From:	General Secretariat of the Council
To:	Delegations
Subject:	Comments on the Draft Council Conclusions on European Future Affordable Housing Plan

Delegations will find attached a table for submitting drafting suggestions on the above Draft Council Conclusions. Comments should be limited only on the points where changes are considered necessary to the delegations (red lines) and should be accompanied by justification and relevant drafting suggestion.

An invitation to submit contributions will be circulated via the consultation tool on Delegates Portal.

Important: In order to guarantee the consolidation of your comments, please do not modify the table format by adding/removing/adjusting/merging/ splitting cells and rows

Guidelines to be followed

Please limit your comments on the points that are unacceptable to you (red lines) and provide the justification for your position and your drafting suggestion. Please kindly provide your contributions in the table below.

(Please make sure to download the zip file as instructed in the Delegates Portal Consultation message).

New text should be marked in bold type. Deleted text should not be included in your drafting suggestions. Instead, deletions should be marked "[...]".

If you suggest a change to an element that is already in bold in the text you wish to reword, please mark the new text in bold underlined type. Please do not use track changes or the “comments” function in Word.

Naming the document containing your contribution:

Please add the two initials of your delegation followed by a space to the MS Word document name. For example, Austria and Belgium are asked to name their contributions as follows:

AT comments CCs on the future European Affordable Housing Plan.docx

BE comments CCs on the future European Affordable Housing Plan.docx

Thank you for your cooperation!

The future European Affordable Housing Plan
Draft Council Conclusions
WELCOMING
1. The appointment of the first ever Commissioner with responsibilities for housing and the European Commission’s intention to present a European Affordable Housing Plan as announced in the Political Guidelines for the European Commission 2024-2029 and included in the Mission Letter to the Commissioner on Energy and Housing.
1a. The commitment of the European Commission in the State of the European Union address on 10 September 2025, to make housing more affordable, sustainable and of better quality and to convene the first EU Housing Summit.
2. The European Parliament’s decision to form a Special committee on the Housing Crisis and the strong engagement from the Economic and Social Committee, the Committee of Regions and other stakeholders.
RECOGNISING THAT
3. While housing and urban planning remain responsibilities of the Member States and housing policies, systems and markets vary between Member States, there are common challenges and opportunities as well as EU legislation that affects certain aspects of housing hence the scope for addressing this issue at the EU level, supplementary to national initiatives.
4. This set of conclusions will contribute to shaping the upcoming European Affordable Housing Plan, which should be considered as the first

step towards a long-term European effort on addressing housing challenges. Further steps are likely to be required, for example on coordination and forms of cooperation, analysis, sharing and dissemination of information, knowledge and best-practices.
UNDERLINING THAT
5. While the European Union could play a supporting role in alleviating housing challenges, housing policy remains a Member State competence. Union efforts should [...] complement the efforts of the Member States and be carried out according to the principle of subsidiarity and the prerogative of the Member States to design their set-up as appropriate to national circumstances, in accordance with their general obligations under the EU law, should be respected.
5-a. Regions, cities, as well as local governments and authorities play a key role in implementing measures under the national frameworks. In some Member States, they hold primary competence for housing issues, while in others, this competence is shared with the national government.
5a. There are no uniform or shared definitions across the Member States on social nor affordable [...] housing. These terminologies can be understood according to national circumstances and without reference to specific tenure forms, ownership or regulation. Often, however, subsidised rental housing offered below market rates and provided by different types of social and affordable housing providers is considered affordable. [...]

7. Principle 19 of the European Pillar of Social Rights on housing and assistance for the homeless which states that access to social housing or housing assistance of good quality should be provided for those in need; that vulnerable people have the right to appropriate assistance and protection against forced eviction and that adequate shelter and services should be provided to the homeless in order to promote their social inclusion.
7a. Article 9 of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disability on ensuring accessibility to housing; particularly Article 19 thereof on living independently and being included in the community; Sustainable Development Goal No. 11 on Making cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable; the Urban Agenda of the European Union and the New Urban Agenda adopted in 2016 in the United Nations Conference on Housing and Sustainable Urban Development (Habitat III) [and the ‘Ministerial commitments on housing affordability and sustainability’ adopted by UNECE Member States’ ministers on 8 October 2025].
7b. The Council Recommendation establishing a European Child Guarantee, the Council Recommendation on adequate minimum income ensuring active inclusion; the Council Recommendation on developing social economy framework conditions; the Council conclusions on culture, high-quality architecture and built environment as key elements of the New European Bauhaus initiative; and the Council Conclusions on Measures to ensure equal access for Roma to adequate and desegregated housing, and to address segregated settlements. 7c. The European Commission’s EU Transition Pathway for Construction which identifies key principles and actions, and the previous work and discussions aimed at addressing construction issues in various fora at EU level, including the collaborative and cross-sectoral approach in the High-Level Construction Forum.

8. That housing unaffordability is an important and pressing issue across the EU and affects people in all situations , and particularly young people and homeless people, as stated by Eurofound in the Unaffordable and inadequate housing in Europe report.
9. That sustainable urban development represents an opportunity for the economic and social development of local economies and that , affordable housing is a crucial factor for regional competitiveness and requires solutions that address challenges in both supply and demand, including financing, construction, land use, and social inclusion, as concluded by the World Economic Forum in the Making Affordable Housing a Reality in Cities report.
10. The previous work and discussions aimed at addressing housing issues in various European fora [...], including the declarations from Nice, Gijón and Liège and the work of the Housing Partnership within the Urban Agenda for the EU, as well as in the informal European Housing Policy Network in which many Member States participate.

12. The European Committee of the Regions own-initiative opinion on the role of cities and regions in the EU Affordable Housing Plan (May 2025), which highlights the territorial diversity of the housing crisis and the need for a place-based approach to enable local and regional authorities to develop tailored responses. 13. The High-level Conference on Affordable and Sustainable Housing (Copenhagen, 29-30 September 2025), which stressed the need for coordination between EU, national, and local governments to deliver affordable and sustainable housing while integrating energy, health, and urban planning objectives. Discussions highlighted the importance of resilient financing solutions that build on established principles, and the need for innovative construction methods to cut CO<sub>2</sub> emissions, reduce costs and speed up construction. The conference also stressed the necessity of mobilizing the existing building stock through renovation, repurposing and rightsizing and showcased the potential in planning measures for temporary dwellings. Additionally, the conference underlined the need for better housing affordability metrics. 14. The thematic discussion on Social Housing at the informal meeting of the Social Protection Committee (on 23 September 2025); underlining the significance of strong social housing models as a vehicle for both affordable housing and social inclusion. Member States SUPPORT for individual initiatives and without excluding work and cooperation on other issues:
I. Financing: How to use existing EU instruments and support national efforts.
18. CONSIDER using [...] EU initiatives and funding instruments, with a view to supporting and strengthening Member States’ efforts to provide, build and renovate [...] affordable, accessible, safe and sustainable housing, whether social or otherwise , and the fight against homelessness, including by:
a. ASSESSING, in the scope of a possible revision of the State aid rules on services of general economic interest (SGEI) as well as of the General Block Exemption Regulation (GBER) , the introduction of changes that would make it possible for Member States, when appropriate due to market failures , to support affordable and sustainable housing in a faster and simpler way;
b. COLLABORATING with the European Investment Bank, national and regional promotional banks and other financial institutions to promote and facilitate knowledge-sharing and cooperation on existing and new national financing opportunities for affordable [...] and sustainable housing, including the mobilisation of private capital;
c. PURSUING the ambition of the planned pan-European investment platform for affordable and sustainable housing aiming to facilitate access to existing EU funds and instruments. The platform could serve as a hub for the development of new financing models, knowledge exchange, and matchmaking between authorities, housing project developers, promoters, and investors.

Council Conclusions	Drafting suggestions and comments
19. CONSIDER ways to support Member States’ efforts, including at regional and local levels, particularly through knowledge-sharing and technical assistance, on maintaining and, where appropriate, increasing the supply of [...] affordable, accessible, safe and sustainable housing through solutions such as:
a. SHARING good national practices in providing access to financing for [...] social and affordable housing providers;
b. SETTING UP sustainable and resilient housing finance systems for social and affordable housing to preserve affordability over time building, for instance, on cost-based rent, revolving funds, municipal land ownership, and well defined conditions for public support [...].
c. PROMOTING a well-functioning, market-driven housing system that encourages private investment and safeguards free price and rent formation.
II. Construction and sustainability: How to build and renovate. 20. FOCUS equally on affordability and sustainability in the efforts to increase housing supply where needed while also ensuring good quality for healthy, safe (including from risks due to natural disasters), accessible and resilient places to live that respects environmental standards and architectural quality and are well connected to local infrastructure. And to this end, ensure coherence between initiatives stemming from the upcoming European Strategy for Housing Construction and the upcoming European Affordable Housing Plan.
21. IDENTIFY and ADDRESS shared issues across Member States, including low productivity in the construction and renovation sector, labour shortages and skills gaps, [...] fair labour mobility, shortage of building materials, and the overall cost of construction.

21a. RECOGNISE the potential of the construction sector as an opportunity to promote women’s participation in STEM professions relevant to the sector.
22. FOSTER innovation in sustainable construction and renovation practices aiming to decrease construction costs such as circular economy practices through the reuse of materials, bio-based materials and sustainable low carbon solutions in a cost-effective manner, modular building methods and industrialisation, including prefabrication and offsite construction, and digitalisation by drawing on existing knowledge and best practices from Member States and the New European Bauhaus.
23. PURSUE the development of harmonised standards under the new Construction Products Regulation, including for used construction products and prefabricated elements as well as the development of a harmonized system for the classification of the built environment.
24. [...] As part of a forthcoming legislative proposal on the circular economy, EVALUATE the need for, and potential implications of, converting [...] current [...] construction and demolition waste recovery targets into preparing-for-reuse and recycling targets and as part of the existing provisions in the waste framework Directive to introduce EU-wide end-of-waste criteria.
25. CONSIDER ways to support Member States’ efforts, including at regional and local levels, particularly through knowledge-sharing, on:
a. Renovation, transformation and re-purposing of existing buildings, including incentives to climate proof residential buildings and avoid unnecessary demolition of existing buildings, where appropriate; and support for energy efficient, sustainable, safe and healthy buildings to ensure high-quality living conditions, low maintenance and energy cost, low environmental impacts, and a long lifespan for housing;

b. Measures to facilitate the transformation of existing residential buildings into zero-emission buildings, in line with National Building Renovation Plans under the Energy Performance of Buildings Directive;
c. [Moved under Para 28 point ca]
d. Accessibility in both new builds and renovations, such as adaptable housing.
III. Planning: Where to build.
26. CONSIDER how existing EU legislation and objectives that have the potential to impact urban planning , can better facilitate the provision of affordable housing in an adequate yet sustainable way.
27. CONSIDER ways to support Member States’ efforts, including at regional and local levels, particularly through knowledge-sharing, on improvements and streamlining of integrated planning, zoning, and permitting frameworks as well as procedures in order to:
a. MAKE AVAILABLE sufficient and appropriate land for housing construction and related infrastructure, including, where appropriate, reserving land for social and affordable housing providers;
aa. CONSIDER the need to mainstream climate mitigation, adaptation, and resilience, including to natural disasters and exceptional occurrences into urban planning for the common good in accordance with the EU goals such as climate and sustainability
aaa. PROMOTE green, walkable, safe, and healthy cities;
b. PRIORITISE compact cities, densification, regeneration of brownfield areas and cooperation at the functional urban area level in order to limit urban sprawl and land taking, and preserve agricultural land, biodiversity and ecosystem integrity;

c. [Incorporated in subpoint a]
ca. ACCELERATE permitting for new housing, extensions, remodelling, and renovations, without compromising on environmental, safety and quality standards and procedures ;
d. CONSIDER how streamlined administrative procedures and digitalisation may improve the efficiency of urban planning and building permit processes as well as environmental assessments;
da. FACILITATE inclusive and transparent decision-making processes for housing developments.
IV. Social inclusion: How to ensure socially inclusive and diverse cities and promote access to affordable housing.
28. RECOGNISE the fundamental importance of housing security for people’s well-being and that while lack of affordable and adequate housing affects many households in Europe, particular attention should be given to [...] households in the most vulnerable situations . In many Member States, social housing has strong merits as an instrument to provide decent, affordable and sustainable housing to persons in vulnerable situations and social exclusion; while in other Member States, alternative systems are more adequate .
29. PROMOTE stronger cooperation at EU level on homelessness, [...] building on the work and further strengthen of the European Platform on Combating Homelessness and housing lead policies such as the Housing First Principle; and CONSIDER whether a proposal of a new Council

Recommendation on ending homelessness in Europe could contribute to this end.
30. TAKE INTO ACCOUNT and SUPPORT the important contribution of national, regional and local democratic organisations, NGOs and cooperatives such as housing associations, and their role in fostering social inclusion and community building, potentially via the [upcoming] European Civil Society Strategy [expected Autumn 2025].
31. CONSIDER ways to support Member States’ efforts, including at regional and local levels, particularly through knowledge-sharing, on:
a. STRENGTHENING the correlation between social and housing policies and related relevant policies on welfare , demography, gender equality , urban development, access to public services etc;
-aa. IMPROVING the use and allocation of the existing housing stock for persons and households who are socially excluded and in particular need.
aa. ADDRESSING the housing challenges particularly related to the different stages of citizens’ life such as:
i. ENSURING housing for students and young families; and
ii. ENSURING accessible and age-friendly homes for senior citizens or supporting inclusive intergenerational community-based housing and co-housing;
b. SECURING the rights of persons with disabilities, who are often more socially excluded when impacted by unaffordable housing; [...] continue SUPPORTING Member States’ measures to promote independent living for persons with disabilities; and PROMOTING the application of universal design in all new housing construction and renovation

projects, in line with the obligations under the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities;
c. PROMOTING a social mix and PREVENTING [...] social and territorial segregation in both new and existing neighbourhoods and housing estates, including through better social, cultural and economic integration as well as through adequate local public infrastructures, taking into account the risk of gentrification;
d. [Mowed to -aa]
da. SUPPORTING housing associations, owners of buildings and areas with poor socio-economic outcome;
e. IDENTIFYING suitable and well-balanced solutions to improve the short-[...]term rental housing markets, while respecting the national contexts, political priorities and regulatory traditions. In some Member States, regions or cities, the short-term rental market adds further pressure to the provision of affordable housing for all, whilst in others is a well-functioning tool facilitating a more efficient use of the housing stock;
f. IDENTIFYING suitable and well-balanced solutions to improve the long-term rental housing markets, while respecting the national contexts and regulatory traditions, with a view to ensure affordable housing for all.

32-a. MAP relevant EU legislation with a view to simplify planning, permitting, construction and renovation to provide affordable and sustainable housing; while still fulfilling existing EU policy objectives.
32. EXPLORE ways for the EU to support and strengthen knowledge-sharing between Member States at national, regional and local levels, and the dissemination of best practices.
33. CONTINUE the efforts on enhancing comparability, transparency, digital availability and secure exchange of national and European housing data to support evidence-based policymaking ; while [...] avoiding undue administrative or financial burden on Member States, businesses and citizens. This [...] may include disaggregated data on the proportion of owners and tenants, housing prices, housing affordability (including better indicators to shed light on housing cost overburden), homelessness and housing exclusion, overcrowding rate, vacant housing units, short-term rentals, age of leaving parental home, resilience to natural disasters , sustainability and energy performance.
CALLS ON THE MEMBER STATES TO:
34. CONTINUE deliberations on more established forms of cooperation for housing policies across the EU; such a structure could potentially include a regular stock-taking point on the Council’s agenda.
CALLS ON THE SOCIAL PROTECTION COMMITTEE TO:
35. CONTINUE to include housing issues in its political, knowledge-sharing and analytical work, within the European Semester and in line with its mandate, and thereby strengthen the analytical and political understanding of the fundamental overlap and mutual interdependence of social and housing policies.
