20b		(10a) This Regulation is aimed at supporting the application of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention with measures that are focused on full respect of the autonomy of adults concerned and the establishment of supported decision-making regimes and advance planning across the Union. The UNCRPD entered into force for the Union on 22 January 2011. The objective was for the Union to support the Member States in its implementation within its competences. In line with European Court of Justice juriprudence[1a], it has consistently been held that international conventions which are an integral part of the legal order of the Union and are binding on it, have primacy over secondary legislation. Therefore, secondary legislation is to be interpreted as far as possible in accordance with those conventions. In line with the UNCRPD, every person has the inherent right to dignity, autonomy, and equality before the law, including the right to make their own decisions. The protection of adults should not be based on restricting their legal capacity by,

		for example, having a third person or authority make decisions on their behalf. Protection, instead, must be based on the provision of support to the adult to ensure that they can make autonomous decisions about their lives. The implementation of supported decision-making may take various forms which may include facilitating for the adult to choose one or more trusted support persons to assist them in exercising their legal capacity, implementing accessibility measures such as understandable formats, and advance planning mechanisms in which a person plans in advance how their will and preferences shall be addressed in times of certain decision-making. Supported decision-making must be voluntary, initiated and terminated only at the person's request, with full control over the choice and dismissal of support persons. Protection, as interpreted by the UNCRPD, means empowering individuals to exercise their rights – not limiting them – and ensuring that their choices guide all decisions affecting their lives. _____ 1a. Without prejudice to the obligations of the Member States in accordance with Article 351 of the TFEU, this Regulation should not affect the application of conventions between a third State and a Member State concluded before the date of entry into force of this Regulation which concern matters governed by this Regulation. Consistency with the general objectives of this Regulation, however, requires that this Regulation takes precedence, as between Member States, over conventions concluded between two or more Member States in so far as such conventions concern matters governed by this Regulation.

75a		(65a) In line with UNCRPD, to which the Union and the Member States are parties, persons with disabilities must enjoy the right to legal capacity on an equal basis with others in all aspects of life. The rules applicable for this Regulation should allow a shift from substitute decision-making regimes - such as guardianship, curatorship, and analogous institutions - toward supported decision-making arrangements that respect the rights, will, and preferences of the individual. In recognition of the need to ensure legal certainty and allow sufficient time for Member States to adjust their national legislation and administrative practices, this Regulation should continue to apply to existing protective measures of a substitute nature until 2035. This transitional provision should apply strictly within the scope of this Regulation, which is limited ratione materiae to the private international law rules governing the recognition, enforcement, and applicable law of such protection measures within the Union. It should not affect the procedural autonomy of the Member States or their competence to determine the substantive and procedural frameworks applicable to protection regimes under national law. Moreover, a similar policy orientation should be envisaged for related areas, such as the placement of adults in establishments, where the principles of autonomy and supported decision-making must also be progressively applied in full respect of the national traditions which are favourable to the adults in such situations. The long-term evolution toward support-oriented regimes should also extend to related areas, including cross-border placements of adults. In this regard, the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention remains an important international framework for cooperation in matters of international protection. However, its reference to concepts related to the adult's capacity or functional

This Regulation, while engaging with such terminology, aims to promote a more human rights-oriented interpretation and application of protective measures, aligned with the long-term objectives of the UNCRPD. The objective remains to encourage, over time, a coherent and rights-based transition across the Union toward support-oriented systems that affirm the autonomy of adults.

The issuing authority certifies that it has taken all steps pursuant to Article 38 of the Regulation (EU) 20XX/X, in particular that it: — verified elements pursuant to Article 38(1) of the Regulation; — consulted, where feasible, the system of interconnection pursuant to Article 38(3) of the Regulation; — took or will take all necessary steps to inform the Adult and any person with legitimate interest about the issuance of this Certificate pursuant to Article 38(8) of the Regulation; — determined the appropriate period of validity of the Certificate pursuant to Article 38(9) of the Regulation. Reference number of the Certificate: Date of the issuance of the Certificate (dd/mm/yyyy): The Certificate is valid until (dd/mm/yyyy): If additional sheets have been added, state the total number of pages: Signature and/or stamp of the issuing authority:

1. Pursuant to Articles 45 or 46 of the Regulation (EU) 20XX/X.
2. Under the Regulation (EU) 20XX/X, in exercising their jurisdiction, the authorities should in principle apply their own law.
3. Pursuant to Article X of the Regulation (EU) 20XX/X.
4. In particular, please explain the circumstances or indicate the legal acts for which more than one representative has to be involved and specify which of the Adult's representatives are to be involved.
5. Depending on national law, the conditions for making a donation or a gift may be for instance that the gift is made on customary occasions to family members, or that the donation or the gift is not unreasonable having regard to all the circumstances, in particular the size of the Adult's property and assets.
6. For the purposes of this Certificate, life-sustaining treatment should mean treatment, which in the view of a person providing health care for the Adult concerned is necessary to sustain his or her life.
7. For the purposes of this Certificate, life-sustaining treatment should mean treatment, which in the view of a person providing health care for the Adult concerned is necessary to sustain his or her life.
8. Whether that rule stems from the source measure or the source powers of representation (for instance where the Adult named another person as someone who needs to be consulted on certain matters) or from national law. Depending on national law on the protection of adults, specific rules may exist requiring an authorization by a court or other public body e.g. for transactions involving the immovable property of an adult or for donations of a property of an adult or for transactions where a property of an adult is sold or otherwise transferred to his or her representative.
9. Whether those conditions stem from the source measure or the source confirmed powers of representation or from national law. Depending on national law, specific conditions may exist for instance for the sale of immovable property of an adult, e.g. that the property may only be sold through a public auction or that a property of an adult cannot be transferred to a representative himself or herself.
10. Depending on national law, representation of an adult is excluded for instance in certain highly personal decisions.
11. The validity of the Certificate should be limited. The purpose of the limited validity is to ensure that the issuing authority regularly verifies that the legal situation concerning the adult has not changed, for instance on the basis of a later measure concerning the adult or of a revocation of the representative's powers. The validity of the Certificate should in principle be limited to a year. However, the issuing authority may determine the validity of the Certificate differently on a case-by-case basis. In doing so, it should consider in particular the nature and the expected duration of the protection, the validity of the source measure, any arrangements made by the adult in the source confirmed powers of representation, as well as the objective that the Certificate should reflect accurately the legal situation of the adult throughout the duration of validity of the Certificate. Against this background, the issuing authority may issue the Certificate for a shorter period than a year, for instance where the source measure is to last less than a year, or issue it for a longer period than a year, for instance where the source measure is to last for several years and the probability of a change of circumstances concerning the adult is minimal. Where in doubt, shorter validity of the Certificate is to be preferred given the presumption of validity of the Certificate and the effects linked to the issued Certificate, especially the protection of third parties transacting with the representative.

Reference number of the Certificate: Date of the issuance of the Certificate (dd/mm/yyyy): The Certificate is valid until (dd/mm/yyyy): If additional sheets have been added, state the total number of pages: Signature and/or stamp of the issuing authority:

1. Pursuant to Articles 45 or 46 of the Regulation (EU) 20XX/X.
2. Under the Regulation (EU) 20XX/X, in exercising their jurisdiction, the authorities should in principle apply their own law.
3. Pursuant to Article X of the Regulation (EU) 20XX/X.
4. In particular, please explain the circumstances or indicate the legal acts for which more than one representative has to be involved and specify which of the Adult's representatives are to be involved.
5. Depending on national law, the conditions for making a donation or a gift may be for instance that the gift is made on customary occasions to family members, or that the donation or the gift is not unreasonable having regard to all the circumstances, in particular the size of the Adult's property and assets.
6. For the purposes of this Certificate, life-sustaining treatment should mean treatment, which in the view of a person providing health care for the Adult concerned is necessary to sustain his or her life.
7. For the purposes of this Certificate, life-sustaining treatment should mean treatment, which in the view of a person providing health care for the Adult concerned is necessary to sustain his or her life.
8. Whether that rule stems from the source measure or the source powers of representation (for instance where the Adult named another person as someone who needs to be consulted on certain matters) or from national law. Depending on national law on the protection of adults, specific rules may exist requiring an authorization by a court or other public body e.g. for transactions involving the immovable property of an adult or for donations of a property of an adult or for transactions where a property of an adult is sold or otherwise transferred to his or her representative.
9. Whether those conditions stem from the source measure or the source confirmed powers of representation or from national law. Depending on national law, specific conditions may exist for instance for the sale of immovable property of an adult, e.g. that the property may only be sold through a public auction or that a property of an adult cannot be transferred to a representative himself or herself.
10. Depending on national law, representation of an adult is excluded for instance in certain highly personal decisions.
11. The validity of the Certificate should be limited. The purpose of the limited validity is to ensure that the issuing authority regularly verifies that the legal situation concerning the adult has not changed, for instance on the basis of a later measure concerning the adult or of a revocation of the representative's powers. The validity of the Certificate should in principle be limited to a year. However, the issuing authority may determine the validity of the Certificate differently on a case-by-case basis. In doing so, it should consider in particular the nature and the expected duration of the protection, the validity of the source measure, any arrangements made by the adult in the source confirmed powers of representation, as well as the objective that the Certificate should reflect accurately the legal situation of the adult throughout the duration of validity of the Certificate. Against this background, the issuing authority may issue the Certificate for a shorter period than a year, for instance where the source measure is to last less than a year, or issue it for a longer period than a year, for instance where the source measure is to last for several years and the probability of a change of circumstances concerning the adult is minimal. Where in doubt, shorter validity of the Certificate is to be preferred given the presumption of validity of the Certificate and the effects linked to the issued Certificate, especially the protection of third parties transacting with the representative.

27. Whether that rule stems from the measure or the powers of representation (for instance where the adult named another person as someone who needs to be consulted on certain matters) or from national law. 29. Depending on national law, representation of an adult is excluded for instance in certain highly personal decisions.

~~11. The validity of the Certificate should be limited. The purpose of the limited validity is to ensure that the issuing authority regularly verifies that the legal situation concerning the adult has not changed, for instance on the basis of a later measure concerning the adult or of a revocation of the representative's powers. The validity of the Certificate should in principle be limited to a year. However, the issuing authority may determine the validity of the Certificate differently on a case-by-case basis. In doing so, it should consider in particular the nature and the expected duration of the protection, the validity of the source measure, any arrangements made by the adult in the source confirmed powers of representation, as well as the objective that the Certificate should reflect accurately the legal situation of the adult throughout the duration of validity of the Certificate. Against this background, the issuing authority may issue the Certificate for a shorter period than a year, for instance where the source measure is to last less than a year, or issue it for a longer period than a year, for instance where the source measure is to last for several years and the probability of a change of circumstances concerning the adult is minimal. Where in doubt, shorter validity of the Certificate is to be preferred given the presumption of validity of the Certificate and the effects linked to the issued Certificate, especially the protection of third parties transacting with the representative.~~
