Dear colleagues,

In accordance with Regulation (EU) No 1051/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 October 2013 amending Regulation (EC) No. 562/2006 of the European Parliament and the Council of 15 March 2006 establishing a Community Code on the rules of governing the movement of persons across borders (Schengen Border Code), the Danish Government has today notified the Commission that the Danish Government has decided to prolong the border control at the Danish internal borders until 3 April 2016.

The decision to temporarily reintroduce border control at the Danish internal borders was made due to the measures set in place by our neighbouring countries and particularly the measures set in place by Sweden. As a consequence of these measures, Denmark is faced with a serious risk to public order and internal security because a very large number of illegal immigrants might be stranded in the Copenhagen area within a short period of time.

By letters of 2 and 22 February 2016, the Danish Government informed the European Commission and the Member States that if the overall situation did not improve in the near future and the serious threat to public policy and internal security remained, the Danish Government intended after 4 March 2016 to prolong temporarily carrying out the border controls at the internal borders on the basis of Articles 23 and 24 of the Schengen Border Code.

On 4 February 2016, the Swedish Government decided to prolong the border control at the Swedish internal borders until 9 March 2016. Furthermore, the Swedish regulation obliging carriers to ensure that persons transported into Sweden are in possession of identity documents is still in force.

The numbers of asylum seekers in Europe are still historically high, and according to Frontex, there is an ongoing pressure on Europe's external borders. Our neighboring countries to the North have prolonged their temporary border controls and still have ID-controls at their internal borders in order to reduce the numbers of asylum seekers. These measures have – as mentioned before – left Denmark with a serious risk to public policy and internal security if the Danish border control were to be lifted at this point.

On this background, the Danish Government has today decided to prolong the border control at the Danish internal borders until 3 April 2016.

The border control may extend to all internal borders, including land-, sea- and air borders, whereby the specific border sections and border crossing points are determined by the Danish Police. The border control will, however, remain focused on the ferries arriving from Germany and the land border between Denmark and Germany. The scope of the control will remain limited to what is strictly necessary to respond to the threat to public policy and internal security.

Today's decision to prolong the border control is made in accordance with Article 23 and 24 of Regulation (EU) No 1051/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 October 2013 amending Regulation (EC) No. 562/2006 of the European Parliament and the Council of 15 March 2006 establishing a Community Code on the rules of governing the movement of persons across borders (Schengen Border Code).

Yours sincerely,

Inger Støjberg
