² OJ C , p.
Whereas:

(2) In Article 26 of the Charter, the Union recognises and respects the right of persons with disabilities to benefit from measures designed to ensure their independence, social and occupational integration and participation in the life of the community.

(3) Every citizen of the Union has the fundamental right to move and reside freely within the territory of the Member States, subject to the limitations and conditions laid down in the Treaties and by the measures adopted to give effect to them. Article 18 of the UNCRPD also recognises the rights of persons with disabilities to liberty of movement and to freedom to choose their residence on an equal basis with others.

(4) According to the Court of Justice of the European Union, citizenship of the Union is destined to be the fundamental status of nationals of the Member States when exercising the right to move and reside within the territory of the Member States, enabling those who find themselves in the same situation to enjoy, within the scope ratione materiae of the TFEU, the same treatment in law irrespective of their nationality, subject to such exceptions as are expressly provided for.
The Union is a Party to the UNCRPD and is bound by its provisions which are an integral part of the Union legal order to the extent of its competences. All the Member States are Parties to the UNCRPD and are bound by it also to the extent of their competences. While the Union and all its Member States have signed and ratified the UNCRPD, there is a need to make progress on equality for persons with disabilities both for the Union itself as well as in all Member States.

The UNCRPD recognises that persons with disabilities include persons who have long-term physical, mental, intellectual or sensory impairments which in interaction with various environmental, administrative, technological and societal barriers can result in discriminatory treatment. The purpose of the UNCRPD is therefore to promote, protect and ensure the full and equal enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms by all persons with disabilities without discrimination of any kind, and to promote respect of their inherent dignity, individual autonomy including the freedom to make one’s own choices, and independence of persons, thus ensuring their full and effective participation and inclusion in society on an equal basis with others. The UNCRPD also recognises the importance of respect for difference and acceptance of persons with disabilities as part of human diversity and humanity and the need to take appropriate measures to ensure equality of opportunity and accessibility to persons with disabilities. The UNCRPD states that women and girls with disabilities are subject to multiple forms of discrimination, and therefore State Parties should take adequate measures to ensure the full and equal enjoyment by them of all human rights and fundamental freedoms. It also recognises the difficult conditions faced by persons with disabilities who are subject to multiple or aggravated forms of discrimination on the basis of race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national, ethnic, indigenous or social origin, property, birth, age or other status.
(7) The European Pillar of Social Rights, proclaimed by the European Parliament, the Council and the European Commission at Gothenburg on 17 November 2017 provides that everyone, inter alia regardless of disability, has the right to equal treatment and opportunities regarding employment, social protection, education, and access to goods and services available to the public and that equal opportunities of under-represented groups are to be fostered (principle 3). In addition, the European Pillar of Social Rights recognises that persons with disabilities have the right to income support that ensures living in dignity, services that enable them to participate in society and a work environment adapted to their needs (principle 17).

(7a) The Strategy for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities 2021-2030 is intended to tackle the diverse challenges that persons with disabilities face and progress in all areas of the UNCRPD, both at Union and national level.

(8) Directive (EU) 2019/882 of the European Parliament and the Council (the ‘European Accessibility Act’) aims to improve access to products and services by eliminating and preventing barriers arising from divergent accessibility requirements in the Member States, thus contributing to increasing the availability of accessible products and services in the internal market, including access to websites and mobile device based service of certain public services, and improve the accessibility of relevant information.

5 In addition, Directive (EU) 2016/2102 on the accessibility of the websites and mobile applications of public sector bodies, aims to improve the accessibility of public sector bodies websites and their mobile apps.
(8a) In addition, Union law also guarantees the right to non-discrimination in access to transport and other rights. Examples of such rights include the right to receive assistance free of charge for passengers with disabilities and reduced mobility travelling by air⁶, rail⁷, waterborne means of transport⁸, or bus and coach⁹. Union law also enables the Member States to provide for reduced fees or user charges for toll roads/bridges/tunnels as well as exemptions from the obligation to pay such fees or user charges for or any vehicle used or owned by persons with disabilities as concerns the roads subject to road charging¹⁰.

(9) Persons with disabilities may apply to competent authorities or bodies in the Member State in which they reside for the recognition of disability status as this is a matter within their competence. Each Member State has disability assessment procedures which differ from Member State to Member State. Where the competent authorities or bodies recognise the disability status of an applicant, they may issue a disability certificate, a disability card or other formal document recognising the applicant’s disability status. Some Member States do not have a definition of disability status. In those Member States, entitlements to specific services based on a disability may be used when services or benefits are granted to persons with disabilities.

The UNCRPD recognises that discrimination and social exclusion experienced by persons with disabilities result from the environmental, systemic and attitudinal barriers in society, rather than by their impairment, as defined in the UNCRPD and in this Directive. Due to the lack of mutual recognition of disability status between Member States, persons with disabilities often face specific and significant difficulties and barriers when exercising their fundamental rights of equal treatment, non-discrimination and free movement. This is particularly the case for short stays or visits to another Member State within the meaning of Article 6 of Directive 2004/38/EC, which provides that Union citizens and their family members should have the right to reside in another Member State for a period of up to three months without being subject to any conditions or any formalities other than the requirement to hold a valid identity card or passport. For periods longer than three months, Article 7 of Directive 2004/38/EC requires additional conditions to be met and, in this case, Article 8 of Directive 2004/38/EC provides that the host Member State may require Union citizens to register with the relevant authorities.

Persons with disabilities moving for longer periods to other Member States for employment, study or other purposes, except where otherwise provided by law or agreed among Member States, may have their disability assessed and formally recognised by the competent authorities or bodies in the other Member State and may receive a disability certificate, a disability card, or any other formal document recognising their disability status or a decision on the entitlement to specific services based on a disability in accordance with applicable rules of that Member State.
(11a) To promote the free movement of persons with disabilities participating in an EU mobility programme continued equal access to special conditions, preferential treatment and/or parking conditions and facilities should be ensured through use of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for the duration of that EU mobility programme. EU mobility programmes encompass programmes established by the EU to support mobility of persons for a fixed period to another Member State for an educational, training, professional, civic and/or cultural purpose(s), such as the European Solidarity Corps Programme or Erasmus+.

(12) However, persons with recognised disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability travelling to or visiting for a short period of time a Member State other than the Member State in which they reside, regularly encounter significant difficulties and barriers, if their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability is not recognised in the Member State they travel to or visit and if they do not hold a certificate, disability card or any other formal document recognising their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability in the host Member State, in order to benefit from special conditions and/or preferential treatment offered there. Persons with non-visible disabilities in particular often face specific difficulties when asked to prove their disability while travelling.

(13) In this case, persons with disabilities travelling to or visiting another Member State are put at a significant disadvantage when exercising their free movement rights as compared to persons without disabilities as well as persons with disabilities holding a disability certificate, a disability card or any other formal document recognising their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability in the Member State they travel to or visit.
(13a) Citizens of the Union expressed concerns about the lack of mutual recognition of disability across the EU in a number of petitions delivered to the European Parliament and have requested the introduction of an EU-wide disability card.

(14) Furthermore, not knowing whether and, if so, to what extent, their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability and formal documents recognising this may be recognised when travelling to or visiting another Member State, creates significant uncertainty for them. Moreover, limited availability of online information regarding their specific rights and available advantages exacerbates this problem. Ultimately, persons with disabilities may be deterred from exercising their rights of free movement and full and effective participation and inclusion in society.

(14a) deleted
(15) Alongside various visible and invisible, physical, social and other barriers in accessing both public and private spaces and services and lack of reasonable accommodations, high expenses are a key factor discouraging many persons with disabilities from travel, because they have specific needs resulting in additional expenses related to their disability and may also require person(s) accompanying or assisting them including those recognised as personal assistant(s) in accordance with national legislation or practices, or making use of sign language interpreters or assistance animals, making their travel costs higher than for persons without disabilities. The lack of recognition of disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability in other Member States might limit their access to special conditions, such as free access or reduced tariffs, priority seating on public transport, reserved parking spaces or preferential treatment and has an impact on their travel costs, lives, social and economic integration and personal autonomy.

Furthermore, the widespread lack of knowledge of psychosocial, cognitive, physical or sensorial accessibility policies can result in discriminatory behaviour.

(16) Preferential treatment (such as personal assistance, priority access, the possibility to not wait in line etc.) offered with or without remuneration is often important for persons with disabilities to be able to access various services, activities or facilities and to fully benefit from them. However, due to the lack of mutual recognition, in the Member State they visit or travel to, of their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability and of formal documents recognising this issued in other Member States, persons with disabilities may not be able to benefit from the special conditions or preferential treatment offered by private operators or public authorities in that Member State to holders of a disability certificate, disability card or any other formal document recognising their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability issued there.

(17) While voluntary in nature and limited in scope, the Pilot Project on the EU Disability card launched in 2016 and carried out in eight Member States, demonstrated that facilitating mutual recognition of disability status between Member States provided advantages for persons with disabilities in accessing benefits and services in the areas of culture, leisure, sport, and, in some cases, transport, and supporting their cross-border movement in the EU for a short period\(^\text{13}\) and shows that the card’s objectives continue to be relevant to the current needs of persons with disabilities. In addition, it included other examples of services, activities and facilities which offer special conditions or preferential treatment to persons with disabilities.

\(^{13}\) See also the Final Report of the Study assessing the implementation of the pilot action on the EU Disability Card and associated benefits, published in May 2021, https://op.europa.eu/en/publication-detail/-/publication/4adbe538-0a02-11ec-b5d3-01aa75ed71a1/language-en.
On the basis of their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability, persons with disabilities may apply for a parking card to competent authorities or bodies in the Member State in which they reside for the issuance of a parking card for person with disabilities which recognises the right to certain parking conditions and facilities reserved for persons with disabilities. Each Member State has in place an application procedure, be it at local, regional or national level, to obtain a parking card for person with disabilities (or person(s) accompanying or assisting them including personal assistant(s)) and criteria which must be fulfilled in order to be eligible.
Council Recommendation 98/376/EC\textsuperscript{14} has provided for a European model of a parking card for persons with disabilities, which has facilitated the recognition of the parking card across Member States. However, \textit{given its non-binding nature the implementation of that Recommendation} and the inclusion of national specific additions or deviations from the recommended model have led to a variety of different parking cards. This hinders the cross-border recognition of the cards across Member States, hampering the access of persons with disabilities to specific parking conditions provided and facilities reserved for persons with disabilities who are holders of a parking card in other Member States. Moreover, the Council Recommendation has not been updated to reflect ongoing technological and digitalisation developments. Member States \textit{have also experienced} problems with fraud and forgery of the cards, as the format is usually quite simple and easily forged and in practice different in each Member States, which makes it difficult to verify. \textit{As the co-legislators adopt legally binding rules which are more detailed in this field, the Council Recommendation is no longer achieving these objectives. Consequently, Member States may allow cards issued before the date of application of this Directive, in accordance with the Council Recommendation on parking cards for persons with disabilities, to have the same effect as the European Parking Card in their territory.}

In order to facilitate the access by persons with disabilities to special conditions or preferential treatment related to services including passenger transport services, activities and facilities, also when provided not for remuneration, in other Member States, remaining barriers and difficulties in travelling to or visiting another Member State due to the lack of mutual recognition of their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability and of formal documents recognising this issued in other Member States and parking rights should be removed.

Therefore, in view of facilitating the exercise by persons with disabilities of the rights to access special conditions or preferential treatment offered by private operators or public authorities when travelling to or visiting another Member State for a short stay, without discrimination on grounds of nationality on the same basis as persons with disabilities in that Member State, and in view of facilitating the use of all means of transport and benefiting from parking conditions and facilities reserved for persons with disabilities on the same basis as in that Member State, it is necessary to establish the framework, rules and common conditions, including a common standardised model, for a European Disability Card as proof of recognised disability status or of the entitlement to specific services based on a disability and for a European Parking Card for persons with disabilities, as proof of their recognised right to parking conditions and facilities reserved for persons with disabilities. Member States may also decide to apply the provisions of this Directive to persons with a recognised disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability for periods longer than a short stay.
(22) Mutual recognition of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities should facilitate and guarantee persons with recognised disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability in a Member State, access to special conditions or preferential treatment offered by private operators or public authorities in a variety of services, activities and facilities, including when not provided for remuneration, as well as access to parking conditions and facilities reserved for persons with disabilities and, where applicable, persons accompanying or assisting them including personal assistants, on equal terms and conditions as those provided for on the basis of national certificates, disability cards or other formal documents recognising disability status, where such formal documents exist, and parking cards for persons with disabilities issued by the competent authorities or bodies in the host country.

(23) Beside parking conditions and facilities, the services, activities and facilities covered by this Directive concern a wide variety of ever-changing activities, including activities provided not for remuneration, by public authorities or private operators, either on a mandatory (on the basis of national/local rules or legal obligations) but often also on a voluntary basis (in particular by private operators) in a variety of policy domains, such as culture, leisure, tourism, sports, public and private transport, training.
Examples of special conditions or preferential treatment include, free access, reduced tariffs, reduced fees or user charges for toll roads/bridges/tunnels, priority access, access to restricted traffic and pedestrian zones, priority seating on public transport, designated and accessible seats in public transport, parks and other public areas, accessible seating in cultural or public events, personal assistance, assistance animals such as guide dogs or assistance dogs for persons with disabilities, including persons with visual impairments, assistance on the beach to enter the water, support (such as access to braille, audio guides, sign language interpretation), provisions of aids or assistance, loan of a wheelchair, loan of a floating wheelchair, obtaining tourist information in accessible formats, using a mobility scooter on roads or a wheelchair in bike lanes without a fine, etc. Examples of parking conditions and facilities include, free or extended parking or reserved parking spaces, as well as access to areas where traffic is restricted to specific vehicles in accordance with national law, such as low-emission zones. With respect to passenger transport services by air, rail, waterborne means of transport or bus and coach, in addition to the special conditions or preferential treatment offered to persons with disabilities, assistance animals such as guide dogs or assistance dogs for persons with disabilities including persons with visual impairments, personal assistants, sign language interpreters or other persons accompanying or assisting persons with disabilities (or reduced mobility) may travel free of charge or at a reduced price and be seated, where practicable, next to the person with disabilities. Persons accompanying or assisting persons with disabilities are designated by the persons with disabilities themselves or by their legal guardians and can change on an ad hoc basis depending on the requirements of the persons with disabilities.

(24a) Personal assistants accompany or assist persons with disabilities or carry out activities of daily living, if need be in the framework of a contractual relationship, in accordance with national law and practice, with the objective of encouraging personal autonomy, facilitating community life and promoting independent living. Personal assistants, regardless of their nationality, should be able to accompany or assist persons with disabilities using the European Disability Card or the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities while travelling to or visiting a Member State other than that of which they are a resident, provided that they enjoy a right to move across the Union under the applicable EU and national law.

(24b) In accordance with the relevant EU legislation, where applicable Member States should ensure that the operators of cross-border passenger transport services provide or make available upon request clear information to travellers holding a European Disability Card at the time of their purchase of a travel ticket with regard to the special conditions or preferential treatment that apply for the different parts of the operations throughout the journey, in order to avoid travellers holding the European Disability Card finding themselves without a valid travel document when entering another Member State on the same transport service.

The issuance, renewal and withdrawal of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities in a Member State is to be determined by this Directive together with that Member State’s applicable rules, procedures and competences for the assessment and recognition of disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability and parking rights for persons with disabilities. Where Member States issue the European Disability Card directly, they should seek the consent of the person concerned. The issuance and renewal of the European Disability Card should be free of charge; reissuance of the card in cases of loss or damage may be subject to a fee. The issuance and renewal of the European parking card for persons with disabilities may either be free of charge or subject to a fee. Both the fee to be possibly charged for reissuance of the European Disability Card in case of loss or damage and the fee to be possibly charged for the issuance and renewal of the European parking card for persons with disabilities should not exceed the administrative costs concerned nor prevent or discourage persons with disabilities from acquiring or reacquiring these cards.

(25a) deleted

In addition to the physical format of the European Disability Card, Member States should provide for a digital card, and may provide for a digital format of the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities, when technical specifications have been set via implementing acts. Such specifications should build on the experience of past and ongoing work at European level on digitalisation of certificates and documents, such as the EU Digital COVID Certificate set up under Regulation (EU) 2021/953 and enable the use of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities via a digital identity wallet at EU level. Persons with disabilities should be informed about those possibilities and be free to decide to use either the physical or the digital format of the European Disability Card or both. In Member States where the physical version of the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities is complemented by a digital format, persons with disabilities may request the physical card and, if they so wish, both the digital and the physical card.
The issuance of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities entails the processing of personal data, including in particular the data concerning the card holder’s disability status, which constitutes ‘data concerning health’ within the meaning of Article 4(15) of Regulation (EU) 2016/679 and is a special category of personal data within the meaning of Article 9 of that Regulation. Any personal data processing in the context of this Directive should comply with applicable data protection legislation, in particular Regulation (EU) 2016/679. When transposing this Directive, the Member States should ensure that the national legislation include appropriate safeguards applicable to the processing of personal data, in particular special categories of personal data. The Member States should also ensure the security, integrity, authenticity and confidentiality of the data collected and stored for the purpose of this Directive.

The Member State responsible for issuing the European Disability Card or the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities should be the one where the person habitually resides in accordance with Union law and received the assessment of their disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability. Holders of a European Disability Card or European Parking Card for persons with disabilities should be able to use the cards during their stay in any other Member State.

The European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities will facilitate all persons with disabilities to effectively exercise their rights to free movement fully and also enjoy equal access to special conditions, preferential treatment, parking conditions and facilities with respect to services, activities and facilities offered by Member States, including when provided not for remuneration. This is particularly the case for persons with disabilities who travel to or visit another Member State for work or training-related purposes.

The envisaged framework for mutual recognition of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities does not impinge on the competences of a Member State to assess and recognise the disability status or entitlement to specific services based on a disability, and to grant special conditions, such as free access, reduced tariffs or preferential treatment for persons with disabilities, including those making use of assistance animals, and/or person(s) accompanying or assisting them including personal assistant(s). It does not impose an obligation to public entities or private operators to introduce special conditions or preferential treatment for persons with disabilities, nor does it create a centralised EU list of special conditions and preferential treatment for the European Disability Card holders across Member States. Public authorities and private operators may also choose to offer certain special conditions and preferential treatment only to a specific group of persons with disabilities, depending on the needs of that specific group.

A European Disability Card can be required as proof of disability status in order to access on equal terms and conditions any special conditions or preferential treatment with respect to services, activities or facilities, including when provided not for remuneration, offered to or reserved for persons with disabilities or persons accompanying or assisting them, including their personal assistants, under the scope of this Directive. However, a European Disability Card should not be required as proof of disability in order to access or exercise any rights provided for in other Union or national law, including those granting specific benefits, special conditions, or preferential treatment not falling under the scope of this Directive. Where a certificate, a disability card or any other formal document for persons with disabilities may be required in accordance with Union law, the European Disability Card should also not be required as proof of disability, unless a Member State decides to merge their national certificate, disability card or any other formal document for persons with disabilities with the European Disability Card.
This Directive does not apply to social security benefits under Regulations (EC) No 883/2004 and (EC) No 987/2009, cash or in-kind benefits in the area of social protection and employment, or social assistance covered by Article 24(2) of Directive 2004/38/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council. As the aim of this Directive is to facilitate equal access to special conditions or preferential treatment for persons with disabilities when travelling to or visiting another Member State for a short stay, this Directive does also not apply to remunerated or non-remunerated services that are provided for the long-term inclusion, habilitation or rehabilitation of persons with disabilities, and to special conditions or preferential treatment to access services provided to persons with disabilities in consideration of their individual needs and upon the fulfilment of additional criteria, based on an individual assessment or a decision on the entitlement to specific services based on a disability and which differ from the services provided to persons with disabilities that do not fulfil such additional criteria. However, the implementation of this Directive should not be used to exclude special conditions or preferential treatment already granted to persons with disabilities from the scope of this Directive by making them subject to the fulfilment of additional criteria.

In order to raise awareness and facilitate access to special conditions or preferential treatment for persons with disabilities, while travelling to or visiting another Member State, all relevant information with respect to the conditions, rules, practices, and procedures applicable to obtain the European Disability Card and/or the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities and its subsequent use should be made publicly available by Member States in a clear, comprehensive, user-friendly manner and accessible formats for persons with disabilities respecting the relevant accessibility requirements for services established in Annex I to Directive (EU) 2019/882 including sign language, braille, assistive formats and audio/audio features. Member States should aim to ensure the information does not exceed a level of complexity above level B1 (intermediate) of the Council of Europe’s Common European Framework of Reference for Languages.

The Commission should set up a dedicated Union webpage. This Union webpage should contain a link to the national website of each Member State. The Union webpage should be available in all official Union languages, international sign language and the national sign languages of Member States as well as in accessible and easy-to-read formats, in accordance with the relevant accessibility requirements for services set in Annex I to Directive (EU) 2019/882. The information referred to in this Article should be easily understandable, without exceeding a level of complexity superior to level B1 (intermediate) of the Council of Europe’s Common European Framework of Reference for Languages.
(31b) Due to a lack of awareness, misunderstandings or communication barriers, persons with disabilities, particularly those with invisible disabilities, do not always receive the most appropriate support and accommodation for their disability including when travelling by public transport or dealing with national authorities, as well as during emergencies. In order to incentivize service providers and facilitate the access of persons with disabilities to special conditions or preferential treatment, Member States should raise awareness about the existence and use of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities among public authorities and private operators and should encourage them to voluntarily provide special conditions or preferential treatment for persons with disabilities. In particular, Member States may encourage private operators and public authorities through, for example, the provision of information on possible special conditions or preferential treatment to be offered as well as the provision of disability-awareness training so as to ensure the relevance, effectiveness and inclusivity of any special conditions or preferential treatment offered. Member States should seek to develop, implement and evaluate any such measures in consultation with persons with disabilities and their representative organizations.

(31c) Public authorities granting special conditions, preferential treatment or parking conditions and facilities to persons with disabilities should make such information publicly available in a clear, comprehensive, user-friendly manner and accessible formats, including through the public authorities’ official website where available, or by other suitable means, in accordance with the relevant accessibility requirements for services established in Annex I to Directive (EU) 2019/882 including sign language, braille, assistive formats and audio/audio features. Private operators granting special conditions, preferential treatment or parking conditions and facilities to persons with disabilities should also be encouraged to make such information publicly available in a clear, comprehensive, user-friendly manner and accessible formats.
Member States, with the support of the Commission, should take the necessary steps to prevent any risk of forgery or fraud in relation to the European Disability Card or the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities and should actively combat fraudulent issuance, use and forgery of these cards. Members States should exchange information on such cases to ensure mutual trust between Member States as the mutual recognition of disability status is the cornerstone of the European Disability Card. Member States should ensure that any measures taken to prevent the risk of forgery or fraud should respect the rights of persons with disabilities and should not lead to their stigmatisation. Member States should consult persons with disabilities and their representative organisations in the design and implementation of the measures.

In order to ensure the proper application of this Directive, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 TFEU should be delegated to the Commission to supplement the Directive to set the digital features addressing fraud-prevention on the physical format of the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities and to amend Annexes I and II in order to modify the data fields of the standardised format set out in Annexes I and II where such modifications are necessary, in order to adapt the format to technical developments, prevent forgery and fraud or to address abuse or misuse and ensure interoperability.
In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Directive, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission with regards to setting the accessible digital format of the European Disability Card, and the accessible digital format of the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities for Member States which decide to complement its physical version with a digital version, as well as with regards to establishing common technical specifications for the security and digital features, as well as interoperability matters, of the physical version of the cards. Those powers should be exercised in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council.\(^{21}\)

In accordance with Regulation (EU) 2018/1725 of the European Parliament and of the Council, the Commission is to consult the European Data Protection Supervisor when preparing delegated acts or implementing acts that impact on the protection of individuals’ rights and freedoms with regard to the processing of personal data. The Commission may also consult the European Data Protection Board where such acts are of particular importance for the protection of rights and freedoms of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data.

(35) Member States should ensure that adequate and effective means exist to ensure compliance with this Directive and should therefore establish appropriate remedies, including checks on compliance and administrative or judicial procedures, to guarantee that persons with disabilities, person(s) accompanying or assisting them including personal assistant(s), as well as public bodies such as equality bodies, private associations, organisations, in particular representative organisations of persons with disabilities, or other legal entities which have a legitimate interest in ensuring that the provisions of this Directive are complied with, may take action on behalf or in support of a person with disabilities, with his or her approval, in accordance with national law and procedures. Member States should ensure that those provisions take into account Article 13 and the principle of reasonable accommodation of the UNCRPD.

(36) Member States should take appropriate measures in the event of breaches or failure to comply with the obligations laid down in this Directive and the rights which are within its scope. Appropriate measures should be effective, proportionate and dissuasive and can include administrative and financial sanctions, such as warnings, fines or the payment of adequate compensation, as well as other types of penalties.

(37) This Directive respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in particular by the Charter and the UNCRPD. Notably, this Directive seeks to ensure full respect for the rights of persons with disabilities to benefit from measures designed to ensure their independence, social, economic and occupational integration and participation in the life of the community and to promote the application of Article 26 of the Charter.
Since the objective of this Directive, namely to strengthen the exercise of the free movement rights of persons with disabilities, and enhance the possibilities for persons with disabilities to travel to or visit another Member State, and thereby fight against discrimination against them, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States but can rather, by reason of the scale and effects of the action establishing a framework with rules and common conditions, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:
CHAPTER I
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1

Subject matter

This Directive lays down:

(a) the rules governing the issuance of the European Disability Card for persons with disabilities as proof of their disability status or proof of entitlement to specific services based on a disability, in view of promoting freedom of movement for persons with disabilities and facilitating short stays of persons with disabilities in a Member State other than that of which they are a resident, by granting them equal access to any special conditions or preferential treatment with respect to services, activities or facilities, including when provided not for remuneration, offered to or reserved for persons with disabilities in that Member State, including those making use of assistance animals and, where applicable, persons accompanying or assisting them including their personal assistants;

(aa) the rules governing the issuance of the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities as proof of a right to parking conditions and facilities reserved for persons with disabilities, in view of promoting freedom of movement for persons with disabilities and facilitating short stays of persons with disabilities in a Member State other than that in which they are a resident, by granting them equal access to any parking conditions and facilities offered to or reserved for persons with disabilities in that Member State and where applicable persons accompanying or assisting them including their personal assistants;
(b) common templates for the European Disability Card and the European Parking Card for persons with disabilities.

Article 2

Scope

1. This Directive shall apply to parking conditions and facilities and to all situations where special conditions or preferential treatment are offered by private operators or public authorities to persons with disabilities as regards access to the following services, activities and facilities, in the context of a short stay:

- services within the meaning of Article 57 TFEU,
- passenger transport services,
- other activities and facilities, including where not provided for remuneration.

2. Member States shall apply the provisions of this Directive for periods longer than a short stay for card holders participating in an EU mobility programme, for the duration of that programme. Member States may also decide to apply the provisions of this Directive for periods longer than a short stay for card holders visiting or staying in their territory.
2. This Directive does not apply to:
