Proposal for a

REGULATION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of measures and cooperation in matters relating to the protection of adults

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 81(2) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee¹,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

- (1) The purpose of this Regulation is to lay down rules, in cross-border cases, for the protection of adults who, by reason of an impairment or insufficiency of their personal faculties, are not in a position to protect their interests or require support and safeguards in decision-making. In particular, this Regulation lays down rules on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of measures, acceptance of authentic instruments and cooperation between Member States' courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities.
- (2) The Union has set itself the objective of creating, maintaining and developing the Union as an area of freedom, security and justice in full respect of fundamental rights in which the free movement of persons is ensured. For the gradual establishment of such an area, the Union is to adopt, among others, measures relating to judicial cooperation in civil matters, particularly when necessary for the proper functioning of the internal market.
- (3) In accordance with Article 81(2) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union ('TFEU'), such measures may include those aimed at ensuring the compatibility of the rules applicable in the Member States concerning conflict of laws and jurisdiction and the mutual recognition and enforcement between Member States of judgments and of decisions in extrajudicial cases, effective access to justice, the elimination of obstacles to the proper functioning of civil proceedings with cross-border implications.

- (4) The Union has adopted a number of legislative acts in the area of judicial cooperation in civil matters having cross-border implications. With the exception of a rule on the capacity of natural persons in the context of cross-border contractual obligations in civil and commercial matters laid down in Article 13 of the Regulation (EC) No 593/2008 of the European Parliament and the Council², none of those Union legislative acts governs the cross-border aspects of legal capacity of natural persons. Similarly, no legal act of the Union governs the civil aspects of the cross-border protection of adults who, by reason of barriers faced in the interaction between an impairment or insufficiency of their personal faculties and a range of personal factors and factors linked to their living environment, are not in a position to protect their interests, or who may require that the support and safeguards in the exercise of their legal capacity provided to them in one Member State continues across the Union.
- (5) In the absence of such common rules, various difficulties may arise for the adults who are not in a position to protect their interests in cross-border situations, including where those adults move to another Member State or where they own real property or other assets in another Member State. Difficulties may arise for instance where measures taken in one Member State with a view to protecting the adults, including support measures provided to exercise their legal capacity, need to be invoked in other Member States, or where powers of representation granted by the adults to be exercised by their representatives when the adults are not in a position to protect their interests need to be invoked abroad. Those difficulties can have serious adverse consequences on legal certainty in cross-border dealings and on the rights and wellbeing of the adults and on respect for their dignity. In particular, fundamental rights of the adults, such as access to justice, the right to autonomy, the right to property and to free movement, may be negatively affected.

- (6) Uniform private international law rules governing cross-border situations are thus necessary to enhance the protection of fundamental rights of adults with an impairment or insufficiency of their personal faculties. At international level, the Convention of 13 January 2000 on the International Protection of Adults ('HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention') provides for rules on jurisdiction, applicable law, recognition and enforcement of measures for the protection of those adults, on applicable law for powers of representation and rules on cooperation among ■ its contracting Parties.
- (7) The HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention does not prevent its contracting Parties from furthering their cooperation in the field of the protection of adults beyond the provisions of that Convention itself or even departing from its rules in their mutual relations. In compliance with Article 49 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, ■ the rules established by this Regulation should not affect, in the relationship of the Member States with third States that are contracting Parties to the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, the application of that Convention.
- (8) This Regulation should incorporate some rules from the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, in particular on international jurisdiction and applicable law, and make them directly applicable in relations between Member States. However, it is appropriate that in relations between Member States, the Union further improves the protection of adults in cross-border situations within the Union, building on the principle of mutual trust between Member States and on the experience from other areas of judicial cooperation in civil matters. This Regulation should thus complement the rules of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention by laying down rules aimed to simplify, streamline and modernise the procedures and the cooperation among ■ Member States. In particular, it should be possible to foster the right to autonomy of adults and their right to exercise their legal capacity on an equal basis with others, by facilitating the use, in a cross-border context, of powers of representation, whereby adults have organised ■ their representation or support for a time when they would not be in a position to look after their own interests, and giving full and immediate effect to choices made by the adults.

- (9) Given the complementarity of this Regulation and the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, as well as the need to ensure continued protection of adults in cross-border situations involving Member States and third States, the interpretation of the rules laid down in this Regulation and those included in the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention should be aligned, where possible.
- (10) In addition, the interpretation of the rules laid down in this Regulation should be guided by its objectives that are to enhance the protection of fundamental rights and freedoms and other rights of adults in cross-border situations, including their right to autonomy, access to justice, right to property, right to be heard, right to free movement, non-discrimination and equality before the law. In this regard, this Regulation builds on the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union ('Charter') and its Articles 21, 25 and 26 and on international human rights law in this area. In ■ line with European Court of Justice case law, secondary legislation is to be interpreted as far as possible in accordance with international conventions.

(10a) In particular, a significant part of adults to which this Regulation applies are persons with disabilities. Their rights, including the right to equal recognition before the law, integrity, access to justice and respect for their inherent dignity and individual autonomy, are guaranteed by the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities¹ ('UNCRPD'), to which both the Union and its Member States are parties. The rights safeguarded in the UNCRPD are to be protected both in national and cross-border cases, and where measures are taken in relation to persons with disabilities, those measures are to be in line with the UNCRPD. This Regulation, laying down private international law rules for cross-border cases, should be applied consistently with the human rights obligations under the UNCRPD, in particular with its Articles 3, 9, 12, 13 and 19. As contracting Parties to the UNCRPD, Member States are to ensure that their national substantive and procedural laws on the treatment of adults are consistent with the human rights obligations provided by the UNCRPD. In particular, Member States are to respect the equality of adults before the law and their right to enjoy legal capacity on equal basis with others in all aspects of life, with the support that they may require in exercising their legal capacity, as well as the autonomy and integrity of the adults in accordance with Article 12 of the UNCRPD. It is important that assistance and other forms of assistance that exist in the law of the Member States are available to adults. For example, various persons and bodies may be designated to support, assist, or represent adults who need assistance with decision-making regarding their person or property.

(11) Besides the protection, in cross-border situations, of fundamental rights and freedoms and other rights of adults ■, this Regulation also aims to improve the effectiveness and speed of judicial and administrative proceedings concerning the protection of adults establishing clear, simpler and functional mechanisms for cooperation in cross-border proceedings. It further aims to strengthen legal certainty and predictability in cross-border dealings, both for adults and their representatives and for other parties, whether they are public or private entities. Providing greater legal certainty and simpler, streamlined and digitalised procedures should also encourage individuals to exercise their right to free movement.

- (12) This Regulation should cover civil matters concerning the protection of adults, in particular related to measures, authentic instruments and powers of representation, aimed at the protection of an adult. In order to ensure consistency, the matters covered by this Regulation should correspond to those in the scope of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention. The protection should be understood to include support to adults in decision-making or exercising their legal capacity, co-decision making and representation. Adults may require protection due to an insufficiency or an impairment of their personal faculties ■ , which can be permanent or temporary and, among others, of physical or psychosocial nature, or in connection with a health condition or a disease, such as Alzheimer’s disease or a coma. The personal faculties of the adult can be affected in full or in part and the adult can require varying degrees of support and assistance in exercising their legal capacity, depending on the extent to which the adult is able to act on their own behalf. More intensive forms of protection can in particular be required where barriers in the interaction with a range of environmental and personal factors hinder their participation in society on equal basis with others, in particular where the insufficiency or impairment of the personal faculties of the adult is such as to ■ prevent that adult from looking after his or her own interests, such as property interests and personal or health interests. Protection should take into account the will and preferences of the adult. For example, by taking into account the adult's social circle, previous declared wishes or other sources of information that can reveal preferences.

(12a) This Regulation does not contain any specific rules on ex lege representation, a form of representation that arises solely by operation of law. However, such representation falls under the scope of the Regulation when it is aimed at the protection of adults. Thus, ex lege representation may be the subject of cooperation and communication under Chapter VI, but is not subject to any specific rules on jurisdiction, conflict-of-laws rules or rules on recognition and enforcement either in this Regulation nor in the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention and may therefore be subject to national conflict-of-laws rules. The term ‘ex lege representation’ under this Regulation does not cover concepts where the appointment of a representative of the adult is not made solely by operation of law, but requires prior registration or a similar measure by a court, which is constitutive for the appointment of the representative.

(13) Where measures have been taken for the protection of a child, and are to remain in force or take effect after that child reaches the age of majority, they should fall within the scope of this Regulation as soon as the child has reached 18 years of age.

(14) This Regulation should apply, among others, to ‘measures’ taken by courts and directed to the protection of the person or the property of an adult, including when it has been decided that no measure should be taken or when the measure consists of a court registering a representative in a national register and this registration is constitutive for the appointment of the representative. The Regulation should respect the Member States’ legal systems and should thus not require them to introduce specific measures into their national laws. However, given the ongoing transition towards supported decision-making in national legal systems, ‘measures’ under this Regulation should primarily encompass those aimed at supporting adults in exercising their legal capacity but also other measures in accordance with Member States’ laws. Appropriate and effective safeguards for the exercise of the legal capacity of the adults should be taken into consideration, ensuring in particular that measures relating to the exercise of legal capacity respect, the rights, and where possible, will and preferences of the adult.

- (15) Irrespective of the legal terminology used in each Member State, measures directed to the protection of adults and taken in compliance with the fundamental rights of the adults concerned should circulate without obstacles in the Union. To this end, this Regulation should be interpreted in accordance with the Charter and the UNCRPD. To protect the right to autonomy, safeguards should be provided in this Regulation and make it possible to refuse recognition or enforcement of measures which are manifestly contrary to public policy, or which are taken without providing the adult with the opportunity to be heard, except in justified exceptional circumstances █ . Where assessing whether a measure taken by the courts of another Member State is not manifestly contrary to public policy, the courts or enforcement authorities of a Member State where █ recognition is invoked or enforcement is sought should assess whether that measure ensures the fundamental rights of the adult, in particular in light of the Charter and Articles 3, 9 12, 13 and 19 of the UNCRPD.
- (16) To ensure a uniform interpretation of this Regulation, this Regulation should define in particular the notions of adults, representatives and courts, which may have divergent meanings in the Member States legal systems. For the purposes of this Regulation, an adult is a person who has reached the age of 18 years. Depending on the context, this should refer for example to adults who, by reason of an impairment or insufficiency of their personal faculties, are not in a position to protect their interests, or adults who granted powers of representation to be exercised when those adults are not in a position to protect their interests or require support and safeguards in decision-making.

17 █ The concept of ‘court’ in this Regulation should mean any judicial authority and all other authorities with competence to take measures directed to the protection of the person or the property of an adult or with competence to decide on the recognition or non-recognition of a measure taken in another Member State. Accordingly, the term ‘court’ should be given a broad meaning so as to cover not only courts in the true sense of the word. Where other authorities, including notaries, act as ‘courts’ and take measures under this Regulation, they should be bound by its rules of jurisdiction, and the measures they take should circulate in accordance with the provisions on recognition and enforcement.

(17a) Conversely, where other authorities, including notaries, do not take measures but are empowered under national law to deal with other aspects related to the protection of adults, they should be considered as competent authorities rather than ‘courts’ and should not be bound by the rules of jurisdiction. Competent authorities are authorities with various responsibilities in matters of protection of adults under national law, including those responsible for drawing up and confirming powers of representation, for issuing authentic instruments, or for implementing measures.

(18) Powers of representation enable adults to plan, for a situation of impairment or insufficiency of their personal faculties, by whom and possibly how they envisage to be supported or represented in exercising their legal capacity and autonomy. It is crucial for safeguarding of the right to autonomy and freedom to make one's own choices that the will expressed by an adult in powers of representation is respected, even in cases where those powers of representation have been granted by the adult in another Member State or confirmed by courts or competent authorities of another Member State. Powers of representation should be interpreted broadly to include various types of powers provided for by Member States' laws, such as powers granted by an adult, having full or partial legal capacity, to one or more representatives to support or represent the adult in one or more contexts. This Regulation should not oblige Member States to introduce 'powers of representation' or 'confirmed powers of representation' in their national laws. 'Confirmed powers of representation' are to be understood as a type of powers of representation in respect of which a court or a competent authority has confirmed that the representative vested with these powers can exercise them. While this Regulation should not prescribe a particular process for confirming powers of representation, the concept of 'confirmed powers of representation' is to be interpreted in line with its main purpose in this Regulation, that is to serve as a basis for the issuance of the European Certificate of Support and Representation. Since third parties should be able to rely on the legal presumption that a representative is entitled to exercise the powers as described in that Certificate, the confirmation of powers of representation by a court or a competent authority must give every guarantee of reliability in that regard and must at least ensure that the powers of representation are valid, in force and in conformity with the law applicable.

- (19) The rules on international jurisdiction and on applicable law in respect of the protection of adults should be those set out in the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, to avoid discrepancies and ensure, to the extent possible, that the same rules apply to a case involving Member States and third States that are party to that Convention. Some Member States may not be contracting Parties to the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention at the time this Regulation will be applicable. To take account of all scenarios and to ensure that the rules of this Regulation can be applied regardless of the status of ratification by Member States of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, the Convention should be attached to this Regulation.
- (19a) In accordance with the jurisdiction rules in Articles 5 and 6 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, primary jurisdiction to take measures should lie with the courts of the State of the habitual residence of the adult. For adults who are refugees and those who, due to disturbances occurring in their State, are internationally displaced, the primary jurisdiction should be with the courts of the State on the territory of which the adult is present.
- (19b) The request for a transfer of jurisdiction under Article 8 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention may be initiated either by a court of a Member State seeking to transfer jurisdiction or by a court of a Member State to which jurisdiction may be transferred.

- (20) It is appropriate to supplement the system of international jurisdiction established by the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention to give due weight to the choice of court made by adults in the Union. To better protect the right to autonomy of the adults, the choice of court made by adults at the time when they were in a position to make such arrangement for their future protection should be respected without the need for additional proceedings in particular for the approval by the courts of the Member States of the habitual residence of the adults. While the formal validity of the choice of court should be governed by the rules of this Regulation, the court examining whether it has jurisdiction on the basis of a valid choice of court should apply its law, including its conflict of law rules, to assess the substantive aspects of validity of the choice not regulated in this Regulation. In particular, the choice of court should have been made when the adult was in a position to make such a choice with respect to his or her capacity and consent in the absence of undue influence.
- (20a) Taking into consideration that the personal or financial circumstances of an adult may evolve between the time when the choice of court is made and the time when the adult is in need of protection, the court seised on the basis of the choice of court should have the possibility to assess whether the choice made by the adult is not contrary to the interests of that adult at the time it is seised. This assessment should be made primarily with regard to the views of that adult, and the significance of the changes in his or her living conditions and assets since the time when the choice of court was made.

- (21) The establishment of an additional ground of jurisdiction based on the choice of court by the adult should not disrupt the mechanism established by the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, nor affect the effectiveness of communication between courts, and should avoid positive and negative conflicts of jurisdiction. The court seized based on the choice made by the adult █ should not exercise its jurisdiction where the courts having primary jurisdiction or the court to which jurisdiction was transferred have already exercised their jurisdiction, in particular where those courts have taken a measure, even if this measure related only to some aspects of protection of the person or property of the adult, or have decided that no measure should be taken, or where proceedings are pending before them.
- (22) As the existence and the extent of an insufficiency or an impairment of the personal faculties of the adult can change over time, measures concerning adults should be subject to regular review in accordance with national law to remain tailored to the adult's current circumstances and to ensure that they are still proportional. If, after the conclusion of initial proceedings, a new measure needs to be taken or an existing measure requires modification, replacement, or termination, jurisdiction should be verified and re-established again in accordance with the applicable jurisdictional rules. In such cases, procedural steps taken in the previous proceedings - such as a prior transfer of jurisdiction - should not prevent courts from exercising their jurisdiction in the new circumstances. Likewise, a court that previously established its jurisdiction based on a choice of court made by an adult, should, in case of new proceedings, reassess whether the conditions for exercising its jurisdiction are still met, for instance that the exercise of jurisdiction is not contrary to the adult's interest. Similarly, the existence of previous measures taken by a court chosen by the adult should not prevent other courts from taking measures in subsequent proceedings following a change of circumstances.

- (22a) The mechanisms established by Articles 7, 9, 10 and 11 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention giving priority to certain grounds of jurisdiction, limiting the effects of certain measures and setting up an exchange of information between the courts with primary jurisdiction and the courts with subsidiary or concurrent jurisdiction, should also apply in the Union to courts exercising their jurisdiction according to the choice made by the adults. Thus, those provisions should apply in respect of the court exercising its jurisdiction on the basis of the choice of by the adult in the same way as they apply in respect to the courts of the habitual residence.
- (22b) If the outcome of succession proceedings before a court of a Member State not having jurisdiction under this Regulation depends on the determination of an incidental question falling within the scope of this Regulation, the courts of that Member State should not be prevented by this Regulation from determining that question. Therefore, if the object of the proceedings is a succession dispute in which the adult is involved and a representative ad litem needs to be appointed to represent the adult in those proceedings, the Member State having jurisdiction for the succession dispute should be allowed to appoint the representative for the pending proceedings, regardless of whether it has jurisdiction under this Regulation. Any such determination should only produce effects in the proceedings for which it was made.
- (22c) If the validity of a legal act undertaken or to be undertaken on behalf of an adult in succession proceedings before a court of a Member State requires permission or approval by a court, a court in that Member State should be able to decide whether to permit or approve such a legal act even if it does not have jurisdiction under this Regulation. The term 'legal act' should include, for example, the acceptance or rejection of inheritance or an agreement between the parties on the sharing out or the distribution of the estate.

- (23) The law applicable in matters of protection of adults should be determined in accordance with the provisions of Chapter III of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention. Accordingly, when taking measures, Member States' courts should apply the applicable law rules of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention. In this context, the reference in Article 13(1) of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention to 'the provisions of Chapter II' of that Convention should be understood as referring to the provisions of this Regulation. In addition, the cross-border legal effects of all types of powers of representation should be governed by the applicable law rules in the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention. To ensure consistent application of this Regulation, the reference to Chapter III of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults on applicable law should be read as referring to the whole chapter ■ .
- (24) Mutual trust in the administration of justice in the Union justifies the principle that measures directed to the protection of adults taken in a Member State should be recognised in all Member States without any special procedure being required. This should not preclude any interested natural or legal person from invoking a measure either as an incidental question before a court or by applying for a decision ■ that there are no grounds for refusal of recognition or that the recognition is to be refused. It should be for the national law of the Member State where such application is made to determine who should be considered as an interested person entitled to make such application. To safeguard the right of the adults to access to justice and provide them with sufficient remedies, and irrespective of the nature and the extent of the measure, adults should have the right to apply for a decision that there are ■ no grounds for refusal of recognition or that the recognition is to be refused. It should be for the national law to determine whether the grounds for refusal can also be raised ex officio.

- (25) The recognition and enforcement of measures in the Union should be based on the principle of mutual trust. Therefore, the grounds for refusal of recognition should be kept to the minimum in the light of the underlying aim of this Regulation which is to facilitate recognition and enforcement of measures and █ to effectively safeguard the rights of the adults. In particular, the jurisdiction of the courts of the Member State of origin should not be reviewed and measures taken by those courts should not be reviewed as to their substance in the Member States in which recognition is invoked or enforcement is sought. Nevertheless, this should not prevent courts having jurisdiction under this Regulation from modifying or terminating an earlier measure or replacing it by a subsequent one, in the event of new circumstances.
- (26) It should only be possible to refuse the recognition of a measure taken in another Member State if one or more of the grounds for refusal of recognition in this Regulation are present. To uphold the principle of mutual trust, the list of grounds for refusal of recognition in this Regulation should be exhaustive. █
- (26a) Measures directed to the protection of adults may be long-term ones and involve successive adjustments. The rules applicable to refusal of recognition of measures should take account of those changes over time. Therefore, a later measure, taken in another Member State or a third State which would have had jurisdiction under the rules of this Regulation, should supersede an earlier measure to the extent that they are irreconcilable. To avoid that incompatible measures are taken in the Member States, the closed system of jurisdiction and the mechanism of mutual information between courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities should be established by this Regulation.

(27) Proceedings directed to the protection of an adult should, as a basic principle, be guided by the views expressed by the adult. Adults should thus be given an effective and genuine opportunity to express their views freely in accordance with Articles 20, 25, 26, and 47 of the Charter and Articles 3, 9, 12, 13 and 19 of the UNCRPD. This includes the opportunity to participate by means of technical equipment, remotely, as well as, communication by non conventional methods in cases where the adult is absolutely unable to express their views The recognition of a measure taken without the adult having had an opportunity to be heard, may be refused, except where there were serious grounds justifying it. This includes, in particular, cases of urgency and cases where the adult was unable to express his or her views, for example, due to a medical condition. Nevertheless, due weight has to be given to the adults will and preferences, for example, by consulting persons close to the adult or through a representative ad litem or by taking into account the adult's social circle, previous declared wishes or other sources of information that can reveal preferences. The fact that the adult has had an opportunity to be heard ■ in the Member States where a measure was taken should not be assessed in comparison with the procedural principles of the Member State in which recognition is invoked but should be assessed uniformly in the Union. Examples of a case of urgency are situations where the adult needs to undergo urgent surgery, or where there is an imminent danger for the adult's property.

- (28) The question of the procedure and the method for hearing of the adult should be left to national law, while ensuring a genuine and effective opportunity for adults to express their views, will and preferences. Due respect should also be given to the rights of adults to accessibility. When a hearing is required in a cross-border context, Member States' courts should use the specific instruments of international judicial cooperation, including, where appropriate, those provided for by Regulation (EU) 2020/1783 *of the European Parliament and of the Council*². *Without prejudice to the right of the adult to be present in the room in accordance with national law, where one of the parties or their representative is present in another Member State at the time of the hearing, they should be able to participate in the hearing through videoconferencing or other distance communication technology provided for in Regulation (EU) 2023/2844 of the European Parliament and of the Council*³, taking into account their procedural rights.
- (29) ■ Authentic instruments directed to the protection of adults and their interests should be accepted in all Member States. An authentic instrument directed to the protection of an adult or his or her interests drawn up or registered by a public authority or other authority of a Member State, such as a notary, may in particular record powers of representation granted by an adult for a time when that adult will not be in a position to protect his or her interests, or advance directives recording wishes and preferences of the adult or giving direct instructions in some matters including health, welfare or appointment of a representative by a court or a competent authority. Those authentic instruments should have the same evidentiary effects in another Member State as they have in the Member State of origin, or the most comparable effects. When determining the evidentiary effects of a given authentic instrument in another Member State or the most comparable effects, reference should be made to the nature and the scope of the evidentiary effects of the authentic instrument in the law of the Member State of origin.

- (29a) The ‘authenticity’ of an authentic instrument should be an autonomous concept covering elements such as the genuineness of the instrument, the formal prerequisites of the instrument, the powers of the authority drawing up the instrument and the procedure under which the instrument is drawn up. The authenticity should also cover the factual elements recorded in the authentic instrument by the authority concerned, such as the fact that the adult indicated appeared before that authority on the date indicated and that this adult made the declarations indicated.
- (30) To facilitate the circulation of measures and authentic instruments in the Union, this Regulation should provide for attestations to accompany them where they need to be recognised, enforced, or, as the case may be, accepted abroad. The procedures for rectifying, withdrawing and challenging attestations used for the recognition and enforcement of measures and the acceptance of authentic instruments should be left to national law. In light of the case-law of the Court of Justice, courts exercise judicial functions when issuing ■ attestations for measures and this issuance ■ forms part of the continuity of the previous judicial proceedings. Therefore, adequate and effective remedies in the context of this issuance should be made available by Member States.
- (31) Central Authorities should be designated in all Member States. Member States should consider designating the same Central Authority for this Regulation as designated for the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention. Member States should ensure that Central Authorities have adequate financial and human resources to enable them to carry out the tasks assigned to them under this Regulation.
- (31a) Central Authorities should in particular assist courts and competent authorities in cross-border proceedings, and cooperate both in general matters and in specific cases. In individual cases, the cooperation should not be limited to a specific part of the judicial or administrative procedure, and should be initiated and continued where a cross-border element exists and there is a need for cooperation.

- (32) To avoid unnecessary intermediaries and foster prompt communication, courts and competent authorities should be able to request information or assistance directly from the Central Authority, court or competent authority of the requested Member State, but should also have the possibility, where appropriate, to send their request through the Central Authority of their Member State.
- (32a) Among others, the Central Authorities should be tasked with assisting courts or competent authorities of other Member States with locating an adult or a natural or legal person who is likely to provide protection to the adult where those persons appear to be present within the territory of the requested Member State. The person likely to provide protection to the adult may include for instance a family member of the adult present in another Member State who is not aware of the ongoing proceedings. Where a court or competent authority presumes that this person is likely to provide protection to the adult, including on the basis of the information provided by the adult himself or herself, but does not possess his or her contact details, it may request another Member State to assist it in determining the whereabouts of that person. Upon such request, the Central Authority of the requested Member State should take appropriate steps to provide that assistance either directly or through any competent authorities or other bodies. The assistance may include, for instance, a search in databases under their responsibilities and should be provided in accordance with the national law and procedure of the requested Member State. National law of the requested Member State should also govern the possibility that a person who, based on the request from the other Member State, is likely to provide protection to the adult, refuses to be identified and to have their whereabouts transmitted to the requesting court or competent authority.

(33) According to Article 19 of the UNCRPD, persons with disabilities are to have the opportunity to choose their place of residence and where and with whom they live, on an equal basis as others, and not to be obliged to live in a particular living arrangement. For the purposes of this Regulation, situations may arise where the courts of a Member State need to take a measure concerning the place of residence or temporary placement of an adult. In principle, the term ‘placement’ may cover the case where a measure is ordered without the consent of the person concerned, as well as voluntary placement without restrictions on the liberty of the person concerned, including living and related protection arrangements. In the context of this Regulation, the term ‘placement’ should be interpreted as only covering cases where a court takes a measure on placement. It is important that, whenever possible, such measures are in line with the best interpretation of the adult's will and preferences. Examples of such situations are cases where courts provide assistance to the adult in making a decision on his or her place of residence or where an adult is not in a position to express his or her views and has not granted powers to make a decision concerning his or her place of residence to a representative, and an admission to a care facility is required. ■

- (33a) Where placement is to be implemented in another Member State, the procedure set out in Article 33 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention should be applied. Therefore, the measure of placement should not be taken if the Central Authority, court or competent authority of the Member State in which the placement would be implemented opposes after having received a consultation request. The consultation made by the court of the requesting Member State should include a report on the adult together with the reasons for the proposed measure, information on the considered funding and, where possible, the views expressed by the adult concerned, in light of Article 19 of the UNCPRD. Best efforts should be made to ensure that the contemplated placement respects the will and preferences of the adult. The report from the court of the requesting Member State may also include any other information that the court considers pertinent, such as the expected duration of the placement and envisaged supervision of that measure. The reasonable time referred to in Article 33(2) of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention to indicate an opposition to a contemplated placement should be interpreted as a period of no longer than three months, in the context of this Regulation.
- (34) In situations where an adult has ■ connections with a Member State other than the one whose courts is exercising jurisdiction under this Regulation, for example connections based on adult's regular presence, or complex financial assets in that Member State, the appointment of a competent authority as representative in that other Member State may be required. In those situations, geographical proximity of the representative and good knowledge of the legislation may be necessary, for example, to ensure a smooth implementation of a measure, and of the continuity of the protection of the adult across borders. Designation of such a competent authority as representative of the adult ■ should be possible if allowed under the national law of the Member State whose competent authority is designated. Such designation requires the consent of the Member State in question.

- (34a) For the purposes of this Regulation, courts and competent authorities should be able to communicate and exchange information with courts and competent authorities of other Member States, either directly or through their Central Authorities, subject to applicable rules, such as on protection of personal data. For instance, a court in a Member State contemplating a measure may request a court or a competent authority of another Member State to communicate information relevant to the protection of an adult, if the situation of the adult so requires. This also applies to competent authorities with regard to implementation. In addition, where a court or competent authority determines that an adult present in another Member State is exposed to a serious danger, it should inform the court or competent authority of that Member State. Furthermore, to enhance judicial harmony and consistency of decisions across Member States and ensure that national records and registers are up-to-date, a court that modifies, replaces or terminates a measure taken by a court of another Member State should, where appropriate, notify the court which took the measure about such modification, replacement or termination.*
- (34b) Nevertheless, Central Authorities, courts or competent authorities should not disclose or confirm any information gathered or transmitted for the purposes of this Regulation where it could jeopardise the health, safety or liberty of the adult or another person or place the property of the adult in danger. The assessment should be based on reliable and specific information available to them, in order to prevent insufficiently justified non-disclosure. As an example, in circumstances where domestic violence has occurred and a court ordered the new address of the adult not to be disclosed, they may decide to refuse providing contact details of the adult. Where appropriate, it should however be possible for a request under this Regulation to be processed by Central Authorities, courts and competent authorities without them transmitting, disclosing or confirming the information that could jeopardise the health, safety or liberty of the adult or another person or place the property of the adult in danger. However, in cases where merely making the request could already jeopardise the health, safety or liberty of the adult, there should not be an obligation under this Regulation to make such request.*

- (34c) In order to achieve agreed solutions for the protection of the person or the property of the adult, Member States could encourage, to the extent that the specific circumstances of the case allow, the use of mediation or other means of alternative dispute resolution. This could, for instance, be between the adult and those responsible for his or her protection or support in order to consider a measure which could be beneficial.*
- (34d) The extent to which the costs of implementing a measure are to be borne in the requesting Member State should be determined by the national law of the Member States where a measure is to be implemented. It is up to the requesting Member State to determine who would bear the costs and under which modalities, for example reimbursement. The costs of implementing a measure in another Member State are to be understood as for instance, the costs of placement such as expenses for transferring the person, the costs of designation of a competent authority abroad or the fees paid to the representative. Those costs should only be related to the implementation of a measure covered by the scope of this Regulation.*
- (34e) Member States should not be prevented from entering or maintaining existing agreements or arrangements with one or more other Member States concerning the allocation of costs. This includes the costs related to the implementation of measures in another Member States as well as the costs of Central Authorities and competent authorities.*

- (35) Representatives of adults who, by reason of an impairment or insufficiency of their personal faculties, are not in a position to protect their interests, should be able to invoke their powers to represent or support those adults and to protect the interests of those adults without obstacles within the Union. Therefore, representatives should be able to demonstrate easily their status and powers in another Member State, for instance in a Member State in which adult's real property or other assets are located. To enable them to do so, a European Certificate of Support and Representation ('the Certificate') should be created. The Certificate should be a uniform certificate to be intended for use in cross-border situations and issued for use in another Member State. In order to respect the principle of subsidiarity, the Certificate should not take the place of internal documents, which may exist for similar purposes in the Member States. The Certificate should produce the same effects in all Member States. However, the Member State of issuance could provide in its national law that the Certificate should not produce effects when used in that State.

- (36) The Certificate can be requested by the adult or a representative on the basis of an existing measure or confirmed powers of representation ■ . It should thus only be issued in situations where an adult is ■ not, either partially or completely, in a position to protect his or her interests and the representative is entitled to actively represent or support that adult in one or more specific matters. The Certificate should include information on the matters in which the representative is entitled to represent or support the adult and on the extent of the powers which the representative is entitled to exercise. The said matters could be, for instance, the control, management and disposition of the adult's real property or other assets, the acquisition of real property or other assets, the carrying out of a contract entered into by the adult, the carrying on, by the adult or on the adult's behalf, of any trade or business, the discharge of the adult's responsibilities and legal obligations, the conduct of legal proceedings and transactions in the adult's name or on the adult's behalf, decisions concerning the adult's personal welfare and place of residence and medical decisions, including giving and refusing consent to the carrying out of a medical treatment. If the measure or confirmed powers of representation allows the representative to support the adult the Certificate should indicate what this entails. A matter in which the representative is entitled to support the adult could, for instance, be to support the adult in court proceedings or proceedings before authorities. Where applicable, the Certificate should include information on the matters where the representative is not entitled to act or is entitled to act under certain conditions or with certain limitations. Such conditions or limitations may, depending on the circumstances, include requirements for a prior authorisation by a court or supervisory authority before certain transactions can be performed, the obligation for multiple representatives to act or make decisions jointly, or the stipulation that the representative acts solely in support of the adult.

- (37) The use of the Certificate should not be mandatory. This means that the adult or a representative of an adult, who are entitled to apply for a Certificate or to whom a Certificate has been issued, should be under no obligation to apply for or use the Certificate, but should be free to use national documents or other instruments available under this Regulation (a measure or an authentic instrument) ■ . Persons acting on their own behalf should not be required to present a Certificate, so the Certificate should be issued only ■ to demonstrate ■ powers to act in support or on behalf of an adult. In respect for the autonomy of the adult, the Certificate should not be used or requested as a means of proving an adult's capacity or incapacity in general or in relation to a specific matter.
- (38) To expedite the issuance of the Certificate and to ensure that the court or competent authority issuing the Certificate has sufficient information about the case at hand, the competence to issue the Certificate should be vested with the court or competent authority of a Member State, which has either taken the measure or confirmed the powers of representation, or with another court or competent authority that has access to information on that measure or confirmed powers of representation ('issuing authority'). It should be for each Member State to designate its issuing authorities among one or more of the said courts and authorities, where applicable, and to determine whether they may involve other competent authorities in the issuing process. The Member States should communicate to the Commission the relevant information concerning the issuing authorities empowered to issue a Certificate in order for that information to be made publicly available.

(39) To ensure that the process of the issuance of the Certificate is uniform throughout the Union, this Regulation should provide rules on the issuance of the Certificate. The issuing authority should issue the Certificate upon application and after verifying that the conditions for the issuance have been fulfilled. The process of verification should ensure that the Certificate corresponds to the content of the measure or confirmed power of representation. The process for the application for and the issuance of the Certificate should be simplified by the fact that the issuing authority issuing the Certificate has access to the ■ measure or ■ confirmed powers of representation on the basis of which the Certificate is to be issued and has knowledge concerning their continued validity and the information contained therein. ■ The issuing authority should be able to request from the applicant, or other persons such as the adult or another representative, or courts and competent authorities of other Member States, additional information and documents necessary for verifying the conditions for the issuance of the Certificate. The verification process should not include a review of the substance of the measure or the confirmed power of representation ■ . ■

(39a) The Certificate should indicate in which matters and to which extent the representative is authorised to represent or support the adult, on the basis of the measure or confirmed powers of representation. As appropriate, the issuing authority should also indicate any limitations of the representative's powers, or conditions attached to such powers, or in a negative fashion, which powers the representative does not have. Such limitations could follow from the national law of the issuing State, but also from the law of another State applicable to the matter.

(39b) The Certificate should be issued in a mandatory form set out in the annex to this Regulation. To reduce translation costs when the Certificate is presented in another Member State, the form for the Certificate set out in the annex to this Regulation should be available in all Union languages. The original of the Certificate which was not issued in a digital format should remain with the issuing authority. Member States could decide the format in which the Certificate is issued. Where possible under national law, it should be issued upon request in a digital format that has been signed or sealed in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 910/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁴ or as a qualified electronic attestation of attributes or an electronic attestation of attributes issued by or on behalf of a public sector body responsible for an authentic source to the applicant's European Digital Identity Wallet set out in that Regulation. It should be permitted to complement paper-based certified copies with a digital format of the Certificate, allowing the applicant to choose the digital format, the certified copy, or both. When requested, the issuing authority should confirm the validity of the Certificate, to any person demonstrating a legitimate interest, within reasonable time.

- (40) To ensure that the Certificate and its certified copies remain up-to-date and based on a valid ■ measure or confirmed powers of representation, the validity of the Certificate and of its certified copies should be limited in time. Upon the expiry of the Certificate, the issuing authority may issue a new Certificate if all the conditions for the issuance of the Certificate are fulfilled. The purpose of the limited validity is to ensure that the issuing authority regularly verifies that the legal situation concerning the adult has not changed, for instance on the basis of a later measure concerning the adult or of a revocation of the representative's powers. The validity of the Certificate should be in principle limited to one year. However, the issuing authority may determine the validity period of the Certificate differently on a case-by-case basis, in particular bearing in mind the presumption of validity of the Certificate and the effects linked to the issued Certificate, especially the protection of third parties dealing with the representative. The issuing authority should consider in particular the nature and the expected duration of the protection, the validity of the ■ measure on the basis of which the Certificate is to be issued, any arrangements made by the adult in the ■ confirmed powers of representation on the basis of which the Certificate is to be issued, as well as the objective that the Certificate should reflect accurately the legal situation of the adult throughout the duration of validity of the Certificate. Against this background, the issuing authority may issue the Certificate for a shorter period than a year, for instance where the ■ measure on the basis of which the Certificate is to be issued is to last less than a year. The issuing authority may also issue it for a longer period than a year, for instance where that measure is to last for several years and the probability of a change of circumstances concerning the adult is minimal, or where the confirmed powers of representation on which the Certificate is based are of unlimited duration. In any event, the validity of the Certificate should not exceed the duration of the measure or the confirmed powers of representation on which it is based, or a maximum period of five years, whichever is shorter. The validity period of the certified copies of the Certificate should correspond to the validity period of the Certificate.

- (41) The Certificate ■ should not be an enforceable title in its own right but should have an evidentiary effect and should be presumed to demonstrate accurately the elements included in the Certificate ■ . That presumption of accuracy is strengthened by the fact that before issuing the Certificate, the issuing authority should verify ■ that the ■ measure or the ■ confirmed powers of representation on the basis of which the Certificate is to be issued remain valid and have not been replaced by a later measure or confirmed powers of representation. The presumption should be rebuttable. The evidentiary effects of the Certificate should not extend to elements which are not governed by this Regulation, such as to the question whether or not a particular asset belonged to the adult.
- (42) Any person presented with a Certificate who deals with a representative ■ should be afforded appropriate guarantees if that person acted in good faith relying on the accuracy of the information certified in the Certificate. An example of inaccuracy could be the situation where the power of representation or the measure has ceased. The person presented with the Certificate should be deemed to have dealt with a representative authorised to represent or support the adult in the matters and to the extent specified in the Certificate, provided that any limitations and conditions set out in the Certificate are duly observed. This may include for instance where the person who, relying on the information certified in a valid Certificate, gives access to the adult's representative to real property or other assets of the adult, makes payments to the representative, or buys or receives property from that representative ■ . ■

- (43) To ensure access to justice and to improve the reliability of the Certificate, it is necessary to provide for the possibility to rectify, modify or withdraw a Certificate, as well as for a redress against decisions of the issuing authority to issue or to refuse to issue a Certificate or decision to rectify, modify or withdraw a Certificate. In particular, it should be possible to modify or withdraw a Certificate where it is established that the Certificate or the individual elements thereof are not accurate or valid. The withdrawal should occur where the inaccuracy or invalidity cannot be corrected by modifying the Certificate, such as when the adult is no longer in need of protection, the representative identified in the Certificate is not authorized to represent or support the adult, or the powers indicated in the Certificate substantially differ from those in the measure or confirmed powers of representation on the basis of which the Certificate is issued. Where the Certificate is rectified, modified or withdrawn, the issuing authority should promptly inform relevant persons, especially those to whom certified copies of the Certificate or the Certificate in a digital format have been issued, so as to avoid their wrongful use. A withdrawn Certificate or a previous version of a modified Certificate should be deemed invalid and should not produce legal effects. Member States should also be able to provide that the related certified copies should be returned to the issuing authority.

(48) Modern and time-efficient means of ■ communication among Member States' courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities should be ensured. For the proceedings under this Regulation, ■ communication between Member States' courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities should, as a rule, be carried out by electronic means, via a secure and reliable decentralised IT system. The decentralised IT system should be comprised of the back-end systems of Member States and interoperable access points, including the European electronic access point ■ . The access points of the decentralised IT system should be based on the e-CODEX system established by Regulation (EU) 2022/850 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁵.

(48a) For the purposes of this Regulation, Member States should be able to use software developed by the Commission (reference implementation software) instead of a national IT system. That reference implementation software should be based on a modular setup, meaning that the software is packaged and delivered separately from the e-CODEX components needed to connect it to the decentralised IT system. Such a setup should enable Member States to reuse or enhance their existing national communication infrastructure for the purpose of cross-border use.

(48b) The Commission should be responsible for the creation, development and maintenance of the reference implementation software, in accordance with the principles of data protection by design and by default, and with accessibility requirements. The Commission should design, develop and maintain the reference implementation software in compliance with the data protection requirements and principles laid down in Regulations (EU) 2018/1725 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁶ and (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁷, in particular the principles of data protection by design and by default as well as a high level of cybersecurity. In particular, any natural or legal person that takes part in creating, developing or maintaining the national IT systems or the reference implementation software should be bound by those requirements and principles. The reference implementation software should also include appropriate technical measures and should allow for organisational measures, including the necessary oversight for ensuring a level of security and interoperability which is appropriate for the exchange of information in the context of cross-border procedures. In order to ensure interoperability with national IT systems, the reference implementation software should be able to implement the digital procedural standards, as defined in Regulation (EU) 2022/850, for this Regulation.

- (49) Transmission through the decentralised IT system could be impossible due to a disruption of the system. Any disruption of the system should be resolved as soon as possible by the relevant Member States. The transmission could also be impossible in practice due to the physical or technical nature of what has to be transmitted ■ , such as the transmission of physical ■ evidence or the need to transmit the original document in paper format to assess its authenticity, or due to force majeure. Situations of force majeure, as a general rule, follow from unforeseeable and unavoidable events arising from a cause external to the court, competent authority or Central Authority. Where the decentralised IT system is not used, communication should be carried out by the most appropriate alternative means. Such alternative means should entail, inter alia, transmission being performed as swiftly as possible and in a secure manner by other secure electronic means, by postal service or by transmission in person where such transmission is possible.
- (50) In order to ensure swift, secure and efficient cooperation, the decentralised IT system should be used by default in the communication between courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities. However, for the purposes of ensuring flexibility of judicial cooperation in the area of the protection of adults, other means of communication could be more appropriate in certain situations. Therefore, communication through the decentralised IT system should not be obligatory for direct communication between courts, in particular where the courts need direct personal communication. In such cases, less formal communication means, such as email, could be used. Considering that courts deal with sensitive data, the security and reliability of the information exchange should always be ensured when selecting the appropriate means of communication.
- (51) It is necessary to provide for ■ modern means of access to justice making it possible for natural and legal persons and Member States' courts and competent authorities to communicate electronically through the European electronic access point established on the European e-Justice Portal by Regulation (EU) 2023/2844.

(51a) In the context of communication by natural and legal persons with courts or competent authorities in cross-border cases, electronic communication should be used as an alternative to the existing means of communication, including national means, without affecting how natural or legal persons communicate with their national courts or competent authorities, in accordance with national law. In the case of communication by legal persons with courts or competent authorities, the use by default of electronic means should be encouraged. Nevertheless, to ensure that access to justice through digital means does not contribute to a further widening of the digital divide, the choice of the means of communication between electronic communication, as provided for by this Regulation, and other means of communication should be left to the discretion of the persons concerned. This is particularly important in order to cater for the specific circumstances of persons who might lack the requisite technical means or digital skills to access digital services and persons with disabilities, as the Member States and the Union have committed themselves to taking appropriate measures in accordance with the UNCRPD and the Charter.

(52) The European electronic access point should allow the electronic communication of natural and legal persons with Member States' courts and competent authorities in the context of the proceedings for a decision that there are grounds for refusal of recognition ■ of a measure or that there are no such grounds, of the issuance of attestations, and of issuance, rectification, modification, withdrawal, suspension or redress procedures of the Certificate. Also, having the validity of a Certificate confirmed should also be possible through the European electronic access point. Member States' courts and competent authorities should communicate or serve documents through the European electronic access point only where the natural or legal person concerned or their representative or a person acting on their behalf such as a lawyer has given prior express consent to the use of the European electronic access point as a means of communication or method of service.

- (52a) The legal framework for conducting hearings through videoconferencing or other distance communication technology where one of the parties or their representative or a person acting on their behalf such as a lawyer is present in another Member State established by Regulation (EU) 2023/2844 should apply in proceedings pursuant to this Regulation.*
- (52b) Regulation (EU) No 910/2014, sets up a common Union regulatory framework for the recognition of electronic identification means and electronic trust services ('e-IDAS trust services'), in particular electronic signatures, electronic seals, time stamps, electronic delivery services and website authentication, which are recognised across borders as having the same legal status as their physical equivalents. Therefore, this Regulation should provide for the use of the e-IDAS trust services for the purposes of electronic communication.*
- (52c) Where a document transmitted as part of electronic communication under this Regulation requires a seal or signature, a qualified electronic seal or signature as defined in Regulation (EU) No 910/2014 should be used by courts, competent authorities or Central Authorities and a qualified electronic signature or electronic identification should be used by natural or legal persons. However, this Regulation should not affect the formal requirements applicable to documents produced in support of a request, which could be electronic originals or certified copies. This Regulation should also be without prejudice to national law regarding the conversion of documents and to any requirements regarding the authenticity, accuracy, reliability, trustworthiness and appropriate legal form of documents or information, except with regard to the conditions relating to the communication by electronic means introduced by this Regulation. Member States should ensure that adequate resources are allocated to handle electronic communication through the decentralised IT system.*

- (52d) In order to enhance electronic cross-border communication and transmission of documents through the decentralised IT system, including through the European electronic access point, those documents should not be denied legal effect and should not be considered inadmissible in the proceedings solely on the grounds that they are in electronic form. However, that principle should be without prejudice to the assessment of the legal effects or the admissibility of those documents, which could constitute evidence in accordance with national law.
- (53) Any processing of personal data under this Regulation should be undertaken in accordance with Regulations (EU) 2016/679 ■ and (EU) 2018/1725 ■ and Directive 2002/58/EC¹⁰ of the European Parliament and of the Council. **■

(54) In general, personal data to be processed under this Regulation should be personal data included in the information gathered or transmitted pursuant to this Regulation and related to adults and their representatives. That personal data should concern in particular the data needed to take a measure concerning adults within the scope of this Regulation and to ensure their continued protection in cross-border situations. In applying this Regulation, that personal data will be processed by Member States' courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities. In addition, the Commission may need to process that data for the purposes of developing and maintaining the electronic communication means. In accordance with Regulation (EU) 2016/679, data should be processed under this Regulation for the purposes set out in this Regulation and should not be stored for longer than what is necessary for these purposes, without affecting further processing for archiving purposes in the public interest, scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes. Without prejudice to Union and national law, this Regulation should not limit the storage period of information and personal data processed by █ Member States █, since the protection of adults often needs to be ensured in a long term and the measures and authentic instruments remain relevant for an extended period of time. The authority transmitting information should inform the receiving authority in another Member State of the confidential nature of the information under their national law. If the receiving Member State cannot ensure the confidentiality of the information under its national law, the transmitting Member State may consider not to transmit the information.

(55) █ Data processing is also necessary to enable courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities to access █ information on whether the adult concerned by the matter they are handling or responsible for is under protection in another Member State or has expressed, in powers of representation, will and preferences concerning his or her future protection. This will in turn contribute to ensuring continued protection of that adult in cross-border situations and to increasing legal certainty and predictability. █

- (56) Member States' courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities should process personal data in accordance with applicable data protection legislation, in particular Regulation (EU) 2016/679. This Regulation should provide for the legal basis for the processing of personal data ■ pursuant to Article 6(1) and (3) of Regulation (EU) 2016/679. This Regulation should also provide for the legal basis for processing of personal data by the Commission pursuant to Article 5(1) and (2) of Regulation (EU) 2018/1725.
- (57) In addition, data concerning adults processed under this Regulation may also include personal data concerning health of ■ adults. Those health-related personal data may either be explicitly included in the information gathered or transmitted under this Regulation or they may be indirectly deduced from the fact that an adult is not, by reason of an impairment or insufficiency of his or her personal faculties, in a position to protect his or her interests. Pursuant to Article 9 of Regulation (EU) 2016/679, personal data concerning health should be treated as special category of personal data. This Regulation should provide conditions and safeguards for the processing of those special categories of personal data by Member States' courts, competent authorities and Central Authorities in line with Article 9(2) of Regulation (EU) 2016/679. Personal data will be processed by Member States' courts in their judicial capacity in conformity with point (f) of that Article, or the processing will be, in conformity with point (g) of that Article, necessary for reasons of substantial public interest on the basis of this Regulation, which aims to enhance the protection of fundamental rights and freedoms and other rights of adults in cross-border situations, to improve the effectiveness and speed of judicial and administrative proceedings concerning the protection of adults and to strengthen legal certainty and predictability in cross-border dealings. Similarly, this Regulation should provide conditions and safeguards for the processing of those special categories of personal data by the Commission in line with Article 10(2) of Regulation (EU) 2018/1725. That processing of data will be necessary for ■ reasons of substantial public interest on the basis of this Regulation, in conformity with point (g) of that Article.

- (58) Appropriate safeguards should exist for such processing of special categories of personal data and such data should be processed under this Regulation only where it is necessary for and proportionate to the purposes of processing identified under this Regulation. █
- (59) The European Data Protection Supervisor was consulted in accordance with Article 42 of Regulation (EU) 2018/1725 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹¹ and delivered an opinion on 18 July 2023.
- (60) In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation as regards the establishment of the decentralised IT system █ provided for in this Regulation, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission. Those powers should be exercised in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹². The implementing act should enable Member States to adapt their relevant national IT systems for the purpose of connection to the decentralised IT system.

- (61) The information provided to the public pursuant to this Regulation should be available in clear, user-friendly and accessible manner, in accordance with the relevant accessibility requirements for services as set out in Annex I of Directive (EU) 2019/882 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹³ and Directive (EU) 2016/2102 of the European Parliament and of the Council¹⁴. The technical means of electronic payment of fees referred to in this Regulation should also comply with the applicable rules on accessibility as set out in Directive (EU) 2019/882. At the same time, the European electronic access point which can be used by natural and legal persons for communication under this Regulation should comply with the web accessibility requirements set out in Directive (EU) 2016/2102.
- (62) In order to ensure that the attestations provided for in Articles 15 and 17 and the Certificate provided for in Chapter VII of this Regulation and other forms are kept up to date, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the TFEU should be delegated to the Commission to amend Annexes I to VIIIb to this Regulation. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level, and that those consultations be conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Interinstitutional Agreement of 13 April 2016 on Better Law-Making¹⁵. In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, the European Parliament and the Council receive all documents at the same time as Member States' experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts.

- (63) In accordance with the principle of mutual trust and to facilitate cross-border procedures, administrative formalities relating to the circulation of public documents should be simplified in matters relating to the protection of adults. Therefore, public documents submitted for the purposes of this Regulation should be exempted from legalisation or similar formality, such as an apostille. That exemption should cover the public documents which are issued by a Member State's public authority and submitted to a public authority of another Member State. That exemption should in particular apply in the context of judicial proceedings with a cross-border element or in procedures established by this Regulation, and should cover public documents directly relating to the protection of adults and other supporting documents.
- (63a) Respect for international commitments entered into by the Member States means that this Regulation should not affect the application of international conventions, including, where relevant, the UNCRPD, to which one or more Member States are parties at the time when this Regulation is adopted. Without prejudice to the obligations of the Member States in accordance with Article 351 of the TFEU, this Regulation should not affect the application of conventions between a third State and a Member State concluded before the date of entry into force of this Regulation which concern matters governed by this Regulation. Consistency with the general objectives of this Regulation, however, requires that this Regulation takes precedence, as between Member States, over conventions concluded between two or more Member States in so far as such conventions concern matters governed by this Regulation.
- (64) The Regulation should take precedence over the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention only in relations between Member States, for instance, as regards the recognition or enforcement in one Member State of a measure taken in another Member State, as regards cooperation between Member States, and, as regards jurisdiction, where the adult has his or her habitual residence in the territory of a Member State. In addition, the Regulation should apply in matters of the acceptance in one Member State of an authentic instrument formally drawn up or registered as an authentic instrument in another Member State.

- (64a) In accordance with Article 49 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, it should be ensured that the Regulation does not affect the application of the provisions of that Convention in relations between Member States and third States that are contracting Parties to that Convention. The HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention should continue to govern matters such as the cooperation between a Member State and a third State that is a contracting Party to that Convention, or certain aspects of jurisdiction where the cross-border element of the case at hand involves that third State.
- (64b) In order to comply with the transitional provisions set out by Article 50 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention, this Regulation should apply, as from the date of its application, to powers of representation previously granted by an adult under conditions corresponding to those set out in Article 15 of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention. Notwithstanding that a power of representation was granted before the date of application of this Regulation, it could be confirmed after the date of application. Thus, a power of representation confirmed after the date of application which is governed by the law of the adult's habitual residence in accordance with Article 15(1) of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention should be able to form the basis for a Certificate under this Regulation. On the other hand, a power of representation governed, for example, by the law of a State which may not be designated in accordance with Article 15(2) of the HCCH 2000 Protection of Adults Convention should not be able to form the basis for a Certificate.

- (65) This Regulation should not apply to children below the age of 18 even in cases where they have acquired legal capacity before that age under the law governing their personal status, for example through emancipation by reason of marriage. This should avoid an overlap with the scope of the Council Regulation (EU) 2019/1111¹⁶ and of the HCCH Convention of 19 October 1996 on Jurisdiction, Applicable Law, Recognition, Enforcement and Cooperation in Respect of Parental Responsibility and Measures for the Protection of Children¹⁷. This should also prevent that certain persons are not covered neither by this Regulation nor by those two instruments.
- (65a) The report on the evaluation of this regulation should include, on the basis of wide consultation of Member States and interested stakeholders, an in-depth analysis of all factors relevant to the protection of adults under this Regulation in view of evaluating its effectiveness in cross-border situations.

(66) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of Protocol No 22 on the position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption of this Regulation and is not bound by it or subject to its application.

(67) █ In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of Protocol No 21 on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in respect of the area of freedom, security and justice, annexed to the Treaty on the European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and without prejudice to Article 4 of that Protocol, Ireland is not taking part in the adoption of this Regulation and is not bound by it or subject to its application. █

¹⁷ OJ L 151, 11.6.2008, p. 39.

(69) Since the objectives of this Regulation, namely to enhance the protection of the rights of adults in cross-border situations in the Union, to improve the effectiveness and speed of cross-border proceedings concerning the protection of adults and to increase legal certainty and predictability in those situations, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States, but can rather, by reason of the direct applicability and binding nature of this Regulation, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve those objectives,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

(1) In all cases of urgency, the authorities of any Contracting State in whose territory the adult or property belonging to the adult is present have jurisdiction to take any necessary measures of protection.

(2) The measures taken under the preceding paragraph with regard to an adult habitually resident in a Contracting State shall lapse as soon as the authorities which have jurisdiction under Articles 5 to 9 have taken the measures required by the situation.

(3) The measures taken under paragraph 1 with regard to an adult who is habitually resident in a non-Contracting State shall lapse in each Contracting State as soon as measures required by the situation and taken by the authorities of another State are recognised in the Contracting State in question.

(4) The authorities which have taken measures under paragraph 1 shall, if possible, inform the authorities of the Contracting State of the habitual residence of the adult of the measures taken.

Article 11

(1) By way of exception, the authorities of a Contracting State in whose territory the adult is present have jurisdiction to take measures of a temporary character for the protection of the person of the adult which have a territorial effect limited to the State in question, in so far as such measures are compatible with those already taken by the authorities which have jurisdiction under Articles 5 to 8, and after advising the authorities having jurisdiction under Article 5.

(2) The measures taken under the preceding paragraph with regard to an adult habitually resident in a Contracting State shall lapse as soon as the authorities which have jurisdiction under Articles 5 to 8 have taken a decision in respect of the measures of protection which may be required by the situation.

Article 12

Subject to Article 7, paragraph 3, the measures taken in application of Articles 5 to 9 remain in force according to their terms, even if a change of circumstances has eliminated the basis upon which jurisdiction was founded, so long as the authorities which have jurisdiction under the Convention have not modified, replaced or terminated such measures.

Chapter III

applicable law

Article 13

- (1) In exercising their jurisdiction under the provisions of Chapter II, the authorities of the Contracting States shall apply their own law.
- (2) However, in so far as the protection of the person or the property of the adult requires, they may exceptionally apply or take into consideration the law of another State with which the situation has a substantial connection.

Article 14

Where a measure taken in one Contracting State is implemented in another Contracting State, the conditions of its implementation are governed by the law of that other State.

Article 15

- (1) The existence, extent, modification and extinction of powers of representation granted by an adult, either under an agreement or by a unilateral act, to be exercised when such adult is not in a position to protect his or her interests, are governed by the law of the State of the adult's habitual residence at the time of the agreement or act, unless one of the laws mentioned in paragraph 2 has been designated expressly in writing.

- (2) The States whose laws may be designated are –
- a) a State of which the adult is a national;
 - b) the State of a former habitual residence of the adult;
 - c) a State in which property of the adult is located, with respect to that property.
- (3) The manner of exercise of such powers of representation is governed by the law of the State in which they are exercised.

Article 16

Where powers of representation referred to in Article 15 are not exercised in a manner sufficient to guarantee the protection of the person or property of the adult, they may be withdrawn or modified by measures taken by an authority having jurisdiction under the Convention. Where such powers of representation are withdrawn or modified, the law referred to in Article 15 should be taken into consideration to the extent possible.

Article 17

- (1) The validity of a transaction entered into between a third party and another person who would be entitled to act as the adult's representative under the law of the State where the transaction was concluded cannot be contested, and the third party cannot be held liable, on the sole ground that the other person was not entitled to act as the adult's representative under the law designated by the provisions of this Chapter, unless the third party knew or should have known that such capacity was governed by the latter law.
- (2) The preceding paragraph applies only if the transaction was entered into between persons present on the territory of the same State.

Article 18

The provisions of this Chapter apply even if the law designated by them is the law of a non-Contracting State.

Article 19

In this Chapter the term ‘law’ means the law in force in a State other than its choice of law rules.

Article 20

This Chapter does not prevent the application of those provisions of the law of the State in which the adult is to be protected where the application of such provisions is mandatory whatever law would otherwise be applicable.

Article 21

The application of the law designated by the provisions of this Chapter can be refused only if this application would be manifestly contrary to public policy.

Chapter IV
recognition and enforcement

Article 22

(1) The measures taken by the authorities of a Contracting State shall be recognised by operation of law in all other Contracting States.

- (2) Recognition may however be refused –
- a) if the measure was taken by an authority whose jurisdiction was not based on, or was not in accordance with, one of the grounds provided for by the provisions of Chapter II;
 - b) if the measure was taken, except in a case of urgency, in the context of a judicial or administrative proceeding, without the adult having been provided the opportunity to be heard, in violation of fundamental principles of procedure of the requested State;
 - c) if such recognition is manifestly contrary to public policy of the requested State, or conflicts with a provision of the law of that State which is mandatory whatever law would otherwise be applicable;
 - d) if the measure is incompatible with a later measure taken in a non-Contracting State which would have had jurisdiction under Articles 5 to 9, where this later measure fulfils the requirements for recognition in the requested State;
 - e) if the procedure provided in Article 33 has not been complied with.

Article 23

Without prejudice to Article 22, paragraph 1, any interested person may request from the competent authorities of a Contracting State that they decide on the recognition or non-recognition of a measure taken in another Contracting State. The procedure is governed by the law of the requested State.

Article 24

The authority of the requested State is bound by the findings of fact on which the authority of the State where the measure was taken based its jurisdiction.

Article 25

- (1) If measures taken in one Contracting State and enforceable there require enforcement in another Contracting State, they shall, upon request by an interested party, be declared enforceable or registered for the purpose of enforcement in that other State according to the procedure provided in the law of the latter State.
- (2) Each Contracting State shall apply to the declaration of enforceability or registration a simple and rapid procedure.
- (3) The declaration of enforceability or registration may be refused only for one of the reasons set out in Article 22, paragraph 2.

Article 26

Without prejudice to such review as is necessary in the application of the preceding Articles, there shall be no review of the merits of the measure taken.

Article 27

Measures taken in one Contracting State and declared enforceable, or registered for the purpose of enforcement, in another Contracting State shall be enforced in the latter State as if they had been taken by the authorities of that State. Enforcement takes place in accordance with the law of the requested State to the extent provided by such law.

Chapter V

co-operation

- (1) A Contracting State shall designate a Central Authority to discharge the duties which are imposed by the Convention on such authorities.

(2) Federal States, States with more than one system of law or States having autonomous territorial units shall be free to appoint more than one Central Authority and to specify the territorial or personal extent of their functions. Where a State has appointed more than one Central Authority, it shall designate the Central Authority to which any communication may be addressed for transmission to the appropriate Central Authority within that State.

- (1) Central Authorities shall co-operate with each other and promote co-operation amongst the competent authorities in their States to achieve the purposes of the Convention.
- (2) They shall, in connection with the application of the Convention, take appropriate steps to provide information as to the laws of, and services available in, their States relating to the protection of adults.

Article 30

The Central Authority of a Contracting State, either directly or through public authorities or other bodies, shall take all appropriate steps to –

- a) facilitate communications, by every means, between the competent authorities in situations to which the Convention applies;
- b) provide, on the request of a competent authority of another Contracting State, assistance in discovering the whereabouts of an adult where it appears that the adult may be present and in need of protection within the territory of the requested State.

Article 31

The competent authorities of a Contracting State may encourage, either directly or through other bodies, the use of mediation, conciliation or similar means to achieve agreed solutions for the protection of the person or property of the adult in situations to which the Convention applies.

Article 32

- (1) Where a measure of protection is contemplated, the competent authorities under the Convention, if the situation of the adult so requires, may request any authority of another Contracting State which has information relevant to the protection of the adult to communicate such information.
- (2) A Contracting State may declare that requests under paragraph 1 shall be communicated to its authorities only through its Central Authority.
- (3) The competent authorities of a Contracting State may request the authorities of another Contracting State to assist in the implementation of measures of protection taken under this Convention.

Article 33

- (1) If an authority having jurisdiction under Articles 5 to 8 contemplates the placement of the adult in an establishment or other place where protection can be provided, and if such placement is to take place in another Contracting State, it shall first consult with the Central Authority or other competent authority of the latter State. To that effect it shall transmit a report on the adult together with the reasons for the proposed placement.
- (2) The decision on the placement may not be made in the requesting State if the Central Authority or other competent authority of the requested State indicates its opposition within a reasonable time.

Article 34

In any case where the adult is exposed to a serious danger, the competent authorities of the Contracting State where measures for the protection of the adult have been taken or are under consideration, if they are informed that the adult's residence has changed to, or that the adult is present in, another State, shall inform the authorities of that other State about the danger involved and the measures taken or under consideration.

Article 35

An authority shall not request or transmit any information under this Chapter if to do so would, in its opinion, be likely to place the adult's person or property in danger, or constitute a serious threat to the liberty or life of a member of the adult's family.

Article 36

- (1) Without prejudice to the possibility of imposing reasonable charges for the provision of services, Central Authorities and other public authorities of Contracting States shall bear their own costs in applying the provisions of this Chapter.
- (2) Any Contracting State may enter into agreements with one or more other Contracting States concerning the allocation of charges.

Article 37

Any Contracting State may enter into agreements with one or more other Contracting States with a view to improving the application of this Chapter in their mutual relations. The States which have concluded such an agreement shall transmit a copy to the depositary of the Convention.

Article 38

- (1) The authorities of the Contracting State where a measure of protection has been taken or a power of representation confirmed may deliver to the person entrusted with protection of the adult's person or property, on request, a certificate indicating the capacity in which that person is entitled to act and the powers conferred.
- (2) The capacity and powers indicated in the certificate are presumed to be vested in that person as of the date of the certificate, in the absence of proof to the contrary.

Article 45
