NOTE

From:	Presidency
To:	Permanent Representatives Committee
No. Cion doc.:	ST 12184/21 + ADD 1
Subject:	Regulation on applying a generalised scheme of tariff preferences and repealing Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council (GSP) (First reading) - Preparation for the trilogue

1. On 22 September 2021, the Commission submitted to the Council a proposal for a revised version of the Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 on applying a generalised scheme of tariff preferences (the GSP Regulation) (documents ST 12184/21 INIT + ADD 1-4), which was scheduled to expire at the end of 2023.
2. The European Parliament appointed the International Trade Committee (INTA) as the lead committee, and Heidi Hautala (Greens/EFA, FI) was appointed rapporteur. INTA adopted its report on the proposal on 3 May 2022, and this was endorsed by the plenary on 18 May 2022.
3. Building on the work of the Slovenian and French Presidencies, the Czech Presidency proposed a draft Council mandate that received broad support in the Trade Policy Committee (Generalised System of Preferences). On 20 December 2022, the Permanent Representatives Committee adopted the Council mandate for negotiations with the European Parliament, as set out in ST 16270/22.

4. Trilogue meetings were held by the Swedish Presidency with the Parliament and the Commission on 31 January, 2 March, 28 March, 27 April, 23 May, 12 and 27 June 2023.
5. However, no agreement could be reached. The failure was primarily due to the four conditions for accepting a link to readmission identified by the Parliament during the discussion at the Trilogue meeting, which were not acceptable to the Council. These four conditions, which were not formalised by the Parliament in writing, could be summarised as: (a) an exemption for Everything But Arms (EBA) countries; (b) only a partial withdrawal of preferences would be possible; (c) any application of the readmission procedure should be carried out in full respect of human rights; and (d) the entry into force of the readmission provisions for all beneficiaries under the GSP Regulation should be delayed until the Commission had prepared an analysis of the need for these provisions in light of recent EU legislation, and the Parliament had given its approval.
6. Given the failure of the trilogue negotiations to reach an agreement, the Commission proposed to extend the duration of the existing GSP Regulation to ensure that the preferences for GSP and GSP+ countries would not expire at the end of 2023. The extension was adopted and entered into force on 27 November 2023¹.
7. On 10 October 2023, the Spanish Presidency circulated a compromise proposal on the revised version of the GSP Regulation (WK 12978/2023). Following informal contacts with the Parliament and detailed discussions in the Trade Policy Committee (Generalised System of Preferences) on 8, 12, 19 and 26 January and 2 and 9 February, the Belgian Presidency circulated a fifth compromise proposal on 7 March 2024 (WK 3703/2024) and a revised version on 11 March 2024 (WK 3703/2024 REV1), which was discussed in a video conference of members of the Trade Policy Committee (Generalised System of Preferences) on 11 March 2024 and subsequently endorsed through a written consultation on 11-12 March 2024.

8. The compromise proposal addresses three points: readmission, safeguards and the date of entry into force (see Annex I).
9. On readmission, the Presidency proposes to move towards the Parliament's position by:
(a) accepting a differentiated approach for EBA countries (including a link to the application of the Visa Code and requiring an implementing act to be adopted through the examination, rather than advisory, procedure for launching the withdrawal of preferences from EBA countries), without going so far as a complete exemption; (b) including explicitly the possibility of partial withdrawals; and (c) introducing a delay of 24 months in the application of the readmission provisions for EBA countries compared to the date of application of the other provisions in the Regulation. In reaction to the Parliament's condition on human rights, the Presidency noted that the GSP Regulation is not the appropriate place to introduce provisions on how the return of own-nationals should be managed.
10. On safeguards, the Presidency proposes to focus the specific safeguard measures just on ethanol imports. These safeguard measures would apply to GSP and GSP+ countries but would not apply to EBA countries. Furthermore, the safeguard measures would only apply if the value of these imports from the country concerned exceeded 6% of the value of total EU imports of the product concerned and 47% of the imports of all GSP beneficiaries. The Presidency also proposes to give clear timelines for assessments by the Commission under the special surveillance mechanism and to make a reference to "an upsurge of imports from a beneficiary country" as a factor to be taken into account.
11. On the date of application of the GSP Regulation, the Presidency proposes that the start of 2026 would be appropriate if there is agreement in the coming months.
12. Annex II to this note contains the preliminary full compromise text agreed at the technical level.

13. Informal contacts between the Presidency and the Parliament indicate that the Parliament would like to reach an agreement before the forthcoming elections and recognises that both institutions need to show flexibility to reach an agreement. At the Informal FAC(Trade) on 22 and 23 January, Mr Lange, the Chairman of the INTA Committee of the Parliament, emphasised that a complete exemption for EBA countries remained the Parliament's position. However, in the INTA Committee meeting on 7 March, Mr Lange indicated that there could be a final "conclusive" trilogue in the coming days and that the file could be finalised in the current Parliamentary term.
14. Against this background, and with a view to re-launching and conducting trilogue negotiations with the current European Parliament on the basis of a revised negotiating mandate, the Permanent Representatives Committee is invited to indicate flexibility on the issues presented in points 8 – 11 and related proposals in the Annex I to this note, and especially any additional flexibility that it wishes the Council to display on readmission.

Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on applying a generalised scheme of tariff preferences and repealing Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council

Possible compromise addressing the issues of readmission, safeguards and the date of entry into force

Recitals

- (26) The UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in Sustainable Development Goal 10, target 7 calls for facilitating orderly, safe, and responsible migration and mobility of people, including through implementation of planned and well-managed migration policies. In this respect, it is essential for both origin and destination countries to address common challenges, such as, stepping up cooperation on readmission of own nationals and their sustainable reintegration in the country of origin, in full respect of international human rights standards. ~~Improving sustainable reintegration and capacity building would also significantly strengthen the local development in the partner countries.~~
- (26a) EU return and readmission policy fully upholds the principle of non-refoulement and is carried out in compliance with fundamental international human rights principles. Improving sustainable reintegration and capacity building would also significantly strengthen the local development in the partner countries.
- (26b) Voluntary return remains a crucial element of the common EU system for returns which offers the humane, effective and sustainable return of irregular migrants. Sustainable reintegration can help overcome the socio-economic and psychosocial difficulties migrants face when returning to their community and make their return more sustainable.
- (27) Return, readmission and reintegration are a common challenge for the Union and its partners. In particular, every State has the obligation under international customary law to readmit its own nationals, who are illegally staying in the territory of another country. Multilateral international conventions such as the Convention on International Civil Aviation signed in Chicago on 7 December 1944 refer also to States' obligation to admit into its territory its nationals who have been deported from another State's territory. This approach and relevant actions should be implemented in accordance with fundamental international human rights principles.

- (27a) ~~To assess the existence of a serious shortcomings related~~ Temporary withdrawal of preferences for serious and systematic shortcomings of a beneficiary country with regard to the obligation to readmit the beneficiary country's national, the Commission should rely on relevant and objective elements. These may include elements stemming from the assessment carried under its own nationals, should be considered only in relation to the beneficiary countries for which the Commission has considered in accordance with Article 25a of the Visa Code that such countries are not cooperating sufficiently on readmission, and for which measures in the field ~~and the assessment carried under Article 8 Regulation (EU) 2018/1806 as well as information notified by a Member State on practical problems on cooperation with a beneficiary country on readmission of irregular migrants of visa~~ policy have been proposed in accordance with Article 25a(5)(a) of the Visa Code and where, after a period of dedicated enhanced engagement, the Commission considers that an insufficient level of cooperation on readmission persists.
- (27b) In light of their specific situation, their socio-economic situation, their development levels and capacity constraints EBA beneficiary countries should benefit from an additional transitional period of 24 months before the possibility of temporarily withdrawing preferences for serious and systematic shortcomings with regard to the obligation to readmit their own nationals applies to those countries. Additionally, withdrawing EBA preferences should be possible only where insufficient cooperation on readmission persists after the adoption of measures pursuant to Article 25a(5)(a) of the Visa Code.
- (27c) To assess the existence of the serious and systematic shortcomings, the Commission should rely on relevant and objective elements as laid down in Article 25a(2) of the Visa Code, including reliable data provided by the Member States, as well as by Union institutions, bodies, offices and agencies. When assessing a temporary withdrawal linked to serious and systematic shortcomings related to the obligation to readmit the beneficiary country's nationals, the Commission should take into account all measures taken to improve the cooperation of that beneficiary country on readmission.

(31) The advisory procedure should be used for the adoption of implementing acts on suspension from the tariff preferences of certain GSP sections in respect of beneficiary countries and on the initiation of a temporary withdrawal procedure, taking into account the nature and impact of those acts. In light of their development levels, the examination procedure should be used for the adoption of implementing acts on the initiation of a temporary withdrawal procedure for EBA beneficiary countries on grounds of serious and systematic shortcomings with regard to their obligation to readmit their own nationals.

(36a) When implementing this Regulation, the Commission should provide to the European Parliament and the Council timely information on important procedural steps, such as accession to GSP+, impacts on least-developed countries graduating from EBA, the initiation of a temporary withdrawal procedure, a safeguards investigation or a change in the Combined Nomenclature codes laid down in this Regulation setting out which products may be subject to a special safeguard. The Commission should also keep the European Parliament and the Council informed of enhanced engagement activities, including the outcome of monitoring missions to GSP+ beneficiary countries. If necessary, the procedures for transmission of confidential information may apply.

Article 18d

1. The existing bilateral dialogues and enhanced engagements with GSP beneficiary countries referred to in this Chapter may address cooperation in the readmission of that country's own nationals, when these are irregular migrants to the Union.
2. Where the Commission has submitted a proposal pursuant to point (a) of Article 25a(5) of the Visa Code it shall hold a dedicated enhanced engagement with the beneficiary country concerned in order to improve the level of cooperation of the beneficiary country in relation to the international obligation to readmit that beneficiary country's own nationals.
3. In case of serious and systematic shortcomings related to the international obligation to readmit a beneficiary country's own nationals, the preferential arrangements referred to in Article 1(2) may be withdrawn temporarily, in respect of all or of certain products originating in that beneficiary country, where the Commission considers that an insufficient level of cooperation on readmission persists following:
 - (a) an enhanced engagement referred to in paragraph 2 of at least 12 months after the date when the Commission submits the proposal in accordance with Article 25a(5)(a) of the Visa Code, for Standard GSP and GSP+ beneficiary countries.
 - (b) an enhanced engagement referred to in paragraph 2 of at least 12 months after the date when the Council adopts an implementing decision in accordance with Article 25a(5)(a) of the Visa Code, for EBA beneficiary countries.

4. The Commission may initiate the procedure to temporarily withdraw benefits from a beneficiary country pursuant to paragraph 3 only after having assessed, on a preliminary basis, whether a potential temporary withdrawal of benefits would be proportionate, taking into account the contribution of a temporary withdrawal to improving the cooperation with the third country in question, including in light of that country's socioeconomic situation. The Commission shall inform the European Parliament and the Council of its assessment and produce a public report presenting its conclusions.
5. Without prejudice to paragraphs 2, 3, and 4 of this Article, Articles 19(3) to (17) and Article 20 of this Regulation shall apply to the temporary withdrawal of preferences pursuant to paragraph 3 of this Article.
6. The report on the application of this Regulation provided for in the second paragraph of Article 40, due on 1 January 2032, will include an assessment of the need for and the functioning of the link between GSP preferences and cooperation on readmission of own nationals by beneficiary countries.
7. Paragraphs 3 and 4 shall apply to EBA beneficiary countries from [24 months after the date of application of this Regulation].

Article 19

1. The preferential arrangements referred to in Article 1(2) may be withdrawn temporarily, in respect of all or of certain products originating in a beneficiary country, for any of the following reasons:
- (a) serious and systematic violation of principles laid down in the conventions listed in Annex VI;
 - (b) export of goods made by internationally prohibited child labour and forced labour, including slavery and prison labour;
 - (c) serious shortcomings in customs controls on the export or transit of drugs (illicit substances or precursors), or ~~related to the obligation to readmit the beneficiary country's own nationals~~ or serious failure to comply with international conventions on antiterrorism or anti-money laundering;
 - (d) serious and systematic unfair trading practices including those affecting the supply of raw materials, which have an adverse effect on the Union industry and which have not been addressed by the beneficiary country. For those unfair trading practices, which are prohibited or actionable under the WTO Agreements, the application of this Article shall be based on a previous determination to that effect by the competent WTO body;
 - (e) serious and systematic infringement of the objectives adopted by Regional Fishery Organisations or any international arrangements to which the Union is a party concerning the conservation and management of fishery resources

3. Where the Commission, acting upon a complaint or on its own initiative, considers that there are sufficient grounds justifying temporary withdrawal of the tariff preferences provided under any preferential arrangement referred to in Article 1(2) on the basis of the reasons referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article and taking into account the enhanced engagement mentioned under paragraph 2 ~~are referred to in Article 18b where applicable~~, it shall adopt an implementing act to initiate the procedure for temporary withdrawal in accordance with the advisory procedure referred to in Article 39(2). Where the Commission considers that there are sufficient grounds justifying the temporary withdrawal of tariff preferences on the basis of Article 18d(3)(a), it shall adopt an implementing act to initiate the procedure for temporary withdrawal in accordance with the advisory procedure referred to in Article 39(2). Where the Commission considers that there are sufficient grounds justifying the temporary withdrawal of tariff preferences on the basis of Article 18d(3)(b), it shall adopt an implementing act to initiate the procedure for temporary withdrawal in accordance with the examination procedure referred to in Article 39(3). The Commission shall inform the European Parliament and the Council of the adoption of that implementing act.

Article 32

1. Without prejudice to Section I of this Chapter, products from Chapters 1 to 24 of the Common Customs Tariff as laid down by Regulation (EEC) No 2658/87, originating in beneficiary countries, may be subject to a special surveillance mechanism, in order to avoid disturbances to Union markets. In relation to specific products, special surveillance shall be launched at the request of a Member State or may be launched by the Commission.

Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on applying a generalised scheme of tariff preferences and repealing Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council

Preliminary full compromise text agreed at the technical level

(compromise text compared to the Council mandate text adopted on 20 December 2022)

Proposal for a

REGULATION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

on applying a generalised scheme of tariff preferences and repealing Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article ~~207~~207(2) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

- (1) Since 1971, the Community has granted trade preferences to developing countries under its Generalised Scheme of Preferences ('GSP').
- (2) The Union's common commercial policy shall be guided by the principles and pursue the objectives set out in the general provisions on the Union's external action, laid down in Article 21 of the Treaty on European Union (TEU).
- (3) The Union's common commercial policy is to be consistent with and to consolidate the objectives of the Union policy in the field of development cooperation, laid down in Article 208 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU), in particular the eradication of poverty and the promotion of sustainable economic, social, and environmental development and good governance in the developing countries. It is to comply with World Trade Organisation ('WTO') requirements, in particular with the Decision on Differential and More Favourable Treatment, Reciprocity and Fuller Participation of Developing Countries (the ‘Enabling Clause’), adopted under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (‘GATT’) in 1979, under which WTO Members may accord differential and more favourable treatment to developing countries.

- (4) Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹, provides for the application of the scheme of generalised tariff preferences (‘the scheme’) until 31 December 2023 except for the special arrangement for the least-developed countries to which such expiry date does not apply. Thereafter, the GSP should continue to apply for a period of 10 years from the date of application of the preferences provided for in this Regulation, except for the special arrangement for the least-developed countries, which should continue to be applied without any expiry date.
- (5) The general objectives of the GSP are to support eradication of poverty in all its forms, in line with Agenda 2030 and Sustainable Development Goal 17.12 and to promote the sustainable development agenda, while averting harm to EU industry’s interests. The 2018 GSP Mid-term Evaluation and the 2021 supporting Study for the Impact Assessment underpinning this Regulation concluded that the GSP framework under Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 has delivered on these main objectives, which were at the core of the 2012 overhaul of Council Regulation (EC) No 732/2008².
- (6) Those objectives remain relevant in the current global context and they are consistent with the analysis and perspective of the recent Commission Communication Trade Policy Review “An Open, Sustainable and Assertive Trade Policy”³ (‘TPR’). According to the TPR, the Union has a “strategic interest to support the enhanced integration into the world economy of vulnerable developing countries” and it “must fully use the strength provided by its openness and the attractiveness of its Single Market” to support multilateralism and to ensure adherence to universal values. For GSP specifically, the TPR notes its important role in “promoting respect for core human and labour rights” and sets the objective for the GSP “to further increase trading opportunities for developing countries to reduce poverty and create jobs based on international values and principles”. Moreover, the scheme should assist beneficiaries in recovering from the COVID-19 impact and in re-building their economies in a sustainable manner, including with respect to international human rights, labour, environmental and good governance standards. Coherence should be ensured between the GSP and its objectives and the assistance provided to beneficiary countries, in line with Union’s Policy Coherence for Development (PCD), which constitutes a key pillar of Union’s efforts to enhance the positive impact and increase effectiveness of development cooperation⁴.

The Union’s development assistance provided to beneficiary countries should focus notably on governed by Regulation (EU) 2021/947 of the European Parliament and the Council Establishing the Neighbourhood Common Development and International Cooperation Instrument – Global Europe (NDICI -GE) and the GSP Regulation share the objective of sustainable development. The utilisation by beneficiary countries of the trade preferences provided for under this Regulation ~~by beneficiary countries and on~~ and the ratification and effective implementation of conventions and international agreements in relation to good governance, human and labour rights and the protection of the environment may contribute to the attainment of this objective. Accordingly, in the implementation of this Regulation, synergies and complementarity with the actions undertaken within the framework of Regulation (EU) 2021/947 should be ensured.-

- (7) By providing preferential access to the Union market, the scheme should assist developing countries in their efforts to reduce poverty and achieve and promote good governance and sustainable development by helping them to generate additional revenue through international trade, which can then be re-invested for the benefit of their own development and, in addition, to diversify their economies. The scheme's tariff preferences should focus on those developing countries that have greater development, trade and financial needs.
- (7a) Gender equality in all Union policies is firmly established in Article 8 of the TFEU and is also at the core of the UN's Agenda 2030, as enshrined in SDG 5, however trade and investment agreements tend to affect women and men differently on account of structural gender inequalities. The GSP scheme has the potential of positively contributing to female employment and empowerment.

- (8) The scheme should consist of a basic arrangement ('standard GSP arrangement'), and two special arrangements, namely the 'special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance – GSP+' and the 'special arrangement for the least-developed countries - EBA'. It, therefore, continues the structure of the previous ten years, ~~which is considered a success~~, as it focuses on the countries most in need and addresses the varying developmental needs of beneficiaries. The scheme should foster regional integration between developing countries, and should apply to the entirety of the territory of the beneficiary country, including to special economic zones and export processing zones.
- (9) The standard GSP arrangement should be granted to all those developing countries which share a common development need and are in a similar stage of economic development. There is no definition of 'developing country' at the level of the WTO, and it is left to preference granting countries to determine the list of GSP-eligible developing countries. Countries which have successfully completed their transition from centralised to market economies, and are today powerful economies with a strong position in international trade, such as China, Hong Kong, Macao and Russia, should not be considered as developing countries in the context of the GSP, and should, therefore, be removed from the list of eligible countries. Countries which are classified by the World Bank as high-income or upper-middle income countries have per capita income levels allowing them to attain higher levels of diversification without the scheme's tariff preferences. They are at a different stage of economic development and do not, therefore, share the same development, trade and financial needs as lower income or more vulnerable developing countries. In order to prevent unjustified discrimination, they need to be treated differently; therefore, they do not benefit from the standard GSP arrangement. Furthermore, the use of tariff preferences provided under the scheme by high-income or upper-middle income countries would increase the competitive pressure on exports from poorer, more vulnerable countries and, therefore, could impose unjustifiable burdens on those more vulnerable developing countries. The standard GSP arrangement should take account of the fact that the development, trade and financial needs are subject to change and ensure that the arrangement remains open if the situation of a country changes.

- (10) For the sake of consistency, the tariff preferences granted under the standard GSP arrangement should not be extended to developing countries benefiting from a preferential market access arrangement with the Union, which provides at least the same level of tariff preferences as the scheme for substantially all trade. To provide, however, a beneficiary country and economic operators with time for an orderly adaptation, the standard GSP arrangement should continue to be granted for two years as from the date of application of a preferential market access arrangement.
- (11) The special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance (GSP+) is based on the integral concept of sustainable development, as recognised by international conventions and instruments such as the 1986 UN Declaration on the Right to Development, the 1992 Rio Declaration on Environment and Development, the 1998 International Labour Organisation (ILO) Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, the 2000 UN Millennium Declaration, the 2002 Johannesburg Declaration on Sustainable Development, the ILO Centenary Declaration for the Future of Work of 2019, the Outcome Document of the UN Summit on Sustainable Development of 2015 "Transforming Our World: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development", the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, and the Paris Agreement on Climate Change under the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change. Consequently, the additional tariff preferences provided for under the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance should be granted to those developing countries which, due to a lack of diversification, are economically vulnerable, have ratified core international conventions on human and labour rights, climate and environmental protection and good governance, and commit to ensuring the effective implementation thereof. The special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance should help those countries to assume the additional responsibilities resulting from the ratification and effective implementation of these conventions. The Union should engage in regular monitoring and dialogue missions with beneficiary countries of the Special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance in order to promote universal values of human rights, including progress towards the abolition of the death penalty, core labour standards towards accountability for war crimes and other serious crimes, and towards the enforceability of existing rights. Further, such dialogue is to promote fundamental principles and rights at work as amended, environmental protection, and good governance.

- (11a) The list of conventions relevant for GSP should be updated to better reflect the evolution of core international instruments and standards and take a proactive approach to sustainable development in keeping with the Sustainable Development Goals and Agenda 2030⁵. In this regard, the following conventions are added: the Paris Agreement on Climate Change (2015) – replacing the Kyoto Protocol; the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD); the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Rights of the Child on the Involvement of Children in Armed Conflict (OP-CRC-AC); ILO Convention No 81 on Labour Inspection; ILO Convention No 144 on Tripartite Consultation; and the UN Convention against Transnational Organized Crime. The Commission, where relevant together with the EEAS, should, through existing dialogues with standard GSP or EBA beneficiary countries, review their progress towards the ratification of the international conventions under this regulation and encourage this progress further for the purpose of achieving the objective of sustainable development.
- (12) Countries graduating from the Least-Developed Countries (LDC) category established by the UN should be incentivised to continue on the path of sustainable development. For this purpose, the economic vulnerability criteria to qualify for the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance should be eased compared to Regulation (EU) No 978/2012, to facilitate access by a larger number of countries graduating from the least developed country category.
- (13) Preferences should be designed to promote further sustainable economic growth and, thereby, to respond positively to the need for sustainable development. Under the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance, the ad valorem tariffs should, therefore, be suspended for the beneficiary countries concerned. The specific duties should also be suspended, unless combined with an ad valorem duty.
- (14) Countries that fulfil the eligibility criteria for the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance should be able to benefit from the additional tariff preferences if, upon their application, the Commission determines that the relevant conditions are met.

⁵ United Nations (2015). Resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 25 September 2015, Transforming our World: the Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development (A/RES/70/1), available at: <https://sustainabledevelopment.un.org/post2015/transformingourworld>

- (15) Countries that on 31 December 2023 have been granted the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 978/2012, as set out in Annex III of that Regulation⁶ and wish to continue benefitting from that arrangement should submit a new application within two years after the date of application of this Regulation, in accordance with the eligibility criteria outlined in this Regulation.- In order, however, to ensure continuity and legal certainty for economic operators, the tariff preferences under the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance (GSP+) provided for in Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 for these countries -are to be maintained during the period in which their application is assessed. This transitional period is intended to give these GSP+ beneficiaries sufficient time to prepare their application to meet the revised conditionality requirements under this Regulation and in the meantime maintain the GPS+ preferential access provided for in Regulation (EU) No 978/2012. Requests for technical and financial assistance from applicant countries related to the ratification and implementation of the conventions can be looked upon favourably.
- (16) The Commission and where appropriate the European External Action Service should monitor the status of ratification of the international conventions on human and labour rights, environmental protection and good governance and their effective implementation, by examining the relevant information, in particular where available the conclusions and recommendations of the relevant monitoring bodies established under those conventions, as well as the implementation of the proposed plan of action, regular missions on the ground and the input of relevant stakeholders including civil society organisations and human rights defenders in the beneficiary countries. Every three years, the Commission should present to the European Parliament and the Council a report on the status of ratification of the respective conventions, the compliance of the beneficiary countries with any reporting obligations under those conventions, and the status of the implementation of the conventions in practice. The report should include recommendations and priorities in case of specific concerns regarding the effective implementation of those conventions.

⁶ Bolivia, Cabo Verde, Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, Pakistan, the Philippines, Sri Lanka, Uzbekistan

- 16b Civil society and other relevant stakeholders should be consulted throughout the monitoring cycle and the information they submit should be duly taken into account, as appropriate.
- (17) For the purposes of monitoring of implementation and, where applicable, withdrawal of tariff preferences, reports from relevant monitoring bodies are essential. However, such reports may be supplemented by other information available to the Commission, including information obtained under bilateral or multilateral technical assistance programmes, and through other sources of information, provided they are accurate and reliable. This could include information from the ~~European Parliament and the Council~~ Union institutions, bodies, offices, or agencies, governments, international organisations, civil society, social partners, or complaints received through the SEP provided they satisfy the relevant requirements. Shortcomings identified during the monitoring process may inform the Commission's future programming of development assistance in a more targeted manner.
- 17a Taking into account the importance of civil society contributions, the Commission should seek the views of civil society in particular when examining a GSP+ application; during the monitoring and assessment of the implementation of the binding undertaking by GSP+ beneficiaries, including in conjunction with monitoring missions; during an enhanced engagement; and during the preparation of the GSP report.
- (18) In July 2020, the Commission appointed the Chief Trade Enforcement Officer with the role of enforcing trade rules. In this connection, in November 2020, the Commission launched a new complaints mechanism, the Single Entry Point ('SEP'), as part of its increased efforts to strengthen the enforcement and implementation of trade commitments. Through the SEP, the Commission receives complaints on various matters related to trade policy, including breaches of the GSP commitments. The SEP provides appropriate guidance for the submission of complaints and ensures the confidentiality of complaints. Such new system of complaints should be integrated within the framework of this Regulation.
- (19) The special arrangement for the least-developed countries (EBA) should continue to grant duty free access to the Union market for products originating in the least developed countries, as recognised and classified by the United Nations (UN), except for trade in arms. For a country no longer classified by the UN as a least-developed country, a transitional period should be established, to alleviate any adverse effects caused by the removal of the tariff preferences granted under that arrangement. Tariff preferences provided under the special arrangement for the least-developed countries should continue to be granted for those least developed countries, which benefit from another preferential market access arrangement with the Union.

- (20) As regards the standard GSP arrangement, the differentiation between tariff preferences for non-sensitive products and tariff preferences for sensitive products should be maintained, to take account of the situation of the sectors manufacturing the same products in the Union.
- (21) Common Customs Tariff duties on non-sensitive products should continue to be suspended, while duties on sensitive products should enjoy a tariff reduction, in order to ensure a satisfactory utilisation rate while at the same time taking account of the situation of the corresponding Union industries.
- (22) Such a tariff reduction should be sufficiently attractive, in order to motivate traders to make use of the opportunities offered by the scheme. Therefore, the ad valorem duties should generally be reduced by a flat rate of 3,5 percentage points from the 'most favoured nation' duty rate, while such duties for textiles and textile goods should be reduced by 20 %. Specific duties should be reduced by 30 %. Where a minimum duty is specified, that minimum duty should not apply.
- (23) Duties should be suspended totally, where the preferential treatment for an individual import declaration results in an ad valorem duty of 1 % or less or in a specific duty of EUR 2 or less, since the cost of collecting such duties might be higher than the revenue gained.
- (24) Product graduation should be based on criteria related to sections and chapters of the Common Customs Tariff. Product graduation should apply in respect of a section or sub-section in order to reduce cases where heterogeneous products are graduated. The graduation of a section or a sub- section (made up of chapters) for a beneficiary country should be applied when the section meets the criteria for graduation over three consecutive years, in order to increase predictability and fairness of graduation by eliminating the effect of large and exceptional variations in the import statistics. Product graduation should not apply to the beneficiary countries of the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance (GSP+) and the beneficiary countries of the special arrangement for the least-developed countries (EBA) as they share a very similar economic profile rendering them vulnerable because of a low, non-diversified export base.

- (24a) The tariff preferences provided for in this Regulation apply to products originating in the beneficiary countries in accordance with the rules of origin laid down in the Union Customs Code and the legal acts adopted in accordance with the powers conferred by that Code, in particular Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2015/2446⁷ and Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) 2015/2447⁸. Regional cumulation between countries of different regional groups and extended cumulation should be granted provided that the applicant beneficiary country brings sufficient evidence that cumulation responds to its development, financing and trade needs, thus leading, amongst others, to economic growth, elimination of poverty, diversification of exports and industrialisation, and provided that it does not impact negatively on the situation of other countries, especially EBA beneficiary countries. When assessing whether granting cumulation responds to the requesting country's development, financing and trade needs, the Commission should take into account the beneficiary country's dependency on the supplying country and future perspectives with regard to the products in question.
- (25) In case of ~~serious and systematic violations~~ shortcomings in the implementation of the principles laid down in international conventions concerning core human rights (including certain principles of international humanitarian law enshrined in those conventions), labour rights, climate and environmental protection, and good governance, so as to promote the objectives of those conventions, and where this would be beneficial, the Commission should ~~engage in a dialogue~~ enter into an enhanced engagement with the beneficiary country to address the situation. In cases of serious and systematic violations of the principles laid down in the relevant international conventions and if appropriate ~~In cases where this dialogue does not lead to an improvement of the situation, implementing powers~~ the Commission should be ~~granted to the Commission~~ empowered to withdraw tariff preferences to beneficiary countries. –Tariff preferences under the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance should be temporarily withdrawn if the beneficiary country does not respect its binding undertaking to maintain the ratification and effective implementation of those conventions or to comply with the reporting requirements imposed by the respective conventions, or if the beneficiary country does not cooperate with the Union's monitoring procedures as set out in this Regulation. The temporary withdrawal should continue until the reasons justifying it no longer apply. In situations characterised by an exceptional gravity of the violations, the Commission should have the power to respond rapidly by adopting measures within a shorter timeline. Under the Union's zero tolerance approach for child labour the reasons for temporary withdrawal should include exports of goods made by internationally prohibited child labour, as well as forced labour including slavery and prison labour, as identified in the relevant Conventions in Annex VI. However the eradication of child labour is a long term process especially in countries where no decent working conditions, free schooling and a social safety net are available. In this context the Commission may consider whether the beneficiary country has adopted policies aiming at decreasing child labour and whether the monitoring thereof shows concrete progress and actions towards full compliance with ILO conventions.

The temporary withdrawal of the preferential arrangements referred to in Article 1(2) should be considered as a last resort.

- (26) The UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in Sustainable Development Goal 10, target 7 calls for facilitating orderly, safe, and responsible migration and mobility of people, including through implementation of planned and well-managed migration policies. In this respect, it is essential for both origin and destination countries to address common challenges, such as, stepping up cooperation on readmission of own nationals and their sustainable reintegration in the country of origin, in full respect of international human rights standards. ~~Improving sustainable reintegration and capacity building would also significantly strengthen the local development in the partner countries.~~
- (26a) EU return and readmission policy fully upholds the principle of non-refoulement and is carried out in compliance with fundamental international human rights principles. Improving sustainable reintegration and capacity building would also significantly strengthen the local development in the partner countries.

- (26b) Voluntary return remains a crucial element of the common EU system for returns which offers the humane, effective and sustainable return of irregular migrants. Sustainable reintegration can help overcome the socio-economic and psychosocial difficulties migrants face when returning to their community and make their return more sustainable.
- (27) Return, readmission and reintegration are a common challenge for the Union and its partners. In particular, every State has the obligation under international customary law to readmit its own nationals, who are illegally staying in the territory of another country. Multilateral international conventions such as the Convention on International Civil Aviation signed in Chicago on 7 December 1944 refer also to States' obligation to admit into its territory its nationals who have been deported from another State's territory. This approach and relevant actions should be implemented in accordance with fundamental international human rights principles.
- (27a) ~~To assess the existence of a serious shortcomings related~~ Temporary withdrawal of preferences for serious and systematic shortcomings of a beneficiary country with regard to the obligation to readmit the beneficiary country's national, the Commission should rely on relevant and objective elements. These may include elements stemming from the assessment carried under its own nationals, should be considered only in relation to the beneficiary countries for which the Commission has considered in accordance with Article 25a of the Visa Code that such countries are not cooperating sufficiently on readmission, and for which measures in the field and the assessment carried under Article 8 of visa Regulation (EU) 2018/1806 as well as information notified by a Member State on practical problems on cooperation with a beneficiary country on readmission of irregular migrants policy have been proposed in accordance with Article 25a(5)(a) of the Visa Code and where, after a period of dedicated enhanced engagement, the Commission considers that an insufficient level of cooperation on readmission persists.
- (27b) In light of their specific situation, their socio-economic situation, their development levels and capacity constraints EBA beneficiary countries should benefit from an additional transitional period of 24 months before the possibility of temporarily withdrawing preferences for serious and systematic shortcomings with regard to the obligation to readmit their own nationals applies to those countries. Additionally, withdrawing EBA preferences should be possible only where insufficient cooperation on readmission persists after the adoption of measures pursuant to Article 25a(5)(a) of the Visa Code.

- (27c) To assess the existence of the serious and systematic shortcomings, the Commission should rely on relevant and objective elements as laid down in Article 25a(2) of the Visa Code, including reliable data provided by the Member States, as well as by Union institutions, bodies, offices and agencies. When assessing a temporary withdrawal linked to serious and systematic shortcomings related to the obligation to readmit the beneficiary country's nationals, the Commission should take into account all measures taken to improve the cooperation of that beneficiary country on readmission.
- (28) Under Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 and its predecessors, tariff preferences have been withdrawn in respect of imports of products originating in Belarus (full withdrawal) and Cambodia (partial withdrawal) due to serious and systematic violations of the principles of certain human and labour rights conventions. The reasons justifying the withdrawal of preferences are still valid, therefore, the temporary withdrawal for Belarus and Cambodia should be maintained under this Regulation.
- (28a) Where imports of a given product under any of the preferential arrangements of this Regulation cause, or threaten to cause, serious difficulties to the Union producers concerned, it should be possible to wholly or partially reintroduce normal Common Customs Tariff duties on that product. In assessing the existence of serious difficulties of the Union producers concerned, the impact of the imports on the sector as a whole, including the production of upstream or downstream products may also be relevant; this can be particularly relevant in the agricultural sector or where a large number of SMEs are involved. The general safeguards under this regulation do not deviate from the normal Common Customs Tariff duties. On the contrary, it temporarily reinstates the application of the Common Customs Tariffs in the trading relations with a given country by removing the special benefits unilaterally granted by the Union. GSP safeguards do not constitute a trade defence instrument or a safeguard measure within the meaning of Regulations (EU) 2015/478 and (EU) 2015/755, nor a safeguard measure within the meaning of the WTO Agreement on Safeguards, which sets forth the rules for application of safeguard measures pursuant to Article XIX of GATT 1994. It is appropriate that a safeguard investigation could be initiated on the basis of a request from a Member State, by any legal person or any association not having legal personality, acting on behalf of Union producers, or on the Commission's own initiative.

- (29) In order to achieve a balance between the need for better targeting, greater coherence and transparency on the one hand, and better promoting sustainable development and good governance through a unilateral trade preference scheme on the other hand, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU should be delegated to the Commission in respect of amendments to the Annexes to this Regulation and temporary withdrawals of tariff preferences due to serious and systematic violations of the principles set out in the relevant conventions with respect to human and labour rights, climate and environmental protection, and good governance and other relevant grounds set out in this Regulation, as well as procedural rules regarding the submission of applications for the tariff preferences granted under the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance, the conduct of a temporary withdrawal and safeguard investigations in order to establish uniform and detailed technical arrangements. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level, and that those consultations be conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Interinstitutional Agreement of 13 April 2016 on Better Law-Making⁹. In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, the European Parliament and the Council receive all documents at the same time as Member States' experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts. In order to provide a stable framework for economic operators, the power to adopt an act in accordance with Article 290 TFEU should be delegated to the Commission in respect of repealing a decision on temporary withdrawal under the urgent procedure before that decision to temporarily withdraw tariff preferences becomes applicable, where the reasons justifying temporary withdrawal no longer apply. The Commission should also be empowered to adopt delegated acts to postpone the date of application of an act imposing the temporary withdrawal, or to modify its scope, for reasons related to a global sanitary emergency or other exceptional circumstances.
- (30) In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission. Those powers should be exercised in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁰.

- (31) The advisory procedure should be used for the adoption of implementing acts on suspension from the tariff preferences of certain GSP sections in respect of beneficiary countries and on the initiation of a temporary withdrawal procedure, taking into account the nature and impact of those acts. In light of their development levels, the examination procedure should be used for the adoption of implementing acts on the initiation of a temporary withdrawal procedure for EBA beneficiary countries on grounds of serious and systematic shortcomings with regard to their obligation to readmit their own nationals.
- (32) The examination procedure should be used for the adoption of implementing acts on safeguard investigations and on suspension of the tariff preference arrangements where imports may cause serious disturbance to Union markets.
- (33) In order to ensure the integrity and orderly functioning of the scheme, the Commission should adopt immediately applicable implementing acts where, in duly justified cases relating to temporary withdrawals due to non-compliance with customs-related procedures and obligations, imperative grounds of urgency so require.
- (34) In order to provide a stable framework for economic operators, upon conclusion of the maximum period of six months, the Commission should adopt immediately applicable implementing acts where, in duly justified cases relating to termination or extension of the temporary withdrawals due to non-compliance with customs-related procedures and obligations, imperative grounds of urgency so require.
- (35) The Commission should also adopt immediately applicable implementing acts where, in duly justified cases relating to safeguard investigations, imperative grounds of urgency relating to the deterioration of the economic and/or financial situation of Union producers which would be difficult to repair so require.

- (36) The Commission should report regularly to the European Parliament and to the Council on the effects of the scheme under this Regulation through the relevant institutional committees. ~~By 1 January 2030, the Commission should report to the European Parliament and to the Council on the mid-term application of this Regulation and assess the need to review the scheme. The report is necessary to analyse the impact of the scheme on the development, trade and financial needs of beneficiaries as well as on bilateral trade and on the Union's tariff income, with particular attention to the sustainable development goals. Special attention should be given to least developed countries graduating from EBA.~~

When implementing this Regulation, the Commission should provide to the European Parliament and the Council timely information on important procedural steps, such as accession to GSP+, impacts on least-developed countries graduating from EBA, the initiation of a temporary withdrawal procedure, a safeguards investigation or a change in the Combined Nomenclature codes laid down in this Regulation setting out which products may be subject to a special safeguard. The Commission should also keep the European Parliament and the Council informed of enhanced engagement activities, including the outcome of monitoring missions to GSP+ beneficiary countries. If necessary, the procedures for transmission of confidential information may apply.

By 1 January 2030, the Commission should report to the European Parliament and to the Council on the mid-term application of this Regulation and assess the need to review the scheme. The report is necessary to analyse the impact of the scheme on the development, trade and financial needs of beneficiaries as well as on bilateral trade and on the Union's tariff income, with particular attention to the sustainable development goals. Special attention should be given to least-developed countries graduating from EBA, and to any relevant developments concerning conditionalities in particular regarding fundamental rights at work and the list of relevant conventions. Relevant developments, particularly in the WTO, on facilitating and promoting trade in goods and services that help meet environmental and climate goals may also be considered.

- (37) Regulation (EU) No 978/2012 should therefore be repealed,

CHAPTER II

Standard arrangement

Article 4

1. An eligible country shall benefit from the tariff preferences provided under the standard arrangement referred to in Article 1(2), point (a) unless:
 - (a) it has been classified by the World Bank as a high-income or an upper-middle income country during three consecutive years immediately preceding the update of the list of beneficiary countries; or

- (b) it benefits from a preferential market access arrangement with the Union which provides the same tariff preferences as the scheme, or better, for substantially all trade.
2. Points (a) and (b) of paragraph 1 shall not apply to least-developed countries, as identified by the United Nations.

1. Standard GSP beneficiary countries meeting the criteria laid down in Article 4 are listed in Annex I, column C.
2. By 1 January of each year following the entry into force of this Regulation the Commission shall review Annex I. To provide a standard GSP beneficiary country and economic operators with time for orderly adaptation to the change of the country's status under the scheme:
- (a) the decision to remove a beneficiary country from the list of standard GSP beneficiary countries, in accordance with paragraph 3 of this Article and on the basis of Article 4(1), point (a), shall apply as of 1 January of the year following one year after the date of entry into force of that decision;
- (b) the decision to remove a beneficiary country from the list of standard GSP beneficiary countries, in accordance with paragraph 3 of this Article and on the basis of Article 4(1), point (b), shall apply as of 1 January of the year following two years after the date of application of a preferential market access arrangement.
3. For the purposes of paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article the Commission shall be empowered to adopt delegated acts, in accordance with Article 36, to amend Annex I, column C, on the basis of the criteria laid down in Article 4.
4. The Commission shall notify the standard GSP beneficiary country concerned of any changes of its status under the scheme.

1. The products included under the standard arrangement referred to in Article 1(2), point (a), are listed in Annex III.
2. The Commission is empowered to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 36, to amend Annex III in order to incorporate changes made necessary by amendments to the Combined Nomenclature.

Article 7

1. Common Customs Tariff duties on products listed in Annex III as non-sensitive products shall be suspended entirely, except for agricultural components.
2. Common Customs Tariff ad valorem duties on products listed in Annex III as sensitive products shall be reduced by 3,5 percentage points. For products under GSP sections S-11a and S-11b of Annex III, that reduction shall be 20 %.
3. Where preferential duty rates calculated, in accordance with Article 7(3) of Regulation (EU) No 978/2012, on the Common Customs Tariff ad valorem duties applicable on the date of entry into force of this Regulation provide for a tariff reduction of more than 3,5 percentage points for the products referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, those preferential duty rates shall apply.
4. Common Customs Tariff specific duties, other than minimum or maximum duties, on products listed in Annex III as sensitive products shall be reduced by 30 %.

1. The tariff preferences referred to in Article 7 shall be suspended, in respect of products of a GSP section originating in a standard GSP beneficiary country, when the average value of Union imports of such products over three consecutive years from that standard GSP beneficiary country exceeds the thresholds listed in Annex IV. The thresholds shall be calculated as a percentage of the total value of Union imports of the same products from all GSP beneficiary countries.
2. Prior to the application of the tariff preferences provided for in this Regulation, the Commission shall adopt an implementing act establishing, in accordance with the advisory procedure referred to in Article 39(2), a list of GSP sections for which the tariff preferences referred to in Article 7 are suspended in respect of a standard GSP beneficiary country. That implementing act shall apply as from 1 January 2024.
3. The Commission shall, every three years, review the list referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article and adopt an implementing act, in accordance with the advisory procedure referred to in Article 39(2), in order to suspend or to re-establish the tariff preferences referred to in Article 7. That implementing act shall apply as of 1 January of the year following its entry in force.
4. The list referred to in paragraphs 2 and 3 of this Article shall be established on the basis of the data available on 1 September of the year in which the review is conducted and of the two years preceding the review year. It shall take into account imports from GSP beneficiary countries listed in Annex I as applicable at that time. However, the value of imports from GSP beneficiary countries, which upon the date of application of the suspension no longer benefit from the tariff preferences under Article 4(1), point (b), shall not be taken into account.
5. The Commission shall notify the country concerned of the implementing act adopted in accordance with paragraphs 2 and 3.
6. Where Annex I is amended in accordance with the criteria laid down in Article 4, the Commission is empowered to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 36 to amend Annex IV in order to adjust the modalities listed in that Annex so as to maintain proportionally the same weight of the GSP sections in respect of which the tariff preferences have been suspended pursuant to paragraph 1 of this Article.

CHAPTER III

Special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance

Article 9

A GSP beneficiary country may benefit from the tariff preferences provided under the special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance referred to in Article 1(2), point (b), if the following conditions are met:

- (a) it is considered to be vulnerable due to a lack of diversification as defined in Annex V;
- (b) it has ratified all the conventions listed in Annex VI (the 'relevant conventions') and the Commission has not identified, based on available information, in particular the most recent available conclusions of the monitoring bodies under those conventions, a serious failure to effectively implement any of those conventions;
- (c) it has not formulated a reservation in relation to any of the relevant conventions, which is prohibited by any of those conventions or which is for the purposes of this Article considered to be incompatible with the object and purpose of that convention.

For the purposes of this Article, reservations shall be considered to be incompatible with the object and purpose of a convention in one of the following cases:

- (i) a process explicitly set out for that purpose under the convention has so determined;
- (ii) in the absence of such a process, the Union where it is a party to the convention, and/or a qualified majority of Member States parties to the convention, in accordance with their respective competences as established in the Treaties, objected to the reservation on the grounds that it is incompatible with the object and purpose of the convention and opposed the entry into force of the convention as between them and the reserving state in accordance with the provisions of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties, signed in Vienna on 23 May 1969;

- (d) it gives a binding undertaking to maintain ratification of the relevant conventions referred to in Annex VI and to pursue and ensure the effective implementation thereof, ~~accompanied~~ underpinned by a plan of action for the effective implementation of the relevant conventions;

The plan of action shall be based on available information, in particular on the most recent conclusions of the monitoring bodies of the conventions referred to in Annex VI. The plan of action shall also propose appropriate and indicative timeframes and shall identify, where relevant, the responsible institutions in the beneficiary country.

The plan of action shall be published once the country becomes a GSP+ beneficiary.

- (e) it accepts without reservation the reporting requirements imposed by any of the relevant conventions and gives a binding undertaking to accept regular monitoring and review of its implementation record in accordance with the provisions of the relevant conventions;
- (f) it gives a binding undertaking to participate in and cooperate with the Union's reporting and monitoring procedure provided for in Article 13.

Article 10

1. The special incentive arrangement for sustainable development and good governance shall be granted if the following conditions are met:
 - (a) a GSP beneficiary country has made a request to that effect;
 - (b) the Commission considers, based on examination of the request, that the— requesting country fulfils the conditions laid down in Article 9.
2. The requesting country shall submit its request to the Commission in writing. The Commission shall inform the European Parliament and the Council of its assessment and produce a public report presenting its conclusions.*
5. Without prejudice to paragraphs 2, 3, and 4 of this Article, Articles 19(3) to (17) and Article 20 of this Regulation shall apply to the temporary withdrawal of preferences pursuant to paragraph 3 of this Article.

CHAPTER VI

Safeguard and surveillance provisions

SECTION I

GENERAL SAFEGUARDS

Article 22

1. Where a product originating in a beneficiary country of any of the preferential arrangements referred to in Article 1(2) is imported in volumes or at prices which cause, or threaten to cause, serious difficulty to Union producers of like or directly competing products, normal Common Customs Tariff duties on that product may be wholly or partially reintroduced.
2. For the purposes of this Chapter, ‘like product’ means a product which is identical, that is, alike in all respects, to the product under consideration, or, in the absence of such a product, another product which, although not alike in all respects, has characteristics closely resembling those of the product under consideration.

3. For the purposes of this Chapter, ‘interested parties’ includes those parties involved in the production, distribution or sale of the imported products referred to in paragraph 1 and of like or directly competing products.
4. The Commission is empowered to adopt delegated acts in accordance with Article 36, to supplement this Regulation by establishing rules related to the procedure for adopting general safeguard measures in particular with respect to deadlines, rights of parties, confidentiality, disclosure, verification, visits and review of measures.

Article 23

Serious difficulties referred to in Article 22(1) shall be considered to exist where Union producers suffer deterioration in their economic or financial situation. In examining whether such deterioration exists, the Commission may also assess, where appropriate, the market dynamics in the sector as a whole, including the impact on other producers in the sector, such as producers of upstream or downstream products. In carrying out its assessment, the Commission shall take account of relevant indicators for the economic or financial situation. These indicators may include, inter alia, the following:

- (a) market share;
- (b) production;
- (c) stocks;
- (d) production capacity;

- (i) imports;

Article 24

1. If it considers that there is sufficient prima facie evidence that the conditions of Article 22(1) are met, the Commission shall investigate whether the normal Common Customs Tariff duties should be wholly, or partially, reintroduced.
2. An investigation shall be initiated upon request by a Member State, by any legal person or any association not having legal personality, acting on behalf of Union producers, or on the Commission's own initiative if it is apparent to the Commission that there is sufficient prima facie evidence, as determined on the basis of the assessment referred to in Article 23, to justify such initiation. The request to initiate an investigation shall contain sufficient prima facie evidence that the conditions for imposing the safeguard measure set out in Article 22(1) are met. The request shall be submitted to the Commission. The Commission shall, as far as possible, examine the accuracy and adequacy of the evidence provided in the request, to determine whether there is sufficient prima facie evidence to justify the initiation of an investigation.
3. Where it is apparent that there is sufficient prima facie evidence to justify the initiation of an investigation the Commission shall publish a notice in the Official Journal of the European Union. Should an investigation be initiated, the notice shall provide all necessary details about the procedure and deadlines, including the possibility of recourse to the Hearing Officer of the Directorate General for Trade of the European Commission. Initiation shall take place within one month of the request received pursuant to paragraph 2. Where it appears to the Commission that there is insufficient evidence to justify an investigation, it shall inform the Member States of its decision within 1 month of the date of receipt of the request.
4. An investigation, including the procedural steps referred to in Articles 25, 26 and 27, shall be concluded within 12 months from its initiation.
- 4a. ~~Where Section I of this Chapter is applied to~~ General safeguards investigation concerning products in Chapters 1 to 24 of the Common Customs Tariff as laid down by Regulation (EEC) No 2658/87, originating in beneficiary countries, the period referred to in Article 24(4) of this Regulation shall be reduced to two months in the following cases: (a)

when the beneficiary country concerned does not ensure compliance with the rules of origin or does not provide the administrative cooperation referred to in Article 21; (b) when Imports of products from Chapters 1 to 24 of the Common Customs Tariff as laid down by Regulation (EEC) No 2658/87, under the preferential arrangements granted under this Regulation massively exceed the usual levels of exports from the beneficiary country concerned.

Article 25

On duly justified grounds of urgency relating to deterioration of the economic or financial situation of Union producers, and where delay might cause damage which would be difficult to repair, the Commission shall adopt immediately applicable implementing acts in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 39(4) to reintroduce normal Common Customs Tariff duties for a period of up to 12 months.

Article 26

Where the facts as finally established show that the conditions set out in Article 22(1) are met, the Commission shall adopt an implementing act to reintroduce the Common Customs Tariff duties in accordance with the examination procedure referred to in Article 39(3). That implementing act shall enter into force within one month from the date of its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.

Article 27

Where the facts as finally established show that the conditions set out in Article 22(1) are not met, the Commission shall adopt an implementing act terminating the investigation in accordance with the examination procedure referred to in Article 39(3). That implementing act shall be published in the Official Journal of the European Union. If no implementing act is published within the period referred to in Article 24(4), the investigation shall be deemed terminated and any implementing acts adopted pursuant to Article 25 shall automatically expire. Any Common Customs Tariff duties collected as a result of those implementing acts shall be refunded.

Article 28

Common Customs Tariff duties shall be wholly or partially reintroduced for as long as necessary to counteract the deterioration in the economic or financial situation of Union producers, or for as long as the threat of such deterioration persists. The period of reintroduction shall not exceed three years, unless it is extended in duly justified circumstances.

 - (c) The beneficiary country provides evidence that it cannot comply with the rules of origin applicable to the goods in question, without such cumulation being granted.
4. When assessing if the request is justified in view of specific trade, development and financing needs of the beneficiary country, in particular on the basis of information provided by that country, the Commission shall take into account the level of dependency of the beneficiary country on integrated production with the third countries concerned by the request, the impact of such dependency ~~for~~on the beneficiary country's sustainable development, the relevance of sectors with such integrated production for the economy of the beneficiary country and future development perspectives with regard to the products in question.

4. Information shall in any case be considered to be confidential if its disclosure is likely to have a significantly adverse effect upon the supplier or the source of such information or on bilateral international relations of the Union.
5. Paragraphs 1 to 4 shall not preclude reference by the Union authorities to general information and in particular to reasons on which decisions taken pursuant to this Regulation are based. Those authorities shall, however, take into account the legitimate interests of natural and legal persons concerned so that their business secrets shall not be divulged.
