Proposal for a

COUNCIL DECISION

authorising the Member States to accept, in the interest of the European Union, the accession of Cabo Verde to the 1980 Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. CONTEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

• Reasons for and objectives of the proposal

The aim of the Hague Convention of 25 October 1980 on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction (hereafter: "the 1980 Convention"), to date ratified by 103 countries, including all EU Member States, is to restore the status quo by means of the prompt return of wrongfully removed or retained children through a system of cooperation among central authorities appointed by its Contracting Parties.

As the prevention of child abduction is an essential part of the EU policy to promote the rights of the child, the European Union is active at international level to improve the application of the 1980 Convention and encourages third States to accede it.

Cabo Verde deposited the accession instrument to the 1980 Hague Convention on 4 October 2022. The Convention entered into force in Cabo Verde on 1 January 2023.

Article 38(4) of the 1980 Convention stipulates that the Convention applies between the acceding country and such Contracting States as will have declared their acceptance of the accession.

In Opinion 1/13<sup>(1)</sup>, the Court of Justice of the European Union decided that the exclusive competence of the European Union encompasses the acceptance of the accession of a third state to the 1980 Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction.

The Court insisted on the need for uniformity on the matter at EU level, avoiding a variable geometry among Member States.

As the matter of international child abduction falls within the exclusive external competence of the European Union, the decision whether to accept the accession of Cabo Verde has to be taken at EU level by means of a Council Decision. The Member States of the European Union should thus deposit the declaration of acceptance concerning the accession of Cabo Verde in the interest of the European Union.

The acceptance of the Member States of the European Union would render the 1980 Hague Convention applicable between Cabo Verde and the EU Member States except Denmark.

• Consistency with existing policy provisions in the policy area

As far as parental child abduction is concerned, the 1980 Hague Convention is the international counterpart of Council Regulation No 2019/1111 (known as the Brussels IIb Regulation) <sup>(2)</sup> which is the cornerstone of EU judicial cooperation in matrimonial matters and matters of parental responsibility.

One of the main objectives of the Regulation is to deter child abduction between Member States by establishing procedures to ensure the child's prompt return to the Member State of his/her habitual residence. To this end, the Brussels IIb Regulation incorporates in Chapter III the procedure laid down in the 1980 Hague Convention and complements it by clarifying some of its aspects, in particular the hearing of the child, the time period to render a decision after an application for return has been lodged and the grounds for not returning the child.

At the international level, the European Union supports the accession of third States to the 1980 Convention in order for its Member States to rely upon a common legal framework to deal with international child abductions.

22 Council Decisions have been already adopted between June 2015 and December 2022 in order to accept the accession to the 1980 Hague Convention on International Child Abduction of 30 third countries (Morocco, Singapore, the Russian Federation, Albania, Andorra, the Seychelles, Armenia, the Republic of Korea, Kazakhstan, Peru, Georgia, South Africa, Chile, Iceland, the Bahamas, Panama, Uruguay, Colombia, El Salvador and San Marino, the Dominican Republic, Belarus, Uzbekistan, Honduras, Ecuador, Ukraine, Jamaica, Bolivia, Philippines and Tunisia<sup>(3)</sup>).

- Consistency with other Union policies

The present proposal is evidently linked to the general objective enshrined in Article 3 of Treaty on the European Union to protect the rights of the child. The 1980 Hague Convention system is designed to protect the child from the harmful effects of a parental abduction and ensure that the child is able to maintain contact with both parents, for instance by securing the effective exercise of access rights. It is worth mentioning also the link to the promotion of the use of mediation in the settlement of cross-border family disputes.

The Directive on certain aspects of mediation in civil and commercial matters<sup>(4)</sup> also applies to family law within the common European judicial area. The 1980 Hague Convention encourages the amicable resolution of family disputes. One of the Guides to Good Practise under the 1980 Hague Convention published by the Hague Conference on Private International Law is devoted to the use of mediation for the resolution of international family disputes concerning children which fall within the scope of the Convention. At the initiative of the European Commission, this Guide has been translated in all EU languages other than English and French and also in Arabic to support the dialogue with States which have not yet ratified/acceded to the Convention and help finding concrete ways to tackle the problems posed by international child abductions<sup>(5)</sup>.

<sup>(3)</sup> 22 Council Decisions have been already adopted, authorizing Member States to accept the accession to the 1980 Convention of Andorra (Council Decision 2015/1023 adopted on 15 June 2015); Seychelles (Council Decision 2015/2354 adopted on 10 December 2015); Russia (Council Decision 2015/2355 adopted on 10 December 2015); Albania (Council Decision 2015/2356 adopted on 10 December 2015); Singapore (Council Decision 2015/1024 adopted on 15 June 2015); Morocco (Council Decision 2015/2357 adopted on 10 December 2015); Armenia (Council Decision 2015/2358 adopted on 10 December 2015); Republic of Korea (Council Decision 2016/2313 adopted on 8 December 2016), Kazakhstan (Council Decision 2016/2311 adopted on 8.12.2016), Peru (Council Decision 2016/2312 adopted on 8.12.2016); Georgia and South Africa (Council Decision (EU) 2017/2462 of 18 December 2017); Chile, Iceland and the Bahamas (Council Decision (EU) 2017/2424 of 18 December 2017); Panama, Uruguay, Colombia and El Salvador (Council Decision (EU) 2017/2464 of 18 December 2017); San Marino (Council Decision (EU) 2017/2463 of 18 December 2017); The Dominican Republic (Council Decision (EU) 2019/305 of 18 February 2019); Ecuador and Ukraine (Council Decision (EU) 2019/306 of 18 February 2019); Honduras (Council Decision (EU) 2019/307 of 18 February 2019); Belarus and Uzbekistan (Council Decision (EU) 2019/308 of 18 February 2019); Jamaica (Council Decision (EU) 2021/2206 of 9 December 2021); Bolivia (Council Decision (EU) 2021/2207 of 9 December 2021); Philippines (Council Decision (EU) 2022/2439 of 8 December 2022); Tunisia (Council Decision (EU) 2022/2450 of 8 December 2022).

2. LEGAL BASIS, SUBSIDIARITY AND PROPORTIONALITY

- Legal basis

In accordance with Article 38 of the 1980 Hague Convention, the declaration of acceptance of accession is a constituent part of an international agreement concluded with the acceding State.

The substantive legal basis for a decision under Article 218(6) TFEU depends primarily on the objective and content of an international agreement to be concluded. Given the fact that the main objective and content of the 1980 Hague Convention is to deter parental child abduction, and therefore the subject matter is family law, the substantive legal basis is Article 81(3) TFEU. Article 81(3) TFEU provides that measures concerning family law with cross-border implications shall be established by the Council, acting in accordance with a special legislative procedure. The Council shall act unanimously after consulting the European Parliament.

Given that Article 81 TFEU is the substantive legal basis, the Council is to adopt the decision authorising the Member States to accept, in the interest of the Union, the accession of a third country to the 1980 Convention after consulting the European Parliament, in accordance with Article 218(6), point (b), TFEU.

Pursuant to Article 218(8), second subparagraph, TFEU, the Council acts by unanimity when the agreement covers a field for which unanimity is required for the adoption of a Union act.

Therefore, the procedural legal basis for the proposed decision is Article 218(6), second subparagraph, point (b), and Article 218(8), second subparagraph, TFEU.

Ireland is bound by Regulation(EU) 2019/1111 (Brussels IIb Regulation) and is therefore taking part in the adoption and application of this decision.

In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of Protocol No 22 on the position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on the European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption of this Decision and is not bound by it or subject to its application.

- Subsidiarity (for non-exclusive competence)

Not Applicable

- Proportionality

The present proposal is drafted along the lines of the already adopted Council Decisions on the same subject matter and does not go beyond what it is necessary to achieve of a coherent EU action in the matter of international child abduction by ensuring that the Member States of the European Union accept the accession of Cabo Verde to the 1980 Hague Convention within a given time frame.

- Choice of the instrument

This proposal for a Council decision is submitted in accordance with Article 218(6) TFEU, which envisages the adoption by the Council of a decision concluding the agreement. There exists no other legal instrument that could be used in order to achieve the objective pursued by this proposal.

3. RESULTS OF EX-POST EVALUATIONS, STAKEHOLDER CONSULTATIONS AND IMPACT ASSESSMENTS

- Ex-post evaluations/fitness checks of existing legislation

Not applicable

- Stakeholder consultations

All Member States of the European Union, consulted by the Commission in the framework of the Council Working Party on Civil Law Matters on their willingness to accept the accession of Cabo Verde to the 1980 Hague Convention, gave a favourable opinion.

- Collection and use of expertise

The Commission has gathered relevant information on the implementation of the Convention from The Hague Conference on Private International Law, the EU Delegation in Cabo Verde and the Prosecutor General's Office, Central Department of Cooperation and Comparative Law designated as Central Authority under the 1980 Hague Convention.

- Impact assessment

As for the 22 Council Decisions already adopted between 2015 and 2022 concerning the acceptance of the accession of several third States to the 1980 Hague Convention, no specific impact assessment has been carried out.

However, the level of implementation of the Convention was examined through the answers given by Cabo Verde to the EU questionnaire and the completion of the questionnaire for newly acceding countries developed by the Hague Conference on Private International Law.

During discussions at the Working Party on Civil Law Matters, it emerged that experiences of some Member States (for instance Portugal) with the legal system of Cabo Verde are positive. Indeed, relying on Treaty relationships with EU Member States is considered very important by the authorities in Cabo Verde. A common legal framework with all EU Member States, represented by the 1980 Hague Convention, would help the handling and resolution of cross-border abduction cases.

Training actions are planned in cooperation with Portuguese-speaking countries, Parties to the Convention (Portugal and Brazil). UNICEF will be also involved in the implementation of the Hague Children Conventions.

Cabo Verde has also recently acceded to the 1996 Child Protection and 2007 Child Support Conventions and its legal system, respect of rule of law and fundamental rights have been examined in the context of the no objection procedures dealing with the accessions to these Conventions. The assessment led to the conclusion that no objection should be raised against the accession of Cabo Verde to 1996 Child Protection and 2007 Child Support Conventions.

- Regulatory fitness and simplification

Not applicable

- Fundamental rights

Parental abduction directly conflicts with children's rights, in particular the right to be protected and the right to maintain contact with both parents. By establishing a legal framework which seeks to deter parental child abduction and gives the child the opportunity to be heard, the 1980 Convention upheld children's rights, which are fundamental human rights recognised by the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (UNCRC). The present proposal is aimed at establishing this legal framework between Cabo Verde and the EU Member States.

4. BUDGETARY IMPLICATIONS

The proposed Council Decision has no budgetary implications.

COUNCIL DECISION

authorising the Member States to accept, in the interest of the European Union, the accession of Cabo Verde to the 1980 Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 81(3) in conjunction with Article 218(6), second subparagraph, point (b), and Article 218(8), second subparagraph, thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Parliament<sup>(1)</sup>,

Whereas:

- (1) The Union has set as one of its aims the promotion of the protection of the rights of the child, as stated in Article 3 of the Treaty on European Union. Measures for the protection of children against wrongful removal or retention are an essential part of that policy.
- (2) Council Regulation (EU) 2019/1111<sup>(2)</sup> aims to protect children from the harmful effects of wrongful removal or retention and to establish procedures to ensure their prompt return to the State of their habitual residence, as well as to secure the protection of rights of access and rights of custody.
- (3) Regulation (EU) 2019/1111 complements and reinforces the Hague Convention of 25 October 1980 on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction ('the 1980 Hague Convention') which establishes, at international level, a system of obligations and cooperation among Contracting States and between central authorities and has the aim of ensuring the prompt return of wrongfully removed or retained children.
- (4) All Member States are party to the 1980 Hague Convention.
- (5) The Union encourages third states to accede to the 1980 Hague Convention and supports the correct implementation of the 1980 Hague Convention by participating, along with the Member States, inter alia, in the special commissions organised on a regular basis by the Hague Conference on Private International Law.
- (6) A common legal framework applicable between Member States and third states could be the best solution for sensitive cases of international child abduction.
- (7) The 1980 Hague Convention stipulates that it applies between the acceding State and such Contracting States as have declared their acceptance of the accession.

- (8) The 1980 Hague Convention does not allow regional economic integration organisations such as the Union to become party to it. Therefore, the Union cannot accede to the 1980 Hague Convention, nor can it deposit a declaration of acceptance of an acceding State.
- (9) According to Opinion 1/13 of the Court of Justice of the European Union<sup>(3)</sup>, declarations of acceptance under the 1980 Hague Convention fall within the exclusive external competence of the Union.

- (12) The Member States should therefore be authorised to deposit their declaration of acceptance of the accession of Cabo Verde in the interest of the Union in accordance with the terms set out in this Decision.
