Subject: MONTHLY SUMMARY OF COUNCIL ACTS - JULY & AUGUST 2022

This document lists the acts<sup>1</sup> adopted by the Council in July & August 2022.<sup>23</sup>

It provides information on the adoption of legislative and non-legislative acts, including:

the date of adoption,

the relevant Council session,

the number of the document adopted,

the Official Journal reference, reference to the minutes of the Council session when the act was adopted.

<sup>1</sup> For easy reference, the "short titles" as mentioned in the Council's agendas are also indicated (see in italics).

<sup>2</sup> With the exception of certain acts of limited scope such as procedural decisions, appointments, specific budgetary decisions, etc unless adopted by written procedure.

<sup>3</sup> In the case of legislative acts adopted in the ordinary legislative procedure, there may be a difference between the date of the Council's meeting where the legislative act is adopted and the actual date of the act in question, since legislative acts adopted in the ordinary legislative procedure are only considered to have been adopted after signature by both the President of the Council and the President of the European Parliament and the Secretaries-General of the two institutions.

This document is also available on the Council's website at:

Monthly summaries of Council acts - Consilium

Documents listed in the summary may be obtained from the public register of Council documents at: Documents and publications - Consilium.

If not directly available, a request for access to documents can be submitted at:

Statement by the Republic of Bulgaria With reference to paragraph 7 of the Council Conclusions on [Enlargement - North Macedonia and Albania] from [July 2022], With reference to paragraph 22 of the Negotiating framework for the accession of the Republic of North Macedonia to the EU and the mention therein of the official language of the Republic of North Macedonia, according to its Constitution, as language of translation of the EU acquis, Bulgaria hereby reiterates the following: The Bulgarian literary language has six regional written norms (codifications). Three of them are based on dialects and three on the Bulgarian literary language. The creation of the “Macedonian language” in 1944/5 in former Yugoslavia was an act of secondary codification (re-codification) based on the Bulgarian literary language, additionally “enriched” with vernacular forms, thus simulating a dialect-based “natural” process. Any reference to the official language of the Republic of North Macedonia in official/unofficial documents/positions/statements or others of the EU and its institutions, bodies, offices and agencies should be understood strictly in accordance with the Constitution of this state and shall not in any way be interpreted as a recognition by the Republic of Bulgaria of a “Macedonian language”. Bulgaria continues to adhere to the language clause set forth in the Treaty of friendship, good-neighbourliness and cooperation signed in Skopje on 1 August 2017 between the Republic of Bulgaria and the Republic of North Macedonia for the purposes of bilateral treaties/agreements/memoranda and others between the two countries.	11373/22 ADD 1

Declaration by the Council 1. The Council takes note of the unilateral statement of Bulgaria. 2. The Council takes note of the position of Bulgaria that the term “Macedonian language” is to be considered in accordance with the Constitution of the Republic of North Macedonia	11373/22 ADD 2

Statement by the Netherlands The Netherlands agrees with the General Secretariat of the Council that disclosure of the requested document would undermine the protection of the public interest as regards international relations and access should therefore be refused. However, the Netherlands cannot concur with the reasoning in the draft reply that disclosure of the requested document would seriously undermine the ongoing decision-making process, in light of the restrictive interpretation of this exception ground by the Court of Justice of the EU. In our view, the draft reply currently does not sufficiently motivate that there is a reasonably foreseeable and not purely hypothetical risk that full disclosure of the requested document would specifically and actually undermine the institution's ongoing decision-making process. Statement by Sweden Sweden votes YES to the draft reply. However, Sweden would like to underline that the scope of the regulation is clearly defined in articles 2.3 and 3 a and that additional conditions should not be added since they risk being perceived as limiting the scope of the regulation. Sweden would like to emphasize that the scope of the regulation should not be limited by the reasons in para 9 adding conditions to what is already defined in the regulation 1049/20019. As an example we find that it is clear from the wording of article 3 a that a document can have any content, whatever its medium, as long as it concerns a matter relating to the policies (...). It is not clear, however, why a document cannot be short-lived and what kind of mobile-phone-based communication is considered as short-lived and thus exempted from the scope of the regulation. In addition there is no requirement under article 3 a that a document needs to “contain substantial information” in order to be considered a document.	CM 4089/22

Statement of Poland Poland supports the initial decision by the Council’s General Secretariat pursuant to Article 4(3), first subparagraph, of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001 (the exception related to the protection of the decision-making process of the Council) and considers that the applicant’s justification of the public interest is not sufficient. The debate concerning encryption is ongoing and the participation of citizens in democratic decision making process is guaranteed in different forms, especially via public consultations during the legislative procedure.  Moreover Poland is of the opinion that the disclosure of the relevant documents would undermine the protection of the public interest as regards public security (Article 4(1) of Regulation (EC) No 1049/2001). The growing use of encrypted electronic communication to conduct all forms of criminal activity remains a fact. The background and the outcome of the Member States discussion on methods and forms of preventing and combating this practice should not be revealed to the general public. Disclosure of this type of information could result in a further reduce of law enforcement capacity to respond to emerging threats and thus a decrease in the effectiveness of investigation and prosecution of perpetrators. Statement by Finland Finland cannot concur with the reasoning in the draft reply to confirmatory application No 10/c/01/22 that disclosure of the requested document would seriously undermine the ongoing decision-making process, especially considering the restrictive interpretation of this exception by the Court regarding documents that relate to legislative procedures (T-540/15 De Capitani). Statement by Austria Austria is aware of the sensitivity regarding the release of pending dossiers and generally supports a restrictive release policy of pending documents. In the case of the dossier in question Austria and now most of the other Member States have recognized, that the inadequacy of the text of the dossier was –among other reasons – also a consequence of the fact, that there was insufficient time for Member States to hold in-depth consultations with the affected stakeholders on many details. From Austria's point of view, there are good reasons at the present stage, when attempts are being made to work on an much more improved text not to withhold the current intermediate result from the public. A dossier mainly dealing with transparency should	CM 4065/22

also show transparency to some extent. This might be an argument not to deny the access to the text which is probably outdated in several details. However, this should not be a precedent that Austria generally demands open access for dossiers that are still under negotiation. It must be a careful case-by-case assessment. Austria accepts of course any decision taken by the majority of delegations in the council. In this specific case Austria wants to abstain from the decision.

Proposal for a Council Regulation on coordinated demand reduction measures for gas Council Regulation (EU) 2022/1369 of 5 August 2022 on coordinated demand-reduction measures for gas OJ L 206, 8.8.2022, p. 1–10	11568/22
Statement by the Commission The European Commission’s proposals in COM (2022) 360 final, namely to “Save gas for a safe winter”, set out the necessary demand reductions to address the urgent security of supply situation in the European gas market. In addition to these elements, and as part of the overall effort to address the serious energy situation overall that has been provoked by Russia’s war of aggression against Ukraine, the European Commission underlines that it will take forward urgently the important work to address other relevant elements, namely: – supply considerations: the Commission will continue its work through the Energy Platform to secure for the European market additional quantities of gas and LNG (and hydrogen, in the future), and to facilitate joint purchasing, thereby accelerating the reduction of dependency on Russian gas supplies. The Task Force that has now been established will focus its efforts on a number of priority external markets in this regard, including with a view to securing further additional quantities of LNG this year and next, and will also rapidly take forward and coordinate the work of the five regional groups that have been established, for example to ensure the most effective and efficient use of existing infrastructure. – price caps: recognizing the importance of securing energy supply at affordable prices, particularly in the context of mandatory demand reductions efforts, whilst ensuring that gas flows where it will be most needed in a spirit of solidarity and to protect the EU internal market, the Commission is urgently assessing the different possibilities to introduce price caps for gas. To that end, the Commission will consult Member States (and international partners where appropriate) and will report back in the autumn with specific proposals, as necessary. – electricity market design: the Commission, noting that a number of delegations wish to consider how to improve the future functioning of electricity markets to the benefit of consumers and industry, particularly with a view to the effect of gas prices, will take forward the impact assessment process on how to withstand future excessive price volatility, deliver affordable electricity within a future fully decarbonised energy system, while preserving the integrity of the Single Market, maintaining incentives for	CM 4101/22

the green transition, preserving security of supply and avoiding disproportionate budgetary costs. This work is being taken forward as a priority, in close cooperation with Member States, to enable it to be finalised as soon as possible.
Statement by the Republic of Poland concerning the proposal for a Council Regulation on coordinated demand-reduction measures for gas The Republic of Poland objects to the adoption by written procedure of the draft Regulation on coordinated demand-reduction measures for gas. The Republic of Poland objects to the draft Regulation on coordinated demand-reduction measures for gas due to strong reservations concerning the content of the draft, including, in particular, the incorrect legal and Treaty basis. Decisions affecting the energy mix and energy security of Member States should be adopted by unanimity in a special legislative procedure under Article 192(2)(c) TFEU in conjunction with Article 194(2) TFEU. Any measures under EU law which restrict the consumption of energy resources, namely which affect the energy mix of Member States (including decisions to declare a Union alert), should also be adopted by unanimity. The Republic of Poland objects to any Member State or the European Commission imposing restrictions on other Member States. The Republic of Poland does not agree that one Member State should decide on behalf of another Member State on matters of energy policy or that the Commission should have competence in this area. Energy policy and energy security fall exclusively under the responsibility of the Member States.	CM 4101/22
