and procedures shall be implemented effectively at the level of branches and majority-owned subsidiaries in Member States and third countries.

1a. Member States shall require that obliged entities that operate establishments in another Member State ensure that these establishments respect the national provisions of that other Member State pertaining to this Directive.

2. Member States shall ensure that where obliged entities have branches or majority-owned subsidiaries located in third countries where the minimum anti-money laundering and combating terrorist financing requirements are less strict than those of the Member State, their branches and majority-owned subsidiaries located in the third country implement the requirements of the Member State, including data protection, to the extent that the third country's laws and regulations so allow.

3. The Member States and the ESAs shall inform each other of cases where third-country law does not permit application of the measures required under paragraph 1 and coordinated action could be taken to pursue a solution.

4. Member States shall require that, where the legislation of the third country does not permit application of the measures required under paragraph 1, obliged entities ensure that branches and majority owned subsidiaries in this third country apply additional measures to effectively handle the risk of money laundering or terrorist financing, and inform their home supervisors. If the additional measures are not sufficient, competent authorities in the home country shall exercise additional supervisory actions, including, requiring that the group does not establish or that it terminates business relationships, and does not undertake transactions and, where necessary, requesting the group to close down its operations in the third country.

5. The ESAs shall develop draft regulatory technical standards specifying the type of additional measures referred to in paragraph 4 of this Article and the minimum action to be taken by obliged entities referred to in Article 2(1)(1) and (2) where third-country law does not permit application of the measures required under paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article.

The ESAs shall submit those draft regulatory technical standards to the Commission by ...* [OJ please insert date: 18 months after the date of entry into force of this Directive].

6. Power is delegated to the Commission to adopt the regulatory technical standards referred to in paragraph 5 in accordance with Articles 10 to 14 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010, of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 and of Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010.

8. Member States may require issuers of electronic money as defined by Directive 2009/110/EC and payment service providers as defined by Directive 2007/64/EC established on their territory in forms other than a branch, and whose head office is situated in another Member State, to appoint a central contact point in their territory to ensure on behalf of the appointing institution compliance with AML/CFT rules and to facilitate supervision by competent authorities, including by providing competent authorities with documents and information on request.

9. The ESAs shall develop draft regulatory technical standards on the criteria for determining the circumstances when the appointment of a central contact point pursuant to paragraph 8 is appropriate, and what the functions of the central contact points should be.

The ESAs shall submit those draft regulatory technical standards to the Commission by ...* [OJ please insert date: two years after the date of entry into force of this Directive].

10. Power is delegated to the Commission to adopt the regulatory technical standards referred to in paragraph 9 in accordance with Articles 10 to 14 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010, of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 and of Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010.

Those measures shall include participation of their employees in special ongoing training programmes to help them recognise operations which may be related to money laundering or terrorist financing and to instruct them as to how to proceed in such cases.

Where a natural person falling within any of the categories listed in Article 2(1)(3) performs professional activities as an employee of a legal person, the obligations in this Section shall apply to that legal person rather than to the natural person.

2. Member States shall ensure that obliged entities have access to up-to-date information on the practices of money launderers and terrorist financiers and on indications leading to the recognition of suspicious transactions.

3. Member States shall ensure that, where practicable, timely feedback on the effectiveness of and follow-up to reports of suspected money laundering or terrorist financing is provided to obliged entities.

Article 45

1. Member States shall require the competent authorities to effectively monitor and to take the necessary measures with a view to ensure compliance with the requirements of this Directive.

In the case of the establishments referred to in Article 42(8), such supervision may include the taking of appropriate and proportionate measures to address serious failings that require immediate remedies. These measures shall be temporary and be terminated when the failings identified are addressed, including, with the assistance of or in cooperation with the home country's competent authorities, in accordance with Article 42(1a) of this Directive.

5. Member States shall ensure that the competent authorities of the Member State in which the obliged entity operates establishments shall cooperate with the competent authorities of the Member State in which the obliged entity has its head office, to ensure effective supervision of the requirements of this Directive.

(b) have on-site and off-site access to all relevant information on the specific domestic and international risks associated with customers, products and services of the obliged entities; and

(c) base the frequency and intensity of on-site and off-site supervision on the risk profile of the obliged entity, and on the money laundering and terrorist financing risks present in the country.

The ESAs shall, by ...*[OJ please insert date: 2 years after the date of entry into force of this Directive], issue guidelines addressed to competent authorities in accordance with Article 16 of Regulation (EU) No 1093/2010, of Regulation (EU) No 1094/2010 and of Regulation (EU) No 1095/2010 on the characteristics of a risk-sensitive approach to supervision and the steps to be taken when conducting supervision on a risk-sensitive basis. Specific account should be taken of the nature and size of the business, and where appropriate and proportionate, specific measures should be foreseen.

SECTION 3

CO-OPERATION

SUBSECTION I

NATIONAL CO-OPERATION

Article 46

Member States shall ensure that policy makers, the FIUs, supervisors and other competent authorities involved in anti-money laundering and combating terrorist financing have effective mechanisms to enable them to co-operate and co-ordinate domestically concerning the development and implementation of policies and activities to combat money laundering and terrorist financing, including with a view to fulfilling their obligation under Article 7 of this Directive.

Article 48

The Commission may lend such assistance as may be needed to facilitate coordination, including the exchange of information between FIUs within the Union. It may regularly convene meetings of the EU FIUs` Platform composed of representatives from Member States` FIUs, in order to facilitate cooperation among FIUs, exchange views and provide advice on implementation issues relevant for FIUs and reporting entities and on cooperation related issues such as effective FIU cooperation, the identification of suspicious transactions with a cross-border dimension, the standardisation of reporting formats through the FIU.NET network or its successor, the joint analysis of cross-border cases, the identification of trends and factors relevant to assessing money laundering and terrorist financing risks both on the national and supranational level.

Article 49

Member States shall ensure that their FIUs co-operate with each other to the greatest extent possible, regardless of their organisational status.

Article 50

1. Member States shall ensure that FIUs exchange, spontaneously or upon request, any information that may be relevant for the processing or analysis of information by the FIU related to money laundering or terrorist financing and the natural or legal person involved, even if the type of predicate offences possibly involved is not identified at the time of the exchange. A request shall contain the relevant facts, background information, reasons for the request and how the information sought will be used. Different exchange mechanisms may apply if so agreed between the FIUs, in particular as regards exchanges through the decentralised computer network FIU.net or its successor.

When an FIU receives a report pursuant to Article 32(1)(a) of this Directive, which concerns another Member State, it shall promptly forward it to the FIU of that Member State.

2. Member States shall ensure that the FIU to whom the request is made is required to use the whole range of its available powers which it would normally use domestically for receiving and analysing information when it replies to a request for information referred to in paragraph 1 from another FIU based in the Union. The FIU to whom the request is made shall respond in a timely manner.

In particular, when a Member State FIU seeks to obtain additional information from an obliged entity of another Member State which operates on its territory, the request shall be addressed to the FIU of the Member State in whose territory the obliged entity is situated. That FIU shall transfer requests and answers promptly.

Information and documents received pursuant to Articles 49 and 50 shall be used for the accomplishment of the FIU's tasks as laid down in this Directive. When transmitting information and documents pursuant to Articles 49 and 50, the transmitting FIU may impose restrictions and conditions for the use of that information. The receiving FIU shall comply with those restrictions and conditions.

Article 52

1. Member States shall ensure that the exchanged information is used only for the purpose for which it was sought or provided and that any dissemination of the information submitted pursuant to Articles 49 and 50 by the receiving FIU to any other authority, agency or department, or any use of this information for purposes beyond those originally approved, is made subject to the prior authorisation by the FIU providing the information.

2. Member states shall ensure that the requested FIU's prior consent to disseminate the information to competent authorities should be granted promptly and to the largest extent possible. The requested FIU should not refuse its consent to such dissemination unless this would fall beyond the scope of application of its AML/CFT provisions, could lead to impairment of a criminal investigation, would be clearly disproportionate to the legitimate interests of a natural or legal person or the Member State of the requested FIU, or would otherwise not be in accordance with fundamental principles of national law of that Member State. Any such refusal to grant consent shall be appropriately explained.

Article 53

1. Member States shall require their FIUs to use protected channels of communication between themselves and encourage the use of the FIU.net network or its successor.

2. Member States shall ensure that, in order to fulfil their tasks as laid down in this Directive, their FIUs co-operate to apply state-of-the-art technologies in accordance with their national law. These technologies shall allow FIUs to match their data with other FIUs in an anonymous way by ensuring full protection of personal data with the aim to detect subjects of the FIU's interests in other Member States and identify their proceeds and funds.

Article 53bis

Differences between national law definitions of tax crimes shall not impede the ability of FIUs to exchange information or provide assistance to another FIU based in the Union, to the greatest extent possible under their national law.

(a) delay the publication of the decision to impose a sanction or a measure until the moment where the reasons for non publication cease to exist;

(b) publish the decision to impose a sanction or a measure on an anonymous basis in a manner which is in conformity with national law, if such anonymous publication ensures an effective protection of the personal data concerned; In the case of a decision to publish a sanction or measure on an anonymous basis the publication of the relevant data may be postponed for a reasonable period of time if it is foreseen that within that period the reasons for anonymous publication shall cease to exist.
