The Presidency would like to draw delegations' attention to the fact that the Annex should be considered as a draft document, reflecting the state of play of ongoing discussions at interinstitutional technical level, including draft proposals for compromise texts, without prejudice to further discussions to be held at technical level and the decisions to be taken at political level.

The draft table includes the most recent update in relation to recitals, following the last interinstitutional technical meeting. The update of the draft table in relation to Articles is still ongoing.
