The Programme should build on EDIRPA and ASAP achievements and extend their logic until 2027, by providing financial support for the reinforcement of the EDTIB, in a predictable, continuous and timely manner on the basis of an integrated approach. (9) Russia must be held fully accountable and pay for the massive damage caused by its war of aggression against Ukraine, which constitutes a blatant violation of the Charter of the United Nations. The Union and its Member States should, in close cooperation with other international partners, continue to work towards this goal, in accordance with Union and international law, taking into account Russia’s serious breach of the prohibition on the use of force enshrined in Article 2(4) of the Charter of the United Nations and the principle of State responsibility for internationally wrongful acts, including the obligation to compensate for the financially assessable damage caused. It is important that, inter alia, progress is made, in coordination with international partners, on how extraordinary revenues held by private entities stemming directly from immobilised Russian assets could be directed to support Ukraine, including its defence technological and industrial base, in a manner that is consistent with applicable contractual obligations and in accordance with Union and international law. If the Council were to adopt a CFSP decision under Article 29 TEU upon a proposal by the High Representative to transfer to the Union extraordinary cash balances of central securities depositories arising from the unexpected and extraordinary revenues from Russia’s immobilised sovereign assets, such additional support could be drawn from these revenues, in line with the objectives of the Union’s Common Foreign and Security Policy.	AT (Comments): Needs to be checked/formulated in accordance with the final conclusions by the European Council. FR (Comments): Réserve d’examen HU (Comments): We should not pre-empt any decisions on the use of extraordinary revenues from Russia’s immobilised sovereign assets. LV (Comments): We propose this paragraph be revisited when there is more clarity and decisions on the use of frozen Russian assets.

functioning of the defence industry sector does not follow the conventional rules and business models that govern more traditional markets. The industry does not therefore engage in substantial self-funded industrial investments but only does so as a consequence of firm orders. While firm orders from Member States are a precondition for any investment, the Commission can intervene by offsetting the complexity of cooperation for common procurement and de-risking industrial investments via grants and loans allowing a faster adaptation to ongoing structural market change. As a general rule, Union support should cover up to 100% of direct eligible costs or 100% of the amount determined for actions applying the financing not linked to costs option. The Union support for industry reinforcement actions should cover up to 50 % of direct eligible costs in order to enable recipients to implement actions as soon as possible, to de-risk their investment and therefore to speed up the availability of relevant defence products.	Request for clarification which budget lines are comprised by this wording. CZ (Drafting Suggestions): As this is a first instance where the term “financing not linked to cost” is used, we propose to use it for introducing the abbreviation FNLC, that is frequently used in the Commission presentations. CZ (Comments): The abbreviation FNLC can be applied in articles 20 and 21 of the preamble and later in the Regulation itself DE (Comments): See also Art. 17 para 1: We ask for an adequate explanation why this derogation from the Financial Regulation is deemed necessary. In this way, the EIB would maintain its AAA financial capacity and maintain ESG standards, while private capital would be used primarily for the production and provision of raw materials. In this way, investment security would be increased for both for the private partner and the public partner-MS. This would relieve the financial burden on production and remove bottlenecks in the supply chain. The impact on EDTIB would be concrete.

If there are two formations of the DIRB, one for EDIP and one for EDIS, whatever the regulation will call this body, people will call them EDIP Board and EDIS Board, respectively, because we have to be able to differentiate the two and also, the name has to be understandable to the political level as well. They will not appreciate “DIRB”. Better to already give them names that will catch on. Definitions	CZ (Comments): We believe that there should be more definitions included, such as “classified foreground information” and “Sensitive non Classified information”. A term “Sensitive non Classified information is included in COM(2022) 119 final, for example. However, if the document will not be adopted until the EDIP Regulation is, it needs to be strictly defined what “Sensitive non Classified” information means. ES (Comments): As a general comment, we deem it necessary to rearrange the order of the definitions by clusters of legally/conceptually-related concepts. Furthermore, we suggest adding definitions to the following concepts mentioned throughout the legal text (we may suggest additional concepts to be added to the list of definitions at a later stage), so that there is more clarity on their intent and scope from the onset of the Regulation: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - “Defence Readiness Pool”. - “Catalogue”. - “Structure for European Armament Programme”. - “European Defence Projects of Common Interest” - “Defence Industrial Readiness Board”. FR (Comments): Les définitions figurant dans le projet de texte devraient être harmonisées

Also, a general comment is that the definitions should be consistent with existing EU legislation.

	EL (Drafting Suggestions): Add a new definition : (24) ‘undertaking’ EL (Comments): Clarification of the term undertaking versus entity. Although the term is used in EDIS, there is no definition of it. Moreover, The notion of undertaking is not defined in the EU Treaties. Please consider moving the second half of the definition (“While an advance ... the concerned contractors”) to the art. 36 (Advance Purchase of defence products).
For the purposes of this Regulation, the following definitions apply:
(1) ‘advance purchasing agreement’ means a public contract with one or several undertakings which aims at supporting the swift development and/or production of a product and by virtue of which the right to buy a specified number of products in a given timeframe and at a given price is subject to the prefinancing of part of the upfront costs faced by the concerned undertakings. While an advance purchasing agreement is legally binding upon the participating contracting authorities and upon the contractor, it needs to be further implemented by means of the conclusion of contracts with the concerned contractors;	AT (Drafting Suggestions): Add at the end: “... contracts, which may not alter the terms or the subject matter of the advance purchasing agreement.” AT (Comments): This definition clarifies that such agreements need to be further implemented by means of the conclusion of contracts with the concerned contractors. It must be ensured however, that the major contractual terms of the advance purchasing agreements may not be altered by this subsequent contracts otherwise the latter could not be considered to be concluded under the umbrella of the respective advance purchasing

(4) 'common procurement' means a procurement jointly conducted by at least three Member States;	AT (Comments): This definition defines “common procurement” as procurement by at least three Member States; the rest of the text seems to also cover associated countries and Ukraine (see e.g. Art. 12 – also referring to international organisations, EDA and SEAP) – should the definition not also cover these third countries? CZ (Comments): In the context of SEAP, there might be associated countries or Ukraine involved in common procurement, even though the main objective is common procurement among EU MS. (5) ‘control’ means the ability to exercise a decisive influence on a legal entity directly, or indirectly through one or more intermediate legal entities;	AT (Comments): This definition defines control – this concept is well-known in the procurement Directives within the in-house context (see for ex Art. 12 (1) letter a of Dir 2014/24). What is the reason for this? From which legal act has COM taken this definition and what was the reason for doing so? This entity is, according to the definition, also an entity established in Ukraine or that has its executive management structure in Ukraine. Recital 15 however seems to exclude such Ukrainian or Ukraine-controlled entities from the definition. Which is the intended definition? The definition of Nr. 12 also raises the question how an “associated third-country” is defined! Are those only the countries listed in Art. 9 (so only EEA countries)? Further discussion/clarification might be required. In particular, the term ‘associated third country’ appears to be used differently in other contexts and could lead to confusions, e.g. states that have concluded association agreements with the EU.
(13) ‘off-take agreement’ means any contractual agreement between at least [three] Member States and at least one manufacturer of defence products containing either a commitment on the Member States to procure a certain quantity of defence products over a certain period of time or a commitment on the manufacturer of defence products to provide the Member States with the option to do so.	AT (Comments): Off-take agreements are defined as any contractual agreement between a minimum number of Member States. The reference to Directive 2014/25/EU does not seem necessary, as it is identical to the definition in Directive 2014/24 /EU. The current definition excludes the possibility that Ukrainian authorities act as a “procurement agent” – is this intentional? AT considers that for ex OCCAR and NSPA are included in this definition (via “international organisation”). CZ (Comments): CZ needs a clarification whether it is possible to use NSPA as a procurement agent. As small countries such as CZ have only limited personnel and other sources, it might be beneficial to use all the options the EU MS might have. DE (Comments): Our understanding is that the wording is not supposed to stipulate additional requirements with regard to the international organization itself. To avoid misapprehension, we propose to delete the half sentence. Since Article 12 paragraph 2 as well as Article 29 paragraph 1 regulate, that a procurement agent has to be appointed by the participants (Art. 12) or the SEAP (Art 29) the half sentence seems to be unnecessary. Why has this definition not been taken from Art. 1 (10) of Directive 2009/81/EC? Sans préjuger de la suite des négociations qui auront lieu dans le cadre du chapitre IV, la France considère que cette définition est trop large et ouverte à des interprétations. Cette définition est très proche de celle de la directive 2009/81/CE Marchés Publics de Défense et de Sécurité («crise»: toute situation dans un État membre ou dans un pays tiers, dans laquelle des dommages ont été causés, dont les proportions dépassent clairement celles de dommages de la vie courante et qui compromettent substantiellement la vie et la santé de la population ou qui ont des effets substantiels sur la valeur des biens, ou qui nécessitent des mesures concernant l'approvisionnement de la population en produits de première nécessité; il y a également crise lorsqu'on doit considérer comme imminente la survenue de tels dommages; les conflits armés et les guerres sont des crises au sens de la présente directive »). Compte tenu du champ d'application différent d'EDIP, cet alignement ne paraît pas cohérent. (21) 'subcontractors in the common procurement' means any legal entity which provides critical inputs that possess unique attributes essential for the functioning of a product and which is allocated at least 15 % of the value of the contract.	AT (Comments): The definition of subcontractors in common procurement lacks the crucial and essential element of what a subcontractor is, i.e. its contractual relationship with the main contractor (and not with the contracting authority). It diverges substantially from the definition in Art. 1 (22) of the Directive 2009/81/EC. It also seems pointless as it is only used once more in Art. 12(5) of EDIP; instead, the reference could be made in that provision without referring to subcontractors. It is also unclear who the definition is meant to cover as it is very narrow – could COM provide examples? Additionally the current definition blurs the line between “subcontractors” and (mere) “suppliers” (see the differentiation in Art. 71 (5) supara 4 of Directive 2014/24/EU). Furthermore, it raises the question what “status” legal entities have that provide critical input but do not reach the 15% threshold! Could COM explain why it chose the 15% threshold (are there any objective reasons) and what the legal status below this threshold would be? DE (Comments): The limit of 15% seems arbitrarily. A subcontractor can provide input that is valued less than 15% of the total contract value but at the same time poses a super essential part of the product as such – but will not be considered a subcontractor in the common procurement. At the same time, not every supplier is a subcontractor. There has to be a differentiation!

	What does “unique attribute” mean? EL (Comments): Please reconsider the terms “critical” and “essential” since they are not easily determinable. Please consider the use of the term as per art. 1 point (22) Directive 2009/81, enhanced, instead. FR (Comments): L'introduction d'une double condition dans la définition de sous-traitant est trop restrictive ((1) toute entité juridique qui fournit des intrants critiques possédant des attributs uniques essentiels au fonctionnement d'un produit et, (2) qui se voit allouer au moins 15 % de la valeur du marché) et elle risque de ne pas permettre la bonne exécution du contrat. La définition prévue dans le FEDef serait plus appropriée (article 9, §8« Aux fins du présent article, on entend par «sous-traitants participant à une action» : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - les sous-traitants qui ont une relation contractuelle directe avec un destinataire, - les autres sous-traitants auxquels sont alloués au moins 10 % du montant total des coûts éligibles de l'action, - et les sous-traitants qui peuvent avoir besoin d'avoir accès à des informations classifiées pour exécuter l'action.». Il faut par ailleurs s'assurer que la notion de ‘sous-traitant’ est cohérente avec celle de contrat de sous-traitance dans la directive 2009/81. La définition présente se limite-t-elle à l'acquisition commune (‘in the common procurement’) ? A noter que la notion de « subcontractors » visée dans la version anglaise

	a été remplacée par celle de sous-traitant dans la version française. Ce choix – plutôt que celui de « sous-contractant » - pourrait-il être justifié ? NL (Comments): ‘subcontractor’ is and should be an objectively defined term: it is a contractor providing goods or services to a recipient or principal contractor. Subjective characteristics like ‘critical input’ ‘essential’ ‘unique attributes’ ‘t least 15 %’ should be relegated to the operative provisions regarding eligibility as in EDIRPA
(22) ‘small middle capitalisation company’ or ‘small mid-cap’ means an enterprise that is not a SME and whose number of employees does not exceed 499, calculated in accordance with Articles 3 to 6 of the Annex to Recommendation 2003/361/EC, the annual turnover of which does not exceed EUR 100 million or the annual balance sheet of which does not exceed EUR 86 million;	EL (Comments): Please consider the “turnover” and the “balance sheet total” as additional criteria for the classification of the companies.
(23) ‘crisis-relevant products’ means defence products or key components or raw materials thereof or any products or services critical to their production that have been identified as being seriously affected by a disruption or potential disruption of the functioning of the internal market and its supply chains resulting in actual or potential significant shortages.	AT (Comments): This definition is extremely wide as it also covers “any products or services critical to [the] production” of “crisis relevant products. It would therefore cover also the whole (civil) supply/service chain for such products and would effectively cover large areas of the Internal Market. Since it covers “services” as well, the definition should refer to “crisis-relevant products and services”. BE (Comments):

Section 2: The Programme	NL (Comments): Each component of the Instrument (e.g. EDIRPA+ and ASAP+) would benefit from a different set of eligibility criteria, in particular the level of involvement of non-EU entities. Joint procurement is short term focused and involves existing supply chains. Production capacity is inherently more EU-focused. We would therefore prefer to distinguish between these different instruments. SE (Comments): The way the Programme is now described in this section is difficult to understand, as it incorporates both a prolongment of the EDIRPA, ASAP and the FAST. 	SE (Comments): This paragraph is mixing up the scheme of PSC and the “sensitive matters” relating to internal COM rules. If there is information that should have restrictions, you need to classify it. We suggest changing the writing in order to clarify the procedure. The prerogative to issue a PSC is the sole responsibility of a MS in which the employee is a citizen of. According to Council Decision 2013/488 and COM decision 2015/444 PSCs are issued at the level of CONFIDENTIEL UE/EU CONFIDENTIAL not for Restricted level. The baseline for participation for a non- associated or associated countries is a security of information agreement. Otherwise, there is no legal means to exchange EUCI in this programme. 	It's important to not duplicate NATO capability priority plans in the EU context, but to ensure alignment within planning processes and priority setting It is not fully clear how "European Defence Projects of Common Interest" will be defined, since essentially everything that is included in the EU's Capability Development Plan already counts as "common interest", and all of these priorities are considered to be of equal importance. In the absence of clear criteria for prioritising "common interest", we see a risk of prioritising large projects where the volume is higher, which in turn means that the consequences will be felt most by SMEs. The Strategic Compass was approved before 2022 and as a result needs to be revised if capacity development priorities are to be based on it. If the EU is gradually becoming a more important player in strengthening the defence capabilities of European countries, then capability development priorities need to be aligned with the current threat. NL (Drafting Suggestions): duly consider the guidance provided in the context of the Defence Industrial Readiness by the EDA Steering Board, in particular the contribution of the project to the capability priority identified in the context of the CFSP, notably of the Capability Development Plan, and the objectives of the Strategic Compass for security and defence; NL (Comments): Clarification: what is the definition of “duly consider”?

1. By way of derogation from Article 190 of the Regulation (EU, Euratom) No 2018/1046, the Programme may finance up to 100 % of the eligible costs. The explanation would need to be reflected in the recitals. Without proper explanations, such derogations cannot be justified FR (Comments): Cette disposition dérogatoire au règlement financier et au principe d'additionnalité de budget de l'UE priverait les financements européens de tout effet de levier sur les budgets nationaux et pourrait donc avoir un effet d'éviction sur les cofinancements des Etats membres . 	CZ (Comments): During the EDIDP implementation it has been at least in one instance when the PESCO bonus was applied for the EDIDP project that had no direct connection with the corresponding PESCO project. DE (Comments): We see no need for an increased/additional funding for SEAP, as the existence of a SEAP is already – by claims of the COM - a facilitation by itself. Whats is the rational and reasoning for this additional funding? Why should the second option (PESCO) for an additional funding be linked and therefore limited if performed under the obligations comparable to those under SEAP. We see a disproportionate discrimination against other models of cooperation, e.g.: the lead nation model. This may incentivize the creation of SEAPs with the goal to receive additional funding, thereby increasing administrative burden (including on the Commission), instead of using more adapted cooperation schemes. We explicitly reserve the right to hand in text work at a later moment. ES (Comments): An increased funding rate should also be included for further development or uptake of EDF results. FR

	access by a third country or by a third-country entity to sensitive information relating to the action is should be prevented and the. Employees or other persons involved in the action should, when needed, have national a security clearance issued by a Member State, where appropriate; in accordance with national laws and regulations. A non associated third country, or an associated third country needs a security of information agreement with the EU to be able to participate. SE (Comments): This paragraph is mixing up the proper scheme of PSC and the “sensitive matters” relating to internal COM rules. If there is information that should have restrictions, it needs to be classified. The prerogative to issue a PSC is the sole responsibility of a MS in which the employee is a citizen of. Almost no country in the world has the legal mean to do what the COM is suggestion. Let alone EU MS. According to Council Decision 2013/488 and COM decision 2015/444 PSCs are issued at the level of CONFIDENTIEL UE/EU CONFIDENTIAL not for Restricted level or any other marking. The baseline for participation for a non associated or associated countries is a security of information agreement. Otherwise, there is no legal means to exchange EUCI in this programme. This has been added to give the paragraph a more legally sound meaning.
