ITEMS DEBATED

European Green Deal

The Environment Council had an exchange of views on the European Green Deal. The European Green Deal is a key instrument, addressing all sectors of the economy, for taking work forward on the EU's transition to climate neutrality by 2050. It was first presented to the Environment Council on 19 December 2019.

The discussion was also an opportunity for ministers to respond to the messages of Greta Thunberg, who had addressed ministers at the beginning of the meeting, and to react to the European Commission's presentation of the European Climate Law proposal.

Ministers had a long exchange of views on the various issues at stake. This discussion highlighted member states' positions on the priorities and initiatives proposed in the European Green Deal. Ministers addressed mainly the climate aspects of the European Green Deal in the context of the Climate Law proposal, the 2030 climate target and financing of the transition (Just Transition Mechanism and Fund), and their wishes for the Circular Economy Action Plan (to be presented mid-March).

Submission of the EU's long-term climate strategy to the UN

Environment ministers discussed the long-term low greenhouse gas emission strategy of the European Union and its member states and adopted the EU's submission to the UNFCCC in time for COP26, the 2020 UN Climate Change Conference (9-19 November 2020, Glasgow, UK).

The strategy enables the EU to fulfil one of its commitments under the Paris Agreement. Under Article 4, paragraph 19, of the Paris Agreement, "all Parties should strive to formulate and communicate long-term low greenhouse gas emission development strategies, mindful of Article 2 taking into account their common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities, in the light of different national circumstances." The Conference of the Parties, in its decision 1/CP.21, paragraph 35, invited Parties to communicate, by 2020, to the secretariat mid-century, long-term low greenhouse gas emission development strategies in accordance with Article 4, paragraph 19, of the Paris Agreement.

The submission was adopted by consensus and will be sent to the UNFCCC as requested by the European Council. On 12 December 2019, in its conclusions on climate change, the European Council endorsed the objective of achieving a climate-neutral EU by 2050 and invited the Commission to prepare a proposal for the EU's long-term low greenhouse gas emission development strategy as early as possible in 2020 with a view to its adoption by the Council and its submission to the UNFCCC.

Conclusions on air quality

The Council had a discussion on the improvement of air quality. It adopted conclusions which take stock of the progress made so far in improving air quality and provide political guidance for future work, including in the context of actions related to air quality announced in the Commission's communication on the European Green Deal.

The Council concluded that the EU's existing clean air policy had contributed significantly to improving air quality, but more needed to be done to reduce the negative impact of air pollution on health and the environment.

Evaluation of water legislation

The Council had an exchange of views on the evaluation of EU water legislation. This was based on a fitness check, i.e. a comprehensive policy evaluation of four directives on integrated water management: the water framework directive, the environmental quality standards directive, the groundwater directive and the floods directive. It was also closely linked to the evaluation of the urban waste water treatment directive.

Ministers stressed that improvements could be made as regards the implementation of water legislation.

Greening the European Semester

The Council had an exchange of views on greening the European Semester. The discussion focused on how the reinforced sustainability dimension of the European Semester can contribute to the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals while maintaining its focus on macroeconomic policies.

The presidency concluded that it would include the key messages from the debate in a summary report to the March European Council. This report would cover all European-Semester-related debates which had taken place in the various Council formations.

Any other business

– Fridays for future

At the beginning of the Council meeting, climate activist Greta Thunberg addressed ministers, underlining the urgency of swift action, as the remaining global carbon budget to keep temperature rise within 1.5 °C would be exhausted within the next eight years.

During the subsequent exchange of views on the European Green Deal, many ministers praised Greta for her work and thanked the presidency for inviting her to the Council.

– Implementation of full auctioning for the aviation sector under EU ETS

The Polish delegation informed the Council about its reflections on ending free allowances for airlines (no danger of carbon leakage and more revenues for mitigating measures) and called for an in-depth analysis. Several ministers commented on the matter. The Commission welcomed the initiative as a timely one and recalled that a gradual reduction of free allowances for airlines was envisaged as part of the revision of the ETS directive, currently planned for June 2021.

– High-Level Symposium on Water

The Portuguese delegation informed ministers about the preparations for the High-Level Symposium on Water - Bridging SDG 6 and SDG 14 (Lisbon, 2 June 2020), which will take place in the margins of the 2020 UN Ocean Conference.

– By-catch of common dolphins, harbour porpoises and other protected species

The European Commission informed delegations about the by-catch of common dolphins, harbour porpoises and other protected species in fishing gear. It underlined the fact that accidental capture and entanglement in fishing gear kills at least 300 000 cetaceans every year in European and international waters. The Commission told ministers that it was considering what actions were needed and could be taken in order to drastically reduce these numbers.
